Radar Was Not Operating, Plane Crash Probers Say

NEW YORK (UPI)—The Civil Aeronautics Board (CAB) revealed Saturday radar was not in operation on the runway used by an Eastern Air Lines DC7B which crashed and burned Friday night while trying to land in thick fog at Idlewild Airport, killing 25 of the 51 persons aboard.

The CAB said radar equipment was inoperative because the airport control tower's instrument flight room was being relocated. A Federal Aviation Agency (FAA) official said after the crash Friday night it was not mandatory that radar be in use.

About 80 flight experts, including 24 safety specialists from the CAB, sought to determine whether human error or mechanical difficulty was responsible for the nation's latest air disaster.

No flight recorder was aboard the big four - engine plane, the CAB revealed, because federal regulations do not require nonjets to carry recorders.

The investigators theorized the plane, on a non-stop flight from Charlotte, N. C., apparently missed Idlewild's runway four in fog described by veteran airport employes as one of the heaviest in memory.

Only one of the 26 survivors, which included the two stewardesses, remained in critical condition Saturday at Queens Peninsula Hospital. The DC7B's pilot, Capt. Edward Bechtold, 43, was killed in the crash. Bechtold, one of the Air Line Pilots' Association's (ALPA) top safety experts, had represented the ALPA in investigations similar to Saturday's. Two other crewmembers also died.

Bechtold was relying on a radio beam landing approach after circling the airport for almost a half hour. The radar system covering the 8,400-foot runway four had not been in operation since Nov. 13.

George Van Epps, CAB supervisory air safety investigator for the New York region, revealed the radar system was not in operation for almost three weeks because equipment was being moved. The reasons behind the move, he said, would be checked during the probe of the crash.

Another airliner made a duplicate approach to runway four this morning to check whether the instrument landing system beams from the control tower were working correctly, Van Epps said.

Another Eastern flight had landed on the runaway less than

Big Maneuvers in Region May Be Canceled, Pentagon Reports

Rumor of Change at Carson False

A Pentagon spokesman has confirmed that the proposed maneuvers "Exercise New Point" scheduled for January by the U.S. STRIKE Command in eastern El Paso and Pueblo Counties may be canceled.

However, he flatly denied reports that the 5th Infantry Division may be transferred from Ft. Carson and the mountain post inactivated.

The spokesman, who said he was authorized by Arthur Sylvester, assistant secretary of defense for public affairs, to issue the statement, told the Gazette Telegraph the cancellation of Exercise New Point is definitely being considered.

"However, he said, "the matter is still under study and no decision has been reached."

He said rumors circulating in this area that the Defense Department may close Ft. Carson because of the failure of land owners to sign agreements granting the Army use of the land are false.

"The Department of the Army, says it has no plans to move the 5th Division from Ft. Carson, and our own (Department of Defense) installations and logistics people substantiate this," the spokesman said.

"There is absolutely no substance to rumors that the division may be moved or Ft. Carson closed down."

To date, only 422,814 acres have been signed up for the proposed exercise. The Army is attempting to obtain a total of 1,113,648 acres, but officials estimate the exercise could be carried out if 75 per cent of the total, or 835,236 acres, are signed up.

The land acquisition has almost completely bogged down during the last two weeks. Only 6,413 acres have been signed up since Nov. 16.

Spy Flight Report True, Washington Daily News Says

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Defense Department Saturday reiterated a flat denial that Cuban or Russian planes had flown over the southeastern United States during or since the Cuban crisis.

In answer to inquiries concerning published reports that Cuban planes had been sighted over both Georgia and South Carolina, a spokesman replied in writing:

"There have been no Soviet flights over southeastern United States."

He elaborated to say that the term "Soviet flights" covered any and all possible flights from Cuba, which now has only Russian-built planes in its air force.

He also said he had rechecked Saturday, and that his information was up to date. There have been previous such disclaimers.

The published report in the Washington Daily News said such flights had been verified by independent sources despite Pentagon denials.

The Washington staff of the Scripps-Howard newspaper wrote Saturday that the reports are true despite Pentagon denials.

The account in the Washington Daily News said it was learned from independent sources that planes have been spotted over Georgia and South Carolina, and that at one U. S. base "the Air Force commander stepped out of his headquarters building at noon and was astounded to see an easily recognizable Russian plane zoom past overhead."

Extended Contract Sought for Work On NORAD Project

Negotiations are currently under way to extend the contract of Utah Mining and Construction Co. another full year for further work on the North American Air Defense Command underground project at Cheyenne Mountain, according to Air Force and Army officials.

The additional work, which would involve roof stabilization and other refinements, would cost an estimated $2½ million.

Utah Mining began excavation of the underground operations center in May, 1961, under a one year contract for nearly $6 million.

Completion date under the original contract was last May, but the contract was extended until February, 1963, because of modifications in the design of the interior chambers.

The proposed extension of the excavation contract would not in-

Educators' Group Plans to Discuss Bargaining Issue

Collective bargaining for teachers will be the number one issue before a delegates assembly of the Colorado Education Association which opens a three - day convention Thursday at the Broadmoor Hotel.

The 500 delegates will discuss CEA and National Education Association (NEA) stands on the subject which they term "professional negotiations."

"We're trying to create a roundtable rather than a dictatorial atmosphere toward bargaining with school boards," said Oarle J. Smith, president of the Colorado Springs Education Association

Soviet Diplomats Hint 'No Concessions' in Cold War

By K. C. THALER

LONDON (UPI) — Communist diplomats here hinted strongly Saturday that Russia, after its Cuba backdown, is not likely to volunteer cold war concessions. This would dispel Western hopes for a softer Kremlin policy.

Moscow was said to be expecting the West to "give" in the next East - West confrontation since the Soviets made their "offerings of good will" over Cuba.

The hints suggested a continued toughening of the Soviet line on East - West settlements in the aftermath of the Cuban crisis.

They all but dashed expectations that Premier Nikita Khrushchev, after the severe setback to his aggressive Cuban policy, would be anxious to practice conciliation in the anticipated new phase of cold war negotiations.

An indication of apparent second thoughts in the Kremlin came earlier this week in top level contacts between Russia and Britain. Khrushchev sent a personal message to Prime Minister Harold Macmillan which failed to hold out any prospect of a modi-

Nikita Thinks Paintings Made By Soviet Asses

MOSCOW (UPI) — Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev said Saturday Russian abstract paintings he had just seen looked as if they had been "daubed by the tail of an ass," the official Soviet news agency Tass reported.

Standing with a group of Communist party and government leaders, he turned to artists and sculptors nearby and asked of the works surrounding them:

"What does all this mean?"

Tass described the artists' retort as "mumbling talk testifying to the spiritual poverty of the authors of these so - called works."

Earlier in the day, Khrushchev visited a more traditional art exhibition put on by the Moscow branch of the Soviet Artists' Union. He called this art an inspiration "to the building of communism," Tass said.

End Not Yet in Sight for State Patrol Scandal

DENVER (UPI) — Gilbert R. Carrel, head of the Colorado State Patrol, said today the end still was not in sight in his department's two-month-old investigation of a work scandal which already has led to 15 patrol resignations and the firing of one officer.

Carrel has charged that some of his officers have been falsifying their daily contact reports in an effort to make it appear they do more work than they actually do.

Most of the patrolmen who have resigned blame the scandal on a

State Tax Rebates Urged By County Commissioners

Colorado Springs would receive $801,710 and El Paso County would receive $839,930 in state tax rebates over a two - year period if the state legislative approves a proposal suggested Friday by the Colorado County Commissioners Association.

Commissioners recommended that $28 million be appropriated in each of the next two fiscal years to Colorado counties, cities and towns.

Only three other counties, Adams, Pueblo and Jefferson, and two cities, Pueblo and Denver, would receive more. The resolution recommended that Denver receive 35 per cent of each year's $28 million.

The recommendation, if approv-

Silver Dollars Join Stamp Misprints in Dispute

NEW YORK (AP) — The rare case of the not-so-rare silver dollars began Saturday to look very much like the recent case of the misprinted stamps.

Prices plunged, some collectors wept and others were happy, and some people were sore at Uncle Sam.

Certain silver dollars said to have been worth $2,000 one week ago because of their rarity were quoted Saturday at less than $50 because of their quantity.

The fact is they are rare no more.

The Treasury, dealers here said, has released a cascade of the coins, which last were minted in 1904. One numismatist said the number added to the market was 2.5 million.

Last month, after discovering an error in a Dag Hammarksjold memorial stamp, the Post Office Department flooded the market with further misprints. Prices that had been ascending quickly fell back toward four cents.

The 1903 "O" dollar, minted in New Orleans in 1903, the 1904-O and 1898-O were among those headed back to their original value.

The Federal Mint took the attitude that a dollar's a dollar.

"When a Federal Reserve bank sends us an order," said Frederick Tate, assistant director of the mint, "we do not concern ourselves with the dates or mint marks or condition of the coins."

Stack offered this as an explanation: "An increasing number of business firms are giving away silver dollars as gifts. This stuff was stored by the Federal Reserve for years. It wasn't needed. Now it is."

Youth Injured As Gun Goes Off Accidentally

The drug store at the Broadmoor Hotel was the scene of an accidental shooting Saturday when a pistol - type .410 shotgun went off and injured Joe Rife, 13, of 510 Penrose Blvd. on the left arm and side, the sheriff's office reported.

According to Sheriff's Detective Woodrow Littrell and Deputy Sheriff Bob Newman, Benjamin Webster, 16, of 24 Oak St. was seated on a stool and had unloaded an empty shell from the gun. He did not know that it was still loaded, and as he rose from his seat it went off and the shot struck young Rife, the deputies said.

Webster was with three friends who confirmed his story.

The injured boy was taken to Penrose Hospital and his condition Saturday night was described as "good."

India Arrests 300 Communist Party Leaders

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—The Indian government announced today the arrest of 300 Indian Communist leaders for "actively supporting the Chinese cause."

A home ministry spokesman said those arrested conducted propaganda efforts for Communist China during its invasion of India. He said most of the arrests took place Nov. 21.

Industry, Military Causing Near-Boom in Springs Area

Industrial projects, plus recent increases in strength at Ft. Carson, are causing a near-boom in Colorado Springs, the Colorado Industrial Newsletter, published by the Colorado Department of Employment, says in a "profile" on Colorado Springs in its November issue.

Terming Colorado Springs "a city on the move," the Newsletter said that compared with 1961, retail sales are up 17.1 per cent, bank clearings are up 13 per cent, bank deposits are up 11 per cent and school enrollment is up very nearly 10 per cent. Value of construction permits during 1962 will be at least the second highest on record, the levels for 1961 having been surpassed during the first seven months of 1962. Even more significant, the total work force in El Paso County, including both military personnel and civilians, has increased 23.3 per cent since the census of April 30, 1960."

The article says that income from tourism, military installations and industry is providing a greater and more enduring wealth for the Pikes Peak Region than even came from the gold of Cripple Creek following the gold rush of 1891.

Diversification has woven "a strong fabric which has caused the growth and the present economic health of Colorado Springs," the article says."

The Colorado Springs metropolitan area (El Paso County) with a population growth of 92.9 per cent between 1950 and 1960 was the seventh fastest growing metropolitan area in the United States during the 10-year period among those having a population of 100,000 or more in 1960.

"Of the 143,742 persons in the metropolitan area in 1960, 13,668 were military personnel," the Colorado Industrial Newsletter said. "By July 1, 1962, this latter

Temptation of Stolen Bonds Ends With Death

SAN RAFAEL, Calif. (AP)—A hard-working gardener on the estate of a Skokie, Ill., textile magnate found $50,000 in stolen securities—and temptation beckoned.

It led to nothing but trouble. Henry J. Renaldo lost most of the money by gambling; a federal jury convicted him; his wife told him they were through.

Saturday, came the end of the trail—death by a suicidal pistol shot.

Renaldo, now 46, was a caretaker on the estate of the late John W. Banghart at Skokie. His wife, Lucille, was a maid.

In 1954, burglars stole $125,000 in securities. Later, Renaldo said he found $50,000 of the stolen bonds "in a little wood outside the grounds." But he insisted he didn't know they were stolen.

He and his wife came to California to live and cashed the bonds.

First National Bank, Chicago, a trustee for the Banghart estate, sued for recovery. But by then most of the money had been gambled away.

On June 5, 1961, a federal jury in San Francisco convicted Renaldo of transporting stolen bonds across state lines.

Judge Albert C. Wollenberg granted Renaldo two years probation. The judge said he was sure Renaldo knew the bonds he found were part of the stolen securities but that his crime was "the one act in his life that shows him as anything but a hard-working citizen."

By then, Renaldo's wife had told him they were through.

Friday night, Renaldo went to her home to seek a reconciliation. She was away at work in San Rafael. He called her on the telephone. While they talked, she heard a shot and called police.

Renaldo died at 12:05 a.m. in a hospital.

School Bonds Up for Vote Tuesday in Springs, Security

Property owners in the two largest school districts in El Paso County will go to the polls Tuesday to decide on proposed bone issues.

Colorado Springs voters will vote on a proposed $11.7 million bond issue in School District 11 that will be used to finance construction of eight new schools and additions at several older schools.

Voters in Security and Widefield will decide on a $350,000 bond issue to pay for a new junior high and a new elementary school in School District 3.

As in most bond elections, a light tournout in both districts is forecast by election officials.

The District 11 proposal is the largest in history. The last bond issue in the district was approved in 1956 for $6.9 million.

School officials estimate the passage of the proposal will cost the average property owner an additional 3.73 mills, beginning in 1964.

The present school district indebtedness totals $9.6 million and the remaining interest $1,948,656. This amount is due to be paid off by 1976.

Interest on the $11.7 million in bonds is estimated at $6,242,250 over the 20-year retirement period, based on a maximum rate of 3½ per cent per year.

School officials say funds from the District 11 bond issue would be used to finance:

One new sinior high school.

One new junior-senior high school.

Two new junior high schools.

Four new elementary schools.

Four classroom addition at South Junior High.

Two-classroom addition at Helen Hunt Elementary School.

Four-classroom addition at Howbert Elementary School.

Fire escapes at Columbia, Buena Vista Garfield, Helen Hunt, Midland Primary, Steele, Washington and Whittier Schools.

These new facilities would be constructed during the next three years. School officials say the schools and additions are necessary to keep pace with rapidly rising enrollments.

They cite the following figures:

The 1962 enrollment in all District 11 Schools is up by 2,000 pupils over 1961.

Extended-day schedules are in effect at two senior high schools and two junior high schools. Split sessions are being held in several elementary grades.

There will be an estimated increase of 8,000 pupils by 1967, with 19 of the 25 existing elementary schools and all secondary schools overcrowded by that time if no additional facilities are provided.

District 11 officials will appear on radio and television Monday to discuss the proposal and requirements for voting in Tuesday's election.

Dr. Roy J. Wasson, superintendent of schools, and A. C. Erickson, assistant superintendent, will be on "The Schools Report" at 9 p.m. over radio station KVOR.

Wilbur S. Marshall, president of the school board, and Eugene McCleary and Grant Winne, board members, will appear in a joint telecast at 10:30 p.m. by KRDO-TV and KKTV. Jay Cook of KRDO will conduct the discussion.

Polling places in both school districts will be open from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. Paper ballots will be used, since the county's new voting machines are still locked from the Nov. 6 general election under state voting laws.

Voters in School District 3 will vote at the library, 710 Widefield

Legislature Will Get Controversial State Proposals

By GORDON G. GAUSS

DENVER (AP) — A series of proposals—some of them highly controversial—will be put before the new Colorado Legislature in January by the Legislative Council.

Major ones include:

1. Combining three state agencies into a new Department of Commerce and Development. The agencies are the Department of Advertising and Publicity, Resources and Community Development Division of the Department of Employment and the Planning and Development Section of the State Planning Division. It was suggested the head of the new agency be a confidential employe of the governor and that to make way for him the state purchasing agent be made a civil service employe.

2. Cutting the Department of Veterans Affairs to only a director and a secretary and halfing its proposed $90,000 budget. County service officers would be retained, but might be eliminated later.

3. Finally eliminating the Board of Standards of Child Care —which has been in a standby status for two years—and assigning its duties principally to the Department of Welfare.

4. Establishing a new institution for problem children—called pre-delinquents—as young as 10 years of age on the old campus of Fort Lewis A&M College at Hesperus. Old college buildings would be used.

5. Opening a system of community clinics for training mentally retarded or severely handicapped persons in their home areas, with the community, the state and possibly the federal government sharing costs.

6. Confining activities of the Bureau of Child and Animal Protection solely to the protection of animals, since children's laws take care of other phases of the problem.

7. Doubling the size of the Institute for Humanities and Social Studies, conducted for 40 high school teachers last summer at Colorado State University.

8. Eliminating the Colorado Council for UNESCO.

The council, opening a two-day meeting Thursday, voted to send along all of the proposals. Members were specific, however, in saying the action does not pledge council members to vote for all of the plans.

The plans for a Department of Commerce and Development, curtailment of the Veterans Affairs agency abolishing the UNESCO group and the change in the Bureau of Child and Animal protection all came from the Council's Committee on Organization of State Government, headed by Sen. Floyd Oliver, D-Greeley.

Oliver said his committee decided to leave untouched for the present the Civil Defense Agency. It recommended changes in other departments, chiefly of a technical nature.

The Children's Laws Committee, headed by Rep. Elizabeth Pellet, D-Rico, submitted the plans for eliminating the Board of Standards of Child Care, the new children's institution and the community clinics for the handicapped.

The request to enlarge the humanities institute came from the sponsoring group, the Committee on Educational Endeavor headed by former Sen. Herrick Roth of Denver.

The Committee on Migratory Labor, completing a two-year study, asked for only one minor law and the council approved this. It would require registration of labor contractors and crew leaders.

The committee's report, submitted by Sen. Robert E. Allen, D-Denver, criticized slowness of Health Department investigations of housing and sanitary conditions in migrant camps, commended work of the employment and urged its intensification and praised summer schools conducted for children of migrant workers.

Allen said many of the problems found are being handled through administrative action and do not require legislation.

The Legislative Council took up the committee reports Thursday afternoon when it bogged down in efforts to approve changes in the Colorado Liquor Code. Senator Oliver said members had been unable to give a preliminary report sufficient study and asked that discussion be postponed until Friday. Other members agreed.

Road Grader Uncovers Old Aerial Bomb

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) —A road grader working on a new highway uncovered a 250-pound aerial bomb of a type used during World War II.

An Air Force public information officer at MacDill Air Force Base in Tampa said the bomb was found Thursday on Mullet Key, a small island at the mouth of Tampa Bay which was used as a bombing range during the war.

He said members of the 33rd Munitions Maintenance Squadron and the explosive ordinance disposal unit at MacDill would dispose of the bomb.

Former Senator O'Mahoney of Wyoming Dies

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former Sen. Joseph C. O'Mahoney of Wyoming, a strong foe of monopoly in business, died Saturday at the age of 78.

Officials at the U.S. Naval Hospital in nearby Bethesda, Md., declined to give the cause of death. A heart attack in 1959 left him partially paralyzed and a secretary said he entered the hospital 19 days ago for treatment of a heart ailment.

A staunch New Deal and Fair Deal Democrat for the most part, O'Mahoney served in the Senate from his appointment late in 1933 until his retirement in 1960, except for a two year span from 1952-54.

He was the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt's Far West campaign manager in the 1932 presidential election and served most of 1933 as first assistant postmaster general.

The 11th child of immigrant Irish parents, he was born in Chelsea, Mass. He attended Columbia College in New York before heading west.

He married Agnes Veronica O'Leary of Massachusetts in 1913, and is survived by her. They had no children but raised three nephews.

Weekend Announced For Yule Tree Cutting

DENVER (UPI) — The Forest Service said here it had set aside the weekends of Dec 8-9 and 15-16 for public cutting of Christmas trees in the Roosevelt National Forest west of Boulder, Colo.

Regional Forester David S. Nordwall said signs and red flags would mark a 600-acre area of public lands on Sugarloaf Mountain where trees may be taken.

The cutting area is reached by driving three miles west of Boulder on Colorado 119, the Boulder Canyon Road, and going north up Four Mile Canyon 10 miles to Sunset. Trees are limited one to a family, and permits are $1 a tree. Cutting hours are 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Book Fair Set At Widefield High School

A Book Fair will be held at the Widefield High School library from 6 to 8:30 p.m. Wednesday and Thursday.

During the fair patrons may order hard-back books with an interest for persons ranging from age 2 to adult. The books will cost from $1.25 up. Proceeds will be used to purchase library materials.

A drawing will be conducted each night for a Christmas centerpiece, according to Mrs. Ross Baptist, assistant high school librarian.

Santa Claus and eight helpers (high school girls who assist in the library) will talk with children at the fair and give them candy.

Assisting Mrs. Baptist are Linda Reed, Emily Otey, Julie Magno, Sonja Unruh, Karen Scott, Sabrienna Wood, Connie Godfrey and Lynda Hanson.

The fair will provide the first chance for the public to inspect the new high school library addition, Mrs. Baptist said.

Increase of Royalty Sought by Counties

DENVER (AP) — A resolution asking an increase in Colorado's royalties from the Mineral Leasing Act from 37½ per cent to 90 per cent has been adopted by the State Assn. of County Commissioners.

Colorado now receives $3,700,000 annually as its share of revenue derived from the leasing of federal public lands. The leasing proceeds are now divided 10 per cent to the U.S. Treasury, 37½ per cent to the state and 52½ per cent to the Bureau of Reclamation.

J. Fred Schneider, secretary-treasurer of the commissioners, said they feel the Bureau of Reclamation no longer needs the 52½ per cent.

He said the resolution will be forwarded to the state's congressional delegation. Any change in the distribution of the funds would have to be approved by Congress.

The resolution was adopted during the commissioners current annual meeting.

New High Speed Film Issued by Kodak Company

By BART KINCH

The Kodak Research Laboratories marked its 50th anniversary this year and coincidently announced a new high speed 35 mm Kodachrome film and the availability of Ektacolor Professional film in the 120-roll size.

The new Kodachrome film will be available in December in 20 and 36 exposure rolls and will sell for slightly higher than Kodachrome II.

Called Kodachrome-X, the new film has a daylight exposure index of 64—two-and-one-half times faster than Kodachrome II.

The company says that the higher speed of Kodachrome-X was achieved without noticeably effecting sharpness and graininess. Color reproduction is similar to Kodachrome II and the image-forming dyes are the same. Contrast is slightly higher in the Kodachrome-X.

The higher speed of the new film permits picture taking under adverse lighting conditions and the use of faster shutter speeds to reduce camera shake or halt motion in action shots.

In taking flash shots, either electronic flash units or blue flashbulbs should be used.

Processing of Kodachrome-X film is identical to that of Kodachrome II and can be handled by Kodak or any other laboratory which now accepts Kodachrome II film for processing.

The Ektacolor film soon to be available in 120-roll size previously had been supplied in sheet sizes only.

It has an A.S.A. speed of 80 and is balanced for exposure by electronic flash or daylight.

The 120-roll Ektacolor Professional Film Type S (short exposure) also will be available in December. Prices have not yet been announced.

Prints can be made on Ektacolor professional paper or they can be made by the dye transfer process. Black and white prints also can be made on Panalure paper or some similar product.

These two new film developments, particularly the introduction of the new Kodachrome-X,, underscore the positive results of industrial research.

Since the founding of the Kodak Research Laboratories in 1912 the company has improved films and printing papers, increased film speeds and improved color rendition.

Dr. Cyril J. Staud, Kodak vice-president in charge of research, said the laboratories have built up one of the most complete photographic libraries in the world. An editorial division supervises the publication of research findings in the form of technical papers. An information services division coordinates the flow of scientific information and assures its ready availabity to all units.

The scientific and technical work of the laboratory in Rochester, N.Y. is divided into five divisions and one department. These are concerned with chemistry, physics, applied photography, emulsion research, color photography and photographic theory.

Staud, commenting on the anniversary, said that "in 50 years, Kodak research laboratories have contributed greatly to the rise of the science of photography . . ."

Heraldic Art On Exhibit At City Library

The exhibit consists of china, ceramic tile and other objects used by Ruth Thayer Ravenscroft in her lectures on the subject, along with explanations of the symbolism in each coat-of-arms.

Paintings on parchment, wood plaques and velvet will be added after Saturday, and the entire exhibit will run until after Christmas.

Signet ring moulds over 200 years old, coins, stamps, national and state seals, the Purple Heart, Washington's coat - of - arms, upon which our national flag was patterned, are all in the present collection.

Military insignia, buttons, costume jewelry and other items all show Heraldic symbols.

The artist and her daughter, Mary Ravenscroft Riddle, are writing and illustrating a book, "The Meaning of Coats of Arms," to be published in April.

Mrs. Ravenscroft is a professional genealogist and artist who was instrumental in enlarging the Public Library's Genealogy collection by gifts from other libraries all over the country and from individuals and family associations.

Her own work in family genealogies in manuscript form has been purchased by the Library of Congress and other larger genealogical libraries over the country.

During the last four years she has been making tours giving lectures before professional groups on Heraldry, Genealogy, historical and patriotic subjects.

ANYONE FOR FRENCH PINBALL?

NEW YORK (AP)—A Paris hit, "Baby-Foot," may be the next two player exhibit on Broadway.

The show, which derives its title from a French pinball game, concerns the romance of a truck driver and blonde who operate a roadside restaurant. Critics gave it a warm reception in October premiere overseas.

The American rights have been secured by Arthur Cantor, currently cosponsor of "A Thousand Clowns," who thinks the play can repeat the box office success of such dual character comedies as "Two for the Seesaw" and "The Fourposter."

CAMPAIGN PLANNERS—Mrs. A. C. Agan, right, local March of Dimes chairman, and Mrs. Kermit Koester, area chairman for the March of Dimes Mothers' March, work out arrangements for the January campaign, marking the 25th anniversary of the March of Dimes. Kickoff ceremonies will be at 8 p.m. on Monday, Dec. 10, at the American Legion Club, 15 E. Platte Ave.

25th Annual March of Dimes To Be Launched Dec. 10

The March of Dimes celebrates its 25th year in January and plans are already being made by area chairmen to make the anniversary campaign a smashing success.

Kickoff ceremonies for the local campaign will be at 8 p.m. on Monday, Dec. 10, at the American Legion Club, 15 E. Platte Ave., when key campaign chairmen will be introduced.

"This year's program by The National Foundation promises to surpass the agency's already magnificent achievements in giving the world the Salk and Sabin vaccines," Mrs. A. C. Agam, area chairman, said Saturday.

"Given adequate support, we'll move fast to increase the help to victims of birth defects and arthritis while at the same time we meet responsibilities in the field of polio," she said.

Area March of Dimes chairmen are shooting for a goal of $30,000 in the January campaign, $10,000 of which is the quota for the annual Mothers' March.

Mrs. Kermit Koester, Mothers' March area chairman, said that $8,600 of the $10,000 quota will stay in Colorado Springs for the care of patients suffering from birth defects and rheumatoid arthritis, and the continuing care of polio victims.

"The rest, goes to support the medical research and professional education programs and the Salk Institute," she said.

The local March of Dimes chapter supports the Birth Defects Treatment Center at the University of Colorado Medical Center, Denver.

Marine Officer Selection Team Sets CC Visit

The Marine Corps officer selection team from Denver will be on the Colorado College campus Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday to interview students regarding programs leading to a commission in the Marine Corps.

The Marine Corps has programs for both men and women leading to a commission in aviation, ground or law.

Men and women seniors may apply now for a direct commission upon graduation.

The selection team will be at Rastall Center between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m. No appointment is necessary.

Information may also be obtained from the Local Marine Recruiting Office in the Mining Exchange Bldg., 8 S. Nevada.

Pueblo College Classes Open To AFA Men

Off-duty scholars at the Air Force Academy will have a choice of 26 Pueblo College courses for the winter quarter starting Jan. 7.

The expanded program was authorized because of the successful operation of 13 resident credit classes now in session.

Most of the winter quarter classes will be in the lower division college level. Several special interest courses will also be included in the program.

Because of the interest in foreign language study at the Academy, the majority of the classes will be in French, Russian, Spanish and German.

The quarter will last 11 weeks with most classes meeting three hours a week and carrying three quarter-hours resident credit.

NEVADA TEST SITE, Nev. (AP)—A mighty nucleo reactor designed to help eventual moon travel spurted orange flames with a roar last week in its first public test in more than a year.

Future versions of the KIWI-B4A are intended to provide the third stage engine of the 7.5 million pound thrust Saturn C5 missile, which is to loft a man-bearing Apollo spacecraft to the moon.

Newsmen in a concrete block building two miles from the scene watched the stationary test over closed-circuit television. They have not been allowed on the test site since the September 1961 resumption of nuclear weapons testing.

The KIWI series began in July 1959.

The reactor, mounted atop a firmly anchored railroad flatcar, was run for several minutes at one-quarter its full capacity. The Atomic Energy Commission declined to reveal its full power other than to say it has several thousand pounds of thrust.

Purpose of the test was to check performance of the reactor's core and its starter when fueled by liquid hydrogen.

Branch Banking Favored In Metropolitan Areas

Limited branch banking in Colorado Springs, Pueblo and Denver areas and limited service facilities in other areas is favored by a committee set up last May by the Colorado Bankers Assn.

In a report issued by the group last week, a majority of bank presidents appointed to study the question favored branch banking, which has never been permitted in Colorado and has consistently been opposed by operators of small independent banks.

Presidents of both large and small banks, however, were included in the majority favoring enabling legislation. Ten presidents favor such legislation, three oppose it and one of the 14-member committee abstained from voting.

Submitting the majority report were the following bank presidents: T. T. Brown, Security State, Sterling, committee chairman; Melvin J. Roberts, Colorado National, Denver; Neil F. Roberts, Denver U. S. National; Norman M. Dean, Weld County Bank, Greeley; Arthur G. Salberg, First National, Johnstown; A. E. Creighton, First National, Flagler; M. O. Brown, First National, Grand Junction; Paul N. Dawson, First National, Boulder; J. H. Macdonald, Colorado Bank & Trust, La Junta; A. B. Barney, Colorado Springs National.

The minority group includes the following bank presidents: Max G. Brooks, Central Bank & Trust, Denver; Walter C. Emery, Bank of Denver; Etienne Perenyi, North Denver Bank.

The three opposing the proposal issued a minority report, "which vigorously denies" there is a need for branch banking.

The proposal will be placed before the full membership of the Colorado Bankers Assn. at a special meeting Dec. 12 in Denver. If the proposal is approved by a majority of members present, it will be put in legislative draft form for introduction in the General Assembly in January.

Signers of the majority report based their recommendations on the need for increased services resulting from great increase in population density in the population areas, the shift of population into suburban areas and the need for banks to be able to compete on more than even terms with other financial institutions.

The majority report said that banking is the only industry which is prevented from following its customers as they move into the suburban areas. Savings and loan associations, industrial banks and finance companies are not prevented from operating branches, and have increased rapidly in the state, as have credit unions.

The minority group contends that "passage of a branch banking law would serve absolutely no interest other than those of the large downtown Denver, Pueblo and Colorado Springs banks." It holds that branch banking would drain deposits from small banks into larger ones thru competition or merger.

The majority points out that established banks have been held back from extending their services while the present U.S. comptroller of currency, James Saxon, who is authorized to grant national bank charters, has permitted formation of many new banks in Colorado.

In 1961 and 1962, charters have been granted to 14 new banks in the state, with eight of them in Denver metropolitan area. Colorado now has 181 banks operating or chartered, 25 more than five years ago.

The majority report says that "some speculation is taking place in our industry on the part of nonbankers who seek a quick way to larger profits in buying up banks or securing charters which may later be sold to large banks as part of a chain system.

"The prices at which some controling interests in Colorado banks have changed hands in the past year or two are among the highest in the nation, have been accomplished in almost every case on borrowed funds, and may represent unsound, even dangerous, banking practice which should be discouraged."

The minority report says that the proposal "could provide banking service on about every other corner in the trade areas. There can be no doubt that value of bank stocks would be materially decreased.

"Once the door is opened to branching in some form, its spread to a statewide basis is inevitable and rapid."

The report by the minority lists a number of large cities which do not have branch banking, among them Chicago, Minneapolis, Omaha, St. Louis, Kansas City, Dallas, Houston and Miami.

The majority contends that without the power to form branches, banks with excess lending facilities tend to move into riskier assets and those with a deficiency of lending power are deprived of the opportunity to draw deposits from areas of excess and put them to better use.

The majority plan provides that all banks in metropolitan areas with 250,000 or more inhabitants, of which Denver is the only one, would be permitted to establish branches, one for each $500,000 of capital and surplus, up to a maximum of 10.

All banks in metropolitan area with under 250,000 inhabitants (Colorado Springs and Pueblo) would be permitted to establish one branch for each $500,000 of capital and sruplus up to a maximum of three.

The branches could be established anywhere in the metropolitan areas.

Banks in counties having a population in excess of 50,000, but not included in a metropolitan area, would be permitted to establish a maximum of two limited service facilities within each bank's own community or in a community where no bank or facility is now located.

Banks not authorized to have branches or facilities under those provisions would be permitted to have one limited service facility within the limits of its own community.

A limited service facility would cash checks, receive deposits, sell cashier checks and travelers checks, accept loan payments, sell and redeem forms for loans.

Facilities established at government agencies at the request of the U. S. Treasury would not be considered branches or facilities.

AFA Credit Union Boosts Membership

A sharp boost in membership in the Air Force Academy Credit Union will be reflected in an increased semi-annual dividend.

Membership in the Credit Union jumped from 2,939 to 3,440, a gain of more than 500, in a period of 11 months.

The board of directors, at its last meeting, voted to increase the dividend rate to five per cent for the July 1 - Dec. 31 period. The new dividend rate will be credited on Jan. 1, 1963, based on the number of shares on deposit as of the close of business Dec. 31, 1962.

Previous dividend rate was 4.8 per cent.

Eastland Charges Mississippi Is Blackmailed

JACKSON, Miss. (UPI) — Sen. James O. Eastland, D-Miss., charged here the action of the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools following the racial crisis at the University of Mississippi was an attempt to "blackmail this state and its people."

The accrediting agency put the university and six other state schools under close and continued observation because of political interference with Negro James Meredith's attempt to register as a student.

Eastland also charged the association was "covering up Marxism in the colleges" and the activities of "certain professors at the university."

"I don't think the states can permit Marxism on the campuses," he said. "I don't think the states can protect those groups that are lined up with reds."

The senior senator spoke at the annual meeting of the Mississippi Soil Conservation Society.

"I'm not going to talk about soil conservation," he said. "If we don't have a free government and if we can't control our own affairs we aren't going to have soil conservation or anything else."

He termed the association's action a "cover-up of an attempt by certain University of Mississippi professors to intimidate students."

He related nine incidents of alleged intimidations by Ole Miss professors which he said were supported by affidavits from investigators of his Senate internal security subcommittee which investigated rioting on the campus.

He quoted one professor as saying "Gov. (Ross) Barnett should be impeached."

When the riot broke out Sept. 30, "University officials should have hustled the demonstrating students into dormitories, and if they (the students) refused, they should have been machine-gunned," Eastland quoted the professor as saying.

"Any student who torments me I will shoot down," Eastland quoted the professor.

He did not mention the names of the professors involved.

Three Farmers Face Child Labor Suits

DENVER (AP) — Three Colorado farmers have been accused of oppressive child labor in suits filed in U.S. District Court by the Department of Labor.

Defendants are Higinio Caballero, Box 237, Ault; Alvin Spady, Box 286, Route 2, Las Animas, and K. Matsunaga, Box 98, Granada.

The suits charge the three farmers employed minors under the age of 16 on farms during the hours school was in session, in violation of the Fair Labor Standards Act.

Girl From New Mexico Named 1963 Miss Rodeo

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — A green-eyed beauty from Silver City, N.M., won the 1963 title of Miss Rodero America last week.

Joyce Shelley, 19, a sophomore at New Mexico State University, earned the honor over 18 other contestants from 17 states and Canada.

Marilyn Foster, 19, Adams, Ore., was runnerup. She is a sophomore at Whitman College.

The judges' decision climaxed three days of competition in three categories—appearance, personality and horsemanship.

Miss Shelley captured the horsemanship award and Miss Foster earned the top spot in both appearance and personality.

The new queen faces a busy schedule of personal appearances as she rules over the nation's rodeos in 1963.

The 8th annual pageant was sponsored by the Sahara Hotel and the International Rodeo Management.

RECODIFICATION PROPOSED

DENVER (UPI)— A Colorado Legislative Council committee proposed a recodification of the state's election laws Thursday, including a recommendation that vote machine tampering be made a crime carrying a maximum penalty of a year in jail and a $1,000 fine. The proposed new code, the first revision of all election laws ever prepared in Colorado, was drafted by an 11-member committee headed by Sen. Ranger Rogers, R-Littleton.

Mayor Keeps on His War Against Georgia Paper

MARIETTA, ga. (UPI)—Mayor Sam Welsch continued his war with the Marietta Journal Saturday with a 33-minute blast at a council meeting against the paper and its city hall reporter, Larry Irby.

Welscn was still going strong when Council member L. H. Atherton, Jr., won a move to adjourn the meeting.

About 50 spectators, including Irby, were on hand for Welsch's well-advertised meeting. He had broadcast a paid announcement that sensational news would be made at the session.

Welsch quickly put to rest reports that he would announce his resignation at the session. Instead, he turned on his favorite enemies, the newspaper and Irby.

He said the Journal had given away confidential material to competitors of its advertisers, had held closed - door meetings with three state legislators to get them to agree to a secret bill eliminating portions of the city charter and that Irby had "made a motion" toward the mayor like a man reaching for a knife.

Welsch rehashed previous charges that Irby had sat in on a closed meeting of the council and had then reported it. He said the reporter had violated journalistic ethics.

Welsch recently ordered Irby arrested on charges of disorderly conduct when the reporter refused to leave a public session of the council. When the paper filed injunction proceedings and a county court ordered Welsch to stop interfering with the paper's coverage of meetings, the mayor dropped his charges.

A spokesman for the Journal said an editorial answer was being prepared to Welsch's latest attack.

READY FOR BUSINESS — Well-stocked shelves will await "customers" when Christmas Unlimited "opens for business" Tuesday in the basement of 13 W. Christmas Unlimited to Aid 500 Families in Springs Area

Five hundred local families have been mailed "script" which they may use instead of money to select items Tuesday thru Friday at the Christmas Unlimited store, 13 W. Colorado Ave.

Parents may choose toys, clothing and groceries which have been collected by 135 clubs and organizations taking part in the community project.

An open house will be held Monday at the Westside Community Center where the items will be sold. Workers from the individual clubs have been invited along with the public to view the assembled goods.

Names and situations of families helped each year by Christmas unlimited are kept confidential. Letting parents choose and do the actual giving on Christmas Day has been the philosophy behind Christmas Unlimited since it was instituted 15 years ago.

The mamoth project also serves to coordinate the Christmas giving of many individual community groups.

Mrs. John Bennett and Mrs. John Logan are co-chairmen. H. S. Aronhault, who compiled the list of families who have been sent "script" was instrumental in organizing Christmas Unlimited.

In late August Mrs. Aronhault began submitting application blanks to accredited social agencies in the area as well as to schools and religious bodies.

From the list of families recommended for aid by social workers, clergymen, teachers and principals, she checked for duplications and began the job of trimming the list to the year's decided figure of 500 families.

Each family was mailed " "script" and assigned a shopping date. The amount of "script" varies with the size of the family.

Each family gets 100 points to be applied on groceries and bedding, and for each child, the family is awarded 100 points for clothing and an equal number for toys.

The store will be stocked with a variety of toys, many new, but many carefully repaired and repainted. Various groups have donated toys and others have done the repair work as projects.

Colorado Springs firemen have spent nights at station houses repairing wheelled toys and the Sheriff's Posse has repaired toy guns.

Blue jeans and T-shirts will fill the shelves for boys under 15 years. Most of the money collected by Christmas Unlimited goes to purchase this clothing, and many local clubs donate funds toward the jeans and shirts as their group's project.

For girls, over 500 cotton dresses have been made by seamstresses recruited by Mrs. Dean Hardgrove who represents the Bus Drivers' Wives.

Bags of groceries have been collected by a local service club which sponser's a grocery drive aided by school children.

Parentswillalso have a choice

Parents will also have a choice of comforters which are made each year by a church group. Some handmade layettes will also be available.

Volunteers from the participating organizations will man the store during its four-day operation. They will assist the families in choosing items to make their Christmas much merrier than it might have been without Christmas Unlimited.

Loss on Nickel Deal Claimed by Officials

WASHINGTON (AP)—The General Services Administration said here the government faces a loss of $6.3 million or more—not a $10.6 million profit—on stockpiled nickel bought from the M. A. Hanna interests formerly headed by George M. Humphrey.

Humphrey, former secretary of the treasury in the Dwight D. Eisenhower administration, is Hanna's honorary board chairman now.

The GSA statement is a new round in numbers battle among accountants on opposing sides of the controversy over nickel bought from the Hanna interests for defense stockpiling. It was made an official postscript to Senate hearings last August in which Humphrey clashed hotly with Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo.

Humphrey accused Symington, chairman of the Senate Armed Services subcommittee investigating government stockpile deals, of waging a "personal vendetta" against him. He told Symington "you don't dare" adjourn an Aug. 17 hearing without letting Humphrey complete a statement he was making. Symington promptly closed the hearing.

USTINOV, PERSONALLY INVOLVED

NEW YORK (AP) — Peter Ustinov feels there is an advantage to being both an actor and director.

"It makes the rest of the cast feel better when you are personally involved," the British star says. "It assures a greater measure of democracy—and you never can tell where the next good idea is coming from."

Ustinov recently completed directing and acting in the film Billy Budd;" plans a similar tandem assignment on the Broadway stage next season.

White House Yule Tree Decoration Donated

SALIDA (AP)—A fund of $274 has been contributed by Salida residents to buy a decoration for the tip of the Christmas tree for peace that will be dedicated on the White House lawn Dec. 19.

George Oyler, local publisher, conceived the plan of creating a reproduction of the Angel of Mt. Shavano as the tree-top decoration.

Crevices on the slopes of Mt. Shavano, 26 miles west of Salida, form the figure of an angel when filled with snow.

A Denver firm has been commissioned to recreate the Angel of Mt. Shavano for the decoration.

The contributions included $49 from school children.

Roth Says Labor May Miss More In Legislature

DENVER (AP) — Organied labor in Colorado expects a less receptive response to its proposed legislation in the next session of the State Legislature as a result of the recent election, Herrick Roth said here.

But labor still will press for improvements in workmen's compensation, unemployment compensation and occupational disease laws, said the president of the Colorado Labor Council.

This program was outlined by members of a legislative committee meeting here Thursday.

It conflicts in many areas with recommendations proposed recently by the State Chamber of Commerce at its convention here. The chamber groups generally proposed a tightening up on these same labor programs.

"We are not looking for the Republican legislature to turn the clock back on the labor movement," said Roth, "even though we are realistic and recognize that probably we are not going to move forward by leaps and bounds."

Republicans will have substantial majorities in both houses of the General Assembly at the next legislative session.

"We'll work as best we can with the new Republican majority and present what we feel are cases with merit," said Roth.

NEW DELHI—India now exports $5,000 worth of synthetic jewels every month.

Darrell W. McCullogh On Alaskan Exercise

Army pfc Darrell W. McCullogh of Colorado Springs was among 2,500 personnel involved in the 23d Infantry's 1st Battle Group readiness tests at Ft. Richardson, Alaska, recently.

McCullogh, son of Mrs. C. Dillon, 2229 HagermanSt., is assigned as a radio operator in the battle group's Company D at Ft. Richardson. He entered the Army in December 1961, completed basic training at Ft. Carson and arrived in Alaska last May.

The 23-year-old soldier is a 1957 graduate of Colorado Springs High School.

Jack Smith to Sing Solo in 'Messiah'

Jack Smith, Colorado Springs senior at Western State College, Gunnison will have tenor solo part when Handel's "Messiah" is produced by the college orchestra and chorus Dec. 16.

The program will be presented in the college auditorium at 8 p.m.

Strip Mine Inspected By Thirty Officials

STEAMBOAT SPRINGS (AP)—Thirty officials of participating companies viewed last week the opening of a huge coal strip mining project that will supply generating plants of Public Service Co. of Colorado.

The mine is located at Energy, the name of the new site, served by a 12-mile spur of the Rio Grande Western Railroad.

Public Service has signed 15-year contracts with Energy Coal Co. and the Pittsburg-Midway Coal Mining Co. of Kansas City, Mo., to deliver the coal to PSC.

The contracts for the mining and delivery of the coal total about $65 million for 12 million tons.

Robert Person, president of PSC, said the company's consumption of coal has trebled since 1957 when about 360,000 tons were used. He said company plants in 1956 were fueled 80 per cent by natural gas and 20 per cent by coal in 1956.

"It is now about 50-50," he said.

Smith said "professional negotiations," which consider working conditions and salaries of teachers, is generally approved by the local association.

The assembly, policy - making body of the CEA, will also consider legislation, budget and resolutions to present to the Colorado Board of Education at the board's next monthly meeting in Denver.

The delegates also will determine CEA's stand on state and federal aid to education; the Public Employes Retirement Association; state aid for the gifted and mentally handicapped; and mental health programs.

Open hearings on the three major subjects — budget, legislation and resolutions — will begin Thursday at the Broadmoor International Center. G. Owen Smith, CEA president and assistant Pueblo superintendent of schools, will preside.

Gov.-elect John A. Love will be a guest at the annual delegates' banquet Friday night at the International Center. School bell awards to outstanding education leaders will be made after the banquet.

Vice president and president-elect Frank Rice, Denver Classroom Teachers Association, will assume the presidency at Friday night's banquet. The delegates will be 18 members from Colorado Springs, including Smith and other local CEA officers—vice president, George Dagliesch; secretary, William McCrea; and treasurer, Joe Wallace.

contact quota set by the patrol. Carrel has insisted that the patrol has no set quota, but that the men are exceped to meet certain averages. He has blamed the scandal on laziness.

Carrel said the firings and resignations have left the patrol short of men.

State patrolman Donald J. Paulovich, 26, of Pueblo became the first officer of the patrol work scandal to be fired Friday. Carrel said Paulovich was charged with falsifying daily reports and conduct unbecoming an officer. The chief said Paulovich denied the charges.

Paulovich said through his attorneys in Pueblo that he would appeal the case to the State Civil Service Commission.

In another development, Gov.-elect John A. Love said in Colorado Springs Friday that he had no plans to launch an investigation of the patrol scandal when he becomes governor Jan. 8.

State Rep. John Kane, D-Nroth Glenn, earlier said he planned to ask for a probe, either by the order of the governor or by the Legislative Council.

Extended Contract Sought for Work On NORAD Project

terfere with the start of construction of the steel - and - concrete buildings within the chambers scheduled early in 1963, an Army Corps of Engineers spokesman said.

Design and specifications of the interior buildings are expected to be completed later this month. Bids will then be advertised and a contract awarded — probably in February.

Estimated cost of the buildings, which will be mounted on giant steel springs, is $11 million. They are expected to be completed by late 1964, after which installation of the massive electronic and computing equipment would be started.

Cost of this equipment has been estimated at more than $40 million. Completion date for the entire project is planned for 1965.

Mrs. Bessie P. Paap Dies of Heart Attack

Mrs. Bessie P. Paap, 2218 Winston Rd. died at her home Saturday, the police department said.

Police Officer W. G. Clark went to the scene with a rescutitator and found members of the fire department were already there. The firemen said Mrs. Paap was in the bathroom unconscious when they arrived.

An ambulance took her to Memorial Hospital but she had already stopped breathing when she was carried out, the report stated.

Dr. Robert F. Dillon of the Memorial Hospital reported the cause of death was an apparent coronary attack.

Carpentry Tools Stolen From Truck

Carpentry tools which were described as "an investment over many years" were stolen late Friday or early Saturday morning from the back of a truck belonging to Charles M. Kirkbride of 14 S. 14th St., the police reported.

Kirkbride, a carpenter, said he left them in the back of the truck which was parked outside his home. They were in a large box which he generally kept locked but was unlocked Friday night.

The value of the tools is unknown at present, Kirkbride said.

Industry, Military Cause Near-Boom in Springs Area

number had increased to 25,000 with about this many more dependents. In addition, the three largest military installations had approximately 5,000 civilian employes on a leveled-off basis.

"Clay Banta, manager of the Colorado Springs Chamber of Commerce, divides the income of the Pikes Peak area into four major sources, in order of dollar value: (1) military, (2) tourists, visitors and conventions, (3), industry and (4) miscellaneous, such as agriculture, retired income and welfare.

"Historically the development of Colorado Springs had gone thru four rather distinct phases: (1) the pre-World War I period (Cripple Creek days), (2) the pre-World War II period (tourism, recreation and Health), (3), the World War II period (military installations) and (4), the post-World War II period from 1945 (overall growth, including manufacturing."

The Newsletter article discusses the various historical phases in some detail.

"Prior to World War II, Colorado Springs was primarily a resort area best known as the home of Pikes Peak and the Broadmoor Hotel. The industrial base was small, but included such well-known firms as Aircraft Mechanics, Alexander Film, Van Briggle Art Pottery, Holly Sugar Corp. and the Golden Cycle Corp. With the advent of World War II came the establishment of Camp Carson (now Ft. Carson) and the beginning of the military influence in the area. In the post-war period came the North American Air Defense Command with its subordinate Army, Navy, Air Force and Canadian headquarters.

"Then in 1958 the new $150 million U. S. Air Force Academy was established on a 17,500-acre reservation 10 miles north of Colorado Springs."

The article said "visitor accomodations in the Springs have expanded enormously in recent years to accomodate the estimated 1.7 million visitors that spend approximately 80 million annually. Over 250 conventions are held in the region each year. The dominant visitor and convention center in Colorado Springs, the Broadmoor Hotel, is one of the largest employers in the area with approximately 1,000 employes. In 1961 the Broadmoor opened an annex that will nearly double its availability of rooms and a new International Convention Center which will seat 2,400 persons.

The same factors which make Colorado Springs attractive to the military and to visitors have made it equally attractive to a wide variety of high type industries . . .

"The present objective of the industrial program of the Colorado Springs Chamber of Commerce is to increase the industrial income of the community so that this will equal the income from tourism and from the military . In this effort, Colorado Springs is proud that its new industries have definitely enhanced the community's well-known cultural, scenic and wholesome character.

"During the past year the industrial development program has had marked success, with new and expanding industries promising 1,800 new jobs of an industrial nature by 1964. Major recent industrial projects include the establishment of an oscilloscope manufacturing plant by Hewlett-Packard Co. of Palo Alto, Calif., which is expected to lead to the employment of at least 1,000, the construction of a 40,000 square foot, $500,000 addition to Clifton Precision Products Co. that will double employment to 750, the establishment of Western Electrodynamics by Claude Hathaway to manufacture electronic measuring equipment, an expansion of Kaman Nuclear (research in nuclear science) and an expansion of Maytag Electronics.

Man Dies After Shooting Self With Revolver

Donald L. Smith, 28, of 4000 N. Nevada Ave. died of a gunshot wound in the head after he shot himself in his trailer at 4 a.m. Saturday, the sheriff's office reported.

Deputy Sheriff Woodrow Littrell said that when he arrived at the scene with Deputy Sheriffs Charles Dietsche and Bob Walters the man was lying on the floor a .22 caliber revolver by his side.

Littrell said the dead man had been out with two friends, Joyce M. Conger, 31, and Charles A. Snell, 37. After having a few drinks at the Air Academy's NCO club they had returned to the trailer court.

The report stated Mrs. Conger had gone into the bathroom and then called Snell to bring her her coat. As he handed it to her, she told Littrell, they heard a shot in the living room and returned to find Smith lying in a pool of blood.

Dr. R. Urich, deputy county coroner said Smith died of a gunshot wound in the head. An autopsy will be performed later.

Soviet Diplomats Hint No More Concessions

fied Soviet line on major cold war issues.

This move, Russia's first in the international field after the Communist Central Committee conference in Moscow, reflected no easing of Moscow's policy, according to authoritative diplomat.

The absence of any noticeable policy switch also was confirmed in a lenghty talk between British Foreign Secretary Lord Home and the Soviet envoy, Aleksander Soldatov. It took place this week after the latter's return from consultations with Khrushchev in Moscow.

Moreover, the talks in Washington of Soviet First Deputy Premier Anastas Mikoyan with President Kennedy appear to have revealed no major Soviet policy switch on fundamental cold war issues.

Finally, Soviets participating in nuclear tests ban and resumed disarmament negotiations in Geneva have shown no change to date in their approach to the basic problems.

British diplomats are asking themselves whether they have misread the signs emanating from Moscow immediately after the Soviet missile withdrawal from Cuba.

Macmillan himself has been reported by his aides to believe in a possible Russian shift that could open the way to more successful East-West negotiations on a series of individual cold war problems — including a nuclear test ban, measures against surprise attack as well as an agreement not to spread nuclear weapons to other nations.

But Khrushchev's latest message to Macmillan has failed to support expectations for east accords with the Soviet.

Typewriter Taken From AAA Supply Co.

Police reported Saturday that someone had broken into the AAA Supply Co., 13 E. Cucharras St., and stolen and old typewriter and $2 from the cash register.

Entry had been gained thru a window by breaking a pane of glass and then squeezing through bars.

The Nation's Weather

(Report furnished by U.S. Weather Bureau Station at Peterson Field as of 8:30 p.m. yesterday)

December's first day ended sunny and warm for the season over the eastern third of the nation altho residents of the south Atlantic coastline would undoubtedly describe the day in different terms since the Atlantic storm continued to throw heavy surfs and a layer of clouds over the area Saturday from the Virginia Capes to northern Florida.

Strong winds were still being felt along the north Carolina coast as evidenced by 50 mile an hour gusts reported at Cape Hatteras Saturday afternoon. The storm was finally moving away Saturday night and indications were that a return to fair weather is also in order for this area today.

Thick clouds covered the area from the Mississippi thru most of the plains and scattered showers dotted the southern Plains.

One of these showers near a low pressure area in southwestern Texas produced heavy golfball - size hail south of Pecos, Texas.

Southern California remained sunny Saturday as did the central Rockies and upper Missouri Valley, but in the Pacific Northwest, a storm offshore shrouded the area with clouds and posed the threat of gale force winds during the night Saturday along the coast.

Rain was dampening the central and northern coastal regions and was expected to spread inland, turning to snow, over the northern and central Plateau by today.

Altho certainly not a heat wave Saturday afternoon temperatures mostly in the 60s broke ~~long~~-standing Dec. 1 high temperature records in town after town from Sioux City, Iowa, to Providence, R. I.

New York's Central Park hit a high of 68 and Rochester, Minn., recorded its third consecutive record high temperature with a reading of 62, breaking an old December record of 48 set back in 1912.

Most areas across the South matched these readings, and the low 70s were reached in the lower Mississippi Valley and central Gulf coast.

Cloudy skies from the Rockies to the Mississippi held readings to the upper 40s and 50s, and 30s and 40s covered the Rockies.

In the Far West, afternoon temperatures were mostly in the 40s and 50s except in the Southwest where 60s and a few 70s were found.

Deed Smells But Nothing Foul Discovered

Only the smell remained, Dep. Jack Ames reported, as mute evidence a "crime" had indeed taken place.

Ames was called to investigate a report of a boy riding a motor scooter down Main Street in Security—dragging a dead skunk behind.

Ames report stated he investigated the incident "but did not locate anything but the scent."

Purse Taken From Woman While Shopping

Police are investigating the theft of a coin purse containing $7 that was taken from the handbag of a woman shopper in the S. H. Kress and Co., store.

The woman, Elsa Foerstemann, 115 S. 24th St., told police that while she was in the store, she was repeatedly jostled by two young Negro women, who remained on either side of her.

She said she discovered the loss shortly after the pair hurriedly left her side and the building.

Nehru Brands Chinese Offer As 'Coverup'

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Prime Minister Nehru sharply rejected Saturday key points of Red China's terms of settling the Himalayan conflict. He accused the Chinese of using their cease-fire as a cover up for adding huge chunks of borderlands to China.

Nehru's rejection, in a letter to Red Chinese Premier Chou En-lai, came after Peking announced its troops were beginning to withdraw, as promised from advanced positions on two ends of India's northern frontier. Indian officials could not confirm the withdrawals.

Chou had warned Nehru earlier that if his troops did not withdraw also there could be a resumption of the fighting that had dealt Indian army forces shattering defeats in an offensive launched Oct. 20.

Nehru told Chou he could not accept the Chinese definition of a line behind which the Chinese propose both sides withdraw 12½ miles, leaving a 25-mile-wide demilitarized strip. This, Nehru said would leave the Chinese in possesion of the fruits of aggression.

Nehru said Peking's three-point proposal of Oct. 24 and the proclamation Nov. 21 for a cease-fire and withdrawals were "clearly aimed at securing physical control of areas which were never under Chinese administrative control either on Nov. 7, 1959, or at any time prior to Sept. 8, 1962."

India has proposed troop withdrawals to lines both Chinese and Indian troops held on Sept. 8 as a basis for starting negotiations on the long-disputed and undefined border areas.

Nehru once more asked Chou to accept the Sept. 8 line "so that the necessary atmosphere for peaceful processes may be created."

The Chinese proposed withdrawing troops to what they consider the line of actual control on Nov. 7, 1959. India does not accept the Peking version of this line.

Nehru said that in Ladakh on the northwestern border — key point in the conflict—the Chinese-proposed line turns out to be one "established by your forces after massive attacks mounted since Oct. 20.

"This is a definite attempt to retain under cover of preliminary cease-fire arrangements physical possession over the area which China claims, and to secure which the massive attack since Oct. 20 was mounted by your forces.

"This we cannot agree to," Nehru added.

Nehru said the same applied to the line set down by the Chinese in the central and northeastern sectors of the border.

Indian troops manning frontier battle positions peered, meanwhile, into the mountain mists and thick jungles for signs of the announced Chinese withdrawals. And on the home front the government announced the arrest of 300 Communist leaders as sympathizers for the Chinese.

Although Indian officials could not confirm any Chinese withdrawals, authoritative sources in Tezpur, near the northeast front, reported some truck movements behind the Chinese lines.

State Tax Rebates Urged by Counties

ed, would mean that the tax rebate would be distributed on the basis of the number of taxable motor vehicle registrations in each county, city and town.

Computing the number of registrations in each category with state motor vehicle registration totals would be the determining factor in allocating the percentages.

The suggestion was prompted by the prospect of a state general fund surplus and local governments' growing inability to finance necessary functions with their principal source of tax funds, the ad valorem, or property tax.

It was suggested by the commissioners that local governments benefiting from such a tax rebate could apply at least half their receipts to reduction of property taxes within the county boundaries.

Before the resolution was approved, the association's general counsel, J. Fred Schneider told the commissioners that the General Assembly might consider adding one per cent to the existing state sales tax.

There will be a generous surplus existing in the state's general fund, Schneider said, whether the legislators do or not.

The receipts from which the commissioners hope to get their recommended rebate hinges upon Governor - elect John Love's pledge to lower the state income tax.

Love, Colorado Springs attorney, promised to reduce the income taxes 10 to 15 per cent.

two minutes before the crash.

In an instrument landing such as was being used by the ill-fated plane, two radio beams are directed at the plane from the runway—one giving the plane's course relative to the runway and the other giving the plane's angle of approach to the runway. Radio receivers in the cockpit pick up the signals and display them on instruments read by the pilot.

Following the crash, Idlewild remained closed to air traffic for nine hours. Shortly after 7 a.m. the fog lifted and takeoffs and landings resumed.

Many passengers said Bechtold appeared to be trying to get the plane airborne just before the crash, which sent the propellor-driven aircraft skidding into a marshy area about 500 feet off the runway.

Stewardess Patricia Richards, 22, of Texarkana, Tex., told newsmen:

"We were close to the ground. Then, all of a sudden, we hit. They revved the engines. They tried to pick it up and that's when everything happened. It's like a nightmare."

Miss Richards and the other stewardess, Helen Fournier, 21, of Dalhousie, New Brunswick, Canada, received minor injuries and were sharing a room at the hospital in Queens. Both girls were highly praised by other survivors for the manner in which they aided rescue workers.

Two Wounded As Idaho Man Goes Berserk

OAKLEY, Idaho (AP)—A middle-aged man went bersrk Friday night wounding two teenage boys, and then shooting up this tiny south Idaho town before he ran out of ammunition and was captured.

A posse of 20 armed men, led by Lt. M. J. Bays Jr. of the Idaho State Police, captured the man at a nearby ranch.

Lt. Bays identified the man was William Morgan Owens, 50, a sometime prospector and ranch hand.

The injured youths were Larry Sager, 15, and Gilbert Hunter, 16, both in critical condition.

Lt. Bays said they were shot as Owens stood on a hill overlooking a county roadway five miles south of here.

Sager was in very critical condition with two bullet wounds in the head. Hunter was wounded in the left arm and was shot through his left lower back.

Lt. Bays said Owens didn't resist when arrested. "He calmly said he ran out of shells," the officer said.

"Then he said 'I got the men who shot Kennedy. . . I was directed by the man up above.' "

Lt. Bays said the youths were driving toward Oakley after a day of goose hunting. After shooting them, the officer said Owens drove into town and "began shooting at cars as they drove down the street. Several people nearly missed getting hit. The town was in an uproar."

Vatican Council Votes Steps to Heal Schisms

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — The Ecumenical Council today voted overwhelmingly to approve a draft calling for "theological, liturgical, juridical, psychological and practical" steps to narrow the gap between Roman Catholicism and the Eastern churches.

The important vote was the council's first concrete action towards Pope John XXIII's long-range goal—unification of all the Christian churches.

The council voted 2,068 for 36 against with eight void ballots, to approve a draft on church unity submitted by the preparatory commission on the Eastern church under papal secretary of state Amleto Cardinal Cicognani. It ruled, however, that the draft should later be combined with two other documents on the same general subject.

Cicognani's draft dealt only with relations with the Orthodox and other Eastern churches, which broke with Rome in 1054 A.D.

The other two documents deal with the problem of Christian unity as a whole, including the Protestants.

City Cleared Of Responsibility In Drainage Suit

Twelve local residents lost their $39,474.20 damage suit Saturday against the city of Colorado Springs.

The four-day hearing ended Friday night when the case went to the jury at 5.15. A sealed verdict was reached at 9.30 and made public Saturday morning.

The suit contended that all 12 suffered extensive property damage thru carelessness by the city.

The plaintiffs were Irwin S. Wald, Milan A. and Helen McCoy, Oscar and Mary Lucille Jimeson, Mae Burk, Frances Edmonds, Dudley B. and Margaret E. Elstun, Frances Shapard and James M. and Celia E. Murphy.

The suit charged that flood damage resulted from a change in the natural drainage resulting from city work on Bijou Street and Farragut and Logan Avenues.

Oaks Convicted In Slaying of Golden Grocer

GOLDEN, Colo. (UPI)—Carl R. Oaks, 46-year-old Albuquerque, N.M., laborer, was convicted of first degree murder Saturday in the shotgun slaying of a Golden grocer.

Oaks, pale and drawn as the verdict was read, was sentenced to life in prison at hard labor. District Judge Christian Stoner gave defense attorney Richard Kitchen 20 days in which to file motions for a new trial.

The jury, made up of eight men and four women, deliberated the case for six hours and 15 minutes. They started deliberations at 6 p.m. Friday. The verdict was reached at 10:10 a.m. today.

Stoner gave the jury a choice of three verdicts—guilty of first degree murder with either a death penalty or life imprisonment, or innocent.

Oaks was charged with murder in the Dec. 20, 1957 slaying of Thaddeus Straub, 47, operator of a Golden grocery, during a robbery attempt. The actual shooting was committed by Roy E. Beaty, currently serving a manslaughter sentence for the crime, but police have accused Oaks of planning the robbery.

Oaks was once convicted in connection with the slaying. But the Colorado Supreme Court reversed the conviction this year and ordered a new trial. The state high court said improper evidence had been used in Oaks' first trial.

Ike Denies Saying Nixon Was Not Campaign Timber

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP)—Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower in an interview at his vacation cottage here, denied that he ever said former Vice President Richard M. Nixon is not presidential timber.

He said Nixon is not dead politically despite his defeat last month for the California governorship.

Eisenhower commented that he may have said in 1956 that Nixon was not ready for the presidency at that time. But he declared emphatically that he never said Nixon was not presidential timber.

The former president declined to name his choice for the 1964 Republican presidential nomination. But he said a candidate who can speak out on specific issues and avoid liberal and conservative labels can win two years from now.

These and other opinions were expressed in an interview with Louis Harris, editor of the Augusta Chronicle, and Carrol Dadisman, Chornicle editorial writer.

Woman to Face Charges for Poisoning Dogs

DENVER (AP) — Capt. Carl Grebb, State Humane Society officer, said today he plans to file charges Monday in Trinidad Justice of the Peace Court against a Trinidad woman accused of poisoning five dogs.

Grebb said three of the dogs died in the poisoning that took place in one neighborhood over a two-week period. All of the mixed breed dogs were family pets.

Colorado law provides for fines from $10 to $250 in addition to possible jail sentences of up to a year upon conviction of cruelty to animals.

Dr. Gaylor J. Varner, Trinidad veterinarian, saved the lives of two of the dogs. He determined they were poisoned with strychnine.

Grebb traced the purchase of strychnine from a Trinidad drugstore Oct. 16. This led to identification of the woman, who will be charged, Grebb said.

Consolidation Of Some State Agencies Sought

DENVER (AP) — Felix L. Sparks, state director of natural resources, has prepared a bill calling for consolidation of various state agencies dealing with the mining industry in Colorado.

Sparks said the bill is ready for presentation to the legislature when it convenes next month and presents a challenge to the new Republican administration for a concerted Colorado mineral policy.

The bill proposes a State Bureau of Mineral Resources under the Department of Natural Resources. The new agency would eliminate the old State Metal Mining Fund Board and the inactive geological survey board.

The proposed Bureau of Mine Resources would be under a director covered by Civil Service.

Agencies to be brought under the director would include the chief inspector of coal mines and board of examiners; the commissioner of mines and bureau of mines.

Research and scientific information would come under the proposed agency.

Sparks said, in discussing his bill, "the area where the state should spend some money is research.

"We really have no coordinated research program, utilizing the scientific advances available from such institutions as the Colorado School of Mines.

"We have documented very little information about the industry. Actually nothing has been done in this field since the 1930s. Yet, our resources and potential production in all fields of mining are still tremendous."

Pay Phone in Fountain Smashed, Cash Taken

A pay telephone outside Leo's Enco Station, Fountain, was smashed and an unknown quantity of change was taken, the sheriff's office reported Saturday.

Damage to the phone was estimated at $30.

Deputy Sheriff Vincent denboske said a pry bar was used to force the telephone open and that the incident occurred late Friday night or early Saturday morning.

'Fair Share' Oil Import Revision Rules Announced

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy has revised oil import rules to guarantee domestic producers what White House sources called a "fair share" of U. S. petroleum sales.

Officials said the new order would not cause immediate or direct hardship to nations which sell oil in the U. S. It appeared clear, however, that the eventual effect would be to put something of a squeeze on imports.

An important aspect of the order would limit imports of liquid petroleum east of the Rocky Mountains on the basis of production rather than demand.

Imports are now limited to 9 per cent of probable demand. The new formula would set the import limit at 12.2 per cent of all crude oil and natural gas liquids produced over the preceding six months.

Under the order, effective January 1, imports from Canada and Mexico —which previously have not counted against the import limits — would hereafter be included in the overall import ceiling.

Canada's imports would not be restricted. However, Canadian oil or oil products Canada sold in this country would hereafter be charged against the total allowable imports, with the result that less would be left for other importing nations such as Venezuela.

President Kennedy said he issued the order to "enhance the ability of the petroleum industry to meet possible national security demands."

Interior Secretary Stewart L. Udall said the most important of the changes ordered by the President was designed to insure that domestic oil production and oil imports will share proportionately in future increases in demand in the area east of the Rockies.

The new order affects only that area. Separate import policies for the West Coast remain in effect. It does not affect residual fuel oil — the leftover from refining processes which is used mainly for industrial heating.

The order makes the following changes in the mandatory oil import program:

—Provides a new formula for the determination of import levels east of the Rockies of crude oil, unfinished oils and finished products other than residual fuel oil. The new formula provides that the level shall be 12.2 per cent of liquid hydrocarbon production, less estimated exempt overland imports into the eastern districts. This represents the relationship of imports to production in districts I-IV during 1961.

—Provide for a gradual reduction in the allocation of imports of crude oil and unfinished oils made on the basis of importing history.

—Provide for a more rapid allocation based on historical imports from overland imports.

—Redefine the term "crude oil" and add "natural gas products" to the list of materials subject to restriction.

—Formalize the use of a graduated or sliding scale for allocation of crude oil imports and for residual fuel oil in the eastern part of the nation.

Action Against Amendment Is Filed in Denver

DENVER (AP)—A motion to declare invalid state amendment No. 7 for reapportioning the Legislature was filed here with a special 3-judge federal court.

Voters approved the amendment in the Nov. 6 general election.

Archie L. Lisco of Denver claimed, through his lawyers, that the amendment violates his and other's rights to equal protection under the laws guaranteed by the 14th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution.

Lisco contended No. 7 freezes the State Senate at 39 members selected according to present senatorial districts.

He contended this apportionment removes the Senate from being representative of Colorado's numerical population now and in the future.

Lisco urged the federal court to undertake apportionment of the Legislature "on the basis of population, so that the vote of each and every citizen within this state may be as near as is practically possible equal to the vote of each and every other citizen."

The 3-judge federal court is considering petitions by Lisco and others to take jurisdiction in reapportionment of the Legislature. The court deferred action on the suits last August pending the general election.

Attorneys were recently advised by the court that they could file additional arguments.

Colorado Penitentiary Seeks Budget Increase

CANON CITY (AP)—State Penitentiary officials have asked a legislative appropriation of $3,639,245, up 13.2 per cent, for the 12 months beginning next July 1.

Warden Harry Tinsley presented the proposal here before the Joint Budget Committee, which is touring state institutions in advance of the General Assembly's session beginning next month.

Tinsley said the unprecedented increase in inmate population necessitated the higher budget. He also requested an emergency appropriation of $54,000 for the rest of the fiscal year ending next June 30.

He said the supplemental appropriation was needed to hire 20 employes. Fifteen would supervise outlying prison installations and five would be assigned to the institution's main complex.

The budget proposal for the 1963-64 fiscal year, Tinsley said, includes funds for hiring an additional 18 employes.

He told the committee the current year's budget was based on an estimated inmate population of 1,740.

"But as of Nov. 27," Tinsley said, "we are housing and caring for 1,878 prisoners and the fiscal year is not yet at the halfway point."

Mexico May Turn Ex-U.S. Ships Against Yanks

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States will turn over to the Mexican government five surplus war vessels. Unidentified Mexican naval authorities have been quoted as saying they will be used against what they call "Texas shrimp pirates.' "

State Department officials would not say whether they got assurances in the ship transfer agreement that the vessels will not be used against American boats fishing in international waters.

Mexican gunboat captains for years have forced U.S. shrimp boats into Tampico and charged them with trespassing in Mexican waters. Mexico claims sovereignty nine miles seaward. The United States recognizes such sovereignty for only three miles.

The five vessels, at Orange, Tex., are 180-foot world war II mine sweepers, complete with armament. Their guns include three-inch-50 naval rifles, 40 millimeter cannon and 20 millimeter cannon.

United Press International learned the American government turned title to 20 such vessels over to Mexico Oct. 1. A Navy spokesman confirmed five of the ships were "ready to leave" their berths at Orange, as soon as Mexican crews call for them.

The spokesman added the Navy expected the other 15 vessels to be taken over by the Mexicans "within two months."

HUNTING and FISHING

By DICK MOORE

Winter has blown its first blue breath, and all except the hardier sportsmen have inched their rockers closer to the flames, but the tough, experienced outdoorsmen are just now thinking of their annual deer hunt.

The snow that's fallen has driven the game lower, making the hunting all the better.

This cover makes tracking much easier, as well. The cold and snow have most of the sportsmen curled up in easy chairs, so a hunter has the country pretty much to himself.

The hardy hunter has any number of seasons to choose from, and can go after his meat anytime from now until the end of December in certain areas.

Beginning Nov. 23 and continuing thru Dec. 9, there is a three-deer hunter's choice season in the North Park and Bull Mountain Areas. From Nov. 24, thru Dec. 31, hunters may take two deer of their choice in part of game management unit 10 north of highway 40 and west of Elk Springs. In the Gunnison-Crested Butte area there is a three - deer hunter's choice season in game management unit 54 from Nov. 24, thru Dec. 16.

In addition to these post seasons, there are extended seasons that continue thru Dec. 31. These seasons are three - deer hunter's choice, and are in game management units, 31, 32, 41, 42, 1 and 60.

So if you are still carrying an unfilled deer license in your pocket, you've got plenty of time and areas to hunt in order to fill out. Dig out your old blunderbuss and go hunting; the best of the season is just now upon us.

In addition to the regular daily bag and possession limits on all ducks, two scaup ducks daily and four in possession are being allowed this season in the Atlantic, Mississippi and Central Flyways, according to a recent announcement made by the Fish & Wildlife Service.

Scaup population levels are comparatively heavy because they nest primarily outside of the areas affected by droughts in the Canadian prairies.

This bonus is welcome news to waterfowlers since it will provide many additional hours of hunting pleasure. However, it also puts the burden of identification on the hunter. He must be able to identify the scaup positively before he shoots to be sure he does not end up with another species by mistake.

According to the Remington News Bureau, there are two main types of scaup: the Greater and the Lesser. The Greater Scaup is black with a white saddle. It is the only duck with a broad white wing stripe extending almost to the wing tip. About 18 inches long, they have bluish bills.

The male has a black head, glossed with green. His back is gray and his sides are white. His primary feathers, breast and tail are black. The female is dark brown with a sharply defined white patch around her bill.

The Lesser Scaup is somewhat smaller than its cousin. It has a thinner neck, shorter wing stripe, and does not appear as bulky. The male has a purple gloss on his head (which may vary according to the angle of light). The head of the male Lesser Scaup is more angular than the greater.

Both types are found in lakes, ponds, rivers, bays and often in the ocean. They collect in large rafts on bays in cold weather.

The Greater Scaup seem to prefer larger bodies of fresh and salt water than the Lesser Scaup. Both types can be identified by their voices which sound just like thier names - a discordant scaup, scaup.

Diving ducks, they feed on aquatic vegetation, crustacea, shellfish and the like.

While they are distinctive in appearance, some hunters may confuse either the Greater or Lesser Scaup with the Ringneck duck.

The main differences, however, are that the ringneck has a gray patch on the upper wing surface, no white stripes, and a light band or bands across the bill. The female Ringneck does not have the scaup's sharply defined white patch around her bill.

The Greater Scaup is found on both coasts, along the Gulf of Mexico and in parts of the Central Flyway. The Lesser Scaup is found from Southern New England South, in the southern parts of the Mississippi and Central ways, along the length of the Pacific Flyway and down into Mexico.

Both ducks are known by a variety of colloquial names in various parts of the country. Among those used for the Lesser Scaup are: Little Bluebill, Bluebill, Blackhead, Blackjack, Blackneck, Bluebill Shoveler, Booby Duck, Broadbill, Bullhead, Bullneck, Cottontail Bluebill, Creek Blackhead, Creek Broadbill, Dosgris (Grayback), Fall Duck, Fresh Water Broadbill, Goshen Broadbill, Greenhead Broadbill, Howden, Lake Duck, Little Bay Bluebill, Little Blackhead, Little Broadbill, Little Creek Broadbill, Little Duck, Little Grayback, Marsh Bluebill, Mud Bluebill, Polridge, Pond Broadbill, Raft Duck, River Bluebill, River Shuffler, River Broadbill, Shuffler, Summer Duck, Swamp Blubill.

For the Greater Scaup, colloquial names include: Big Bluebill, Bluebill, Bay Blackhead, Bay Broadbill, Bay Shuffler, Big Bay Broadbill, Big Fall Duck, Blackhead, Black - headed Broadbill, Black - headed Duck, Black - headed Raft Duck, Blackjack, Blackneck, Bluebill Widgeon, Broadbill, Broadbill Bluebill, Bullhead, Bullneck, Canvas Back Bluebill, Deep Water Broadbill, Dosgris, Dosgris de Mer (Sea Grayback), Fall Duck, Flock Duck, Grayback, Lake Bluebill, Laker, Mussel - Duc, Raft Duck, Salt Water Broadbull, Sea Dosgris (Sea Grayback), Sea Duck, Shuffler, Troop Duck, Troop Fowl, Winter Broadbill.

Break out the treble hooks and weight 'em heavy with lead for the kokanee salmon are starting their annual spawining runs. Colorado Game and Fish Department spawning crews report that the kokanee in Grandby and Shadow Mountain reservoirs have begun their fall spawn and are beginning to school up along the shores of the lakes.

Estimates are that the peak of the spawning season will hit sometime between Nov. 26 and Dec. 1.

Anytime, however, between now and the end of December a snagger should be able to hook a bucketfull of salmon to divide between his frying pan and smoke oven.

Fisherman are allowed to take kokanee salmon by archery or snagging thru Dec. 1.

This species has a four-year life cycle, so at the end of their four years the salmon spawn and die.

Rather than let the doomed fish go to waste, fishermen wait breathlessly for the spawning to begin just to harvest this resource by the bushel.

The spawning and impending dentination of these fish in no way affects the taste, however.

Many feel that kokanee, fried or smoked, is more of a delicacy than trout. Now is the time to try it if you are curious.

Palmer Nominated For Driving Award

Ronald E. Palmer, 3307 Alabama St. has won a commendation for safe driving. He will compete for the November Highway Safety Award to be presented by The Denver Post and U. S. National Bank.

After being seen operating his car "in an exceptionally careful, defensive manner," Palmer was issued a "congratulation" card by Colorado State Patrolman Johnny L. Callahan.

The patrolman also recommended that Palmer be considered for the current month's Highway Safety Award and a $100 savings bond prize which will go to a motorist singled out for state-wide recognitioa by a judging committee.

Housing Order Is Aimed at Building Group

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Federal Housing Administration (FHA) has decided not to set any minimum number of houses which would make a home builder subject to President Kennedy's order prohibiting discrimination in federally assisted housing.

Consequently, FHA Commissioner Neal J. Hardy could seek to prevent discrimination by a builder offering buyers FHA-insured loans even if he put up only a handful of houses.

Administration officials have said that the order is aimed primarily at "merchant" builders—those who put up large blocs of houses and apartment buildings. It is expected that the greatest part of efforts to enforce the order will concern such builders.

But by not prescribing any minimum number of houses, Hardy has made it possible for FHA to attempt to block discrimination even by relatively small builders.

Hardy was scheduled to announce detailed regulations on implementing the anti-bias order today. The Veterans Administration, which guarantees home loans to former servicemen, is expected to publish a similar set of rules.

Within a few days the Urban Renewal Administration, which administers the slum clearance subsidy program, and the Public Housing Administration, which doles out subsidies for low-rent projects, are expected to publish their regulations under the executive order.

The Federal Housing Administration, which insures mortgages on nearly one-fifth of all new homes, is likely to carry the burden of enforcing the executive order. So far, it has received no complaints of discrimination.

JFK to Discuss Economic Issues With Latins

By MERIMAN SMITH

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy will meet with the five Central American presidents in Costa Rica early next year to discuss economic matters and the threat of Communism in the hemisphere.

This was confirmed here by the White House after it was disclosed by Dr. Ramon Villeda Morales, president of Honduras, who conferred with Kennedy during the morning.

White House Press Secretary Pierre Salinger said the meeting probably will be held in February or March. The site will be San Jose, the Costa Rican capital.

In greeting Villeda, Kennedy pledged that the United States will continue to fight "internal and external enemies" in Latin America. In turn, Villeda praised the president for his "vigorous action and strong leadership during the recent Cuban crisis."

Kennedy was invited to attend the Costa Rica session in a letter from the president of Guatemala, writing on behalf of himself and the other Central American chief executives.

The White House announced Friday that another Latin American president, Jorge Allesandri Rodriguez of Chile, will visit Washington during the second week of December. Kennedy invited him.

Additionally, Kennedy is to meet next week with former Presidents Juscelino Kubitschek of Brazil and Alberto Lleras Camargo of Colombia to discuss ways of stimulating the Alliance for Progress program of aid to Latin America.

While the White House gave no specifics on the Central American meeting, the Alliance for Progress and other economic matters are certain to have a top spot on the agenda. One subject will be the relationship between that program and the new Common Market agreement among the Central American republics.

The Cetnral American governments also are most concerned about Communism, both because of their nearness to Fidel Castro's Cuba and because their sagging economies make them ripe for internal subversive efforts.

WANTS NEW VICARAGE

QUARNFORD, England (UPI) —The Rev. Thomas Watson, 64, Anglican vicar here, said Friday he would rather retire than spend another winter in his 200-year-old vicarage which is so vulnerable to weather that snow drifts pile up under his living room television set.

Improved U.S. Prestige Noted in Latin America

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP)—The Soviet backdown in the Cuban crisis seems to be paying dividends for the United States throughout Latin America today in the form of greatly enhanced prestige.

A survey of hemisphere opinion a month after Premier Khrushchev agreed to withdraw offensive weapons from Cuba indicates that there is some grumbling among friends of the United States who wanted even stronger measures to bring down the Fidel Castro regime.

But, on balance, the United States seems to have gained considerable stature in Latin American eyes. Communism-Castroism appears to have sustained a blow. Even where anti-Yankeeism had been widespread respect through its demonstration of strength in the Caribbean showdown.

Governments that carefully held neutral courses in the hemisphere cold war over Castroism supported the Kennedy administration's strong stand. Their resistance to extremism from the left seemed stiffened. This appeared to be true of Brazil, Chile, Mexico and other governments that had espoused the so-called soft approach to Castro. However, there are signs in Mexico, at least, of a gradual shift back to the neutralist attitude.

Here is how U. S. prestige appears to be faring in Latin America:

Mexico: The government strongly endorsed the U.S. stand at the outset of the crisis. However, Foreign Minister Manuel Tello now indicates a return to the nonintervention position, even though he continues to agree that communism is incompatible with the inter-American system. The conservative paper Excelsior, friendly to the United States, asked in a recent editorial whether triumph is "being turned into defeat" through failure to follow up the advantage in the Soviet backdown. Mexico's man in the street reaction seems generally to be that Castro has survived U.S. anger and may become more arrogant, and that at any rate, the Latin-American situation regarding the Castroist danger remains unchanged.

Central America: Fairly typical of Central America reaction has been that of Panama, where the Kennedy administration's prestige remains at a high point. The prevalent feeling is that the U.S.S.R. was caught trying to use missiles to export revolution and thus is discredited in the eyes of Latin-America's public.

Chile: Castro's popularity and Soviet prestige have been hurt. There is a widespread feeling among Chileans that the crisis showed Castro in the light of a Soviet puppet. Many saw Soviet First Deputy Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan, Moscow's emissary to Havana, in the role of proconsul. The man in the street generally seems to have gained much more respect for the United States. Even extreme leftists in Chile seem now to be turning their attention more and more to domestic affairs.

Networks Differ About Cigarette Advertising

NEW YORK (AP)—The National Broadcasting Co. and American Broadcasting Co. differ with the president of the National Association of Broadcasters over his suggestion that cigarette commercials be revised to avoid any encouragement of smoking by youngsters.

The association president, former Gov. LeRoy Collins of Florida, contended in a recent speech that medical evidence suggested a health hazard in cigarette smoking.

Collins expressed a personal opinion that broadcasters should take the initiative in adopting corrective measures concerning commercials aimed at youngsters.

He said such reform could come through amendment of the trade group's Code of Good Practices.

The National Broadcasting Co. said in a statement: "Gov. Collins was not speaking for the National Broadcasting Co. in his recent observations on tobacco advertising and NBC does not share the views he stated on the subject."

The American Broadcasting Co. issued this statement: "ABC does not concur with Gov. Collins' view."

The Columbia Broadcasting System said: "This is a code matter and the established code organization is the proper forum for a discussion of it."

Navy League to Hear Air Group Commander

Capt. Paul F. Stevens, commander of Carrier Air Group 12, will address a Navy League luncheon at 12 noon Monday at the Swiss Chalet.

Capt. Stevens will speak on the subject of the Navy attack carrier in the Pacific Fleet, and the production line system that exists to provide replacement pilots direct to squadrons aboard carriers.

Among combat feats that won Capt. Stevens the Navy Cross, two Silver Stars, two Distinguished Flying Crosses and several lesser awards was the shooting down of Adm. Yamagata, commander in chief of the 6th Southern Fleet, Imperial Japanese Navy, and the destruction of the heavy Japanese cruiser Ashigara.

Diplomats Watch New Man in Red Kremlin Race

By NICHOLAS DANILOFF

MOSCOW (UPI) — Alexander Nikolayevich Shelepin, youthful and a proven organizer, has been singled out by Western observers as the Kremlin's "man to watch" following recent changes in Soviet leadership.

They pointed to his remarkable record of climb in the last four years, during which he rose from head of the Young Communist League (Komsomol) to head of the secret police, (KGB) to Central Committee secretary to head of the newly-created Party-State Control Committee.

In addition, Shelepin—described by some Western newspapers as an "organization man, Soviet type"—is only 44-years old.

Besides Nikita S. Khrushchev, who heads both the government and the party, Shelepin is the only other Soviet leader who holds down two key party and government posts.

Shelepin retains his position as Central Committee secretary along with his new job. So far there has been no indication he may lose his party function.

As head of the Party-State Control Committee, Shelepin will head a stringent control organ aimed at weeding out dishonesty and malpractices in the economy. Although the exact functions of his committee are unclear, it was considered possible it may have powers of arrest and punishment.

These are not likely to be unfamiliar to Shelepin, who signed the indictment of downed U2 pilot Francis Gary Powers. At that time Shelepin was head of the secret police.

Shelepin appears well-suited for his new job, not only because of his police experience, but because of his organizational achievements in the Komsomol from 1952 to 1958.

During those years he organized vast drafts of youngsters—Komsomol members—to go out to Siberia for the purpose of making fertile long-fallow lands. In 1954, he managed to ship out 350,000 youths.

Two years later Shelepin followed this up with a draft of 300,000 persons in support of Khrushchev's "virgin land" scheme. The plan aimed at putting under the plow vast expanses of land in Kazakhstan.

Nothing is known publicly of Shelepin's present family status.

However, his background is not proletarian. He was born the son of an office clerk in Voronezh, in central Russia, in 1918.

He was educated in Moscow at the Institute of History, Philosophy and Literature, where he was graduated in 1939.

Shelepin served in the Soviet-Finnish war of 1939-1940 and joined the Communist party in 1940.

He worked as an instructor in the Moscow city Komsomol, then became secretary of the Moscow Committee, and chairman of the propaganda and education department.

From 1943 to 1952, he served as one of the secretaries of the national Komsomol organization and became first secretary (or chief) of the organization in 1952.

State House Seen as Step To President

A gubernatorial seat can become a stepping stone to the White House — but only if a potential candidate broadens his horizons beyond the borders of his state.

This is the conclusion drawn by Prof. Glenn Brooks, Colorado College political science instructor, in an article in the current issue of Johns Hopkins Magazine.

Brooks discounts the theory that a governor's position is a "political tombstone."

He warns, however, "the political future of the governors will be nil unless they readjust their partisan weaponry to meet the new challenge of television politics and the growing importance of international events."

The political scientist noted that the outcome of the 1960 national elections seemed to confirm that governors were in political trouble.

"For the second time in history an incumbent senator was elected president," Brooks writes.

"For the first time since 1908, no governor ran as a candidate for President or vice president on a major party ticket. With the single exception of Nelson Rockefeller, no governor of either party received serious consideration for the 1960 nominations.

"The columnists rushed to their typewriters to confirm a new and fundamental fact of presidential politics."

"On closer examination, however, the revolution is not nearly as thorogoing as some might hasten to conclude," according to Brooks. "Nor is the threat to governors as fatal as it seemed in the turbulence of 1960."

However, Brooks writes, the issue is still far from being settled. There are three basic elements involved:

—"First, the old, loosely federated political system is under heavy pressure of centralization with a consequent rise in the political status of senators and other national figures.

—"Second, the states and their leaders, the governors, are still highly potent in the arena of national politics.

—"Third, the federal style of politics is likely to persist, in modified form, for some time to come. How long and in what form it will persist depends heavily on the ability of the governors to adapt to new conditions in the political environment."

"Before we lay the governors to rest — and along with them the federal pattern of American politics — we should recognize signs that the governors have adpated to their hostile environment rather well," Brooks says.

"Rockefeller, for example, is in a considerably stronger position as governor of New York than he would have been as senator from the same state.

"Even if all of the national arguments point to senators as logical presidential choices, the politicians and to some extent the public still think that the governors are strong contenders. Until people have stopped thinking this way — and there is little indication in 1962 that they have — the governors remain in a challenging position.

"Nor will a governor's lack of congressional experience necessarily disqualify him from presidential consideration," Brooks writes.

"Pundits assumed that a senator's familiarily with the complexities of Capitol Hill would be a decisive advantage in public policy leadership. Yet the Kennedy legislative programs have hit rougher sledding in Congress than the programs of any president in recent years, and all of his congressional know - how has proved to be of only modest assistance.

"From here on, at any rate, influential politicians are not likely to be swayed by the contention that senators will naturally be effective in their relations with Congress," he continued. "It may be that the Congress will become doubly wary when a senator goes to the White House, and will be determined not to be bullied by one of its own kind.

"In any event, governors can win presidential nominations in the future, altho they will not succeed for the same old reasons," he said. "They will, of course, offer administrative experience as an asset, but the modern president is first a policy - maker and secondarily an administrator.

"If governors in the past were chosen because they were politically uncommitted on vital issues, the modern governor is much more likely to make his position known on national problems while he is still in the statehouse. The national policy stands of Nelson Rockefeller were more explicit than Richard Nixon's.

"Modern presidential nominees require a long build - up in advance, and the governor who wants the nomination will not be able, as he was in the past, to sit on the sidelines until the last minute before the convention," the college professor said.

Brooks, who earned his Ph. D. degree at Johns Hopkins University, taught there and at the University of Texas before joining the faculty of Colorado College in 1960.

He is the author of one book, "When Governors Convene," and staff author of "The Campus and the State."

Apartment Buildings Mark Upward Growth of City

By W. G. HUTCHINSON

Colorado Springs is growing up as well as out, and the trend is evident in its new apartment houses.

Until a couple of years ago, apartment houses here were two or three-story structures, but since that time one highrise luxury apartment building has been completed, another will soon be ready for occupany and a third is well under way.

The first of the multi - story structures was the Medalion at Bijou Street and Union Boulevard, a $1.3 million, 10 - story luxury apartment house with 88 units, each with a balcony. Its top floor has offices and its ground floor a restaurant and bar.

Designed by Walter H. Weber, the Medalion has apartments with two bedrooms and two baths, two bedrooms and one bath and one bedroom with one bath. Its 10 stories have a total height of 121 feet.

Built by the L. F. Davis Construction Co., the Medalion is now owned by John Gillies of Denver. It was opened for occupancy late last year.

Second of the high - risers is the BTC Apartments at 417 E. Kiowa St., which is scheduled for occupancy Dec. 15. This building is 12 stories high and has 120 apartments — 50 buffets, 60 with one bedroom each and 10 with two bedroom each. All but 12 of the apartments had been rented last week and all of those left have one bedroom each.

While the building is 12 stories high, only 10 of the floors have apartments. The first floor will have a lounge, recreation room and kitchen, and the 12th floor will have a solarium, with a fireplace; reading rooms, a kitchen and a patio.

Says Jerry Essendrop, rental manager for the developing firm of Shaeffer and Associates of Denver: "This will represent a new way of life for senior citizens. They'll have a program director and can engage in such group activities as picture shows and potluck suppers if they wish."

BTC is being constructed by Colorado Springs Building and Construction Trades Housing Inc. Three model units were opened in October.

And how high is BTC Apartments? The 12 stories push 144 feet skyward. The building is 150 feet long and 55 feet wide.

With the first tenants scheduled to move in between the middle of January and the first of February, Saturn Towers at 900 Saturn Dr. in Skyway Park will be eight stories, plus a penthouse, in height. Begun last July, Saturn Towers will be 134 feet long and 83 feet wide, and will have a height of 98 feet. Its cost is $1.4 million.

Saturn Towers is being constructed by Crestmar and Co., Denver designers and builders headed by Mark Ramsey. It will have 46 one-bedroom apartments, 32 two-bedroom, two penthouse apartments and a buffet.

Like the Medalion and BTC Apartments, each of the Saturn Towers apartments will have its own balcony. The building will have more than 96,000 square feet in it.

Altho its not as high as the Medalion, BTC and Saturn Towers, the Prospector at 610-710 S. Union Blvd. is Colorado Springs' newest apartment project.

The Prospector has two four-story buildings, and held its grand opening last Sunday. Each of the two buildings has 31 apartment units. Each building, frame with cream-colored brick veneer outside, has 16 two-bedroom and 15 one-bedroom apartments.

Each building has an elevator, and apartments above the garden level are air-conditioned. Each unit has its own service door and a large storage area within the apartment.

The Prospector buildings have radiant hot-water heat, each unit having its own thermostatic control. Bathrooms have ceramic tile floors and walls and window sills in the apartments have terraza tile.

There's off-street parking, with spaces reserved for individual tenants in addition to parking spaces for visitors.

Still to be constructed are outside recreation areas with swimming pool, barbecue ovens and picnic tables. The swimming pool will be plastic coated and can be used for ice-skating during cold weather.

Each building cost $350,000 With outside improvements, including the recreation areas, the project represents a $725,000 investment.

The Prospector was constructed by the Prospect Construction Co., with Clyde Robertson general manager of the project, which was started in April. Mr. and Mrs. Ron Bates are resident managers.

750 Properties Owing $85,600 Up for Tax Sale

About 750 parcels of real estate amounting to $85,600 in delinquent taxes will be offered by the county treasurer at a public sale beginning at 10 a.m. Wednesday in the auditorium of the County Office Building.

Mrs. Ruth Ellingson, county treasurer, said anyone who contracts to pay the 1961 tax on a parcel will earn interest on the amount paid at the rate of 18 per cent per annum.

The earnings are at the rate of 1½ per cent per month for the first six months and one per cent each month thereafter for the next 30 months.

The certificate holder must pay taxes on the parcel for four years, 1961 thru 1964. Three years from the date of the sale, the holder may apply for the deed to the parcel.

The deed holder of the parcel may redeem the certificate at any time during the three year period but in addition to paying delinquent taxes, must also pay the interest rate earned by the certificate holder.

Young GOP's To Select New Officers

The El Paso County Young Republican Club will choose a new chairman and treasurer at a meeting at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in the Green Room of the Antlers Hotel.

Robert Russel is present chairman. A social period will follow the business session.

Adjustment Board To Hear Request For Nursing Home

The Colorado Springs Board of Adjustment will consider 13 items, including a request for a 50 - bed nursing home, at its regular monthly meeting at 7 p.m. Thursday at City Hall.

The nursing home request was made by Mrs. Olga M. Pratt, who plans to construct the home at 924 W. Kiowa St. The City Planning Commission last week recommended approval of the project.

Adjustment Board approval is needed since the front yard would be reduced to 23 feet at two points.

Other items to be considered include the following requests:

Interpretation as to whether the body shop at 830 S. Sahwatch St. is a proper principal use.

First Pilgrim Holiness Church to build a church at 502 N. Walnut St. with a 5-foot side yard on the north side and 15 feet on the south side instead of the same alignment as other houses on that side of the block.

Wilber L. Meier for variance to build an addition on the front of the dwelling at 2609 N. Chestnut St., which would project into the required front yard.

Investor's Construction Co. to build a single - family residence of brick veneer 40.5 feet wide and 26 feet deep at 2205 N. Royer St.

J. H. Gahart for variance to build a dwelling at 2003 N. Corona St., which would have a 20-foot setback from Corona Street instead of the required 25 feet, to have a front porch that would be 40 square feet instead of the required 20 square feet and to have a 23 - foot rear yard instead of the required 25-foot setback.

May Tucker to convert a frame garage on the rear of the lot at 1418 N. Tejon St. into an apartment which is short lot area, side yard and rear yard area.

Floyd B. Hall to place a garage within 55 feet of the north property line of Uintah Street instead of the required 68 feet, at 1206 N. Cascade Ave.

Pikes Peak Greenhouses Inc. to construct a lean - to type shelter over existing fans at 519 E. Columbia St. and 520 E. San Miguel St.

Elbert Forehand for permission to enclose existing front porch which projects out 2 feet in front of adjoining houses at 2875 Merry Lane.

Larchmont Homes for variance to have a 24.4-foot front yard instead of the required 25 feet at 2807 Gomer Ave.

George Theodore to build a garage on a strip of ground which would make the south line of the east 45 feet next to a frame building at 419 N. Cedar St.

$7,635,000 Paid In Grants During Year to County

El Paso County received an estimated $7,635,000 in grants under various aid programs in the fiscal year 1961 while approximately $5,742,000 of the total amount of taxes collected locally went to Washington as the county's contribution to the aid program, according to a treasury Department report and a study made by the Tax Foundation.

Distribution of grants was not made on a dollar - for - dollar basis. Some localities got back more than they contributed and others received less.

Payments to Washington from Colorado as a whole totaled $71,200,000, and the state and local governments received $94,400,000, according to the reports.

More than 60 categories are covered by the grants - in - aid programs, including hospital construction, health and welfare, urban renewal, education, highway building, sewage disposal systems and the like.

The Tax Foundation noted that about $4 out of every $5 the federal government handed out to the states in aid during the year went back to the same states from which it had come in taxes. The remaining 20 per cent was sent to other areas.

In 14 states, the money value of grants was less than the amount they had contributed. The other 36 states broke even or got back more than their payments.

BLACKOUT AFTER COUGHIN
By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dell

A man lost control of his ca and killed a pedestrian. All he remembered prior to the acciden was a violent coughing spel Tests showed he had not bee drinking and that he was mental alert and well coordinated.

This man had cough syncop (fainting) and physicians testifie in his behalf when the case cam to trial. The condition is not common but numerous reports on th disorder have appeared in medical journals. Serious accident have occurred on several occasions and it is obvious that victims of this disease should no drive.

Coughing sets up a reflex tha slows the pulse or lowers th blood pressure. As a result th blood supply to the brain is curtailed and the individual black out or faints. This is all it take to relax the hold on the steerin wheel and to veer off the road.

We do not know why some people faint more readily than others. In all probability they inherit a nervous system that i overly sensitive to certain bod reflexes. Many individuals fain when they see blood, smell obnoxious odors, or with ordinar pain such as that associated wit a hypodermic injection. Other faint when the reflex is set int motion by pressure on sensitive nerve centers in the neck or whe persons with certain types o heart disease try to exert themselves. Passing out often is preceded by weakness, giddines blurring of vision, pallor, and sweating.

Last week we told of narcolepsy, a strange malady in whi the individual loses consciousnes after laughing or becoming emotionally upset. This is more closely related to sleep or coma tha is a faint. Epilepsy also is easil confused with fainting. In the major form (grand mal), jerking movements of the extremities and head occur. The minor type (pe it mal) resembles a blackout an is momentary in duration.

These different conditions are mentioned because the bystander can be helpful in describing the behavior of these individuals to the physician. The victim is unconscious and cannot recall what happened.

Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.

Hair Balls

A. L. writes: I swallowed a human hair yesterday and this has me very upset. Could this be trouble producing?

Reply

The hair should pass without a tickle. Hair balls form in the stomach occasionally when girls or women tug continuously at and chew their own hair. These masses may get so large they must be removed via surgery.

Working Off Anger

A. C. writes: I'm all for your advice to blow off steam to some friend or even foe. But suppose, as in my case, there is absolutely no one? What would you suggest as a safety valve?

Reply

Get a workshop with a hammer and saw — and hammer and saw.

Cells Not Murderers

A. D. writes: In leukemia, do the white cells eat the red cells?

Reply

No. Blood cells are not canibalistic, and in leukemia there is a marked increase in the production of white blood cells.

Arresting Arthritis

M. K. D. writes: Can arthritis be arrested so as not to get to a more serious stage?

Reply

Yes, and the corticosteroids such as cortisone are most useful for this purpose.

Beatification of Pope May Be Proposed

ROME (AP) — Chilean bishops here for the Roman Catholic Ecumenical Council plan to propose to Pope John XXIII the beatification of Pope Piux IX, a Chilean prelate said Saturday.

Bishop Manuel Larrain Erazuria of Talca, Chile said a petition on the matter will be submitted next week.

Piux IX (Giovanni Mastai Ferretti), when still a young priest, went to Chile in 1825 as a member of a papal mission to establish diplomatic relations between the Vatican and the newly founded republic of Chile.

THAT RIDGE OF WALDO CANON

Whatever tends to make the world happier: Whatever ministers to the esthetic longings of the human soul: whatever leads the thoughts of men and women for the moment from the sordid pursuit of gain or from the race for personal aggrandizment to beauty in any form: whatever entices tired and careworn people for a short time from shop, office, store or schoolroom and brings them into closer contact with the beauty, grace and charm of things out-of-doors is of direct material value to the human race, even tho the value may not be measurable in yards, acres, tons, bushels or dollars. There is much in life that we value more than money or possessions The ability to appreciate all that is beautiful in this world is worth more than riches and power. We find pleasure and joy on just a short walk in the mountains, in the park, a row on the lake, a fishing trip or a dozen ways in the out-of-doors, yet people will spend millions of dollars seeking pleasure and happiness and not find it.

There is nothing so grand in all this world as a beautiful Colorado day in the mountains or any where as far as that concerns but somehow everything in the mountains stands out lovelier, clearer and more inviting on a beautiful day. Most of us are acquainted with Waldo canon which is reached by following Ute Pass about one mile and a quarter from Manitou Springs. Mountain Club Members usually follow the trail up Waldo which is a lovely walk with a wide variety of scenery but this occasion, we went on the ridge between Ute Pass and the canon.

At first the ridge is covered with scrubbery trees and a lot of cactus and Yucca plants. The soil is sandy and rocky but the outlook is wonderful. As we progressed on the ridge, the vegetation became different, with pinon pines and Juniper, Cameron's Cone shows up in a spectacular way and all the time the canon and the pass are getting deeper. The cars look smaller and the road looks very narrow. We begin to see the trail below winding out of Waldo Canon to Williams and over to the west we see the Ute Pass trail stretching over the foot-hills. Yes, there is just a tip of Pikes Peak showing. The trees are getting more numerous, in fact almost park-like with many large boulders adding to this picturesque setting. Pikes Peak is now showing up to a splendid advantage and we stopped to take in its amazing grandeur. It seemed to be a great white bird with spreading wings. Mt. Almagre shows up now, snowcapped and what a picture these peaks made, Pikes, Almagre and Camerons'.

We have now reached the higher level of the ridge which is more park-like with great boulders. Trees are dense and soon we come out to a grassy slope which was very inviting and at the top there was a heavy growth of many evergreens. This tapered off into a pretty ravine which was cool and inviting. Here the view in all directions reaches the grand climax. We are now getting higher and the peak looks close at hand and one can see the W on the auto highway as well as other sections of the highway. The pass road looks like a black ribbon, leading far in the distance and cars look like tiny toys running over it.

We see Cascade nestled below and over there Hurricane canon leading out into a grassy meadow. What a day to be alive to enjoy it all. We retraced our steps to our trail and came to a thickly wooded section with many huge boulders. one of which was outstanding which looked like a large cake that had been cut into. Appetites were getting keen and a lunching spot was soon sought and there on a sunny slope against large boulders we indulged in our repast without formalities. There is something about eating out in the open that appeals to all of us.

After a rest in the sunshine, we continued our trip thru deep forests and more picturesque country. Here we see many little animals of the forest and deer scrampering over the rocks. The large gray squirrel attracted our attention along with the many chickadees and juncos. The stellars jays scolding from the treetops. At last the end of the trail and back home. May we ask was it worth while and could money buy this experience?

Vast Tourist Boost Seen Thruout West

DENVER (UPI)—Nearly 13 million persons visited national parks and monuments in the eight mountain states this year, including a total in Wyoming roughly 10 times the state's population, it was reported here.

The Colorado State Advertising and Publicity Committee said the 1962 total in Arizona, Colorado, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, New Mexico, Utah and Wyoming was up more than 1.5 million from 1961.

Wyoming, whose population is about 370,000, entertained 3.7 million park and monument visitors, more than any other mountain state.

The Arizona total was 2.9 million and the Colorado total 2.6 million. New Mexico and Montana had around a million each.

Russian Shift Toward Center

The story of Russia in recent years, is a story of economic reverses and sudden changes in political policy in an effort to offset the economic reverses.

The first, and by far the most earth-shaking economic jolt Russia ever experienced was instituted in the closing days of 1917 following the "October Revolution" when Lenin introduced his ideas of complete Marxism managed from the top down in total bureaucratic style. Altho the Russian economy prior to 1917 was nothing to get excited about, this forceful introduction of economic cannibalism sent the Russian standards of living reeling.

So serious was the result of the move that the second major shift in Russian economic manipulation was not long in coming. It occurred in the early part of 1920 and is known as the "New Economic Policy." It amounted to an about-face in certain segments of the economy as Lenin drew back where conditions were the worst and permitted free enterprise to take over to save the day. This "New Economic Policy" with certain men (called NEP-men) in positions of privilege, began to resurrect the situation. It continued to 1928.

By this time, Stalin had come to power. He decided to make the second attempt, as Lenin had made the first attempt, to invoke total economic management and control from the top in true Marxist style. His program was called the first "five year plan."

It was a dismal failure with results which paralleled the catastrophe which followed hard on the heels of the 1917 experiment. Before the five years had ended, Stalin had been compelled to reverse himself and altho he called his revision a second "five year plan" in essence it was a return to the "New Economic Policy" of Lenin in 1920. From that day forward until 1962, Russia has moved gradually and painfully away from full government control of the economy.

Years to be remembered in Russian ebb and flow of economic experiment are: 1917, 1920, 1928, 1932, 1962.

We mention 1962 because Nikita Khrushchev has now sought to join the ranks of the immortal Lenin. For the first time since 1932, when a gradual drift toward private enterprise was last permitted, that drift has been halted. Khrushchev wants to introduce more central planning, yet at the same time hopes to learn from the American capitalists and then introduce capitalist methods in Russia which he will, of course, refer to as new socialist successes.

Essentially, the problems Mr. K. is facing are chronic and stem from central planning of the economic system as well as a failure to have the basic means of production and distribution in the hands of private owners and managers. However halting and devious the methods of private producers may be, they have always been head and shoulder above anything government can cook up on its centralized burners.

To get an idea of the monstrous problems faced by Mr. K. in his collectivized paradise, one has only to look at what he, himself, said about it.

On November 19, the baby-faced Soviet prime minister reported that farm production is lagging, quotas are not being met, planning is haphazard and frequently at cross purpose with other planning, plant operations are inefficient, labor productivity is low, graft and corruption have in the first six months of this year already looted the collective people's treasury of something over $61 billion.

To solve the problem, Khrushchev is calling for more centralization, tighter controls and a shift in emphasis from steel to plastic or metals other than steel.

The dilemma of production, always the bane of the socialists' heaven — (socialists are really interested in distributing, not in producing) — can be solved, they imagine, by better political management. Since production does not come from political management, but in spite of it, this solution is always a false hope.

And, perhaps, Khrushchev is moving closer to the day when he will recognize this fact and call for full-scale free enterprise in Russia once more. Of course he will call it material self-interest in the worker's paradise. But whatever he calls it, if more free enterprise results, all will benefit.

What the evidence shows is that so long as the Russian bureaucracy permits some degree of freedom and ability to own property privately, the economy will limp along. But when it cranks up its old model-T Marxism and tries to put that over, the disaster which follows will bald the pate.

The Dream

There is such a thing as dreaming so mightily of success in the future that no time remains to win it in the present.

The Other Competition

One of the things which has often been noted in Russia since the days of Stalin's second five year plan, is that competition has come back at least to some degree.

While profit-making is frowned upon and the word profit is considered unfit for decent people to use in its proper framework, material self-interest and piece-work payments on the basis of production have been normal in Russia now for at least the last 28 or 29 years.

There can be no question but the return of competition, insofar as workers, students, scientists, managers and others are concerned, has gone a long way toward stimulating production and improving conditions generally. It should be understood that people who work for a monstrous state, such as Russia, may work hard and long if the state offers incentives.

And Russia has offered incentives, wherefore the work has occurred.

But there is an interesting factor about competition which is rarely mentioned whenever we think of the return of incentive payments in the Russian scheme of things. It is a lame, one-sided competition, which the Russian overlords have permitted and now encourage. It is the kind of competition which offers rewards only to the workers. It does not permit the introducing of competing business firms or competing industries.

The government decides what is to be produced and who is to produce it.

Tho, it is true, competition may develop among individual workers and managers, the Russian government will not tolerate the formation of firms and industries which will rival governmental operations and thus offer true competition. In Russia, the planning agencies decide how many firms will manufacture boots and shoes, for example. There is small place in the economy for a boot and shoe factory to come into existence which will challenge the government's supremacy in this or any other field.

It is true, since 1932, that Russia has tolerated the small craftsman and tradesman, operating in a private sector of the economy. And it is well that this approval has been given for the tiny private sector in Russia has turned out to be its most productive sector, particularly in the area of food production, always a major Russian problem.

But to tolerate a single shoemaker who in his crowded quarters makes a pair of boots on occasion and sells them in the market place, is one thing. To permit such a shoe-maker to acquire capital, hire asistants and to go into major production on a large scale, is something else again.

In other words, while it appears that Russia has permitted a return of competition in a true sense, the only competition permitted in fact is the kind special bonuses and payments from government can inspire. True competition — the economic struggle between competing firms which are acting outside of government planning and which are engaged in seeking to obtain as large a piece of the market as possible—simply does not exist in Russia.

The result is that socialist Russia cannot and never will have the proliferation of goods and services we expect and experience in the American economy. However skillfully the economic managers can regulate the flow of goods and funds in the Soviet Union, the customer is always the last man in line and will receive what the government orders to be produced. Quality is bound to be poor for there is no major competitive factor pushing for improved quality. Prices are what the government says they are and not what customers are willing to pay in a free exchange where the failure of one firm to provide what is wanted will send customers scurrying to a rival firm.

This is the real weak-spot of the Russian system. But for Khrushchev to strengthen it, he will have to adopt a great deal more capitalism than he is likely to want to do.

If the Russian government were to abandon its central economic planning system and let the producers produce, they might all be surprised at the result.

But then, we can say the same thing in this nation, where the central economic planners, in Washington and out, have been putting such a crimp in our production and in our purses.

There is no substitute for a completely free market. It will be a day of great accomplishment when the leaders in both the U.S. and Russia know it.

To The Point

Latin American Outlook

By RUSSELL KIRK

A good many United States students — as Mr. Paul Goodman remarks in his recent book "The Community of Scholars" — at first mistook Fidel Castro for the hero of twentieth century emancipation, the young fellow with the beard who kicked out the squares. While it is true that Castro exemplifies the twentieth century revolt against order, the roots of that murderous protest extend back to the eighteenth century and the ruthlessness of Jacobin and Napoleonic times.

Castro is a type that has plagued Latin America since the wars of Independence from Spain. "You can no more make liberty from Spanish matter than you can build a frigate from a bundle of pine saplings," said Randolph of Roanoke, in 1824. According to Bolivar the Liberator, the man who seeks to establish freedom and justice in Latin American might as well till the salt sea with a plough.

Every decade in South and Central America produces its Castros and its Fidelistas: only the ideology alters, and the violence and egoism of the revolutionaries is adapted to the current political substitute for religion, which happens to be communism just now.

Perhaps the quickest way to understand Castro, the Cuban revolutionary, is to read a novel by a Pole writing in English: "Nostromo," by Joseph Conrad, who ran guns to guerrillas before he became a famous man of letters. In this novel about a Latin American republic, with its class struggles and its strutting and ferocious military men, one perceives in Pedrito Montero and in some other characters — the appetites and vanities that bring to power the South American ideologue, and which cause, in time, his downfall.

Pedrito, with his "democratic Caesarism," resembles both Castro and Peron. Quarter-educated, stuffed full of salacious French novels, tipsy with dreams of establishing in Costaguana a regime like that of the French Second Empire (meaning illimitable power and loot for himself), Pedrito leads a band of lancers over the mountains into the city of Sulaco, and there for a brief hour realizes his dreams of glory. "Nostromo" being available in paperback now, I do advise you to make the acquaintance of the cast of wonderfully real Latin-American politicians and soldiers in this story.

Pedrito's ideology took hold upon Costaguana, in Conrad's phrase, because "the fundamental causes were the same as ever, rooted in the political immaturity of the people, in the indolence of the upper classes and the mental darkness of the lower." So has it been with Castro. And ten "Alliances for Progress" could not bring order and justice to Latin America without an internal regeneration that only the Latin Americans themselves can work.

All Architects

By CAPT. TOM L. GIBSON

One time the writer was employed as a draftsman in an engineering and architectural office. They had a line of thought by the chief engineer on the walls that read, "Every engineer here is the architect of his own tin can." It was as effective a proclamation as I ever read and the boys did not loaf much on that job.

There is another way of expressing this. "Into the days that are to be, we weave colors that are all our own, and in the field of destiny we reap what we have sown." This is to be line upon line, precept upon precept. "Isn't it strange that princes and kings and clowns who scamper the sawdust rings and common people like you and me are builders of eternity? Each one is given a book of rules, a shapeless mass, and a kit of tools. Each one must, 'fore life has flown, build either a stumbling block or a stepping stone."

Yes, we are all architects. What will we develop?

Economic Views

A Return to Reality

By LAWRENCE FERTIG

The dramatic march of international events these last few months has served to demolish some myths and misconceptions which have been gnawing at the Western mind. They have made the U.S. response to communist aggression irresolute, weak and appeasing. The result of this return to reality should have a salutary effect not only on our political and military stance but on our economic vigor as well. Confidence in the flourishing of private capitalism is a powerful stimulant to enterprise and investment. It is reflected in the action of securities markets. Our confidence has been given a much-needed hypodermic.

(1) Perhaps the most important misconception shattered this fall relates to the defense of the United States. We have been told that under no conditions must we militarily confront the Soviets, even if our security and vital interests are involved. For fear of thermonuclear war it is our duty to negotiate and retreat. Then came Cuba and the re-awakening. Khrushchev beat a hasty retreat when faced with the fact that the United States was not "too liberal to fight."

Cuba reminded us that John Foster Dulles was eternally right when he asserted that we may be forced to go to the brink in order to protect our freedom. Events have proved that readiness to accept the Soviet challenge is the only way to preserve peace. Many of the misguided, the illogical and soft-headed on communism learned this lesson from Cuba. The counsel of continued retreat and surrender was given a body-blow in the Cuban crisis and the nation hopes that the administration understands this vital fact.

(2) The myth of dramatic Soviet economic growth and the excellence of the communist "command" organization collapsed. There were authoritative reports of food riots in important Soviet cities when prices were raised. In November Mr. Khrushchev told the Communist Central Committee that Russia must "learn from the capitalists to imitate the good and the profitable." Now the communist hierarchy will introduce a plan for industry profits and incentive payments in direct imitation of American capitalism!

Why are they doing this? Because their economic machine is faltering. It cannot produce the abundance of goods and services for a high standard of living. So it tries to imitate capitalism. But this is impossible since there is no free market and public demand does not determine supply. Instead, decisions of what shall be produced and how much are made by the bureaucracy. The communist image is also tarnished by China. Here the people are starving and "the great leap forward" is an acknowledged and tragic failure.

(3) The myth that neutralism is an effective policy for any nation was thoroly demolished when the Chinese hordes attacked the bewildered Mr. Nehru's badly-equipped troops. If Nehru's self-abasement before the communists, his refusal to arm to any extent, his refusal to support the West when basic questions of freedom were involved — if these policies could not protect a country from communist invasion, who could believe in neutralism as a policy of protection in the future? Sympathy for so-called neutralism had been growing in many countries. It had become a disturbing factor among some British Labor Party leaders who tried to edge the government toward this policy. The ruthless Chinese invasion should certainly affect the psychology of many neutralists.

If the coincidence of all these significant events should record the high-water mark of communist victories, the effect upon the United States could be highly important in many ways. Our economic vigor is related to our military security and our international leadership. Confidence in the progress of private capitalism is an essential ingredient for an expanding business world. Decisions which call for investment and expansion are discouraged by timidity in our national defense, and encouraged by confidence in the future. This may not be perceptibly measurable in a complex economy such as ours. But that it is a fact of vital importance cannot be gainsaid.

LIBERTY

If the true spark of religious and civil liberty be kindled, it will burn. Human agency cannot extinguish it. Like the earth's central fire, it may be smothered for a time, but at some time or other, in some place or other, the volcano will break out and flame up to heaven.

Khrushchev Copies Capitalists

By PAUL HARVEY

The Bolsheviks are breathing down our necks. Khrushchev has announced his intention to overtake and take over the United States in an economic race.

He has not overtaken us, but he is gaining on us.

True, he has a long way to go. His agriculture is 50 years behind ours. His industrial production is probably 20 years behind ours.

The only way we can lose the cold war is to backslide. Will we?

Khrushchev told his party's Central Committee Nov. 19 that Russian must forget luxuries for now. He says the way to economic conquest of the world is thru heavy industry.

Food, clothing, that sort of thing, may come later.

He says comfort, convenience, consumer commodities are of secondary importance.

The important thing is industrial production.

And he says the current seven-year plan for Russia is being "over-filled."

Khrushchev decreed "radical reorganization of work patterns."

He says "the old forms are becoming a drag on production."

What he means is that the incentive system, where workers who produce more are paid more, is gradually replacing the Marxist theory that everybody should be rewarded equally.

In effect, the communists are adopting the system which made us the powerhouse of this planet—while we are adopting the "standardized mediocrity" formula which has so spectacularly failed.

Khrushchev predicts the increase in Soviet output of capital goods next year will be 8.5 per cent. Our increase will be less than half that.

Yet despite the life-and-death urgency of this cold war, we continue to demand more dollars for less work.

Listen to these words from Khrushchev's keynote speech to his committee: "We should remember Lenin's injunction to be able, if necessary, to learn from the capitalists, to imitate the good and profitable they have."

He said, "There was a time when the idea was sedulously fostered that everything that is ours is unreservedly ideal and everything foreign is unreservedly bad."

Now, he says, Russia would do well to "encourage managers to make the biggest possible profit." He wants to allow individual factories "more say-so in their own operations." He wants to "sharpen competition."

How about that! Russia decentralizing authority in favor of private profits and independent management, while our government is, instead, seeking to restrain profit, dictate to business, and all the while we are going another $7.8 billions in debt this fiscal year.

Russia is moving toward solvency and strength, we are moving toward insolvency and weakness.

No wonder, in his six-hour report, Khrushchev did not once re-enunciate his published intention to vanquish us in an economic race.

Question Box

Question No. 64: Can a National Guard which can be "federalized" provide protection against improper actions by a federal agency?

Answer: No!

Q. Is it possible for a state to maintain a state militia, separate from the National Guard?

A. We believe that during time of war states have set up militia units as "home guards" after the National Guard has been federalized. We question if the federal government would permit a state to create its own militia otherwise, under the doctrine that the federal government has preempted the field.

Q. Can a state refuse to maintain and support a National Guard?

A. We presume a state could refuse, but we rather suspect the federal government would quickly move in with its troops to be sure its supremacy was not questioned.

The Old Mountaineer

Thoughts by The Wayside

By FRANK McDONOUGH JR.

The interior of Cuba is a beautiful and rugged country. The mountains are high and covered with greenery, which compelled Columbus to pronounce the island as the most beautiful land he ever saw. The valleys are broad and jungle covered, but the jungle merely serves to conceal the lush fertility of the soil. In the midst of summer days the humidity is oppressive, the jungle is silent except for the buzz of a thousand insects, and the people sleep. Into such an atmosphere an American army of friendship fought their way ashore with the sole objective of liberating a people who had for all too many years known only bloodshed and tyrannical slavery. The summer of 1898 was an eventful and fruitful one for the people of Cuba.

Far in the unknown interior lurked a little army of Cuban patriots — the Insurrectos. For years they had been fighting the good fight for their liberty. And then came the butcher, General Weyler, from the motherland of Spain, and his coming was the end of "civilized" warfare. Woe unto the Cuban who fell into his hands. A pound of flesh did not satisfy this modern military Shylock, but he demanded the blood of his victim as well, and the lot of the liberty fighters became a human shambles drenched in the gore of heartless killing. The world stood aghast at the cruelties, the executions and the cold murders.

Our shores were then, as they are now, but ninety miles from the scene of these inhumanities. The sympathies of our American people were thoroly aroused, and as sympathy verged into public anger, the inevitable conflict between liberty and tyranny came closer.

Havana, where the Spanish rulers lived, was then, as now, anti-American in feeling, but the island people looked with yearning in their hearts and longing in their eyes to the strong neighbor and friend who might release them from their chains.

Where were the insurrectos hidden? We were landing upon their shores to help them, and they could help us. Somewhere was General Garcia in command of the ragged band. Somewhere he lurked with readiness to strike. From somewhere his little strength could emerge and help the invading tide. He must be located and told of our whereabouts and our plans so that he might be aware of our intentions and purposes and thus be given courage to arouse his people that they might continue the good fight for freedom. And so a message went forth — a message to Garcia — borne by a lone and secret messenger whose life was always in the balance. The message to Garcia was a message of friendship and it carried a badge of courage to the war-weary band.

As this is written, the first chill of winter has come to replace the world-wide chill and fear of nuclear war. The Cuban situation is in flux and it may return to chill us once again. The warmth of a tropical island and the warm blood of a Latin people are being chilled by the frozen blasts of a false ideology direct from the steppes of Russia. And yet back in the jungles and on the tobacco farms and sugar plantations, and in the fastnesses of the Sierra Maestra and the Sierra Madres there are tens of thousands of Garcias, Gonzales and Cepedas. These people feel the darkness of oppression and despotism coming upon them, and tens of thousands are looking longingly to the North for help and friendship, once more for the hand of help and friendship to be extended to them.

The moment when we could have helped passed at the Bay of Pigs when our ill-advised leader gave an order that turned an otherwise simple operation into the present crisis of a major war. The mailed fist is now being used and no matter what our good intentions may be, such use of armed force could easily be misinterpreted by those who do not know the truth. It is certain that our gifts of millions of dollars have failed to purchase friendship. It may be that our use of armed might may also fail. And yet there may still be another alternative which might be tried.

Is it not time for another message to go forth from our people to the people of Cuba, another MESSAGE TO GARCIA, another message to all the waiting Garcias on a bewildered island? The Russians have been quite successful in their reiteration of just two words — aggressors and imperialists. In our message to Garcia we might well adopt their technique, do away entirely with stuffy state department verbiage, and use just two words which could be easily understood — friendship and freedom.

The message could go forth over the air, thru the press, and by millions of pamphlets. Our message should be short, and always the same. We should say that we have always had true friendship for our neighbors. We might remind them that the blood of our sons lies in the soil at El Caney, San Juan and Santiago where we came as deliverers. Our Declaration of Independence pronounces that all men are created equal, that there shall be liberty and justice for all as opposed to the slave existence under communism. We do not seek to conquer, but to protect; to help rather than hinder; once more to free them from the shackles of a bloody despotism. We wish for a happy Cuban people that they may once more sing their lilting songs instead of the robot chantings of communism. Our message to Garcia, and to all Cubans, should be that we live together in friendship and freedom. They will hear the message, as did General Garcia.

These Days

Prejudice and Perspective

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Alfred J. Broderick of the Bronx writes me:

"Frankly I am disappointed with your approval of Eleanor Roosevelt. She may have done some good things for the Negroes and Jews but she was very anti-Catholic and had a long history of support for Communism. She supported Eisler, later to flee to East Germany. She supported the campaign against the church in Eastern Europe and was certainly no friend of the Catholic School System. As a friend of yours, I am amazed with your long record of anti-communism that you can give this lady such praise. Apparently if a person has money and power, they can do anything and people will excuse them as 'Humanitarian.' But God help some poor Marine or Army man if he ever did the things that Mrs. R. did!"

Political partisanship and personal prejudice have their place in a free society. I have always been opposed to the various organizations that would limit my right to be prejudiced. Each of us may like what we like and dislike what we dislike.

Death, however, removed the value of political partisanship and personal prejudice. The character becomes historic and while orators speak their obituaries, history makes its own judgment. In perspective, that judgment may be very different from what it was when the person was alive, and as the expression goes, kicking.

TIME FACTOR

As the centuries move away, our perspective broadens and many persons and events that loomed large at the moment, become footnotes in history or disappear altogether. The Battle of Philippi, where Brutus was defeated by Octavius and Mark Antony, was very critical in Roman history, because with that defeat Rome ceased to be a republic and gradually drifted into a thousand years of monarchy and decay. But the word Philippi is hardly remembered today except to those who read Shakespeare. In fact, while many speak of the great Roman Empire, they do not set the time and place correctly, for much of it was in Asia or in those parts of Europe which were by population, Asiatic.

I cite this only to show the difference between perspective and prejudice. Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt was unusual among the wives of presidents in that she created and managed her own career and established her own reputation, quite independently of her husband's. Many disagreed with her on particular issues and fought her hard. Nevertheless, she did become a factor in American life.

Broderick admits that she did some good things for Negroes and Jews but he claims that she was anti-Catholic, particularly as regards the Catholic School System. In a word, he feels that whereas Negroes and Jews might think well of her, a Roman Catholic should not. But in the Roman Catholic Church in the United States, there is a wide difference of opinion on the subject of general support for sectarian schools.

My own view is that it is the children that should be assisted and that it does not matter what school they go to. But there are Catholics who fear that government aid presages government control. That, too, has much history behind it.

I have no evidence that Mrs. Roosevelt has ever supported Communism. That is very loose talk. It is true that Mrs. Roosevelt has not always understood this very complicated question. She did not support Eisler, as Broderick said, if by support he means that she gave him money. She did choose her friends freely from all walks of life and she did not understand the nature of Communist imperialism to her dying day. Her comments on the subject were often primitive.

VICTORIES

Nevertheless, taken all-in-all, with the wrongs of commission and omission which are human, Mrs. Roosevelt's contributions to American life in her generation loom large. She fought hard for what she believed to be true and often brought victory to her causes. Of course, there were some defeats.

My friend, Westbrook Pegler, made an issue of Mrs. Roosevelt, and his articles on the subject form an important part of the record. But they were partisan, written by a reporter of great skill. The historian may lack skill, but his objectivity will be greater. As Shakespeare put it: "The good is oft interred with their bones."

But the truth does come out and it has nothing to do with grandparents or parents or husbands or children. It is one soul responsible for itself.

Working With Communism

From Christian Economics

In his new book, The Churches and Rapid Social Change, the Rev. Dr. Paul Abrecht, executive secretary of the Department of Church and Society of the World Council of Churches, makes the following astonishing statement:

"Given the strength of communism in many countries and the weakness or absence of democratic political alternatives, Christianity 'may be confronted with the need to give at least limited support to Communists. In some situations a Communist-backed party or government is the only practical medium of action for Christians who want to express their concern for political order and justice. In the political alignment in many situations, so it is argued, Communism is not the greatest evil, and the Christian has no choice but to work with them or to support reactionary political movements.'"

The phrase, "so it is argued," in the above quotation thinly disguises Dr. Abrecht's appeal for Christian cooperation with communism than "to support reactionary political movements." In other words, communism is less evil than conservatism. As an important official in the World Council of Churches, Dr. Abrecht's views are of more than ordinary interest. It would appear that he prefers communism to capitalism and that if one is desirous of expressing his ". . . concern for political order and justice," communism is a better vehicle than capitalism. If communism ". . . is not the greatest evil" presumably capitalism is. Of course, Dr. Abrecht uses the phrase ". . . reactionary political movements." It would be interesting to know how he defines such movements and why he regards them as worse than communism.

Pikes Peak Region Yesterdays

By DORA FOSTER

An article on "Attics" in the last Reader' Digest has reminded me that this column has not had anything written about our old henhouse.

You have been told or our "shop," our "old pine Tree," and our "flat rock, but as yet nothing about the little frame building standing in our backyard near the flat rock. We wonder how it could have been out of our recordings.

That henhouse was built long before my memory began but brings back to me and my sisters a dozen or more unhappy Saturdays when we were required to "clean it out." I remember that the nests had to be taken from their places against the wall and carried out into the chicken yard, the roosts, made removable for the purpose of cleaning, had to be taken out and treated with coal oil, new hay put into the nests and then a final inspection made by my mother before we could take a long breath and say, "Thank goodness, that's done."

Somewhere in the dim past our ranch had three henhouses, but that was before my sisters and I had any intimate dealings with them.

Two of them had been torn down, leaving this oldest and best established one to remain standing near the flat rock and just at the edge of a clump of scrub oaks. The foundation was made of cobble stones and between the small boulders were a few holes that the polecats used ocasionally to enter if they chose to spend the night in there underneath the board floor. There were windows all along the south side of the little frame building and like all of my father's carpentering had been built well.

The supper dishes were done and the lights out in the long kitchen as we children proposed to have a game of dominoes around the dining room table. We had pulled the hanging lamp down to the proper level over the table and the little wooden box of dominoes had been taken out from the shelf in the corner and we had poured them onto the table all ready for the shuffling and drawing when Mother's voice came out from the sitting room, "Children, did you close the henhouse door?"

It had been sister's week to do that little chore and she had forgotten it. She looked at me and I could see what I was in for: the trip with her to the henhouse in the dark. The dining room had never looked so cozy. The yellow glow from the lamp made the shining oilcloth on the table take on an added glint; the little blue and yellow flames were playing fitfully over the red coals in the open front of the stove and the henhouse was a long ways back. Even the light from the long window could not reach even to the gate of the chicken yard, and the henhouse was several feet farther on in the heavy blackness.

I have forgotten the name of that wonderful attractive little heating stove. The isingglass doors could, after the flame had gone down a bit, be pushed back, leaving the whole front of the stove open like a fireplace. Along with the name on the tiny hearth was the word, "Cincinnati, O." I had spelled it out many times so that I often wished that someone would come along suddenly and ask me to spell Cincinnati. It would show how smart I was. Nobody ever did.

Sister put down her dominoes and started for the kitchen. I knew she'd grabb off the hook next to the outside kitchen door Mother's big black - and - white shawl, leaving me with only Mother's short black jacket. When it was put on over the top of my head, it came only just below my hips, leaving the rest of me to shiver in the cold.

We knew better than to leave the kitchen door open on such a cold night, even tho we did wish we might, making it easier to get in in case we had to run away from whatever might be chasing us. Earlier in the evening we had heard the coyotes howling across the clover field; probably that howling was what caused Mother to think to ask about the chickenhouse door.

Sister remembered after we had unlatched the gate into the chicken yard that she had forgotten, too, to tip over and empty the pan of chicken drinking water that had to be done every night or else there'd be trouble thawing out the ice next morning. She told me to attend to that chore while she went past the flat rock to the big door of the henhouse. The big door was not open, of course, but the little trap door in the big door was the one she had forgotten to close. She told me afterwards that the reason she had not closed it was because that stupid old Plymouth Rock hen had taken so much time drinking and pecking around the yard after the rest of the flock had gone in she had gotten tired of waiting in the cold and had intended to return later to close up.

Closing up meant pulling the wooden peg that Father had made to hold up the little sliding cover of the small hole, a hole just large enough to allow a hen to pass thru. When the peg had been pulled out and the door fallen into place, we had to take that peg out and return it to the hold just above, thus sealing the entrance entirely.

It took sister about two minutes to accomplish that familiar task even in the dark, so with my foot turning over the pan of partially frozen water we hurried out of the chickenyard and made for the house.

But just as we reached the kitchen porch, Sister stopped me, clutched at my dangling coat sleeve and said, "Oh, what if a polecat has already gotten inside while the little trapdoor was open and will eat up all the hens?" We stood there, she with the long warm shawl over her head and I with my danging sleeves letting in a lot of cold, but at once we knew we had to go back to find out.

So back again we went to the door of the henhouse and listened. No sounds came from the little frame building; all was quiet inside. We knew if there were a polecat in there, the hens would speak about it. But as we opened the door and peered into the inky blackness. No sound, but the old rooster gave out a small, "Hrr," telling his flock not to worry, that he was there and all were safe. I never heard an old rooster make such a comforting sound.

We closed the door and raced once more for the bright, warm and delightfully pleasant dining room, where Lucy thoughtfully sorted out three piles of dominoes so as not to lose time in beginning the game, innocently taking for herself a double six.

As for Mother, sitting quietly reading by the sitting room lamp, she had no need to ask anymore about the henhouse as she knew where we had been and why.

MY ANSWER

N.Y. News Syndicate, Inc.

QUESTION: When are thoughts of sex wrong? Isn't it natural for a man to look on a woman sexually when he is looking for a woman to marry? And doesn't this sex desire help to cause them to fall in love? If the thought of sex is wrong, when do these thoughts become legal in God's eyes? I am thinking about the Scripture in Matthew 5:28. —G. W.

ANSWER: That is the Scripture that says: "Ye have heard that it was said by them, Thou shalt not commit adultery. But I say unto you, That whosoever looketh on a woman to lust after her hath committed adultery with her already in his heart." Many people have been taught and some believe that there is something essentially evil about sex. They forget that this is the way God created us. He did not make Adam and Eve as sexless persons, but as man and woman capable of loving each other and of bringing children into the world.

Love is the highest and the finest expression of personality. Every other instinct and emotion is beneath it. At the lowest end of the scale when love has become lust and where the finest part of personality is completely perverted and distorted, it becomes the very ugliest part. God told Adam and Eve to be fruitful and multiply. That meant that they were to know each other in every phase of life including the sexual life. When Jesus warned of looking on a woman to lust after her, He was giving an interpretation of one of the Ten Commandments so that all men everywhere would recognize that they are incapable of fulfilling the complete demands of the law. It is because we are sinners by nature that we become sinners by choice. Depraved as we are, we pervert and distort love until it becomes lust. Then when a man becomes lustful and deliberately intends to gratify his lust outside of the marriage relationship, he violates not only the law of God but the law of his own personality as well. The sex relationship makes a permanent and indelible mark on the personality of those who seek to gratify lust outside of the marriage relationship. Read Romans, chapter one and you will see what the eventual outcome of such a practice is.

QUESTION: I read the Bible and all kinds of religious books but nothing seems to change my heart. I have almost decided that I am not one of the chosen. Is there any hope for me? — J. P.

ANSWER: No one can be healed by reading a medical book, and there is no magic about reading good religious books, unless the truths therein are appropriated. Even in the Bible there is no magic. "The law," says the Bible, is a schoolmaster to lead us to Christ. In Him there is life, forgiveness, and strength.

Yes, there is hope for you, but not if you place your faith in the wrong thing. Jesus said; "Ye have not chosen me, but I have chosen you." You "are" one of the chosen, if you make a choice to respond to the invitation He has extended to you.

You have read good books; you have read the Bible; now, rest your case on Christ. The books, and especially the Bible, point to Him. He is the One of whom Moses and the prophets wrote. He is the same, yesterday and today and forever. He brought hope to the hopeless centuries ago, and He is doing the same today.

Pipe Installations Top Activities Of City Utilities

The monthly report of the Colorado Springs Department of Public Utilities included the following highlights during November:

A 20-inch line was put into service to Colorado Interstate Gas Company's transmission line near Peterson Field, and a 20-inch extension northward was tied into distributions mains near Galley Road.

A new radio transmitter was put into service at the Mesa Filter Plant. The new frequency serves the water and gas divisions. The electric and sewer divisions are served by the already existing station KAG 513. The new station is KCN 901 with Don Holmes as dispatcher.

Installation is reported proceeding on installation of a new water line which will connect the new filtered water tank east of the Northfield Filter Plant to the Air Academy line.

George Teats was low bidder with $14,521 when bids were opened for erection of the No. 4 boiler stack extension at the Martin Drake Power Plant. Douglas Jardine bid $15,600 and George Tackels, $17,600. The extension will route smoke and heat discharges from the adjoining and new addition to the plant.

At last count, there were 28,094 water meters, 38,455 gas meters and 41,836 electric meters. These totals represent an increase so far this year of 1,067 water meters, 1,294 gas meters and 1,696 electric meters.

Leroy Jacobson Named Fire Chief In Stratmoor Hills

Leroy Jacobson was named chief of the Stratmoor Hills Volunteer Fire Department during a meeting of the association last week. He is currently serving as assistant fire chief and will assume his new duties Jan. 1.

Jacobson replaces Kermit Krieger as chief, with Krieger chosen as new assistant chief. Due to business traveling, he had earlier notified the nominating committee he would be unable to fulfill the responsibilities of the department head.

Bob Jackson and Elmer Martin were elected captains; Al Behnke, secretary, and Don Anderson, treasurer.

AFA Secretary Wins Assistance Awards

Outstanding performance as secretary for course chiefs in the department of history earned two awards for an Air Force Academy employe.

Miss Majorie Burton received a certificate for outstanding performance and a $100 check for sustained superior performance from Col. W. H. Ruenheck, head of the history department.

The awards covered the period from May 15, 1961, to May 15, 1962. During that time, Miss Burton was secretary to course chiefs of Far East History, Latin American History, Russian History, Military History, and advanced military history.

Miss Burton is now secretary to Col. Ruenheck, who presented the two awards.

She is a veteran of 20 years Civil Service employment including 12 years overseas in Japan, Guam and Tripoli.

Frontier Refinances Its Long-Term Debt

DENVER (UPI)—Frontier Airlines said here it had re-financed its long-term debt under a new agreement with three regional banks and one in New York.

Frontier said it would receive a line of credit totaling $3.5 million under the new agreement with Colorado National Bank of Denver, Walker Bank & Trust Co. of Salt Lake City, Valley National Bank of Phoenix, Ariz., and the Bank of New York.

The airline said the interest rate would be 5¼ per cent, a quarter of a per cent less than the rate under the prior loan. President Lewis Dymond said the banks also agreed to dispense with the federal government guarantee that applied previously.

"Frontier's success in securing increased debt financing at a lower interest rate and without government guarantees is a recognition of Frontier's improved financial position," Dymond said.

Ill-Kept Truce Produces No Peace, Analyst Says

By J. M. ROBERTS

Associated Press News analyst

The world is falling back into its long-time pattern of ill-kept truces which produce no peace.

After rising to a peak of firmness and a new display of power, the United States has achieved an improved world political position but has permitted the specific situation in Cuba to return to just about what it was.

The immediate net result is that the Soviet Union has been able to make a mistake and, except for some loss of bargaining power, extricate itself without too much trouble for "continued negotiations."

Under pressure from Red China, India and Pakistan have agreed to negotiations in which neither shows any sign of compromising for settlement of the Kashmir dispute. This truce is primarily for the purpose of insuring a British-American defense of the subcontinent.

The Soviet Union, having received little or no encouragement from the neutralists upon whom she depended, has dropped a two-year fight for a "troika" management of the United Nations which gives that body a regularized secretary but has not improved the organization's authority.

The meaning of the Himalayan truce is still not clear. Perhaps it is the same as the one in the Formosa Strait—Red China isn't ready to buck the United States.

At any rate, Peking appeared to be unprepared to exploit its initial victory over India and the United States appeared unprepared to exploit her victory over the Soviet Union in Cuba.

To paraphrase the old schoolboy saying, everybody's scared and everybody else is glad of it.

Nevertheless, the hope that these fears could lead to concrete achievements on the road to cooperation is not borne out either with regard to specific settlements in specific places, or in the negotiations over the broad philosophies of disarmament, nuclear control, or the end to Communist aggression.

Despite all the exciting sideshows, the real world struggle is, in the philosophical field, over Communist expansionism, and in the geopolitical field, over Germany and Asia.

If communism retreats when the going gets too tough the philosophy still undergoes no change, and coexistence merely returns to its old place as a major threat to any who fall asleep.

The non-Communist world has made some very important gains.

They're something special at SAFEWAY

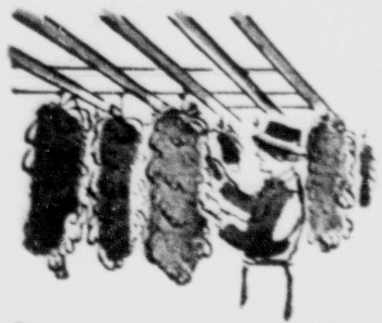
Bananas



When you talk with our banana experts, you know they really enjoy eating the golden fruit. Perhaps that's one reason these men take such extra special care with the bananas we sell at Safeway. They start by selecting the plumpest, most perfect, fully-mature green bananas that come from Bananaland. Gently, they place this fruit into Safeway's own temperature-controlled ripening rooms. There it stays for the exact time necessary to slowly ripen "from inside out" for peak flavor and for the perfect color which says "Now's the time."

With tender care, the delicate, fully-ripened bananas are packed for their smooth ride to our store near your home. Just the amount the store expects to sell right away is included in each delivery. At Safeway, you'll find bananas are always "something special."

Market Gain of 10 Per Cent Said Highest in Many Years

By RICHARD H. HOENIG
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market carved out its biggest monthly advance of many years in November.

As measured by the market averages, the straight-line rise in prices exceeded 10 per cent.

Although statistics on a monthly basis are hard to come by, veteran market technicians were unable to recall any single month that produced a comparable gain.

At the close Friday, prices had been restored to the levels of mid-May, a few weeks before the tumble which turned out to be the worst since the crash of 1929.

The market closed November with five straight weeks on the upside although last week's gain was about the smallest.

The analysts had no trouble in listing the reasons for the spectacular performance even though no one had anticipated it.

Several of the major factors were the disappearance of talk about a recession and emergence of optimistic predictions for the economy, the strong and successful stand of the United States in the Cuba crisis and the reappearance of the general public in the market place.

The statistics fail to tell the entire picture because comparisons are not available. But The Associated Press average of 60 stocks vaulted 22.4 points, from 218 to 240.4. The best previous monthly advance of the year was 10.5 points in July.

The best of 1961 and recent years was almost 14 points in January 1961. In contrast, October's gain this year was just over 3 points.

The Dow Jones industrial average surged through not only the 600 but also the 650 level, closing a hair below the latter at 649.30 after two sessions above it. The November advance was 59.53 points from 589.77. Few market observers had figured either 600 or 650 level would be crossed this year. The October industrial average gain was under 11 points.

Standard and Poor's 500-stock index jumped 5.74 points to 62.26 from 56.52.

Based on The AP average, there were 14 days of advance against 6 of decline. On 12 days the gain was between 1 and 3 points. Only once was the advance less than 1 and once, on Nov. 12, Veterans Day, it exceeded 3 points. None of the losing days amounted to as much as 1.5 points on The AP average.

The latest week produced more evidence of the brightening economic picture. October building contracts and new orders received by manufacturers touched a record in October. Appliance sales were forecast at a high rate despite seasonal influences. Steel production reached a seven-month high.

The award of a contract for the TFX jet fighter project, called the biggest military aircraft program in peacetime, brought heavy trading on Monday. Prices fell, however, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday were higher while the trend was slightly lower Friday.

Volume for the week totaled 27,509,910 shares, compared with 18,471,945 the previous week. Daily average volume reached 5.5 million, compared with 4.6 million.

The most active issues on the New York Stock Exchange were General Dynamics, up ¾ at 31⅜ on 536,900 shares; Sperry Rand up 1½ at 14⅛ on 454,500 shares and Chrysler unchanged at 70¼ on 251,200.

Zale's Acquires 20-Store Group, Duval of Florida

Duval Jewelers of Florida has joined the Zale Jewelry Company.

The 20 Duval stores, which extend from Jacksonville as far south as Miami, will be operated as a separate division of Zale's.

Officials of the Dallas-based Zale organization expressed the opinion that Duval's will provide Zale's with an excellent foundation for further expansion in Florida.

"With the 20 Duval stores spreach thruout the state in 16 major markets, we fully expect to be in a good position for further development into other key cities," Zale President Ben A. Lipshy said. "The Duval stores will add 'several million dollars' to Zale's annual volume."

Addition of the Duval group gives Zale's 291 stores in 34 states. The Dallas-based chain expects to reach the 300-mark before the end of its fiscal year next March 31. Another 12 stores are now under construction.

Thus, as Zale's proceeds into what it fully anticipates will be a banner Christmas season, it will do so with an additional 71 stores either opened or acquired since the start of its fiscal year April 1.

The company, listed on the American Stock Exchange, last fiscal year showed sales of nearly $63 million. For the current year, sales are considerably ahead of a year ago. During the six months ended Sept. 30, Zale's showed net sales of $30,051,056, as compared to $25,904,995 the previous year.

Prudential Loans On Property Here Total $2,703,113

Colorado Springs real estate loans totaling $2,703,113 were disbursed during the first 10 months of 1962 by the western home office of the Prudential Insurance Co., according to Swan McDonald, Rocky Mountain regional manager for the company's mortgage loan department.

Of the total disbursals for the first 10 months of this year, $2,403,113 was for residential purposes, and $300,000 was for commercial and industrial properties.

In Colorado during the 10 month period disbursals totaled $15,024,186. This was divided $13,468,286 for residential, $300,000 for commercial and industrial, and $1,255,900 for farm.

During the 10 month period a total of 144,191,737 was disbursed for loans throughout the entire 13 western states. Of this, $102,923,437 was for residential loans, $27,796,333 for commercial and industrial properties and $13,381,967 for farm loans.

PREDICT NORMAL WEATHER

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The weather bureau predicts normal weather conditions through most of the nation during the Christmas season.

The bureau's 30-day outlook did not make specific mention of the holiday period but said "th prevailing fall pattern of warm in the West and cold in the East" could be expected during the latter part of the month.

MANILA — The harbor development project for the Philippine's largest port has been postponed until further notice.

Peyser Assumes Management of Gables Restaurant

William J. (Bill) Peyser, lifetime resident and local businessman, has assumed management of the Gables Restaurant and Lounge, 5500 N. Nevada Ave. The firm is incorporated under the name of the Gables, Inc., with Peyser as president. At one time owner of Colorado Electric Company, he presently conducts a manufacturer's representative business, specializing for the last 15 years in electronic equipment. In addition to the Gables' management, he will continue management and sales supervision of this business.

Peyser purchased the Gables' building and equipment in April and it has been operating under lease to Bob Branson from that time until Nov. 5, at which time he took over its operation. The Gables will honor all the Diners' Club membership cards issued under the former management. Peyser's wife, Barbara, will assist at the Gables. They have two daughters. Judy is a dental assistant to Dr. Kenneth Johnson in Colorado Springs. The other daughter, Diana Nelson, works at the First National Bank.

Plans for the Gables include a change in decor.

"We plan to make the Gables one of the distinctive dining spots in the region and to create a pleasant, supper club atmosphere," Peyser said. "By providing entertainment nightly and weekend dancing, we feel that Colorado Springs will support a supper club of this type and our plans are being made with this in mind."

In commenting on his staff, Peyser said, "In addition to being very capable, members of our staff are interesting as individuals. Harry Cheney, our chef, has behind him years of varied restaurant experience and is well-known here. He is ably assisted by the experienced Ed C. Wilson. Our hostess, Angela Brokar, is from Stockholm, Sweden, and is often called as an interpreter when Swedish dignitaries are guests in the Pikes Peak Region. Head man in the lounge is John Patterson. Thou he won't admit to a specialty, he has tended bar is many parts of the world, including Africa, Germany, Canada and Austria."

The Gables is open every day except Sunday, serving full course dinners and specializing in charcoal-broiled steaks. Weekends, and during the week if there is demand, the Gables' famous open pit charcoal broiler will be in operation. Customers will be permitted to select their own properly aged steak from the convenient, refrigerated display. Dining room is also open from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m., featuring $1 lunches.

The Gables caters to large or small private parties, with two private dining rooms available. The spacious upstairs Vista Room has a large capacity, with the Back Door Lounge for smaller parties. Service will be arranged for afternoon bridge parties or private dinner dances.

New Theatre to Be Built In Downtown Area in 1963

A new theater is scheduled for construction in downtown Colorado Springs next year, according to Kenneth E. Anderson of Lincoln, Neb., general manager of Cooper Foundation Theaters.

Plans call for the theater to rise on the corner location at Nevada and Colorado Avenues, Anderson said.

The site is now occupied by the Tompkins Theater, Western Office Equipment and the Doenges-Long Parts Center, all of which will be razed before construction starts next spring.

Target date for completion of the new building is late next summer, Anderson said.

The estate will construct the new theater and the Cooper Foundation will operate it, Anderson said.

Cooper Foundation operated the old Trail Theater which was torn down earlier this year to make way for the First National Bank addition. It also operates the Ute and Tomkins theaters.

Anderson said the prime contractor for the new building will be Berglund-Cherne Construction Co., of Denver, builders of the Cooper Cinerama Theater of Denver.

The proposed structure, about two times as large as the present Tompkins Theater, will seat a substantially larger audience than the 700-capacity Tompkins.

The new theater will give Colorado Springs its first wide-angle screen using 70-milimeter film-double the size of that used by the majority of theaters, Anderson said.

The Tompkins will continue operation until razing begins. The other two establishments affected are either moving to new locations or plan to do so shortly.

No estimate on cost of the new building has been released. Stratton Estate officials declined comment Saturday.

Allservice Life Acquires Federal Union Life

Allservice Life Insurance Company of Colorado Springs has acquired all of the outstanding stock of Federal Union Life Insurance Company of Scottsdale, Ariz., J. S. Davis, president of Allservice Life Insurance Company, announced Saturday. Federal Union is a young Arizona life company with close to $1 million of insurance in force. The combined insurance in force of the two companies is more than $24 million.

The management of Allservice Life proposes that Federal Union will operate as a direct underwriter of ordinary life insurance. Federal Union will reinsure all risks in excess of its retention with Allservice Life on an automatic basis. Virtually all administrative functions are to be performed for Federal Union by the home office staff of Allservice Life, in order that maximum economies of operation may be affected by the two corporations.

Davis is the new chairman of the board of directors of Federal Union Life Insurance Company, and Lyle Dutoit of Scottsdale is the new president. R. G. Harkins is vice president and secretary. M. C. Burke is vice president and treasurer.

Johnson Pontiac Adds Two to Sales Staff

Dick Terrill and Dick Johnston have been added to the new car sales department at Johnson Pontiac, Inc., 25 N. Nevada Ave. Both men are experienced in the automobile business.

Terrill spent two years in auto sales in San Antonio, Tex. Immediately prior to joining the Johnson Pontiac staff, he was with the National Food Company distributor here. Mr. and Mrs. Terrill and daughters Monica and Shela, live at 404 E. Fontanero St. They are members of Corpus Christi Catholic Parish.

Johnston, who has had 20 years experience in the automobile business, moved to Colorado Springs from Bedford, Iowa. He and his wife, Lu, live at the Rel Mar Apartments, 623 N. Weber St. They have one daughter who resides in Denver. He is a member of the Masonic lodge and American Legion. They attend the Methodist Church.

Cliff Kuskie Named Roman Beauty Brick Distributor

Cliff Kuskie of 2518 Fairview Circle has been appointed distributor here for Roman Beauty Brick, manufactured in Denver. His territory includes Ute Pass as far as Woodland Park.

Kuskie, 33, came here three years ago from Ogallala, Neb., where he engaged in farming and ranching. He was born in Keith County, Nebraska, and attended grade and high schools in Brule, Neb.

For the last two years, Kuskie was employed by the state park and recreation department. He is a member of the Elks Lodge and the Congregational Church.

Kuskie is a graduate of the University of Wyoming and served in Korea with the 116th Fighter Bomber Wing of the Georgia Air National Guard.

Mr. and Mrs. Kuskie have three children.

Maytag to Distribute $441,000 to Employes

NEWTON, Iowa—Nearly a half-million dollars will go to Maytag hourly paid employes Dec. 14 as the first annual disbursement from the voluntary year, end bonus plan, an unusual feature of the Maytag company's current three-year labor agreement, signed in November, 1961.

The bonus fund was created by withholding 2 per cent of each participating employe's gross weekly earnings during the year, supplemented by a company contribution based on hours worked.

This year's bonus fund for unit workers totals $441,000, of which the company contributed slightly over $208,000. All but four of Maytag's hourly paid employes participated in the first year's program, which will provide bonus checks averaging between $150 and $200 for each participating employe, from the fund made up of the combined contributions.

NEW DELHI—A $13 million irrigation project is expected to raise farm production by 600 per cent in one part of India.

Longs Purchase Pikes Peak Glass From Groves

Purchase of the Pikes Peak Glass Co., 25 S. Cascade Ave., from Robert Groves was announced Saturday by Harold and Lynn Long.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Long are natives of Colorado Springs, and Long has been in the glass business 20 years. For 15 years, he was associated with the Boy's Glass Shop as estimator and manager.

Long will actively operate the Pikes Peak Glass Co. and Mrs. Long will be bookkeeper while also retaining her position with Peak Publications, a religious mail order house.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Long are graduates of Colorado Springs High School, now Palmer High School. He is a member of El Paso Lodge No. 13, AF and AM; Consistory No. 2, and Al Kaly Shrine.

Mrs. Long is a member of Glen Eyerie Chapter, Order of the Eastern Star; the White Shrine of Jerusalem; the Lincoln Parent-Teacher Assn., of which she is a past president; the Colorado Springs Alumnae Chapter of Alpha Iota, and the Shriners Ladies Club, of which she is a past president.

Mr. and Mrs. Long have been active also in Scout work.

The Longs, who live at 2437 Balboa St., have three sons, Hal, 14; Terry, 10; and Robbie, 8.

The Pikes Peak Glass Co. was owned for many years by Carl Johnson, who started the business in 1939 at 8 E. Bijou St. From 1942 to 1944, he was a civilian in charge of the Ft. Carson glass department, and on Jan. 1, 1945, moved the company to 119 N. Cascade Ave.

Johnson sold the business, then located at 27 S. Siegra Madre St., to Grove in 1953.

SEE NO IMPROVEMENT

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A poll by a business magazine shows that many-industrial and business leaders foresee no improvement in economic conditions next year.

The magazine Nation's Business said Friday that 60 per cent of more than 225 executives polled said they expect 1963 business to continue on a "somewhat sluggish plateau" with the overall performance about the same as this year.

Medicare Boost To Be Sought in Legislature

By GORDON G. GAUSS

DENVER (AP) — A proposal was handed to the Colorado Legislature last week which apparently would extend medical care to 55,000 elderly Coloradoans whose income is at the level of old age pensioners.

At the same time the proposal would ease the strain on the pensioners' medicare fund.

The proposal — a complex one — was contained in a supplement to the report of the special committee on hospitals to the Legislative Council. Action by the legislature will be required to make it effective.

The council quickly accepted the report and forwarded it along to the new General Assembly, which meets in January, along with suggested changes in liquor laws, a major revision of election laws and several other items.

The action was taken at the end of a two-day council meeting.

The medical care provision is based upon use of a section of the federal Kerr-Mills law never applied by Colorado before. It was presented by Harry Lawson of the Legislative Council staff.

Steps in it include:

1. Removal of nursing home care from benefits extended under the $10 million-a-year hospital and medical care program for pensioners.

2. These former pensioners then would be placed under the medical aid for the aged program set up under the Kerr-Mills law. The persons also would be placed under the Aid for the Needy Disabled Act.

3. When they recover, they would be returned to state pension rolls.

Effect of the change, the council members were told, would be:

About 3,700 pensioners would go off state pension rolls as long as they are in nursing homes. This would increase the spillover from the pension fund to the state general fund roughly $3.2 million yearly. Each pensioner in a nursing home would lose the $10 monthly allowed him for personal expenses, but he would receive this under the Aid to the Needy Disabled Act. In addition, through matching funds, the state would pick up $344,000 a year under the act.

Half the cost of paying for nursing home care for persons under the medical aid for the aged measure would be paid by the United States government, compared with about 30 per cent under the present medicare plan.

The spillover from the pension fund could be used to extend the medical aid program to other Coloradoans whose income is comparable to that of the pensioners—currently $1,320 a year.

The Legislative Council went ahead with its plan to recommend that deliveries of liquor from retail package stores be forbidden by law. However, because of absences from the meeting only a minority of the council members voted for it, weakening the effect of the decision.

It also decided to permit taverns to operate from noon to midnight every Sunday, instead of 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. Included would be places dispensing 3.2 beer. At one point the council decided to shut off all liquor sales all day Sunday, but reversed the position.

Another proposed liquor law change would remove a requirement that taverns must be prepared to serve full meals at all times. The suggested change would require only that they have "food" available.

No changes were recommended in liquor price or advertising regulations.

The council also passed along to the legislature a proposed revision of election laws developed by a bi-partisan committee during a two-year study. Chairman of the group was Sen. Ranger Rogers, R-Littleton, who has been Senate minority floor leader and who will become majority leader next January.

Rep. C. P. (Doc) Lamb, R-Brush, chairman of the committee studying reapportionment of the legislature, said counties which must create sub districts under the newly-adopted constitutional amendment have been asked to submit plans. Both political parties in the counties have been contacted, he said.

He expressed belief the legislature can go ahead with a districting act soon after it assembles. Unless it acts within 45 days —or courts declare the amendment invalid—legislators will lose their pay and expense allowances.

Elijah Bradford Jr. Enlists in Air Force

Elijah Bradford Jr., son of Mrs. Stella Mae Kelly who resides at Quarters 5805C Ft. Carson, recently enlisted in the Air Force.

Bradford will undergo basic military training at Lackland Air Force Base, San Antonio, Tex.

He will then be sent to an Air Force technical training school or to a duty assignment for on - the - job training in an Air Force administrative specialty.

Bradford chose this specialty based upon the results of the AF aptitude tests he took prior to his departure from home.

Long-Time News Reporter Tells About Washington

EDITOR'S NOTE — David Harold Oliver retired last week after 49 years service on the Washington staff of The Associated Press. In that span he came to know the nation's presidents and in this farewell story he tells of the offbeat episodes of this long association with the occupants of the White House.

By D. HAROLD OLIVER

WASHINGTON (AP) — History has well recorded the big, serious events of presidential terms.

But as I look back over 49 years with The Associated Press and assignments connected with eight presidents and former presidents from William Howard Taft to Dwight D. Eisenhower, it seems to me the little amusing things come to mind as readily as the world-shaking events—little anecdotes that never reached print.

For instance, we lost a presidential valet in Rio de Janeiro one night and it held up the chief executive's departure 45 minutes. It's easy to get lost in Rio, especially on a first visit. A wide search turned up the valet after President Franklin D. Roosevelt sailed, but he was rushed to FDR's cruiser by launch.

Knowing the late president's affection for the old Negro, I doubt whether the missing gentleman's man ever wound up in the brig.

As a cub my first assignment with President Warren G. Harding was at an international polo match on the White House ellipse. It was a double "first" for me for I had never seen a polo game and I had to cover that, too—with the help, fortunately, of a seasoned sports writer who told me about chukkers and mallets.

Then there was a train ride with President Calvin Coolidge to the Philadelphia Sesquicentennial. An historic event, true, but I hardly remember anything about it except watching the taciturn New Englander enjoy a steak for breakfast on the diner. I believe there were some pancakes, too.

There was a speechmaking tour with President Herbert Hoover, but I will never forget a telephone call to my home that stopped me in the middle of trimming a Christmas tree. There was nothing much amusing about this event. The office said the White House was on fire. I got there when water was about a foot deep in the west wing, which was nearly gutted by the blaze.

A trip to Ft. Bragg, N.C., with President Harry S. Truman to watch a mass Army parachute drop introduced me to covering presidential trips by plane. I'll take the train any day. I had to write my story almost before seeing the show since Truman took off before the last man hit the dirt.

Incidentally, to cover presidents and national campaigns successfully, a man must have extensive journalistic training plus the stamina of a mule.

Lacking the latter, I sympathize with reporters these days who flit around the nation and the world covering President Kennedy. A trip I took with Roosevelt in 1936 to Buenos Aires and return required 28 days by Navy cruiser. FDR touched four countries, made speeches and attended receptions. Kennedy in his jet would have made the same sort of journey in a week, kept all the engagements, and shaken more hands.

With the humorous, little things, a White House reporter must also come in contact with the tragic, depressing events — for example, those known in the trade as "death watches." It fell to my lot to be on such watches when former Presidents Taft and Woodrow Wilson, and 16-year-old Calvin Coolidge Jr. were dying. With FDR it was not a death watch. It came too suddenly.

That April day in 1945 in Warm Springs, Ga., three newsmen, including myself, were at a mountain barbecue where Roosevelt was expected but was long overdue. Than a frantic telephone call from the presidential switchboard ordered us to hurry down to the press secretary's cottage.

On the short trip down the mountain the three of us debated what it could be about. The two main guesses were that the war was over in Europe or that FDR had been taken ill.

It wasn't long before we had the answer —a terse announcement from secretary William D. Hassett that shook world capitals. FDR had died of a massive cerebral hemorrhage.

Telluride Times Will Make Its Debut Soon

TELLURIDE (AP) — A new weekly newspaper, the Telluride Times, will make its debut in this onetime ghost mining town deep in the southwest Colorado Rockies next Thursday.

The owner-publishers are Mr. and Mrs. John C. McPhee.

McPhee was an early editor of Arizona Highways magazine and former president of the Arizona Press Club. For the past few years, he has been public relations director for the Navajo tribe at Window Rock, Ariz.

The annual College Night, held each year at Palmer for the benefit of students and parents alike, is to be held at 7:30 p.m. Thursday. Schedules for each student and parent who plans to attend are made out giving everyone the chance to meet with as many as three representatives from the colleges or universities of their choice. Thirty minute sessions are planned, in which the representatives from the various colleges and universities speak to those attending about the school and answer any questions. Literature about a selected school can also be obtained.

The accredited universities, colleges, and junior colleges which will be represented are Adams State College, Colorado College, Colorado School of Mines, Colorado State College, Colorado State University, Colorado Woman's College, Lamar Junior College, Loretta Heights College, Mesa College, Northeastern Junior College, Otera Junior College, Pueblo College, Trinidad State Junior College, University of Colorado, University of Denver, United States Air Force Academy, and Western State College. Three out-of-state colleges are also represented: University of Wyoming, College of Emporia, Kansas, and Simpson College, Iowa.

NEW FURNISHINGS—New style laboratory tables such as this were included in a $12,00 remodeling project in the physics laboratory at Palmer High School. The four (from left) are Brian O'Rourke, Charles Burdick, Harlan Talley and Doug Swayne. In addition to the tables, under-window storage, sidewall cupboards and a new sink were installed. New equipment still to be received includ a light beam source, a generator, magnetizer and roll-away ladder.

Last Friday, members of the Palmers chapter of the International Relations Club attended the 29th annual International Relations Conference of Colorado High Schools. The conference was sponsored by the World Understanding Community of the Colorado Education Association and was held at the University of Denver. "The United States and The United Nations" was the theme selected for the entire conference. Round-table discussions were then carried on over the subjects: What has the U.N. done since 1945: What is the U. S. role in the U.N.? What are the nonpolitical organizations in the U.N.? What have they done?

Palmer students, as members of the Future Teachers of America, have now begun a year of FTA cadet teaching. These Future Teachers go to elementary schools and are allowed to take over the classes when the regular teachers have to attend meetings. Some of the schools which participate in this program of cadet teaching are Buena Vista, Taylor, Bristol, Ivywild, Garfield, Lowell, Midland Helen Hunt, and Whittier.

Following the production of the first Palmer play for this year, "Our Town," Masque and Sandal will hold its annual initiation for the new members who gained their final points in working on this play. Present members of Masque and Sandal have worked on past play productions, either on any of the crews or as part of the cast. To become a Masque and Sandal member, the applicant must first earn fifteen points by working on plays, counting eight hours work for each point. Also, the approval and commendation of — J. D. Barnes, Palmer dramatics coach, is needed. For the initiation the new members are required to give a reading or skit, memorized or read. Following this they are assigned an impromptu speech to give.

Sunny Fawcett, Darlene Kirchoff, Pat Pattison, Gerry Pierce, Linda Saevig, Sharon Howard, Mike Neally and Scott Matteson were the students selected from those participating in the production of "Our Town" to join Masque and Sandal at this time. An initiation for Masque and Sandal usually follows the presentation of every play.

Republican Citizens Group Gets Chairman

WASHINGTON (AP) — Formal announcement was made here that George (Tim) Herrmann, 44, Chicago insurance executive, has accepted the chairmanship of the newly organized National Republican Citizens Committee.

The committee hopes to supplement rather than duplicate the work of the regular Republican National Committee, particularly in seeking to build up voter support for the GOP in the big cities and among independents and Democrats.

Herrmann is now president of the Republican Citizens League of Illinois, an organization which today's anouncement said inspired the formation of the National Citizens Committee.

In accepting the unsalaried post, Herrmann said he would devote a major share of his time to formation of other urban organizations to aid the regular party organization in capturing a larger share of the vote in metropolitan centers.

Fort Lewis A&M Counselor to Talk To Local Students

Nick Heidy, admissions counselor for Fort Lewis A & M College in Durango, will be in the Pikes Peak region this week to explain the college curriculum to senior high school students.

Heidy will be at Widefield High School at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, Air Force Academy High School at 1 p.m. Wednesday; Wasson High School at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday and Palmer High School at 7:30 p.m. Thursday.

Fort Lewis, the state's newest senior college is now in its first year as a liberal arts senior college.

A coeducational college, Fort Lewis offers a trimester academic calendar so that students can earn BA or BS degrees in less than three years.

Compensation Extension Poses Dilemma for Worker

(Editor's Note: This is one in a series of articles about your health which appears regularly in the Gazette Telegraph as a public service feature.)

By THE COLORADO MEDICAL SOCIETY

During the last two sessions of the Colorado Legislature proposals have been advanced for the further extension of state workmen's compensation laws, and it is expected the program will be presented again when the next General Assembly meets in January.

In essence, the proposals would extend workmen's compensation payments to cover the so-called degenerative diseases — the diseases and conditions of advancing age — such as coronary heart disease and arthritis.

Morally, this would seem no more than right. If a man's body wears out too soon because of his work, perhaps he should be compensated.

But this proposed extension of the compensation program poses a very real dilemma for both employee and employer, and it merits careful consideration from all viewpoints when it again comes before the legislature.

Such an extension could place a greatly increased additional burden on the older worker, since it would force younger and younger hiring. A worker past 40 or 45 who was thrown out of work or wished to change employment, could find himself unemployable. The risk that he would suffer a degenerative disease, a risk which mounts rapidly after 40, would be too great a compensation insurance risk for the employer.

Workmen's compensation laws evolved out of society's humanitarian desire to insure the compensation of workers in some degree for partial or total disabilities from illness or injury caused by their jobs. Classic early cases were the cancer suffered by radium clock dial painters, lead poisoning among battery workers and silicosis among miners.

As time passed, the laws and their interpretation were broadened to include the aggravation by a job of an existing disease or condition. Osteo - arthritis, for example. And nearly every person from middle age upward has some degree of osteo - arthritis.

In recent years, coronary heart attacks suffered on the job sometimes have been ruled compensable on grounds the work brought on the attack. This is a very difficult medical decision, and one on which competent specialists can easily disagree.

One of the results of the liberalization and extension of the laws has been that employers are making employment examinations more and more stringent. Some railroads now x-ray the spine of every worker hired, and mining companies frequently require chest X-rays.

Persons with even slight handicaps are not employed. Not because they are poor workers, but because they are higher compensation risks. It has been well established that handicapped workers have excellent work records. They even have lower rates of absenteeism from illness than unhandicapped workers.

But a handicapped person, under the law, cannot waive his claim for workmen's compensation if his condition should worsen on the job. The law permits a claim that the condition was aggravated by the work.

A further extension of the laws to cover the degenerative diseases —which a very large proportion of older people will suffer sooner or later — can result in further severe restrictions in hiring policies. The older or partially handicapped worker thus in the end could be the victim of what might seem to be a humanitarian liberalization of the law.

Old Doc Experience advises:

1. All Coloradoans, laymen and physicians alike should carefully weigh proposals for extending workman's compensation to the degenerative diseases.

2. The dilemma of employing the handicapped could become so sharp that no older person could get a job.

Heart attacks can occur both on and off the job, and in either case for reasons which cannot be readily determined. Some injured backs are the result of degenerative conditions. Not all hernias result from injury; some are a natural consequence of aging.

4. All of the hazards of living and aging cannot be eliminated, and how far the law can go in compensating for them deserves serious consideration by every citizen.

5. The older worker already has a difficult time of it finding new work if he is thrown out of a job. Any law which would make it more difficult for him may not prove to be as humanitarian as it seems. If he were displaced from his job by automation, for example, there would be little justification for re - training programs if employers would not hire him.

6. There are probably some additions to the Compensation Laws which should be considered which would not interfere with the employability of the older worker.

Security Firemen Sponsor Annual Ball Saturday

The Security Village Volunteer Fire Department has scheduled its 1962 Firemen's Ball next Saturday.

Advance ticket sales indicate another good turnout for this, the sixth annual ball sponsored by the volunteer fire fighters.

Proceeds from the event are used to finance community service projects.

Dancing is scheduled to get under way at 9 p. m., with the Allen Uhles orchestra supplying the music. The ball will be held at Widefield High School.

Tickets, which go for a $1 donation each, will be available at the door or can be ordered by calling the Security Fire Station, EX 2-3271, any evening after 8 p.m.

Blind Man Proves To Be Best Witness

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—Two cobbers who held up a blind man two weeks ago ordered him to feel the barrels of a shotgun that was poked into his stomach.

Richard Holmgren, 35, of Del Mar, obeyed.

He carefully noted rust marks and ridges.

That was how he was able to identify a double-barreled shotgun here as the same one, he told officers.

It had been found in the automobile of Verdeen I. Carter, 24, of nearby Carlsbad, and Thomas R. Lewis, 21, Camp Pendleton, arrested on suspicion of six other holdups in the northern part of the county.

Sheriff's Sgt. Robert Majors said the blind man was "one of the best witnesses we have in the case."

He also identified the car driven by the two suspects from the sounds of a door and its horn.

The robbers took $116 from him.

Public Service Will Develop New Facilities

DENVER (UPI) — The Public Service Co. of Colorado, the state's largest distributor of natural gas and electricity, has announced plans to spend $260 million during the next five years for construction of gas and electric facilities.

Robert T. Person, company president, said Friday that the PSC planned to spend $56 million alone for new construction next year. The largest portion of that total, $38 million, would go for electric generation, transmission and distribution facilities, he said.

In addition, $13 million would be spent on natural gas transmission and storage facilities and $5 million for other plans common to gas and electric operations.

Person said some $14 million was allocated for work on the fifth generating unit at the Valmont Steam Electric Station east of Boulder. The unit is scheduled to be completed early in 1964. It will be PSC's second 150,000 kilowatt generating unit.

The official said the biggest item in the gas construction budget for next year was $600,000 for expansion of facilities at the underground gas storage project at Leyden mine, north of Denver.

Person said PSC spent $212 million on construction in the past five years.

PSC distributes 90 per cent of the natural gas used in Colorado and 70 per cent of the electricity used. It serves 357,000 natural gas customers and 413,000 electric customers.

UPI Man Says U.N. Beset With Many Problems

DENVER (UPI) — Bruce W. Munn, head of the United Nations bureau of United Press International, said here that the world organization was beset by countless problems, "but is a long way from dead."

Munn, featured speaker at the 29th annual convention of the International Relations Club of Colorado High Schools, said among the ailments suffered by the UN were finances, the population explosion and "selfish interests."

The veteran newsman listed the financial difficulties as those encountered during the Congo situation, and remarked that the population explosion was not one of people, but of countries.

He said the emotional outbursts of Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev at the UN during 1960 showed how selfish interest could "turn the world quorum into a hippodrome of buffoonery."

However, Munn asked: "Does the UN work, has it worked, and will it work? The answer," he said, "is definitely yes."

Munn said the UN, in its 17 years, has evolved from a "big power organization" to an all power or negotiating organization, brought about by the "quiet diplomacy" philosophy of the late Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold. He said he felt the newly-elected secretary general, U Thant, would carry on in Hammarskjold's tradition.

Munn, a correspondent at the UN since 1949, said the world organization was not something attended by and of importance to only a small cult of diplomats, but was "the affair of everybody who lives, breathes and pays taxes."

Quoting Hammarskjold, Munn said, "Think of the UN as being a reflection of the world, and if you don't like the UN, you don't like the world."

Munn also quoted Ralph Bunche, UN official and former US delegate to the world body: "The United Nations is not only the best we have, but all we have."

An estimated 475 persons heard Munn's address.

BEGIN RESERVE SHAKEUP

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Defense Department expects to launch next week the long-pending reorganization of the Army National Guard and the U.S. Army Reserve.

The plan calls for reducing four National Guard divisions and four Army Reserve divisions to much smaller brigades, and for eliminating about 700 units of company size or smaller.

Fatty Alcohols Produced Now From Petroleum

By EDWARD M. MCMANUS

TULSA, Okla. (UPI)— The detergents and plastics industries have a new source for the so-called "fatty" alcohols which they need so much.

A $10 million plant has been operating for several months at Lake Charles, La., producing these alcohols from petroleum. It is the world's first commercial plant of this type.

Continental Oil Co. and its engineering and construction contractor, the Lummus Co., built the facility. Ultimately, it will produce some 100 million pounds of alcohols a year.

The development will free the chemical industry from its heavy dependence on source materials made from animal or vegetable oils and fats.

Sources such as coconut oil and tallow vary widely in price and quality from year to year. But the Lake Charles plant, and others like it, will be able to produce a steady supply of source material.

Conoco and Lummus call their produce "ALFOL Alcohol."

The ALFOL alcohols will have many new uses. In the detergents industry, some of these alcohols have outstanding cleaning and wetting properties. They can be used for liquid or dry household detergents, shampoos and toothpastes.

In the plastics industry, the uses are numerous. Lummus says its "straight chain" ALFOL alcohols are less volatile than most competitive branch chain materials, and give better low temperature flexibility.

The ALFOL products also can be used in making synthetic lubricants and lubricating oil additives and they can be applied to lakes and water reservoirs, to retard evaporation and thus conserve water supplies in dry areas where water is scarce.

Also, they can be used in making drugs and cosmetics.

The Lake Charles plant was opened after seven years of cooperative research by Conoco and Lummus.

Christmas Festival to Be Held This Week at Fine Arts Center

The warm, colorful glow of Christmas will prevail at the Fine Arts Center during the Broadmoor Garden Club's Christmas Festival which will open Tuesday, and conclude Saturday with the awarding of a champagne supper table setting for twelve.

A huge tree in the foyer will be decorated with more than 2,500 rare, antique ornaments loaned by Mrs. Gretchen Hampton. The galleries will be used for a display of tables set for a variety of holiday occasions. There will be nine tables, including a champagne supper table, appointments of which will be awarded as a grand prize at the conclusion of the Festival.

Members of the club have again decorated miniature bedside Christmas trees which will be exhibited, before being distributed to patients in local hospitals.

One special event will be the annual shoppers' luncheon, and sale of home-made foods on Thursday. A fashion show, followed by a champagne hour, will be staged Friday afternoon. Tickets for the style show are still available at the Fine Arts Center.

Mrs. Fred Wolf, general chairman of the Festival is shown here looking over a buffet table, set for a champagne supper for twelve. All appointments on the table will be awarded as the Festival's grand prize next Saturday. The exquisite brocaded satin table cloth is reversible.

Mrs. Marshall Sprague, left, Mrs. John Gallagher Jr., center, and Mrs. William Boddington finalize plans for the champagne hour which will follow the Festival fashion show Friday afternoon.

Variety Show to Be Highlight of Candlelight Ball

The outstanding floorshow for the Candlelight Ball is eagrly anticipated by its patrons. Jay Cook will be master of ceremonies for the show, and Johnny Smith, nationally famous jazz guitarist headlines the acts. Those who have heard him are familiar with his expert musicianship as well as with his style. He makes his home in Colorado Springs, having moved here from New York, tho he returns there regularly to make recordings. The Delmonico has released Johnny Smith so that he may perform for Ball goers.

Eight teen - age couples, billed as the Kool Kats will be in the spotlight next. They're dancers filled with the energy, enthusiasm and verve of youth. They've been hand picked by Dick Jurgens and John Bartholomew, and their interpretations of current dancing is said to be dramatic.

Bobby Beers, former vocalist with both the Lawrence Welk and the Blue Barron orchestras will appear before the microphone to bring back a few memories. The surprise entertainment package will be left for ball goers alone to enjoy; the committee will not give advance information concerning its nature.

Theta Sigma Phi Christmas Party to Be Held at Moors

A Christmas party and dinner at the Moors Restaurant, at 6:30 p. m. Wednesday for members of Theta Sigma Phi, national professional organization for women in journalism and communications, will replace their regular December meeting. Husbands of members, and all editors are invited as guests.

A social hour will be held from 6:30 to 7:30 p. m., when dinner will be served with guests choosing dinner from the regular menu. Final reservations may be made by Monday by calling the president, Mrs. C. A. Meizner, 635-7645, who announces that there will be an exchange of inexpensive Christmas gifts among members.

Guests will be entertained by a variety show presented by members of the Road Show group from Wasson High School, directed by Homer Paris. Dance numbers will be presented by the four members of the Charlston Group; there will be by a four - man Combo group; vocal solos by Miss Mary Moore, and presentations by two folk singers, Bill Bailey and Ron Dulany, with Mike Pritza as master of ceremonies.

Theta Sigma Phi members were guests of Mrs. Robert W. Severs at a recent meeting, when Severs, designer with Lusk and Wallace Architects, gave an informal talk on the many problems met and solved by architects in planning buildings and houses.

Severs used colored slides illustrating the individual designs of several outstanding architects, showing how they had formulated structures or homes to meet requirements of the clients, to express the purpose for which it is intended.

Particularly interesting were several homes designed by the late Frank Lloyd Wright, whose widow is an honorary member of Theta Sigma Phi. Wright, recognized by architects and artists thruout the world as a force in the modern word of beauty and functionalism, had a knack of fitting buildings and homes harmoniously in their surroundings.

Other slides were shown of unusual buildings and homes designed by the prominent architects Minuro Yamasaki; Eero Saarinen and his father, Eliel Saarinen and Mies Van der Robe, who designed the recently constructed large Chicago Apartments Building.

Lunchbox Goodies

By CECILY BROWNSTONE

An odd recipe, but it tastes okay! Cooks remain interested in it, so here's a new version.

Tuna and Egg Sandwiches
Pickles and Carrot Sticks
Tomato Spice Cake Fruit

Tomato Spice Cake

- 2 cups flour
- 1 cup sugar
- 1 teaspoon baking powder
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon cinnamon
- ½ teaspoon each nutmeg, cloves and allspice
- 1 can (8 ounces) tomato sauce
- 1 teaspoon baking soda
- 1 egg (well beaten)
- ½ cup vegetable oil
- 1 cup chopped walnuts
- 1 cup raisins.

Sift together the flour, sugar, baking powder, salt and spices. Stir baking soda into tomato sauce and add to sifted dry ingredients with egg, oil, walnuts and raisins; mix well. Turn into two greased 8-inch layer pans. Bake in a moderate (350 degrees) oven for 25 minutes. Turn out and cool. Fill and frost with fluffy white or lemon-butter icing.

Many small parties will precede the Symphony Candlelight Ball Saturday night. Hostesses plan to use candles almost exclusively as decorative motifs in their homes, emulating the theme of the Ball.

Among those who have already planned parties are Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Morin with Dr. and Mrs. Robert Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Trott, Mr. and Mrs. William Bredar; Mr. and Mrs. Russell M. Wolfe, Mr. and Mrs. Bentley Gilbert; the E. W. Colts; the Robert E. Andersons, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Fischer, Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Untiedt, the Irl Foards; Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Gendron Jr.; Dr. and Mrs. Samuel Brown, Judge and Mrs. David Enoch, Mr. and Mrs. John T. Baker; Capt. and Mrs. George Shaw; Col. and Mrs. F. T. Folk, Lt. Col. and Mrs. Stanley Kolodny.

Another event that is inspiring a number of small private parties this week is the Christmas Home Tour, sponsored by the ladies of the Broadmoor Community Church.

Mrs. James V. Carris will entertain several ladies at luncheon in her home Wednesday, after which the group will make the tour. Mrs. Wilbur Marshall has invited fifteen guests to brunch in her home on the same day.

Mrs. Roy Pring is planning luncheon and bridge for the group she will take on the tour and Mrs. Douglas Jardine will entertain a group at luncheon in her home.

Mrs. Anton Nelson has invited several friends to be her guests on the tour.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Pumphrey entertained twenty relatives at a family reunion and house warming in their new home at 2 Heather Circle on Thanksgiving Day. The guests included their son and daughter - in - law, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Pumphrey and family of Pueblo; Mrs. Pumphrey's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Stout of Littleton; and her coursin, Ralph Slatten and family of Colorado Springs.

Miss Kathy Howells, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ted Howells Jr. of 807 E. Yampa St. and Miss Suzi Zimmerman, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Robert Zimmerman of 1603 Wood Ave. have returned from New York City where they were delegates to the UN Peace Seminar.

They took a number of sight - seeing trips in New York City including a tour of the United Nations Building where they had luncheon, attended a session of the General Assembly and heard a briefing by delegates from Europe, South America and Africa.

Enroute east, they stopped in Chicago to see the Museum of Science and Industry, Garrett Biblical Institute, and Northwestern University; and in Washington D. C. visited various places of interest including the Supreme Court Building and the Russian Embassy.

Lt. Col. Margaret Johnson who was recently named American Business Woman of the Year by the American Business Women's Association, left by plane Saturday for Kansas City, Mo. where she will be the honored guest at two large parties.

A reception for 500 guests was given Saturday night, and this afternoon, there will be a tea for more than 300 guests in her honor. Both parties are given by the National Headquarters of ABWA which is located in Kansas City.

Mrs. John Love, wife of Colorado's Governor - elect, will be the guest of honor at a tea from 3:30 until 5 p.m. Thursday given by Zebulon Pike Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, at the home of Mrs. Frances O'Donnell, 1624 N. Cascade Ave. Mrs. Love is a member of the chapter.

Special guests will be the State Regent and members of Kinnikinnik Chapter.

Miss Patricia Powell, whose marriage to Robert H. Sayer will take place on Dec. 21, was the guest of honor at a miscellaneous shower last week, given by Mrs. Anne Griffith of 317 N. 31st St. Fourteen guests were present.

Miss Powell is the daughter of Mrs. R. E. Powell of 24 Mt. Washington St. and Mr. Sayer's parents are Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Sayer.

Mrs. Griffith's daughter, Sandra who is a junior at Colorado State College, Greeley, was recently selected for membership in Pi Lambda Theta, National Women's Honorary Society in the field of education. Membership is based on leadership, personality, scholarship and active participation in school affairs. A student must maintain an average of not less than 4.2 to attain membership. Sandra has done this for the three years she has attended CSC, and was also an honor student for her last two years at Palmer High School.

Many pre-nuptial parties took place before the wedding of Miss Barbara Mattingly and Myron Gates, which was held Nov. 24, at the First Methodist Church. The bridegroom's parents Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Gates gave a tea for the couple to introduce their son's fiancee to their friends.

Mrs. J. E. Martin and Mrs. Dub Metzler gave a silver dollar tea at the Martin home, 620 W. Cheyenne Rd. Good wishes and silver dollars were dropped into a "wishing well" for the bride.

A dessert party and miscellaneous shower were given by Mrs. Leonard Sharp, Mrs. Nelson Haley and Mrs. Phil Winslow at the Sharo home, 1515 Wood Ave. Game prizes were handmade candles, decorated soap, and nut trees.

Mrs. Homer Brown and Mrs. F. Darrell Stone gave a kitchen shower and coffee at the Brown home, 830 Cheyenne Blvd.

The rehearsal dinner was given by Mrs. Nelson Haley, assisted by Mrs. Sharp and Mrs. Winslow. Mr. and Mrs. Winslow gave a Thanksgiving dinner for the couple and thirty - four friends and relatives who were here for the wedding from Arizona, Texas, California and Nevada.

Inez Hunt was the speaker Wednesday at a meeting held in the Pueblo Public Library. Her subject was "Amazing Stories of Colorado." On Thursday Mrs. Hunt participated in a panel discussion at a meeting of the Authors' League at the American Legion Home, Denver. The panel discussed "The Present Situation of The Poet."

Other members of the panel were Dr. Alan Swallow, Margaret Cobb Shipley, Kay Nelson, Thomas Hornsby Ferril and Lillian Rudolph.

Mrs. R. Alderson and Mrs. William Godfrey won top scores in their section at a single - session championship bridge event in Phoenix on Wednesday. The event is part of the fall national contract bridge Championships of the American Contract Bridge League.

Mrs. Kathryn Sullivan of Estes Park and Lt. Col. Thomas M. Mann of Chipita Park were married at 4 p.m. Nov. 23 at the home of Mr. Mann. The Rev. Conrad Pyle of Green Mountain Falls officiated and the couple was attended by Mrs. Pyle and John T. Mann, son of Lt. Col. Mann.

Lt. Col. Mann is the son of Mrs. Samuel Ford and the late De Arve Mann of Ft. Dodge, Iowa. He retired from the Air Force in November, 1959 and is now employed as Post Storage Supply Officer at Ft. Carson. Mrs. Mann has been affiliated with the American Legion Post 119 of Estes Park for the past six years.

Following a brief wedding trip the couple will live in Chipita Park.

Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Knuth of Nashville, Kan. announce the approaching marriage of their daughter, Pearl Beatrice, to James C. Ruble, son of Mrs. Nora Cull of McAllen, Tex. and the late Mr. Ruble.

The wedding is planned for Dec. 30 in Colorado Springs.

Miss Knuth is a registered nurse employed by Dr. C. H. Arnold. Mr. Ruble is Chief Pilot for the Colorado Interstate Gas Co.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank A. Murry of Seattle arrived by jet Tuesday to celebrate their golden wedding anniversary with their sons, George E. Murry and family of Pleasant Valley, and Frank A. Murry Jr. and family of Security.

A family dinner for fifteen relatives was given in their honor Wednesday evening. Mr. and Mrs. George Murry entertained a large number of relatives at dinner Saturday night in honor of the couple, and this evening Mr. and Mrs. Frank Murry Jr. will also entrtain relatives at dinner in their honor.

Miss Nancy Bohl, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Bohl, 2223 N. Union Blvd., a piano major at Oberlin College Conservatory of Music, Oberlin, O., will present a senior recital Monday at 8:30 p.m. in Warner Hall.

Miss Bohl is a member of the Class of 1961. In 1959-60 she studied at the Mozarteum in Salzburg, Austria, under the Conservatory's junior year abroad program. Her campus activities have included participation in the Gilbert and Sullivan Players productions.

Since September 1961, Miss Bohl has served during the college year as assistant director of recreation at Oberlin College.

Friends of the late Miss Pearl Turner, former High School teacher, will remember that she died quietly early on the bright morning of Oct. 30, while raking leaves in her front yard at 1346 N. Weber St. Like the falling leaves, she tumbled over, while a neighbor looked on, and her busy, active life came to an abrupt end.

Last week friends were amazed to receive Christmas cards from Miss Turner. Mystified at first at the sight of her handwriting, we knew there was no real mystery involved.

A long - time friend of Miss Turner, Miss Edna Dessaint told us:

"Pearl always wrote her Christmas cards in October. Her sisters, Mrs. Henry Childs of Pheonix and Mrs. Edna Cathcart of Glendale, Calif., found the cards when they were called here by her death. They sealed, stamped and mailed the beautiful cards so that her friends might know of her thoughtfulness."

We are glad Miss Turner's life went out in the bright outdoors, which she loved so much. Until recently she had been an enthusiastic mountain climber, and for many years had a cabin in the mountains where she spent all of her weekends. Could she have chosen the way she would most wish to go, we are sure this would have made her content.

TO BE FEBRUARY BRIDE — Mr. and Mrs. Paul W. Baldwin of 1513 W. Cucharras St. announce the engagement of their daughter, Paula Lee, to William James Wolfe, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald C. Wolfe of Stockton, N. J. Miss Baldwin is a senior at the University of Colorado where she is a member of Kappa Alpha Theta social sorority, Sigma Alpha Iota and Tau Beta Sigma, music honoraries. She is currently president of Tau Beta Sigma. She will receive her bachelor's degree in music education in August. Mr. Wolfe, also a senior at CU, is president of his fraternity, Phi Kappa Psi. He will receive his degree in music education in January. The wedding will take place Feb. 2 at the First Methodist Church.

TO MARRY SOON — Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Moore of Hoisington, Kan., announce the approaching marriage of their daughter, Ann Louise, to William C. Epley, son of the Rev. and Mrs. P. R. Epley of Woodland Park. Both young people are seniors at Colorado State College, Greeley, where Miss Moore is majoring in special education and Mr. Epley in music education. The wedding will take place at 7 p.m. Dec. 8 in the Woodland Park Community Church.

WSCS to Have All-Day Meeting

The Women's Society of Christian Service of the First Methodist Church will meet for a coffee at 9:30 a.m. Wednesday in the church banquet hall.

This will be the general meeting for December. The business meeting will follow at 10 a.m. and the program, under the direction of Miss Louise Dutcher, will be at 11 a.m. This will be a Christmas playlet titled "Hear the Angels Sing."

Miss Caroline Beeson will give the devotions.

BRIDE-TO-BE — Mr. and Mrs. James F. Walsh of 652 N. 30th St. announce the approaching marriage of their daughter, Susan Kathryn, to Andrew F. Hertneky, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Hertneky of Goodland, Kan. Miss Walsh was graduated from St. Mary's High School, class of '59 and Mr. Hertneky from the Goodland High School. Both are seniors at Colorado State University, Ft. Collins, where Miss Walsh is a member of Chi Omega sorority and Mr. Hertneky is a member of Acacia. The wedding will take place Dec. 28 at Sacred Heart Church.

Try adding grated lemon or orange rind to canned pears for that extra flavor touch.

Turkey Is Plentiful

Right in time for Christmas time entertaining, turkeys and broiler-fryers head the U.S. Department of Agriculture's list of plentiful foods. Cranberries are on the list.

Guajalote Con Castanas
(Christmas Stuffed Turkey)

2 cans (11 ounce each) water-packed chestnuts
1-3 cup onion flakes
1-3 cup water
1½ sticks butter
2½ quarts (1 pound bread) bread cubes
2 teaspoons salt
2 teaspoons ground nutmeg
½ teaspoon ground black pepper
¼ cup milk or light cream
10 to 12 pound ready - to-cook turkey

Chop chestnuts and set aside. Soften onions in water. Saute in ½ stick butter or margarine, 1 minute. Add remaining butter and heat until melted. Add bread cubes. Stir and cook until bread is crisp and brown. Stir in chestnuts, salt, nutmeg and black pepper. Add milk and mix well. Sprinkle crop and body of turkey cavities with salt and ground pepper. Fill loosely with stuffing. Close openings with skewers. Lace tightly with string.

Fold wings against body of turkey. Tie legs together at the knob ends and fasten to tail. Place on a rack in a shallow pan. Rub a little salt, ground black pepper and butter or margarine over the skin of turkey. Roast in a preheated slow oven (325 degrees) 5¼ to 6 hours, basting occasionally with pan drippings. Cover breast, legs and wings with foil if turkey has a tendency to brown too much.

Yield: Allow 1½ to 2 servings per pound of turkey.

ANNOUNCE ENGAGEMENT — Mr. and Mrs. W. David Higby of Monument announce the engagement of their daughter, Sally, to John William Drayton Jr. of Wood Lake, Neb. Miss Higby revealed the romantic news to her Delta Gamma sorority sisters at the fall formal held Nov. 17 at the Denver Club, when the traditional candle was passed. Miss Higby, a sophomore at Colorado University, was 1962 Girl of the West for the Pikes Peak Rodeo. Mr. Drayton was graduated from Wentworth Military Academy and attended CU last year. No wedding date has been set.

HINTS FROM Heloise

Dear Heloise:

Our house is stocked with children of all ages — from 6 to 17. All are in school. They all take their lunches. By the time I feed nine children their breakfast and each one comes to the kitchen to make his own lunch, it is an eternal mess! I finally figured out the answer to this after all these years.

After the family is off to school, I make up a big supply of sandwiches, put them in small plastic bags and store them in my deep freeze. I do this at my convenience.

Now, when it comes time for school, each child skips or "twists" . . . to the kitchen, towards the freezer, picks out his frozen sandwiches and plops them in his lunch bag. The sandwiches are frozen when the children leave the house, and by noon, are completely thawed.

This saves Mother a dirty kitchen every morning, plus all of the chaos.

On weekends when I find specials at my grocery store on frying chickens . . . I buy ten chickens at a time. On the days when I am in the mood, I spend an entire afternoon frying all of these chickens.

I throw the pieces in little plastic bags, twist the ends secure with a rubber band, and put them in the deep freeze.

One good thing about this . . . as each child tires of sandwiches for his lunch and prefers a piece of cold, fried chicken, he can see through this little individual plastic bag and know exactly which piece of chicken he is getting. It varies the lunch, makes it easier on mother, tand no more fights in my kitchen every monrning.

Mother

Dear Heloise:

When zippers stick on pillow covers ... try running some bar soap over the zipper itself and it will work like magic for easy opening.

Mrs. H. D.

Dear Heloise:

You would be surprised how much people love this suggestion.

To make cut flowers last longer ... mix two tablespoons of white distilled vinegar and three teaspoons of cane sugar to a quart of water.

The vinegar checks bacterial and fungicidal action and the sugar acts as food!

Mrs. Anne Bonningson

Stands to reason.

Heloise

Dear Heloise:

When we make our mashed potatoes, we use a pressure cooker ... It only takes eight minutes to cook potatoes in ours. Do not drain off the water before mashing. We use an electric beater, add margarine, and dried, skim milk. Our potatoes are always fluffy and white!

Reader

Be sure to follow the directions for your particular type of pressure cooker. They take very little water.

Almond Whip for Dessert

By GAYNOR MADDOX
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

California, which produces about ¼ of the world's supply of almonds, is a good place to find almond - using recipes. This Almond Dream Whip is from friends near San Jose.

Almond Dream Whip
(Makes 4 to 6 servings)

1¼ cups toasted slivered blanched almonds
1 cup fresh dates, sliced
1 cup day-old chocolate cake crumbs
OR
1 cup chocolate wafer crumbs
½ teaspoon rum or nonalcoholic rum flavoring
1 cup whipping cream
Whipped cream

Combine 1 cup almonds, dates and crumbs. Add rum or nonalcoholic rum flavoring to cream and whip until stiff. Fold in almond mixture. Garnish with additional whipped cream and remaining almonds.

You'll like this hot Peach and Mincemeat Sundae.

Hot Peach and Mincemeat Sundae
(Makes 6 to 10 servings, depending on amount of mincemeat used)

1 can (1-pound cling peach slices)
1 to 2 cups mincemeat
¼ cup chopped nuts
1 to 2 tablespoons sherry, rum or brandy (optional)
Vanilla, eggnog or any preferred ice cream

Drain peaches. Combine peaches with mincemeat and chopped nuts. Heat carefully. (Sauce can be heated in top of double boiler over hot water during meal.)

Poppy Seed Crescent

By GAYNOR MADDOX
Newspaper Enterprise eAssn.

With very little effort, you can make this home-baked poppy seed crescent. Just the wonderful smell of it baking will lure all the family to the kitchen.

Quick Poppy Seed Crescent
(One 12-inch Crescent)

14½ ounce package yeast-roll mix
Poppy Seed Filling
Glace fruit (optional)

Make yeast dough according to directions on the package. Roll dough ¼ inch thick in an 8 x 16-inch rectangle. Spread surface within 1 inch of the edges with Poppy Seed Filling. Roll in jelly roll fashion, starting at the long side (16-inch side) of the dough. Place on a lightly greased cooky sheet. Turn ends to form a crescent.

Let rise in a warm place (85 degrees) 10 minutes or until almost double in size. Bake in a preheated moderate oven (350 degrees) 30 minutes or until browned. Remove from oven and brush top with melted butter or margarine. Sprinkle with poppy seed and garnish with glace fruit if desired.

Poppy Seed Filling

½ cup sugar
½ cup water
1 cup poppy seed
½ teaspoon ground cinnamon
½ cup seedless raisins
2 tablespoons strained honey
1 teaspoon grated lemon rind

Mix sugar and water in a saucepan. Bring to boiling point and boil 5 minutes. Add poppy seed, cinnamon, raisins and honey. Cook 3 more minutes. Remove from heat and stir in lemon rind. Cool. Use as filling for coffee ring.

Mrs. Wiltrout Hostess To Chi Omega Alumnae

Chi Omega Alumnae Association will meet at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in the home of Mrs. Norman Wiltrout, 1019 Jupiter Dr. Mrs. Wooddell McBride will be co-hostess.

Newlyweds Visit Parents of Bridegroom in Canyonwood

Stanley G. Young and his bride, the former Rose Roldan of Brooklyn, N.Y., are shown here on their recent honeymoon as they visited the bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley J. Young of Canyonwood, Colorado Springs. The young couple was married on June 23 at the First Presbyterian Church in Brooklyn.

Attendants were Miss Nilda Torres of Brooklyn and John Edwards, formerly of Colorado Springs. The bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. Roldan, were host and hostess at a lovely hotel reception and dinner.

The bride is a graduate of a New York Fine Arts college and is a custom dress designer.

Stanley Young formerly lived in Colorado Springs, attending schools here and graduating from the School of Mines at Golden. He has completed his service in the Navy, where he was stationed as Program Officer at the Materiel Laboratory in the New York Naval Shipyard. His parents had just returned from a seven months trip around the world, touring Europe in the little sport car which they had shipped to their son in time for the wedding and honeymoon, which was a trip west including Salt Lake, Bryce and Zion Canyons and the Grand Canyon.

The newlyweds now reside in Fairview Park, a suburb of Cleveland, Ohio, where Mr. Young is employed by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

The Mature Parent

Fooling Yourself

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

In the park's playground Philip is deeply involved in the fascinating business of straining sand through the sanpile's sieve into his bright, new, red pail. Notified that lunchtime is approaching, he ignores his mother. So she says coaxingly, "Wouldn't you like to come home and have some of that good chocolate pudding you liked so much last night instead of just going on straining sand through that dirty old sieve?"

"No," says Philip.

Whereupon his mother — who has not at all intended to give him his choice between chocolate pudding and sand-sieving — becomes impatient and resentful. She seizes the sieve and, pulling Philip to his feet, carries him kicking and screaming over to his stroller.

Offered a choice that is not a choice but is actually the other fellow's choice, we all scream and kick in our different ways.

Writes Dr. Beulah Parker, Clinical Instructor in Psychiatry at the University of California:

"Parents think they ought to feel permissive toward children but in reality they do not. They really feel that they should have some control over a child's choices but feel guilty about exerting it. They want to make him self-reliant by permitting him choices between two alternatives — but if he chooses the one they cannot accept, they try to make him change his mind. This makes for a lot of confusion in his mind which I will not elaborate. I would like to try to elaborate the point;

When your employer offers you a better job and then hires someone else to do it, you don't trust his reliability again. When your husband promises to buy matinee tickets for you and your visiting mother only to forget to buy them, you feel resentment at his pretense of interest in your wish that he has not genuinely felt. When an upholsterer says he'll recover your sofa for $150 and then sends you a bill for $200, you feel outrage at his abuse of your desire for a re-covered sofa to milk you of more money.

So did Philip feel distrust, resentment and outrage at the mother who offered him freedom to continue play while secretly planning to remove him from it.

As Dr. Parker suggests, it would have been less wasteful to say to Philip:

"You must stop playing now. It's time to go home for lunch."

Entertainment for an adult party can be arranged in advance by obtaining pictures of guests as children. Guest who can identify the greatest number of pictures wins a prize.

ENGAGED — Mr. and Mrs. Harry Dumler of Colorado Springs announce the engagement of their daughter, Ilene, to Bob D. Stricker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Stricker of La Salle, Colo. Miss Dumler was graduated from Wasson High School and is now attending the Keys Beauty School here. Mr. Stricker was graduated from Greeley High School and is currently farming at La Salle. No definite date has been set for the wedding.

Good Manners

No excuses, please. Accept food served to you, or simply say "no, thank you."

The fact that a letter is open and in plain sight doesn't give you the right to read it.

Offer the drop-in guest some kind of refreshment—coffee, at least.

A teen-ager should not "hog" the family telephone.

Don't ruin a book or movie for someone else by telling him the story.

On a receiving line, give your name to the person at the head of the line without any prompting.

A woman's handbag shouldn't look as jumbled and untidy as a wastebasket when she opens it.

When you ask a friend to fill in for a guest who can't attend a bridge party be frank about the ituation.

When you plan to meet an arriving traveler, be on time.

Explanations aren't necessary when refusing food at a party. Say, "No, thank you."

Never repeat gossip as fact. Better yet—don't repeat it.

If a neighbor "looks after things" while you are away, send a card en route, or bring back a small thank-you gift.

It's boorish to yell at someone to come and answer the phone.

Guest in a restaurant? Make selection and don't complain.

Don't pan an entertainer someone else obviously admires.

MRS. LEROY EARLE STRICKLER
—Nee Miss Janis Lucile Kane

Janice Lucille Kane Is Bride of LeRoy Strickler

Shove Memorial Chapel was the setting Nov. 11 for the double ring ceremony which united in marriage Miss Janis Lucile Kane and LeRoy Earle Strickler.

The 3 p.m. ceremony was performed by the Rev. Edward J. Ness assisted by the Rev. Ward B. Hurlburt.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Davis G. Kane, 708 N. Logan Ave., and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Warren L. Strickler of La Puente, Calif.

The chapel was decorated with baskets of white gladioli, large white mums with white bows, palms and candelabra.

Traditional wedding music was played by Dr. J. Julius Baird at the organ and Lloyd Olson sang "I Love Thee," "Whither Thou Goest" and "The Lord's Prayer."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of Chantilly lace featuring a basque bodice and long tapered sleeves. The Sabrina neckline was etched in sequins and seed pearls and the bouffant overskirt was caught up in scallops with silk organza rosettes and featured a matching scalloped hemline. Her bouffant finger tip veil was attached to a crown and she carried an arrangement of white rose buds, stephanotis and white ribbon streamers centered around a purple-throated white orchid.

Mrs. John Buck was matron of honor and the bridesmaids were Miss Barbara Manning, Miss Sue King and Miss Shirley Shaffer. They wore identical street length dresses of sapphire blue satin styled with fitted bodices, long tapered sleeves and petal skirts with matching shoes. Their hats were of matching English illusion which were caught with three satin rosebuds and they carried white carnations.

The flower girl, Surann Matz, wore a white taffeta brocade dress with an overskirt of white silk organza. The bouffant overskirt was caught up in scallops with blue rosebuds. She wore a white hat like that of the bridesmaids and carried a basket of pink rose petals.

Stephen Linthicum was ring-bearer. The best man was Donald Marjama and ushers were Jerome Graham, Alan Lee and Thomas Shoaf.

The mother of the bride wore a crushed raspberry brocade sheath with matching accessories and a lady-slipper orchid corsage.

The reception was held in the First Baptist Church reception room. The four-tier wedding cake was served by Mrs. Glen Kimble of Simla and punch was served by Miss Marion PerLee of Loveland, assisted by Mrs. Hurlburt and Mrs. C. E. Graham.

Mrs. Earl Meeks attended the guest book and Miss Marianne Steppe was at the gift table.

For their wedding trip in the state, the bride chose a knit wool suit of teal blue with black accessories and the orchid from her wedding bouquet.

The bride was graduated from Palmer High School and received a bachelor of arts degree in music education from Colorado College. She taught vocal music at Columbia and Queen Palmer schools for the past three years.

The bridegroom was educated in California schools and is assistant supervisor of the Monterey Park Branch of the Security First National Bank of Los Angeles. The couple resides at 4029 Durfee, El Monte, Calif.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 NT	Pass	3 NT	Pass
Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Ten of ♣

An examination of today's holding will reveal that North and South have 11 tricks at notrump with the normal club lead. How this total was reduced to eight by a clever defender is the subject of our tale.

The final contract was eminently sound, but a one notrump bid is not our choice on the South hand. Any doubleton should contain a high honor, at least the queen. South has an easy opening of one club for over one diamond he can bid one heart, and over a major suit response he has a convenient raise.

West opened the ten of clubs which South won in dummy with the ace. In order to develop the diamond suit, declarer led to the king of hearts and played the jack of diamonds permitting it to ride.

East, with complete disdain, played the four. On the diamond continuation, West ducked again. Declarer, having marked West with the queen of diamonds when the jack held on the previous trick, naturally played the seven from dummy, and East could wait no longer. Dummy had now become an entirely useless affair except for the ace of spades, and declarer was able to bring in only eight tricks.

Had East taken the queen of diamonds on the first round of that suit there would have been no incident to record, for declarer could have brought home more tricks than he needed.

Perhaps a better play by declarer at trick two was a low diamond to his own hand without releasing one of his heart stoppers. Had he chosen to do so in this cast, it is difficult to see how any diabolical plot could have stopped him.

Chocolate Frosted Angelfood
Beverage

Chocolate Frosted Angelfood

1½ teaspoons unflavored gelatin
6 tablespoons cold water
3 cups heavy cream
¾ cup Dutch-type cocoa
6 tablespoons confectioners sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
One 10-inch angelfood cake

Sprinkle the gelatin over the cold water to soften. Heat 6 tablespoons of the cream and stir in softened gelatin to dissolve; chill. Add cocoa to remaining cream; beat until about half stiff; add chilled gelatin mixture, sugar and vanilla; continue beating until stiff. Cut angelfood in half crosswise to make two layers; put layers together with about one-third of the chocolate cream mixture; cover top and sides of cake with remaining frosting. Refrigerate until serving time; keep any leftover cake refrigerated.

MR. AND MRS. H. MYRON GATES

H. Myron Gates Weds Miss Barbara Mattingly

The marriage of Miss Barbara Mattingly and H. Myron Gates was solemnized at 7 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 24, at the First Methodist Church. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Mattingly of Bisbee, Ariz. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Gates of 135 Cresta Rd.

The Rev. J. P. Lancaster, grandfather of the bridegroom and Dr. Ben F. Lehmberg officiated at the ceremony. Candelabra and large baskets of white mums and ferns formed the setting for the ceremony. Verda Lawrie at the organ played traditional selections and Philip Winslow Jr. sang.

Mr. Mattingly escorted his daughter to the altar and gave her in marriage. Her sheath gown of India silk was styled with overskirt that flowed into a train, and appliques of embroidered lace and seed pearls trimmed the neck and hemline. Her bouffant shoulder length veil was held in place by white roses and her bouquet was also of white rosebuds and stephanotis.

Martha Gates, sister of the bridegroom, was maid of honor and bridesmaids were Diantha Lynne Bennett, cousin of the bridegroom and Barbara Brush of Denver. All wore Schiaparelli originals, of rose velvet in street length, with full skirts, matching shoes and pillbox hats and veils. Their flowers were leis of carnations flown in from Hawaii.

C. N. Johnson of Boulder was best man and ushers were Charles Matheson of Boulder, Steve Gates, Reb Bennett and Larry Mattingly, brother of the bride. The ushers also wore leis.

The reception table was covered with a white embroidered cloth from Hong Kong, and was decorated with an orchid tree and a profusion of orchids flown from Hawaii.

Assisting at the reception were Mrs. J. E. Bennett, Mrs. J. M. Lancaster, Mrs. J. P. Lancaster Mrs. Philip Winslow, Miss Sue Brown, Patty Lancaster and Dede and Meredith Lancaster.

After a nine-day cruise aboard the Oriana, the newlyweds will live in Honolulu, where the bridegroom is a Systems Engineer for International Business Machines. He is a graduate of Colorado University.

The bride's traveling ensemble was a three piece suit of forest green wool, and a mink pillbox hat. She is employed as a computer programmer at the Bank of Hawaii in Honolulu. She attended Abilene Christian College and the University of Hawaii.

Guests from other cities were Mr and Mrs. Kenneth Mattingly and son Larry of Bisbee; Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Lancaster, Jan and Patty, Las Vegas, Nev., Mr. and Mrs. J. P. November Wetter Than Usual Locally

November was over twice as wet as normal this year in the Pikes Peak Region, according to U. S. Weather Bureau records.

Things took an upswing in mid-month when .89 inch precipiation was recorded following a total snowfall of 8.3 inches. The normal for the month is .40.

The snowfall on the 15th, 16th, 17th and 18th caused November to sweep past October, which recorded .97 inch precipitation as compared to that month's normal of .69.

November's mean temperature at the bureau's Peterson Field station was 41, compared to a normal mean of 38 for the month. The mean maximum last month was 52, normal for November, and the mean minimum was 29, compared to 23 for the month.

Temperatures in November ranged from a low of 13, recorded on the 19th to a high of 65, recorded on the 4th. The all time low for November was a chilly 16 below zero in 1887 and the previous high was 78, recorded in 1897.

The greatest amount of precipitation in any 24-hour period during the month was on Nov. 15, when .45 inch was recorded. The total of .89 inch brought the year's total to 10.09, giving a deficiency so far this year of 2.86 inches.

The bureau says the region should have had 12.95 so far at this time, with a total of 13.19 predicted for 1962. December will have to go some to make their figures come out even; its normal is .24.

This isn't expected as the twelfth month has always been a dry one in the Pikes Peak Region.

During the past month there were 14 clear days, three partly cloudy days and 13 cloudy days. three days registered .01 inch or more of precipitation and three days registered .10 inch or more.

Edward J. Kirches Named 1963 AdAmAn Member

Edward J. Kirches, an editor of Shepard Citations, was elected the 1963 member of the AdAmAn Club, New Year Pikes Peak climbing organization, at its annual meeting at the Swiss Chalet Saturday night.

The club enrolls one new member each year. This is the 40th year of its existence.

Officers for 1963 also were elected Saturday night. Bob Watson, of the Rainbow Falls Mountain Trout Ranch near Woodland Park, was advanced from vice president to president, succeeding John Alexander.

Lyman Blakeman, of Colorado Springs, who has been a member of the club since 1958, was elected vice president.

Willis Magee, one of the organizers of the club and one of the first group to make the climb on New Years Eve and shoot off fireworks on the summit, was reelected secretary. He is an ex-president of the organization.

Kirches, 38, an attorney, came to Colorado Springs from Garden City, N. Y., and is a member of both the New York and Colorado bars. He has made four New Year's climbs up Pikes Peak as a guest of the club.

In World War II he saw action at Camp Hale, near Leadville. He and his wife, Jane Kirches, have three children.

It is expected that the fireworks this New Year's will be the best the club has ever had. It will be a 40th anniversary celebration.

The fireworks, wood for the Summit House stove and ice to be melted for drinking water were taken up on a Cog Road train before the line shut down for the winter.

$7,000 Tax Refund To Be Granted Broadmoor Man

W. C. Kurtz, 15 Elm Ave., is entitled to a federal income tax refund because of snowstorm damage to his trees in the Broadmoor area, U.S. Dist. Judge Alfred A. Arraj ruled Friday.

The Internal Revenue Service had disallowed a $10,000 casualty loss claimed by Kurtz as a result of the snow damage March 31-April 1, 1957.

About one - half of the 150 trees on his residential property, valued at $100,000, were damaged.

Judge Arraj said the trees enhanced the value of the Kurtz property, an enhancement "particularly large in the semi - arid state of Colorado."

A government attorney estimated Kurtz' refund would be about $7,000.

Mrs. Rachel Gibson Funeral Set Monday

A requiem mass will be held at 9 a.m. Monday at Corpus Christi Church for Mrs. Rachel V. Gibson, 229 Lilac Dr., who died Friday at a local hospital.

Rosary services will be held in the Swan Drawing at 7 tonight.

Mrs. Gibson, who was born in 1890 in Tourcoing, France, had been a resident of Colorado Springs since 1944. She came from France to Port Huron, Mich., in 1920 and was the owner of the North Gate Restaurant in Colorado Springs until 1951.

She is survived by a niece, Mrs. Jacqueline Maujean, and a nephew, Didier Maujean, both of Colorado Springs, and a sister, Mme. Marie Perrineau of France.

The Rt. Rev. Msgr. Anthony G. Elizi will officiate at the funeral. Burial will be in the Pax Christi section of Evergreen Cemetery.

State Patrol Hangs Out Help Wanted Sign

The State Patrol has announced that examinations will be held this month to fill patrolman vacancies.

The recent firing of patrolmen charged with falsifying their daily reports has created a need for the new applicants.

Altho patrolmen were dropped from several districts thruout the state, no one in the Colorado Springs area was affected.

Applications for a job as state patrolman can be made locally at the State Employment Office, 14 S. Nevada Ave.

Top-ranking applicants will be offered jobs as soon as the examinations are completed, according to an announcement by the State Civil Service Commission.

Beginning salary is $405, with $50 allotted for monthly maintenance. Top salary is now $517. All higher uniformed ranks are filled by promotion.

The examinations are open to legal residents of Colorado between the ages of 23 and 35 inclusive. Men must be high school graduates or have a GED (high school equivalent) certificate. Minimum acceptable height is 5 feet 9 inches in stocking feet, and minimum weight is 160 pounds.

Application forms and verification slips for height and weight are available at all local offices of the State Department of Employment, at Headquarters of the State Patrol and at the Civil Service Commission.

Completed applications must be taken or mailed to the Civil Service Commission, 701 State Services Building, 1525 Sherman, Denver 3, not later than December 7th. Early filing is advised by patrol officials.

Mother Kills Four Children And Herself

TOPEKA, Kan. (UPI) — A mother fatally slashed the throats of her four young children Saturday, then killed herself. She left a suicide note saying she did it because she was "no good."

Police found the suicide note in the blood splattered home of Mr. and Mrs. William Fitzgibbon Jr. of Topeka. The husband, a bricklayer, discovered the five bodies on returning home from work Saturday.

The body of the mother, Mrs. Ann Fitzgibbon, 28, was lying in the living room of the home. A bloody kitchen butcher knife was next to the body.

The children, all clad in night clothing and lying in various rooms of the home, were Billy, 5; Tommy, 4; Jeffrey, 2, and a daughter, Kelley, 1.

Fitzgibbon, 30, collapsed when he discovered the bodies and was taken to a hospital for treatment of shock.

Police said the woman and two children were in the front room, the body of another child was in a bedroom and the body of the other child was in the doorway of a bathroom.

Fitzgibbon told police his wife did not appear despondent when he left the house early Saturday for work.

Famous Oil Well Fire Fighter Reported Called

MEDICINE HAT, Alta. (AP) — Paul (Red) Adair, world-famous fire fighter, has been called to quell a raging natural gas well blaze, spewing flames into the air at Pendant d'Oreille field about 80 miles south of here.

The 47-year-old Texan is due here Sunday.

There were no injuries when the blaze exploded Friday, blew up a 1,000-gallon diesel fuel tank and sent its cap spinning 200 feet.

Fed by 15 million cubic feet of natural gas a day, the inferno collapsed a drilling rig and turned other well-head equipment to molter wreckage. Flames shot 100 feet into the air.

Damage was estimated at $250,000, including the $175,000 drilling rig. The well is owned by a group consisting of Home Oil Co., Ltd.; Canadian Montana Gas Co.; Kern County Land Co. and Alminex Ltd.

Natural gas spewed into the flames under a pressure of 1,000 pounds per square inch, and officials said there was little hope of bringing the flames under control in less than a couple of days.

Ken Finstead, an engineer with Canadian Montana, said the collapsed rig and other equipment would have to be pulled out of the fire area before the blaze can be brought under control.

Adair, who has been fighting well fires for 17 years, earlier this year killed a massive oil-well blaze at Gassi Touil in the Sahara, about 450 miles south of Algiers.

5th Division Sets Open House Friday at Carson

The 5th Infantry Division will hold an open house at Ft. Carson Friday, beginning with a 10 a.m. review with 10,000 marching men and featuring a country fair and unit open houses.

Saturday and Sunday will be division training holidays, a break in the Red Diamond routine.

The civilian and military populace of the Pikes Peak region have been invited to join Carson and division residents at the country fair exhibits and review on Pershing Parade Field.

The exhibits will be set up at the south end of the parade field.

They will include a display and demonstration of engineer equipment such as the huge scissors bridge by the 7th Engineer Battalion.

Fifth Signal Battalion will feature the capability of sending personal messages to Army personnel around the world.

Infantry battalions will set up exhibits as a command post, field kitchen and ground radar display. Visitors will be able to hear radar sounds of various weapons and vehicles.

The 4th Squadron, 12th Cavalry, will feature aerial and ground reconnaissance. First Battalion, 77th Armor, will display its tanks and artillery battalions will present various guns, howitzers and other equipment.

The fair will open at 10:45 a.m. after the review and continue until 3:30 p.m.

RIFLE REVIVAL

ROGERS, Ark. (UPI) — Daisy Manufacturing Co. says it will revive the idea of putting the propellant charge inside the bullet for a new line of .22 and .177 calibre rifles it is planning. With no cartridge behind the bullet, the gun need have no ejection mechanism. Tried a hundred years ago the method was abandoned because the bullet couldn't hold enough powder. But Daisy says it has a new secret propellant.

Annual Christmas Concert Scheduled at Shove Chapel

A Christmas concert will be presented by the American Music Society and the Colorado Springs Music Club on Sunday afternoon, Dec. 9, at Shove Chapel.

The music to be performed by soloists and ensembles, both vocal and instrumental, covers a span of 200 years. The program was arranged by the program committees of both clubs. Miss Grace Fitzgerald is chairman of the American Music Society committee, and Mr. and Mrs. Gunther Paetsch are co-chairmen of the committee of the Colorado Springs Music Club.

The concert, scheduled for 3 p.m. will be preceded by 15 minutes of Christmas carols performed by a brass ensemble, made up of members of the Palmer High School band, under the direction of Norman Smith.

At the conclusion of this presentation, the ensemble will open the program with Giovanni Gabrieli's "Sonata pian e forte," from "The Sacred Symphony." Ben Gahart, organist, will close the program with another Gabrieli composition, "Canzona and Fuga."

Johann Sebastian Bach will be represented by three numbers. Ida Boatright Hutchison, organist, will play his chorale-prelude, "Sheep May Safely Graze," followed by the Brandenburg Concerto No. 3 in G, played by a string ensemble.

Gwendolyn Wacker, mezzo-soprano, will sing the aria, "Prepare Thyself," from the "Christmas Oratorio." Mrs. Theo Fenlon will be her accompanist.

A string ensemble, under the direction of Fritz Funk, will perform the Christmas Concerto in G by Giuseppe Torelli and the Pastoral Symphony in C, from "The Messiah" by George Frederick Handel.

Hans Leo Hassler's Motet for Christmas "Angelus ad Pastores Ait," and a choral fugue, "He Trusted in God," by Gavanni, early Italian composer, will be sung by a vocal group under the direction of Mrs. Gunther Paetsch, with Ben Gahart at the organ.

The concert is open to the public and is free of charge.

PETITION ON FILE

BOULDER (UPI)— A petition seeking an election on the sale of liquor in Boulder has been filed with the city clerk here by five Boulder businessmen. It asked that an election be called to determine whether liquor could be sold by the drink in restaurants, hotels and clubs, and by the bottle at liquor stores. At present, only 3.2 beer can be sold within the city limits.

George Knox Assigned To Marine Active Duty

George W. Knox of Cascade, a member of Southern Colorado's Marine Reserve unit, the 6th 155-mm Gun Battery, headquartered in Pueblo, has been assigned to six Months active duty by that unit.

Knox will undergo eleven weeks of recruit training at San Diego, Calif. and a month of individual combat instruction at Camp Pendleton, Calif. This will be followed by two months of on-the-job training in an artillery specialty at the Marine Base, 29 Palms, Calif.

He will then be released from active duty and fulfill the remainder of his military obligation as an active Marine reservist. Knox will attend monthly week-end drills in Pueblo and two weeks of annual field training during the summer.

Marines to Hold 'Toys for Tots' Drive Saturday

The annual "Toys for Tots" drive, sponsored by the Marine Corps, will be held at 9:30 a.m. Saturday at the Ute Theatre.

Charles J. Kroll, manager of the theatre, said a kiddie show will be featured and admission will be one used-but-usable or new-but-inexpensive toy.

The doors will open at 9:30 with the show scheduled to begin at 10 a.m.

"Miss Betty" of the nationally televised show "Romper Room," which is seen locally on KRDO-TV, will sign autographs and present each child with a souvenir.

Persons desiring to give toys, but unable to attend the show, are asked to call the local Marine Recruiting Office, 634-1928, to arrange for the toys to be picked up. Individuals may also take the toys to the recruiting office before Saturday.

A portion of the toys collected will be given to the Colorado Springs Day Nursery.

The remainder will go to Christmas Unlimited for distribution to locally underprivileged families.

100 CC Dancers In Rehearsal For 'Nutcracker'

Some 100 dancers of the Colorado College Dance Theatre are busy practicing for the Christmas season presentation of the "Nutcracker Ballet" in the Colorado Springs Fine Arts Center Dec. 19-21.

The ballet, based on a Christmas fairy tale by E. T. A. Hoffman, will be under the direction of Norman S. Cornick, assistant professor of dance at the college.

This will mark the fourth performance of Tschaikovsky's famous ballet in Colorado Springs.

Professor Cornick said the ballet this year will have newly designed scenery and costumes. Set designer is Larry Heller.

Tickets for the production will go on sale Wednesday. They will be available at the main desk in Rastall Center on the campus, the Chinook Book Store and the Whickerbill Gift Shop.

Practice for the ballet got under way last September.

Professor Cornick, who holds degrees from the University of Utah and the McCune School of Music, has been teaching dance at Colorado College since 1954.

SITE INSPECTED

WALSENBURG (UPI)—The site of a proposed youth camp for juvenile offenders at Lathrop State Park was inspected Thursday by the Joint Budget Committee of the Colorado Legislature. The park currently is being developed. The youth camp would be built and operated by Lookout Mountain Boys School at Golden if the legislature appropriates $102,000 for construction and $177,633 for operating expenses for fiscal 1964.

'Shot in the Dark' to Launch Broadway Theatre League

"A Shot in the Dark," starring French actress Annie Farge, will be the premiere presentation of the Broadway Theatre League of Colorado Springs at 8:30 p.m. on Tuesday, Dec. 11, at the Palmer High School Auditorium.

Mademoiselle Farge, graduate of the Comedie Francaise, stars as a chic French parlormaid to an aristocratic family in the Leland Hayward production.

"A Shot in the Dark," adapted by Harry Kurnitz from the French play, "L'Idiote" by Marcel Achard, will co-star Robert Burr as the magistrate; Joel Thomas as the employer; Paul Ballantyne as the prosecutor; Barbara Stanton as the magistrate's wife; Freddie Chandler as the employer's wife; and Stanley Jay, as the court clerk.

Both Burr and Thomas played in the New York production of the comedy which was staged by director Harold Clurman. Clurman also directed "Bus Stop," "A Touch of the Poet," and "Waltz of the Toreadors," on Broadway.

Settings and lighting for the play are by Ben Edwards and costumes by Noel Taylor.

The Broadway Theatre League has booked the Jean Kerr comedy, "Mary, Mary," for Jan. 19; "Carnival," for Feb. 9; and Dame Judith Anderson reading excerpts from "Medea," and "Macbeth," on April 8.

A limited number of season tickets are still available, according to Norton Bain, league president. For information phone 633-0677.

Non-Agricultural Job Reduction Is Reported

DENVER (AP)—Colorado had an estimated 558,200 persons working at nonagricultural jobs in mid-October, about 3,000 fewer than at mid-September.

The estimate came here from the U.S. Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics. The report said layoffs in public utilities and some durable goods industries contributed to the decline.

The number employed at nonfarm jobs at the October date was about 8,000 more than in October 1961.

'Case Histories' On TV Blasted

NEW YORK (AP) — Robert Sarnoff, board chairman of the National Broadcasting Co. occasionally fires off a communique to the nation's television editors, and the most recent one, this week, dealt with "meaningful drama."

As a case in point, Sarnoff used a recent episode of the NBC "Eleventh Hour" series (that's the Wednesday night show about psychiatry and psychology). It dealt with a 15-year-old girl who had gotten, to use an old-fashioned phrase, in trouble.

He noted that, although the theme appeared daring, it was handled with responsibility and good taste and that the network later received requests from schools, churches and PTA groups for prints to show teenagers and their parents.

Armed with Sarnoff's definition of "meaningful drama" ("dealing with mature subjects, controversial themes or problems of direct pertinence to real people in real life.") I tuned in this week's episode of "The Eleventh Hour."

It was the story of a 19-year-old boy charged with the rape-murder of a classmate.

The story opened as the boy, with blood on his hands and a strange look on his face, was running away from the body of the girl. But in the end, it turned out that he hadn't done it at all—that he was a sensitive lad suffering all sorts of truma because he had had an aggressive, demanding father who had tried to get him to kill a rabbit when he was 11.

It seems to this viewer, who has been exposed to short courses in psychiatry, surgery and internal medicine during the past couple of seasons, that television drama is getting less dramatic as it goes in, more and more, for enacting case histories. (There was a period when novel writers, led by May Sinclair around the turn of the century, went through this "case history" phase, too.)

Sarnoff ticks off a few of the themes treated in NBC programs this year—including intolerance, juvenile delinquency, an expectant mother's fear of childbirth, a young child's hostility to an older brother.

I have seen so many sordid situations explored on television in the past two seasons that it would be easy to believe that most children hate their parents, that most parents are too demanding or too unconcerned, that most people solve their problems by alcohol, drugs, homicide or suicide. Old dramatic themes are dressed up with sik characters seeking revenge for imaginary wrongs, burdened with senseless fears, strange compulsions. I've gotten so injured to "meaningful drama" that I accept stories dealing with abortion, narcotic addiction and juvenile gang warfare as routine.

They are presented as entertainment, these dreary case histories. But for the most part they don't have a climax—they merely raise questions to which, to date, no one seems to have found answers.

ABC, whose excursion into color has been confined to old movies and cartoon features, will present its Christmas Eve Bing Crosby show in varied hues. George Maharis, still running a fever after acute hepatitis, has been ordered to remain in bed for complete rest for several more weeks. This means he will continue out of "Route 66" for awhile longer, and is cancelling his singing debut, scheduled for Dec. 16 on the Ed Sullivan Show.

CAPITOL STUFF

By TE DLEWIS

WASHINGTON — The so-called debate on tax cuts now going on under Administration auspices is in substance a well-organized effort to win public support for significant reductions.

This maneuver is significant in itself because in the past President Kennedy has not "gone to the people" in advance of congressional action on controversial legislation. The White House approach has been to try to manipulate Congress itself. If this failed, as in the case of medicare, then and then only were the drums beaten for popular support.

As part of this new pattern there is the present whooping up of a pie-in-the-sky $10-billion tax cut, which as translated in some quarters would provide substantial rate reductions in individual income taxes. This huge tax break is supported by the President's Labor-Management Policy Committee, Labor Secretary Willard Wirtz and Prof. Walter Heller, chief economic adviser to the White House.

Obviously the bigger a tax cut proposal is at this time — six weeks before the 88th Congress convenes — the more the popular appetite is whetted.

The $10-billion cut does just that. As it fails to specify what cuts should be made, it permits a lot of statistical conjecture to spread around. Juggling just one "informed estimate," it would mean (perhaps) an income tax break of $100 or more for the "average guy" making $5,000 or so, graduating up to a $4,000 break for the $50,000-a-year man.

But before the long-suffering taxpayer starts banking on such a break, he deserves a fill-in on the facts of the Administration situation.

First, the $10-billion proposal is only a trial balloon to test the national tax climate.

Second, key members of the Administration have other ideas than those of Wirtz and the labor-management group, which has on it such industrialists as Henry Ford 2d and such labor leaders as Walter Reuther.

NOBODY KNOWS WHAT JFK WILL PROPOSE

For example, Secretary of Commerce Luther Hodges favors only a $7.7-billion cut. Treasury Secretary Douglas Dillon wants a "substantial" cut but won't put the figure down. Dillon also wants a tax break spread over two years, half now, the rest later.

Third, President Kennedy has not yet disclosed just what tax reduction and tax reform legislation he will propose to Congress. None of the proposals so far made has been touted by sponsors as having even the qualified support of Kennedy.

And fourth—and definitely most important — whatever Kennedy proposes will go to a Congress which will be almost an exact duplicate of the last one. And the President knew, when he announced last August that he would delay proposing a tax break until January, that no kind of a tax cut could get thru the 87th Congress.

For this reason alone speculation going on here to the effect that before next June Congress will have enacted a big tax-cut bill, with reductions retroactive to Jan. 1, is definitely in the rose-colored-glasses category. There is a big if whether the new Congress will enact a tax-cut bill with any meaning at all. If it does bow to Kennedy and a public demand, the best bet is that final action will come close to adjournment—probably late August.

CUT WILL HAVE TOP PRIORITY

It has, however, become evident in the last few days — as the tax break propaganda drive develops — that the President has set his sights on fighting for Congressional action. The tax program will have in the next Congress the same top White House priority that the trade agreement bill had in the last.

But it will be a long drawn-out battle, with great doubt throughout whether the economy bloc, demanding a balanced budget first and tax cuts second, or Kennedy and his deficit-spending-theory will win out. For that reason it would be wise for John Q. Citizen not to build up hopes this far in advance of an early erasing of his tax burden. It has, of course, been a long time since the last break — which came in 1954 and was approximately a 10 per cent across-the-board cut amounting to $7 billion.

While the Administration now is clearly trying to educate the public on the need of tax cuts, the stirring of interest in the issue is, fortunately, not entirely one-sided.

One of Ike's top White House advisers, Bryce N. Harlow, has begun to push one idea concerning taxes that is worth passing on. He has proposed that the withholding system be limited to 50 per cent of an individual's estimated income tax.

SUGGESTS PLAN WOULD REVIVE RESPONSIBILITY

In a recent speech Harlow put up a sound argument for this limitation. "Such a move," he said, "by and of itself could do more to restore prudence and responsibility in Washington than anything else one can conceive.

"Let Citizen Jones dig down in his jeans two or three years in a row to pay at least half of his federal tax — let him budget month after month from his hard-earned income to underwrite those who play politics with his money — and his Congressman will quickly discover that cheap federal money has become very expensive back home."

Harlow argues that the withholding tax "is the most menacing assault upon citizen responsibility ever launched in this republic. For scores of millions of our people, take-home pay has come to signify total pay. Deductions are unfelt. The citizen is insulated against the pyramiding national folly."

He agrees, however, that repeal of witholding is at present politically unobtainable, and so he comes up with the interesting 50 per cent only gadget.

Looking at Hollywood

GRACIE ALLEN IS ENJOYING RETIREMENT LIKE A QUEEN

HOLLYWOOD, — No entertainer has enjoyed retirement more than Gracie Allen. I called her at 10:30 a.m. and she was having breakfast in bed. She said, "I live like a queen." Right in the middle of Beverly Hills, Gracie found a scene she wants her pal, Orry-Kelly, to paint. "It's a gingerbread house with a thatched roof that goes crazy and a well in the garden. I tried to get enough nerve to knock on the door and ask to see the inside, but I just couldn't." I promised to pick Gracie up and call on the occupants the first hour I have off. Gracie was astounded at my nerve, but that's the way I've met some of the nicest people. Each spring I used to stand in front of a Beverly home and drink in the beauty of a garden that was like a giant old fashioned bouquet. One day a sweet-faced woman came out and said: "I've seen you here before. Would you like to see the inside of the house?" She took me thru, and when we'd finished, said, "I'm Gershwin's mother."

Liz Taylor will soon be working on a Paris sound stage in another picture. I asked my informant if it's true that she won't do a picture without Richard Burton. He refused to answer. When I asked if he thought Burton would marry her, he said: "No. He and his wife are too happy sitting in Switzerland on their millions. Everything's come up roses for them and they'll continue doing what comes naturally."

Next to Liz, Martin Landau has the longest part in "Cleopatra." He started work on page 1, was killed off on page 373. She went to 378. Joe Mankiewicz swears Landau will emerge a star.

Anne and Charles Lederer haven't forgotten their friends and there will be the usual elegant, packed-to-the-rafters gathering in their home Dec. 31.

Patricia and Philip Barry put on a giant farewell cocktail party at their home, which once belonged to Charlie Chaplin's wife, Lita Grey. The Charlie Bracketts, George Cukor, Frances Marion — all the old, established firms and the new ones, too — were there. Philip took off for New York to co-produce a play with Kermit Bloomgarden, while his lovely Pat plays here in ANTA's one-nighter, "Legal Hours," on Dec. 13.

Sometime ago I wrote that the Barrys had turned their garage into a nursery school for their friends' children and their own, with their English nanny teaching. The day after the item appeared, they had a call from the welfare department, informing them it was against the law unless all the parents were present. Fortunately, they were just winding up the season — or they might have spent a few days in jail.

Neil Hamilton called to say he's been married to the same girl for 40 years. They met in Toledo. She was in charge of the theater where Neil played stock. His leading lady was Spring Byington and the troupe included Beulah Bondi and Elizabeth Patterson.

I thought the women had finished the chemise dress a year ago. But it's back again, more popular than ever.

Pipeline Suit Returned To Court in Wyoming

CHEYENNE, Wyo. (UPI) —A Public Service Commission suit against Wyco Pipeline Co., was remanded back to district court here, Judge Allen A. Pearson said Friday.

The suit filed here last month in district court by the PSC had been handed over to U. S. District court.

Plaintiff charged the defendant had begun construction of pipeline facilities between Douglas, Wyo., and Rapid City, S. D., without a certificate of public convenience and necessity.

This action, according to the Public Service Commission, violated the public utilities law of Wyoming.

Because of the "irreparable harm, damage and injury" to the public interest, the commission asked that Wyco be enjoined from further construction of the extension.

GETS CONTRACT APPROVAL

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Child actor Jon Provost Thursday was given court approval for his fourth option on a five-year contract for his work in the "Lassie" television series.

The 12-year-old Beverly Hills, Calif., actor will receive $50,000 this year for his part in the show.

Nazis, Youth Group Clash in Chicago

CHICAGO (UPI) — Swastika-badged American Nazis and a group of students who heckled them clashed in a pushing and shoving brawl last week in the Sherman House hotel in Chicago's Loop.

Police arrested 11 men and youths. Five sign-carrying men who identified themselves as Nazis were seized on charges of inciting a riot. One youth was held on an open charge for investigation of theft, and five, most of them students, were booked on disorderly conduct charges.

Authorities said the brawl broke out after the Nazi group picketed Terman, member of a Soviet-American friendship society. Terman was showing films taken on his recent trip to the Soviet Union.

The pickets carried signs read-here tonight," and "Communism ing "Communism must be smashed," "Red traitor speaking

FARMERS CHARGED

DENVER (UPI)— Three Colorado farmers were charged with "oppressive child labor" practices in violation of federal law Thursday in injunction actions filed in U.S. District Court. The suit, filed by the Labor Department, named Higinio Gaballero of Ault, Alvin Spady of Las Animas, and K. Matsunaga of Granada. The actions allege the defendants employed children younger than 16 on farms during hours school was in session in violation of the Fair Labor Standards Act.

Manitou High School News

By CATHY HENDRICKS

The Pep Club of Manitou High School is preparing for the pledge dinner and farewell dinner. During the pledge dinner pledges remove their ribbons and become junior members. At the farewell dinner junior members become senior members. At this time also, this year's officers turn over their offices to the officers for next year.

Manitou High School is going to participate in the carnival sponsored by the March of Dimes on Jan. 4 in the City Auditorium. Most of the high schools in Colorado Springs and the surrounding area will participate in this event. Each school will have some type of booth to raise money. Some of the booths will be a Peep Show, a Marrying Booth, and a Dance Hall. A few other activities will be a Limbo Contest and a Car Smash. For the Car Smash each school will have an old car painted its school colors, then rival schools will trade cars. For a dime a swing, these rival schools will have a chance to damage the cars. The school whose car has the least amount of damage in the end will win this contest.

Refreshments will be sold with all profits going to the March of Dimes.

Teenagers who have helped plan this carnival and who work with the March of Dimes are eligible to run for the king and queen of the carnival. Boxes with the persons' pictures on them will be in the auditorium that night. The girl and boy who bring in the most money from her or his box will be queen and king.

The schools in this vicinity are receiving March of Dimes envelopes to get ready to send out so the residents in this area may contribute to the March of Dimes.

Cheryl Washburn gave a report on State Student Council at the last meeting of the MHS Student Council. Sonny Spielman reported on the various ways in which other schools elect their student body officers.

The Student Council is going to put a Christmas tree up for the high school and decorate it again this year. They are still discussing the buying of some kind of shades for the classrooms.

The copy staff and the make-up staff met last Wednesday to work on the yearbook.

Manitou High School's library is starting a paperback book collection. These books may be checked out by any MHS student. Students are donating books for this collection.

The Pepperette sweaters are in and most of the girls wore them for the game. The "M"'s for the uniforms have been ordered and should be here soon.

The school cafeteria menu for this week is:

MONDAY

By LYLE C. WILSON

WASHINGTON (UPI)— Former President Eisenhower's bright young men have taken another angry swipe at the Republican party leadership. These bright young Ike-men are the editors of ADVANCE magazine.

ADVANCE is an occasionally - published periodical dedicated to the idea that Republicans must get rid of their present congressional and campaign committee leadership if they are to survive as a major political party.

Publisher Bruce K. Chapman is a recent—very recent— Harvard graduate. His associates, likewise. What they propose now is that the Republican leadership refuse to support segregationist congressional candidates in the South in order to concentrate on regaining the Negro vote in all other areas of the United States.

They cite most of the 1962 Republican triumphs and near - triumphs in Southern states as a shameful record. Republicans almost elected senators in Alabama and South Carolina in the recent election and added a handful to the GOP Southern delegation in the House.

ADVANCE objects loudly to Sen Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., as chairman of the Republican senatorial campaign committee and to his opposite number in the House, Rep. William E. Miller, R-N.Y. Goldwater cannot continue as Senate campaign chairman because he will be a candidate in 1964 for re-election.

Efforts before this to oust Goldwater from the chairmanship have brought instant counter-action from big time Republican campaign contributors. Their word was that the conservative Goldwater would continue in that job or they would not contribute. Goldwater stayed on. Now, however, he must step down.

ADVANCE has summoned the party to supplant him with a notable liberal, preferably Sen. Jacob K. Javits of New York. Javits does not want the job and probably will not get it.

Assured, however, is a Republican battle royal over selection of Goldwater's successor. General Ike is expected to be on the side of his bright young men, attempting to put a Modern Republican in the campaign chairmanship.

About the Republican reach for segregationist votes in the South, ADVANCE has had a lot to say, including this:

"Since the party organizations have not been squeamish about supporting segregationists, the Southern effort can greatly embarrass Republicans who are trying to win the Negro vote, whether in North or South.

Dear Abby--

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Be Tactful, Mom!

DEAR ABBY: Not because she is my daughter, but Joyce is an exceptionally beautiful 16-year-old. My problem is with her father. He is always picking on her. If she gets ready to go out in a hurry and leaves her cosmetics or curlers on the bathroom sink, he will pitch everything in the waste basket. (I retrieve it all later.) He is always finding fault with the boys she goes with, and they are certainly nice young men. He inspects her room, and if it isn't in perfect condition he calls her sloppy and lazy. This has started only recently. How can I make him realize that she's a good girl and he should leave her alone? TROUBLED MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: First, your husband should realize what "his" problem is. He doesn't like to see his "little girl" grow up. His attitude is common and it will take some uncommon diplomacy on your part to make him face the facts and behave accordingly.

DEAR ABBY: There is an old bag who works with us. She's been divorced a couple of times and is now single. She spends her money entertaining the young men who work with her. She is old enough to be their mother. She isn't smart enough to realize that the only reason they bother with her is because she picks up the tab. It bothers us to see this woman taken for a fool. Shouldn't someone put her wise? Or should we let her go on being a sucker? —CO-WORKERS

DEAR CO - WORKERS: Your concern brings a lump to my throat. If the woman enjoys herself, and the young men enjoy themselves, where's the harm? She has a right to spend her money the way she wants to. I think you have "nose" trouble.

DEAR ABBY: I have been going with a man whose wife died a year ago. He still wears his wedding band on his left hand. Is there some way to ask him to take it off entirely or to wear it on his other hand, without being too forward? I am very much interested in him. —INTERESTED

DEAR INTERESTED: Make no mention of it. He will take the ring off, or change it to his other hand, when he feels like it. But don't get your hopes up. That may be never.

DEAR ABBY: The letter signed "Broken-hearted" (the 15-year-old boy whose parents kept him awake with their fighting) struck close to home with me. Many times I'd go to school after being up half the night trying to keep my parents from inflicting physical harm on one another. I listened to threats and accusations no child should ever be forced to hear. The only consolation I can offer is that we sometimes profit more from a bad example than a good one. I learned what qualities to look for in a mate. Kindness, understanding and honesty. My children will never have to go through what I did. —BEEN THROUGH IT

Reformatory Asks Increase In Its Budget

BUENA VISTA (AP) — Officials of the State Reformatory asked here for a $206,557 increase in operating funds for the fiscal year starting July 1.

The request for an appropriation of $1,458,171 was presented at a hearing before the Legislature's Joint Budget Committee.

Warden Wayne K. Patterson said the funds were needed for care and supervision of the present 463 inmates.

Patterson also urged consideration of a $1.8 million request for new construction at the reformatory. The State Planning Division has recommended that request be trimmed to $200,000.

"We certainly arene't bound by what the Planning Division recommends," Rep. Oakley Wade, R-Las Animas, committee chairman, told Patterson. "Several times we have not followed their suggestions."

Patterson said he expected the population to reach 600 by 1965 and additional construction is necessary to provide accommodations.

No Major Changes Seen in Guard Plan

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Defense Department says the controversial reorganization plan for Army National Guard and Reserves will come out in final form probably this week, without major changes.

The plan, proposed by the Army last spring and supported by Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, consists mainly of breaking up eight infantry divisions, setting up streamlined brigade organizations in their stead and dropping about 730 company-size units which are considered obsolete.

A Pentagon spokesman said Thursday consultations are still going on with governors and Congress members, but it was understood the talks center on ironing out details.

LEGAL NOTICE

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN
NOTICE OF PETITION FOR ANNEXATION

Notice is hereby given pursuant to the provisions of Article 11, Section 139-11-4 of Colorado Revised Statutes 1953, that a petition for annexation has been signed and filed with the undersigned by Arliss G. Simmons and Mary Grace Simmons, praying for annexation to the Town of Fountain, Colorado of the following tract of land which lies adjacent to the present corporate limits of the Town of Fountain, to be annexed to and become a part of the Town of Fountain, in the County of El Paso and the State of Colorado, described as follows:

Lots 1-18, inclusive, in Simmon's Addition, Filing No. 2, to Fountain, Colorado, El Paso County, Colorado, according to the plat thereof recorded in Plat Book A-2 at Page 2.

Said petition was filed the 5th day of November A.D., 1962 containing the signatures of the sole owners of said tract. It states such proposed annexation conforms to statutory requirements, that petitioner is a qualified elector and landowner, that the land is to be used for residential purposes, and that annexation is in the best interests of public health and safety.

Landowners in this area may express their opposition to the Annexation and secure an election by complying with the provisions of the aforesaid statutes.

Done this 5th day of November A.D., 1962.

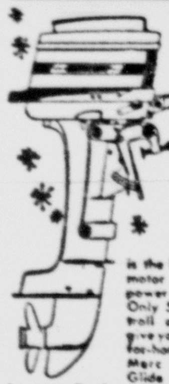
The ultimate in gifts for the OUTDOORSMAN



THE ALL NEW 9.8 HP MERC 110

is the lightest outboard motor in the 10 horsepower class ever made. Only 55 pounds, it will troll all day long or give you hurry-up-head-for-home speed. The Merc 110's slanted Glide Angle design lets you slip through weeds, over underwater obstacles. Its shearproof prop drive ends shear pin worries forever. Truly the Merc 110 is the ultimate in fishing outboards.

This bull simply carried out a "family tradition" Friday with three blue-ribbon winners listed in its pedigree. Five bulls were consigned by the Diehl ranch. The bull sale Saturday, held at the Pikes Peak Sales Pavilion, climaxed a three-day joint convention of the Colorado Cattlemen's Asso. and the Colorado Hereford Asso. (Gazette Telegraph Photo)

Prof. Amanda Ellis Reports On New Literature Method

A new approach to teaching Middle English literature has been developed by Colorado College English Prof. Amanda M. Ellis.

Miss Ellis, writer in residence, outlines the new method in an article written for the December issue of the magazine, The Critic, official publication of the College English Association.

She developed the college's Middle English course. The new product is a course for juniors and seniors called "Medieval Man, His Life and Thought."

It is, she says, "a depth course" requiring an unusual amount of background reading.

Students enrolled in the one-semester course are expected to read five social histories of the middle ages, excerpts from works on various phases of medieval life and culture, and the important literary works of the period.

"Among the college courses that have badly needed revision for years is that in Middle English literature," Miss Ellis writes.

"For years, many of us taught Middle English in the original, where the main stress was on language. True, the student emerged with an understanding of Middle English language; he had, however, a decidedly muddled, not to say inadequate idea of the literature of the period.

"Then came the vogue for Middle English in translation," she said. "The justification was that now students could read more widely.

"Included in these courses, usually were 'Beowulf' and other Anglo - Saxon poetry and prose as well as Middle English from the eleventh to fifteenth centuries; included, too, was early Irish and Welsh literature, some literature from France, Italy, Spain and Germany.

"Some colleges still read Chaucer in the original; others adopted one of many translations."

Miss Ellis is convinced that translations of Middle English works generally are unnecessary. She teaches Chaucer in the original, for example.

She notes that previously little attention was given to the art, architecture, music and sculpture of the period. "All these, I contend, are essential, if the literature is to come to life," Miss Ellis said.

The author of 15 books and 61 articles, Prof. Ellis received her bachelor of arts degree from Colorado College, Phi Beta Kappa, and earned her master of arts degree at the University of Illinois.

Among her works are a textbook, "Literature of England," a novel, "Elizabeth The Woman;" a nationally-televised play, "The Death Waltz," and numerous books on the West. She is well known for her continental literature as well as 20th century drama.

Long active in professional activities, Miss Ellis has served as vice president of the National council of Teachers of English.

She has been chairman of a committee on Teaching English as a Second Language, and headed a special committee appointed by New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller when he was coordinator of Inter-American Affairs.

Ole Miss Readmits Expelled Sophomore

OXFORD, Miss. (UPI) — A 19-year-old sophomore expelled when federal troops found explosives in his dormitory room during racial unrest at the University of Mississippi has been readmitted here under a court order.

The student, Taylor Robertson of Jackson, charged that the main reason for his explusion was to "placate" the U.S. Department of Justice and the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools.

In his chancery court petition, Robertson conceded that his behavior had at times been "below that of a well-behaved university student."

Judge J. C. Stennett issued a temporary order barring university officials from interfering with Robertson's attendance and ordered members of the State College Board to appear in his court at Jackson in January for a hearing on a permanent injunction.

Robertson said the association, the accrediting agency for schools in the South, threatened university officials with "withdrawal of the university's accredited standing unless indications of strong university sanction against any students participating in any demonstrations were evidenced."

He also claimed Deputy U. S. Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach threatened officials and students with contempt of court charges "unless stern disciplinary action, including explusion, was enforced" against demonstrators.

Robertson said he did not participate in rioting out on the Campus Sept. 30 when Negro James Meredith was brought on to the campus to enroll. He was one of four students expelled Nov. 2, two days after soldiers searched dormitories and found firecrackers and explosives, some in a suitcase which belonged to him.

CC Whips McMaster For Second Win, 6-3

By GLEN URBAN

A fiercly determined Colorado College hockey team refused to be defeated Saturday night and came charging back from a 0-3 deficit at the end of the first period to whip McMaster University, 6-3.

The game was played before a crowd estimated to exceed 1,200 at the Broadmoor World Arena.

This was the second straight win for the CC Tigers over the McMaster Marlins, who fell here Wednesday night, 9-6.

Before this series opened, the Tigers had lost 34 straight games, and it looked like they might go back to their losing ways in the first period Saturday.

The Tigers were flat and the Marlins controlled the play, scoring for the first time before the game was a minute old.

When the Tigers came back in the second period they were a different club. They controlled the puck a good 75 per cent of the time and kept the pressure on their visitors, who went to pieces and were unable to again put on a good attack.

The Tigers scored five times in the second period behind fine play by center Chris Batley and defenseman Bill Dixon.

Batley rameed home two goals, had two assists and played a good rink game. But it wasn't a game of individual stars, for it was a team effort that gave the local icers their victory.

The game, and the victory all came in the second period.

Even then, the Tigers had to play almost half of that period before they could score. But when they did, the scores kept coming.

Batley got the Tigers off their back when he pushed home a unassisted shot. That score gave the Tigers spirit and they went after the puck like their lives depended on it.

CC had kept the pressure on McMaster from the moment of the face - off in the period, but had been unable to score, even when the Marlins were a man short.

But once they had a goal, the Tigers stayed at it. Batley broke the Tiger drought at 8:19 and at 7:25 Cairns pushed home the second goal with an assist from Batley.

Then Roger Simon chipped in with a goal after Alex Yankovich fed him a perfect pass. That tied the score and Batley came back with another goal, this one with an assist from Ken Cairps, and the Tigers were ahead.

With a little more than two minutes left, Yankovich got a another goal, putting the Tigers out ahead, 5 - 3.

In this period, the Tigers had taken the game away from the Marlins, scoring five times and shutting out the visitors.

Pirates Defeat St. Francis To Cop Own Cager Tourney

The Pirates of St. Mary's won its own annual tournament by defeating St. Francis, 49-38, Saturday night in the final game with Harrison downing Manitou Springs, 41-39, for the consolation prize.

Buc Coach Ed Murphy's cagers bounced back from a fair showing against a weaker opponent, Manitou, on Friday night and punched their way to their second straight St. Mary's tournament championship.

"Big John" O'Connell once again proved to be the gun on rebounding and scoring as the six-foot-seven center pumped in 20 points to highlight both team's scoring.

O'Connell was assisted in scoring by Mickey Elliott and Steve Rome with 11 and 10 points respectively.

Murphy lauded the huge pivot man for putting in a good effort both in scoring and clearing the boards when he stated, "Johnny couldn't do anything wrong and considering that he has just completed playing on the football team and only had four days of practice, he played effectively."

Elliott turned in a solid supporting game and set up many plays for his teammates to score on. Elliott and Rome both displayed lots of hustle and put zip in the Pirates offense and defense.

In the Harrison - Manitou encounter it was nip and tuck all the way with the Panthers finally getting the edge, 41-39, and the consolation trophy in the tournament.

The Panthers held a five point advantage at the end of the first quarter and fell short in the second period when Coach Larry Olsen's Mustang's were fired - up and produced eight points more than their opponents could score.

Spearheaded by Mustang guard, Tom Johnston, the Manitou Springs squad almost pulled the game out of the fire with Johnston's 17 points, as he led both teams in scoring.

But the Mustangs allowed Coach Harry Horton's Panthers to outscore them in the third quarter by seven points and only rallied for a two point lead in the fourth quarter standing, but not enough to warrant a third place berth and consolation trophy.

Danny Gieck hit for 14 points followed by Tom McClure's nine, and Tom Elliott's eight points.

McClure put in a good performance in the opening night of St. Mary's Tourney (Friday) and considering that the six-foot-two lad had only practiced under his mentor's guidance for a short week, the entire Panther squad looked effective, but they ran out of steam in the final quarter to lose to St. Francis, 36-33.

St. Francis called on its galloping taller cagers to put the game on ice to qualify for the championship game with Murphy's Pirates.

Denver Schools Post Sweep In Second Prep Twin Bill

Rangy South Rebels Defeat T-Birds, 58-52

By TOM CUSHMAN
Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

South Denver's rangy Rebels completed a two-game sweep from Colorado Springs' high schools Saturday night by fighting off a last period Wasson rally to defeat the still-sputtering Thunderbirds, 58-52, in the second half of a doubleheader at the Palmer Gymnasium.

Dick Westbay's fluent T-Bird five had stretches of near - brilliant play early in the contest but got caught with their defenses down too many times in the second half. Wasson led thruout the first two periods and had a nine point bulge early in the second quarter but the tall Rebels picked up the pace after intermission, took control of the backboards, and shot the Thunderbirds out of the contest with a burst that started late in the third period and carried to the halfway point of the final eight minutes.

Wasson got exceptional work for the second straight evening from 6-3 forward, Karl Tait. The easy - moving Tait hit for 25 points to spearhead the Thunderbird offense and grabbed off 14 rebounds to lead both teams in both departments. Vic Shelton added 17 points to the cause but they had little help. Darrell Greene, the team's leading scorer last season, suffered thru the worst night of his career. He managed only a single field goal before fouling out in the second half.

Tait gave Wasson the lead 15 seconds after the opening tip and the TBirds, working deliberately to get good shots against their towering opponents, slowly widened the gap to 16 - 11 at the first quarter break. Baskets by Tait and Ken Charles upped that margin to 20 - 11 early in the second period but then South started to write its comeback.

The Rebels success began as Wasson suddenly abandoned its deliberate tactics and commenced to run with the Denver team. South gradually pulled closer and was only three points down at 24-21 at halftime.

In the third quarter Joe Wheeler converted a three - point play off the opening tip and South was on its way. Wasson kept a two to three point lead until midway in the period when Jim Wherry gave the Rebels a 35-34 advantage and they were never again headed. The T-Birds stayed within a point until a minute before the final break when South went on a six point spree that gave the visitors a 43 - 36 lead at the quarter.

The Rebels quickly upped that to 13 points in the first three minutes of the final period as the Wasson defense disintegrated. Then the T-Birds suddenly came charging back to make a ball game out of it. Tait hit 11 points in the final 3:50 of the game but the 'Birds still never got closer than five points.

The loss left Wasson with a 1-1 record. The Thunderbirds, preseason favorites to win the South Central League, will wind up their non - conference activity in a pair of home games against Cherry Creek and West Denver next weekend.

Lincoln's Free-Throws Net Victory

Palmer's Terrors emerged from the deep freeze for a half Saturday night but then lapsed back into a frigid shooting performance that allowed Denver Lincoln to come from behind for a last minute 48-46 win in the first half of a twin bill at the Palmer Gymnasium.

The Tribe, smooth and effective most of the first 16 minutes, built a lead of 14 points at halftime but then suffered thru a final two quarters during which they could manage only two field goals. Lincoln, still forced to contend with the aggressive Palmer floor play, could not cut into the margin very swiftly until the Lancers threw on a full court press that confused the local team thruout the final quarter. Lincoln finally forced a tie with slightly over 30 seconds remaining and then got the two points that won it on a bucket by center Bill McElroy.

Still the effort was a decided improvement for the Terrors over their Friday night showing against South Denver. Led by Bobby Joe Williams, Dave Steward, and Jim Justus the Terrors controlled the backboards. Alan Snyder, who hit 12 of 13 from the free throw line, was high point man with 12 while Grooter led Lincoln with 15.

Lincoln got away to a lead on two free throws by Jay Rooter after nearly two minutes had elapsed and swiftly built a 9-4 margin as their big men were swinging thru the Terror defense for easy baskets. Palmer suddenly closed off the avenues, however, and then began to take control of the backboards as well.

A basket and two free throws by Jim Justus cut the margin to 9-8 and then Walt Hylton provided the go ahead goal with a clever drive along the baseline. From that point the Terrors steadily picked up fire and went on to score 10 more points before the suddenly ragged Lincoln team could get on the scoreboard again.

The Terrors held leads up to 14 points in the second quarter, the margin they held at 32 - 18 at the conclusion of the half. Shooting trouble grabbed them again in the third quarter as they went the final 25 seconds of the period without a field goal but Lincoln failed take serious advantage, cutting the lead by only four points.

The Palmer drouth became more drastic in the final eight minutes as the Tribe still could not buy a field goal. A Lincoln full court press became increasingly effective as the Lancers steadily sliced away the lead until John Dill tied it with two free throws with only 54 seconds remaining. Walt Hylton missed on a one - and - one for Palmer seconds later and then McElroy hit the go-ahead goal from the key with 35 seconds left. The big Lincoln center then picked off a stray Terror pass on the return down the floor and Palmer never got the ball again.

West Virginia Tops Citadel

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. (AP)—West Virginia University's basketball sharpshooters broke away from The Citadel late in the first half Saturday night and opened defense of their Southern Conference crown with an 86-61 triumph.

Rod Thorn led the Mountaineers with 29 points. Charlie Madrazo paced The Citadel with 17.

Falcons Fall to Wisconsin

Last Minute Rally Falls Short, 72-64

By LOY HOLMAN
Gazette Telegraph Sports Editor

The Air Force Academy started out the season Saturday night in Coach Bob Spear's usual ball-control style, but it was Wisconsin University that finished the opener hugging the ball for dear life before panting off the Cadet Gym court with a 72-64 victory.

Spear termed his team's game "just about the way we'll have to play against every good team this season." Other than a shooting percentage that dipped below the expectations of the Cadets and a somewhat dismal start at the free throw line, the AFA mentor was pleased with his squad's first showing.

Wisconsin came into the Academy rated among the top 10 teams in the country and the favorite's role in the Big Ten Conference. Last year the Badgers were the only team to top league champion Ohio State during the regular season and they had no less than eight returning lettermen.

Had it not been for a rather chilly percentage from the field in the first half and a difference in accuracy between the teams at the charity line, the Air Force just might have sprung the first major upset of the year.

Altho trailing by 14 points at halftime and as many as 15 with less than four minutes remaining, the Falcons staged one of their patented last - minute rallies and it fell short by the final margin only thru clutch play by the visitors in the pressure - filled finish.

In the last minute the Air Force climbed to within six points, 68-62, and then had the momentum with Johnny Judd, Rich Porter and and Roger Zoeller providing a scrambling game that resulted in several stolen passes and a thrilling rally for the near capacity house.

Judd, the 5-8 sparkplug of the Falcons from Seymour, Ind., started the fireworks with a jumper and a driving layup and then Porter stuffed in a tip shot and dunked a free throw on the same play to pull the AFA to within 10 after Wisconsin had taken a 15-point bulge with 2:52 remaining.

Then Zoeller, a senior veteran still recouperating from a pre-season injury, made five straight points, Jim Diffendorfer sandwiched two free throws, and then Zoeller came back with two more from the line to trim the lead to only six.

The Badgers, however, wouldn't wilt under the pressure of the Falcons harrassing tactics and their superior height on the boards and crisp play in close to the basket paid off in the final minute.

Tom Gwyn, a 6-6 senior from Milwaukee, paced the winners with 19 points, most of them coming in the first half when the visitors built up their substantial lead, and he also led in the all-important rebounding department with 14.

His towering partner, 6-8 Jack Brens, chipped in with 17 points and 10 rebounds. It was Brens' follow shots and key rebounding that finally was the main difference in the game.

Judd had 15 points to pace the Falcons, altho he was off his usual efficiency from the field in hitting only five of 20 attempted shots. Parke Hinman followed with 13 and Porter and Zoeller each had 11 markers.

If one individual was a stick-out for the Falcons, however, it had to be Porter, who easily is the most improved played on the squad. Last year the 6-3 junior from Muncie, Ind. was slightly hidden on the varsity, but his all-round play (he was tops in rebounds with nine) was outstanding and he could be the key to another successful season at the AFA.

Due mainly to a below - average shooting percentage (38.1) by the Falcons in the first half, Wisconsin built an early lead and it appeared the big Badgers would be off to a runaway. Air Force stayed with their Big Ten oponents in the opening minutes with Spear's braided, zig-zig offense taking its time for the layup or open shot.

But the Falcons went completely cold for over seven minutes and while they were failing to make a single point in this span the Badgers built up a 19-8 lead which was just about the halftime margin. Gwyn was the main AFA tormentor in that first 20 minutes with 13 points, on layups and free throws.

Tiger Basketball Team Suffers One-Point Loss

A fine second half rally by a youthful Colorado College team fell a scant point short Saturday night and the Tigers of Red Eastlack dropped their opening game of the 1962 basketball season to St. Joseph's of Albuquerque, 67-66, at Cossitt Hall.

The Tigers, down 12 points to the taller visitors at halftime, came firing back with a strong second half and actually had a chance to pull out the decision. But two shots in the final 30 seconds missed the mark and the win faded with them.

St. Joseph's drawing on the fine shooting of forward Ron Williams, put together a blistering 45 point first half that had the Tigers reeling under a 45-33 deficit at the intermission. Williams, who had 20 points for the night hit 14 in that first 20 minute period.

Following the rest period, however, the Tigers began to defense their tall visitors more successfully. St. Joseph's managed only seven field goals in the second half but continued to pick up the necessary aid at the free throw line. CC never led but the Tigers had their opponents on the ropes at the conclusion. The local squad outshot St. Joseph's 28-25 from the field by picked up only 10 of 15 free throws as compared to 17 of 25 for the Albuquerque team.

Pacing the CC attack was senior guard Gregg Smith who took scoring honors for the evening with 23 points. Smith hit on 10 of 16 shots from the field. The only other Tiger player in double figures was Bob Baker, one of two transfers from Mesa Junior College who have moved into the starting lineup. Team Captain Carl Cabbiness and Phil Hart, a freshman from East Denver, each had nine.

Smith led the second half comeback with an excellent display from the field. The 5-10 sharpshooter had only six points at halftime but hit eight fieldgoals in the final 20 mimutes as the Tigers were whittling down the lead.

Four Pikes Peak Cagers Register Victories Saturday

Four Pikes Peak League basketball teams scored a victory over their opponents Saturday in the second night of non-PPL action.

Defending PPL champions, Salida, won over Alamos, 61-46; Widefield romped over Sheridan Union, 50-27; Academy High slipped by Brigton, 57-55, and Leadville topped Soroco, 52-41.

Coach Don Schmidli's Spartans pured on basketball excellence that made the league champions last year and sent home Salida cager buffs shouting their praises.

And shout they should. Big David Lantz proved to be everything his coach said he was and racked-up 21 points to outscore both teams.

Schmidli was rather pleased with his varsity cagers for their victory and basketball ability. He cited the Spartans for shaping up since their last game Friday night and possessed poise and ran offensive pattern more effective.

Eddie Rodriguez shot the Gladitors of Widefield over Sheridan Union by dumping in 15 points to lead the Gladitor charge over their lessor opponets, 50-27.

The home fans also witness fine play by the Gladitors' regular standby, Rusty Wassinger. The six-foot-three cager banged the bucket for 11 points.

Orediggers Nudge Tigers, 7-0 To End Local Football Season

By TOM CUSHMAN
Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

Colorado Mines and Colorado College, the fair - weather - boys of the rag - tag Rocky Mountain Conference, finally dropped the curtain on the local 1962 football season Saturday in a drab struggle at Washburn Field that the Orediggers picked off with a fourth quarter touchdown, 7-0.

The team, which had sidestepped their original date of two weeks ago by pleading an aversion to snow, had a dry field Saturday but it made little difference. Both ran out of their well-known "on - offense" formations most of the afternoon and justice would probably have been better served had the contest ended in a scoreless tie.

As it came out, however, Jerry Carle's CC team saw a determined defensive bid go for naught and the Tigers wound up their season with a 1-7-1 record, one of the worst in the history of the institution. Mines moved up to 4-5 for the season with the victory and also snatched a share of second place in the RMC with a 2-2 mark. The Tigers have no one to share the cellar with them but then they never really expected to finish any higher.

Carle got amazing mileage out of his thin ranks again this season, despite the final record. Outmatched again Saturday, but not to the degree of earlier contests, the Tigers still ran up a slight edge in the statistical battle and actually had several scoring opportunities none of which materialized. Steve Sabol missed a 30 yard field goal attempt in the third period and other efforts were twarted by fumbles and pass interceptions.

CC got a fine performance from senior halfback, Vince Greco, who ran for some 90 yards in his final appearance in a Tiger uniform. That was well over twice as much yardage as any other back compiled. Mines' leader was Daryl Dickerhoof with a whopping 27 yards but the Orediggers stressed volumn rather than individual accomplishment. They used 10 different ball carriers with the longest single gain being 11 yards.

The Tigers had figured to loosen the Miner battlements to some extent by passing but this idea fell incomplete along with 10 of the 13 attempts by CC throwers. To make matters worse, two of the completions were to the wrong team, leaving the Tigers with just one reception for seven yards. Not to be outdone, the Miners completed only three of 14 and had three tosses intercepted.

CC dominated the early part of the action, bottling the Miners up the first three times they had the ball. Actually Mines was minus yardage after the first quarter and the Orediggers did not see what it looked like on the other side of the 50 yard line until Earl Jaynes recovered a CC fumble at the Tigers' 32 midway thru the second quarter.

CC meanwhile had picked up a couple of first downs while pushing to the Mines' 39 on two occasions. Then late in the first period Bob Broyles picked off a Mines' pass and returned it to the Oreriggers' 41 ani the Tigers drove from there to the 23 before stalling.

Neither team had another solid threat in the first half but the Miners got serious right after the second half kickoff. They marched from their own 20 to the CC 25 before the Tigers were saved via a fumble recovery. CC then marched back downfield to the Mines' 20 from where Sabol's field goal attempt went astray.

That was it until the Orediggers took over at their own 30 early in the final quarter. A personal foul penalty and an offsides infraction on the following down moved the ball across midfield to the CC 47 and from their the Golden team drove over in nine plays with quarterback Grand Owen carrying the final two. Hal Capshaw kicked the extra point.

Greco put the Tigers back in business by riyping off a 39 yard run after the kickoff that put the ball at the Mines' 35. CC moved as close as the 13 before being set back to the 30 by a holding penalty and then fumbling the ball over to the Miners. That was their final threat and the Orediggers were actually threatening again with the ball at the CC nine when time ran out.

Sooners Sharpen for Bowl In 37-6 Win Over Cowboys

By JACK WILKINSON
United Press International

STILLWATER, Okla. (UPI)—The eighth - ranked Oklahoma Sooners, sharpening up for their Orange Bowl date with Alabama, exploded for five of their six touchdowns in the first half and routed traditional foe Oklahoma State Saturday, 37-6.

Quarterback Monte Deere scored one touchdown on a 22-yard scamper and threw for three more to join fullback Jim Grisham and halfback Joe Don Looney in leading the onslaught. The Sooners were able to convert only once, but it did not matter as the issue was settled minutes after the kickoff.

The victory, its 17th straight over Oklahoma State, finished Big Eight champion Oklahoma's regular season at 8-2, best for the Sooners since 1958.

Oklahoma scored three times in the first quarter to assure its seventh consecutive conquest. The Sooners took the opening kickoff and marched 68 yards in five plays to score, with Deere racing over on a rollout to the right side. Oklahoma sent Grisham running over from the one for the second score and Deere passed six yards to halfback Paul Lea after faking a field goal for the other first period touchdowns. The latter score was set up by guard Ed McGuarter's recovery of a fumble by Oklahoma State fullback George Thomas on the Cowboy 26.

Deere passed 22 yards to end John Porterfield early in the second quarter and Grisham rumbled 40 yards with an intercepted pass to make it 30-0 at halftime. The final Oklahoma score came just as time ran out, with Deere passing 16 yards to Looney. Butch Metcalf kicked the Sooners' lone extra point.

Oklahoma State, which managed to hold penalty-riddled Oklahoma during most of the second half, scored with just 56 seconds left. Quarterback Mike Miller, the Big Eight's top passer, threw nine yards to Don Brewington for the touchdown.

Grisham, Oklahoma's 205-pound sophomore fullback who repeatedly burst through the battered Oklahoma State line, picked up 156 yards on 30 carries. Looney got 101 yards on 20 trips. Halfback Don Derrick's 98 yards on 10 carries carried Oklahoma State's top offensive effort.

Deere completed seven of 15 passes for Oklahoma State's 120-yard output in the air. Oklahoma State got 148 yards rushing.

Oklahoma in going through the Big Eight undefeated, also completed its final eight games of the season without allowing a single rushing touchdown. Oklahoma State, losing its sixth game of the season before a near packed house of 34,000, finished sixth in the Big Eight at 2-5.

We are now seeing a great revival of a piece of clothing that was all but dead. It's the vest. Whether it is one that matches your suit or a bright red velvet or a paisley one, they are definitely on the very popular side this year, and even more so at this particular time of the year.

The vest can be traced back to the days of knights in armor. Their breastplates were to them what our vest have become today. Like many pieces of clothing that once had a practical purpose, today is strictly a fashion item.

To some individuals the vest is the height of conservative clothing, such as our image of a banker. But, on the other hand when the vest is worn by the playboy, it becomes a very dashing looking piece of apparel.

But these new vests offer the best opportunity for color and excitement in men's clothing than any garment has for many years. Wear a vest at your next cocktail party or dance and see how many compliments you get from the fair sex.

We invite you to come in and look over our selection of fancy vests here at

Trull Leads Baylor Victory Over Rice; Sets Loop Marks

By JOHN KNAGGS
United Press International

WACO, Tex. (UPI) — Don Trull, Baylor's phenomenal quarterback, passed for two touchdowns and ran over another Saturday to lead the Bears to a 28-15 victory over Rice in a battle of also-rans in the Southwest Conference.

Trull directed a Bear attack that scored in each quarter and the clever junior from Oklahoma City, set two new season conference passing marks — completions with 125 and yardage on 1,627. He also grabbed a new league total offense record by reaching 1,763 yards.

After halfback Bert Tate ran over a touchdown from two yards out in the first quarter, Trull hit end James Rust on 19-yard scoring toss in the second quarter. He ran over a TD on a keeper in the third quarter and passed nine yards to halfback Ronnie Goodwin for the final score in the fourth quarter.

Rice scored as the third quarter ended on an 11-yard pass from quarterback Randy Kerbow to end Gene Raesz. Kerbow found fullback Paul Piper for a 13 yard scoring pass in the fading seconds of the game.

For the day, Trull hit 16 of 25 passing attempts for 239 yards and added 15 yards rushing on seven carries. He also passed for a two-point conversion to fullback Tom Davies after the third Baylor score.

Baylor's usually sure-handed receivers had two passes jarred from their fingertips by crushing Rice tackles and ensuing interceptions thwarted two Bear drives.

Raesz made the catch of the game with a one-handed grab of Kerbow's pass for the first Owl score. Rice missed a possible scoring chance in the second quarter when the Owls drove 54 yards to the Baylor 16 where halfback Gene Fleming fumbled.

Stauback Leads Navy's Rout Over Army in Classic, 34-14

By OSCAR FRALEY
UPI Sports Writer

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—Navy's Roger (Starback) Staubach took the play away from PT boat skipper John F. Kennedy Saturday when he scored two touchdowns and passed for two more to torpedo Army, 34-14.

Dominating the service classic completely in the bright sunshine which flooded sprawling, jampacked Philadelphia Stadium, the sensational sophomore almost single-handedly sank the outclassed cadets in a game which had been rated a tossup.

There were plenty of Annapolis honors to go around in this rout before a crowd of 102,000 awed fans—98,453 of them paid — who included President Kennedy, General Maxwell D. Taylor, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, and a happy admiral, Chief of Naval Operations George W. Anderson.

For the white-hatted naval brigade roared lusty praise of Staubach's two pin-pointed receivers, Neil Henderson and Nick Markoff, as well as a Ron Klemick-to-Jim Campbell touchdown combo; Vern Von Sydow's extra point-placements; the outstanding defensive work of Pat Donnelly—and the out-of-the end zone center snap by Army which gave Navy their first two points for a safety.

There was little for the corps of crushed cadets to whoop about as Navy's Wayne Hardin became the first Middie coach to defeat the Army four straight years, and it was a victory which may have saved his job as well after being in hot water all season because of loquacity.

Cammy Lewis was Army's chief consolation as his passing set up one touchdown, which was buffeted over from the one by Don Parcells, and accounted for the second with a two-yard heave to John Seymour.

Lewis also passed to John Ellerson for a two - point conversion pass — but by then it was much, much too late for anything but consolation.

President Kennedy flipped the coin at the start of the game, and Navy won even that. Then the chief executive retired to a rocking chair in his box on the Navy side and watched the branch of the service in which he served start its rout.

The man who led them all of the way was Staubach, the 6-foot-1 inch, 195-pounder from Cincinnati. Once he even caught his own blocked pass and threw it again—and to cap it off he held the ball on extra points.

It was Donnelly's quick kick early in the first quarter which put Army in a hole from which it never recovered. He punted 58 yards to the cadet 18. Then, when Army lost three yards, Dick Peterson went back to punt but center Lee Grasfeder looped the ball clear over his head and out of the end zone for an automatic two points for Navy.

Army drove back to the Navy 20 but Dick Heydt missed a field goal attempt from the 27 and Staubach took over.

Navy whipped 80 yards to a touchdown, Staubach contributing 15 yards running and 56 on passes eating up the final 12 yards with his heave to Henderson.

Then, as the second quarter started, it was Staubach again spearheading a 63-yard march, in which he passed for 25 and then ran it over the final 21 yards for a touchdown. When he held the ball for Von Sydow it became 15-0.

Army hammered back with a 44-yard drive but then Peterson fumbled and it was Donnelly again recovering for Navy on the Navy 29.

Before the half ended the handcuffed cadets finally broke loose to go 55 yards on three plays. Lewis hit Bob Wright for a 53-yard gainer to the two and, after Wright cracked to the one, Parcells took it over.

Donnelly leaped high into the air to block a two-point pass attempt but at halftime the cadets were back in contention, trailing only 15-6.

But their hopes did not last long once Staubach returned to action. It was a Navy third down and 13 to go in the third quarter when he faded back, shook a pair of tacklers and uncorked a long one which Markoff gathered in on the Army 42 and carried all the way home in a 65-yard touchdown play. Again, Staubach held the ball for a successful Von Sydow conversion.

Then, as the fourth quarter started, it was Staubach again running for 7 yards and passing for 70 in an 89-yard touchdown march.

Army came back with a 65-yard touchdown drive, Lewis hitting Seymour from the 2 when the Navy line stopped the cadet running attack.

But that only made it 28-14 and then the Navy's subs stepped into the act to put the icing on the cake. This time it started when Walt Pierce intercepted a desperation Army pass on the cadet 15 and returned to the 5. Ron Klemick, subbing for Staubach fired a shot to Campbell and Navy had it stowed safely in the sea chest, 34-14.

'Sure Was Nervous'

Staubach's Wish Comes True in Navy Victory

By RALPH BERNSTEIN
Associated Press Sports Writer

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — "I dreamed of such a day against Army, but honestly I never thought it would come true."

This was young Roger Staubach's reaction to his sensational performance in Navy's 34-14 victory over Army Saturday.

The 20-year-old quarterback from Cincinnati, could hardly believe that he had scored two touchdowns, passed for a pair and virtually singlehanded hung Army and its Chinese Bandits from the yardarm.

"Sure I was nervous," he said in a voice so low reporters in the Navy dressing room kept shouting for him to speak louder.

Cheers from the Navy lads and their adherents rang through the catacomb that is the dressing room under Huge Philadelphia Stadium, where some 100,000 unbelieving saw the Middies crush the Cadets in a game rated even by the experts before the kickoff.

"With 100,000 people in the stands, including the President of the United States, who wouldn't be nervous," said Staubach, who belied his nervous state with 10 of 12 pass completions for 204 yards, and 34 yards net on the ground.

"He was fantastic," exulted Navy Coach Wayne Hardin. "But I've been saying that all year and nobody believed me."

How did it feel to be the first Navy coach to win four straight over Army?

"Let's say I'm happy and grateful, and that a lot of Navy people around the country are feeling good over this one," said Hardin, adding, "we have to start preparing for No. 5 next year."

Was there a turning point in the game? someone inquired.

"Yep," replied the fast talking Hardin, "When we showed up."

Over on the Army side where you could have cut the gloom with a paper knife, Coach Paul Dietzel commented:

"We just got a pretty good old fashioned lacing."

He dwelled mostly on the talents of Staubach in the conference outside the Cadets dressing room.

"When he's in there, he's in charge. He picks them up. All day long he turned potential losses into gains, with those passes and his runs. He's a real football player—Navy's not the same without him."

Tennessee Vols Trounce Over Vanderbilt

By RUSS DALEY
United Press International

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — Tennessee turned three breaks into second-half touchdowns Saturday and trounced Vanderbilt 30-0.

Tennessee's third-string tailback Wayne Bush, a sophomore playing before a home-town crowd in Nashville, passed for two of the Volunteers' clincher touchdowns.

The win eased some of the frustrations of a disappointing season for Tennessee, which had been rated among the top in the Southeastern Conference in presason estimates. The Vols finished with four wins and six losses.

The rough and tumble battle was still anybody's game at the half, even though Tennessee had a 10-0 lead.

But the Vols' Mallon Faircloth intercepted a Vanderbilt pass on the first scrimmage play of the third period to put Tennessee on the Vandy 21.

Three plays later fullback George Canale went over from the three and for all purposes the game was over.

Shortly after the next kickoff Tennessee recovered a Vandy fumble on the Commodore 31 and after Tennessee was set back three times by penalties, Bush passed 18 yards to end John Hudson for another score.

Before the third period ended Tennessee got the ball on an interception at the Vanderbilt 20. Bush passed to end Al Tanara at the six and on the next play passed again to Tanara for the score.

The loss was a sad parting gesture for Coach Art Guepe of Vanderbilt, whose resignation became effective after the game. It also made this year's Vanderbilt team the only one in history to lose nine games in one season.

Scoring:

Tenn—Paty 14 run (Shuford kick)

Tenn—FG 24 Shuford

Tenn—Canale 3 run (kick failed)

Tenn—Hudson 18 pass from Bush (Shuford kick)

Tenn—Tanara 6 pass from Bush (Shuford kick)

East Denver Cops State AAA Crown Over Lakewood

LAKEWOOD (AP) — Unbeaten East Denver marched 67 yards with the opening kickoff to take an early lead that held up under a furious second half rally by Lakewood's Tigers Saturday for a 28-20 victory that earned the Angels the Colorado Class AAA football title.

It was the first championship since 1949 for the Angels, who completed the campaign with a record of 10 victories and one tie.

The Denver League champions, ahead all the way, used their single wing power to ring up a 14-0 halftime bulge before a crowd of 8,000 at Jefferson County Stadium.

Then Lakewood, a one-touchdown favorite, stormed back on the running of George Lewark and Bob Stapp to close the gap before East settled the issue with a 35-yard scoring scamper by Ad Lopez with little more than three minutes remaining.

Lopez, East's 146-pound tailback, also scored the winners' second touchdown on a lateral from fullback Walt Oliver that covered 55 yards.

Twice in the second half Lakewood closed the gap to a single point at 14-13 and 21-20.

The Tigers went 74 yards for their first score, converted an East fumble into a second touchdown drive covering 43 yards and marching 64 yards for the third. That made it 21-20 with nearly six minutes left.

In defeat, the Tigers did what no other team has done this season. They pushed across three touchdowns against East, which previously limited its 10 foes to a total of 46 points.

Lakewood was in the finals for the fourth straight year. The Bengals were runnersup to Greeley in 1959 and Pueblo Central last year, winning the championship in 1960.

Coach Elects To Stay 'Home'

ALBUUERQUE, N.M. (AP)—New Mexico University football Coach Bill Weeks said Saturday he was withdrawing his name from consideration for the vacant University of Colorado Football coaching job.

Weeks said his visit to Boulder, Colo., Friday was "merly for a preliminary interview."

Weeks said, "I believe the Colorado football coaching position to be a fine one. However, I believe the New Mexico football future to be at least equally as bright and have withdrawn my name from further consideration at Colorado."

Broncs Face Best Record In Houston

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — If the Houston Oilers are best in the Eastern Division of the American Football League, they must prove it Sunday against the Denver Broncos.

Denver is the last team this year with an opportunity to sweep a two-game series from the Oilers, something no club has done in the three-year history of the league.

And if the Broncos can turn the trick, it will dampen Houston hope for a third straight Eastern Division title.

The Oilers, who came from behind to take a bruising 33-27 victory over San Diego last Sunday, have to beat the Broncos to maintain their half-game lead over Boston. The Patriots kept their chance for the title open with a 24-17 victory over New York Friday.

While Denver will be depending upon its top-ranked passing game to deliver an upset over the Oilers, Houston will bank on a balanced offense to do the job.

The Broncos, with the league's top passing offense, have thrown 459 times this year, more than any other club in the league, and run just 288 ground plays.

Houston has divided offensive chores almost evenly with 361 rushes and 358 passes.

Lenoir Rhyne Wins NAIA Title, 20-7

HICKORY, N.C. (AP) — Lenoir Rhyne used its powerful single wing Saturday to defeat Northern State of South Dakota 20-7 in the NAIA Eastern regional playoffs.

The victory, 11th straight of the season for the Bears, earned them a berth in the Camellia Bowl Dec. 8 against Central Oklahoma State at Sacramento, Calif., for the National Small College Championship.

Both teams entered the playoff here undefeated for the season.

But the Bears scored three times in the first half before Northern State could catch its breath. Meanwhile, the Lenoir Rhyne defense kept the Dakota team bottled up.

Ole Miss 'Bootlegs' by State With Late Rally

By ANDREW J. REESE JR.

OXFORD, Miss. (UPI) — A beautifully - executed "bootleg" play helped third-ranked Mississippi nudge scrappy Mississippi State 13-6 here Saturday to tive the Rebels their first perfect season and boost them to a Sugar Bowl date against Arkansas.

The powerful Rebels, 23-point favorites, were pressed hard throughout the warm, sunny afternoon by the fired-up Bulldogs, who scored first and trailed by only one point until late in the final period.

Then, with about five minutes remaining, sophomore quarterback Jim Weatherly faked a handoff and sped 43 yards to score on a perfect bootleg play.

Within seconds after the final whistle it was announced that Mississippi had accepted an expected invitation to play seventh-ranked Arkansas in the Sugar Bowl classic in New Orleans on New Year's Day. Mississippi has made bowl appearances in eight of the last 10 years.

The hard-won victory, before an estimated 30,000, was the ninth of the season for the unbeaten Rebels, giving Mississippi its first unblemished record in 70 years of football.

Quarterback Charlie Furlow, a 184-pound senior, was State's offensive star. He connected on 13 of 22 passes for 176 yards.

The Bulldogs drew first blood after Furlow hit halfback Billy Cook with a pass that covered 59 yards and left State only eight yards from pay dirt.

Halfback Ode Burrell smashed over from the three moments later but Ole Miss tackle Fred Roberts blocked Sammy Dantone's try for the extra point.

The Rebels roared back in the second period with wingback Louis Guy scoring from the one to cap an 82-yard drive. End Billy Carl Irwin's kick was good.

That was all the scoring until Mississippi took control on its own 40 late in the game and moved to the enemy 43, where Weatherly pulled off his surprise play and raced down the right sideline with nobody around him.

The Bulldog defense, led by Dantone, guards Tommy Ranager and Pat Watson, and tackle Howard Benton, kept Ole Miss star quarterback Glynn Griffing bottled up most of the afternoon. The senior signal caller got 14 yards rushing and 58 yards passing.

Mississippi clinched the SEC championship in notching its 31st win against its arch-enemy in a rivalry which started in 1901. State has won 24 and there have been four ties.

Miss. State	6	0	0	0— 6
Mississippi	0	7		6—13

Scoring:

State — Burrell, 3, run (kick blocked)

Miss — Guy 1 run (Irwin kick)

Miss — Weatherly 43 run (kick failed)

Lothridge Scores 25 In Tech Win

By DAVID M. MOFFIT
United Press International

ATHENS, Ga. (UPI) — Georgia Tech quarterback Billy Lothridge, at his triple - threatening best, scored 25 points and led the bowl-bound Yellow Jackets to a surprisingly easy 37-6 victory over arch-rival Georgia Saturday.

Lothridge, Tech's Mr. Do-It-All, rolled up 196 yards running and passing, 164 in the first 32 minutes of the game, to set a new Georgia Tech season record of 1,484 yards. He scored his 25 points on three touchdowns, a field goal and four conversions.

Georgia, which didn't get a first down until the third period, was never in the game. Tech stormed to a 14-point lead in the first period on one-yard touchdown plunges by fullback Mike McNames and Lothridge and then broke the game wide open with two more touchdowns in the third period.

A record crowd of 55,000 cheered Lothridge's performance.

Lothridge scored the first of the two third period tallies on a one-yard sneak with only 2:27 gone in the period and sophomore halfback Gerry Bussell got the other on a blazing 86-yard run four minutes later.

Lothridge added the final 10 Tech points with his fourth straight conversion after Bussell's touchdown, a 43-yard field goal and a one-yard touchdown plunge in the fourth period.

Georgia's lone score came on a 72-yard march following Bussell's touchdown and aided by an unusual 27-yard penalty against Tech for holding. Georgia quarterback Larry Rakestraw, harassed all afternoon by a hard-charging Tech line, threw a 10-yard touchdown pass to halfback Carlton Guthrie.

Georgia tried to pass for a two-point conversion but failed.

Georgia drove to the Tech 14 on a sustained drive prior to Bussell's touchdown run, but missed on a fourth down pass with less than a yard needed and Tech took over. On the next play, Bussell raced around end, picked up a couple of blocks and then streaked downfield on the second longest run from scrimmage in Tech history.

The 31-point margin was the widest Tech had run up on Georgia since 1956 when the Yellow Jackets beat the Bulldogs, 35-0. The win sent Tech into the Bluebonnet Bowl against Missouri with a 7-2-1 record, Tech's best since 1956. Georgia ended with a 3-4-3 mark.

Lothridge completed 8 of 15 passes for 120 yards and ran for 76 more.

Georgia Tech officially accepted the bid to the Bluebonnet Bowl in Houston, Tex., Dec. 22 as soon as the game ended.

Virginia Snaps Rugers, 41-0 Via Ground Attack

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J. (UPI) —Virginia unleashed a devastating ground attack Saturday to bury Rutgers 41-0 and snap the Scarlet's consecutive-game scoring streak at 53 games.

A crowd of 16,500, sitting in warm sunshine at the late-morning game in Rutgers Stadium, saw the home team absorb its worst loss since a 48-6 defeat at the hands of Colgate in 1956. It was Rutgers' first shutout defeat since the Scarlet bowed, 7-0, to Princeton in the first game of the 1957 season.

Virginia, on the other hand, scored its first shutout since an 18-0 victory over VMI in the 1956 opener and tallied its most points since a 49-0 rout of Richmond in 1952.

'Bama Crunches Auburn Enroute to Orange Bowl

By BILL TOME
United Press International

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI) — Halfback Butch Wilson, aided by center Lee Roy Jordan's crushing block, gallped 92 yards with the opening kickoff Saturday to launch Orange Bowl-bound Alabama's 38-0 rout of Auburn.

In a burishing display of power football, the once-beaten Crimson Tide shook loose fumbles, intercepted passes and kept the Tigers bottled up in their own half of the field virtually the entire game.

Auburn never had a chance in this 27th renewal of a bitter Southeastern Conference rivalry before a capacity crowd of 54,000 in Legion Field. The Alabama victory evened the series at 13 wins apiece with one tie.

Ace sophomore quarterback Joe Namath scored one touchdown on a run of 17 yards and passed 15 yards to halfback Cotton Clark and 16 yards to end Dick Williamson for two more. End Bill Battle scored once on a blocked Auburn punt and Tim Davis, who converted five times, kicked a 39-yard field goal.

In running its string to four straight victories over cross-state rival Auburn, the Crimson Tide made it four straight whitewashings.

The combination of Jordan, All-Southeastern Conference centerline backer and SEC player of the year, and Wilson went to work on the kickoff. Wilson took the ball on his own eight, cut to the right sideline, received a block from Jordan which enabled him to turn upfield and went the rest of the way.

Namath swept left end with Wilson providing the key block shortly after the second period began, then Jordan teamed with guard Jimmy Wilson and tackle Butch Henry to block Jon Kilgore's punt which was recovered by Battle in the end zone.

In the second period, the Alabama defense shook loose fumbles twice from Tiger halfback George Rose on kickoffs. Davis missed a 52-yard field goal attempt after the first but connected from 39 yards out after the second.

Namath, the sensational sophomore, shot a 15 - yard toss to Clark, the conference's scoring leader with 92 points, after a short punt by Kilgore had put Alabama in business at the Auburn 29.

After Auburn's Billy Edge fumbled a punt on the Auburn 16 which was recovered by Butch Wilson, Namath passed on first down to Williamson who was wide open in the end zone.

Cincinnati Cagers Voted To Lead College Basketball

By ROBERT MOORE
Associated Press Sports Writer

Cincinnati's two-time NCAA champions were tapped Saturday in the annual pre-season poll of The Associated Press as the team most likely to lead the 1962-63 college basketball parade.

The Bearcats were the only one of the 38 teams receiving votes to be named on every ballot. They collected 18 of the 23 first-place votes.

The panel of sportswriters and sportscasters put the finger on Coach Ed Jucker's stars even though Paul Hogue has been graduated and his successor, 6-foot-10 Ron Krick, will see no action because of a dislocated shoulder.

Cincinnati monopolized the voting, stacking up 218 points on the basis of 10 points for a first-place vote, nine for a second and on down.

Duke's Blue Devils, 10th at the close of last season, were second with 152 points and Kentucky's Wildcats, third a year ago, were third with 141. Duke and Kentucky each got two first-place votes and Stanford the other.

Rounding out the top ten were Loyoloa of Chicago with 97 points, West Virginia 76, Mississippi State 66, Oregon State 63, Illinois 62, St. Bonaventure 44 and Wisconsin 42.

The panel undoubtedly was impressed with the fact that even though Jucker has lost Hogue and perhaps the big sophomore, Krick, Cincinnati still has four frontliners back in Ron Bonham, George Wilson, Tom Thacker and Tony Yates.

Duke, likewise, has four starters returning, including Art Heyman and Jeff Mullins.

Dense Fog Hauls Grey Cup Football Finals in Canada

TORONTO (AP)—A dense fog swirling in and out of the playing field forced the Grey Cup football final for the Canadian championship to be halted Saturday with defending champion Winnipeg leading Hamilton 28-27 with 9 minutes, 29 seconds remaining.

The game will be completed Sunday starting at 1:30 p.m., EST.

During the first 5 minutes of the final quarter, the fog descended on the waterfront stadium and cut off all view of the playing field.

Officials called a 15-minute halt, then decided there was no chance to complete the game Saturday.

The game will resume with the Blue Bombers in possession, second down on the Hamilton 54-yard line.

The ABC, which televised the game in Canada and the U.S., announced later that it will pick up and record Sunday's play and telecast it during a sports feature period one week later.

Major League All-Star Tilt Slated for Cleveland July 9

By STEVE SNIDER

NEW YORK (UPI) — Major league baseball Saturday awarded the 1963 All-Star game to Cleveland for next July 9 and officially adopted a million dollar player-development program to assist 102 minor league clubs.

In a joint session before Commissioner Ford Frick at the end of their annual winter meetings, the American and National leagues also agreed to keep each other informed of future expansion plans so there'll be no disorganized scurrying for new cities, and turned down a proposal by General Manager Ed Short of the Chicago White Sox for a 72-hour inter-league trading period each June.

The switch in procedure for next year's single All-Star game, which normally would have gone to a National League city under the rotation plan, automatically made the New York Mets the host in 1964 when vast crowds are expected in the big town for the World's Fair.

The National League waived its rights to the 1963 game with the understanding New York would get it in 1964.

Frick said it was too early to consider further expansion but he got a new rule passed to prevent another such hurried operation as two years ago when the American League jumped to 10 clubs for the 1961 season and left the National with only eight until 1962.

"The leagues have agreed no expansion action will be taken without full discussions between both leagues in a joint executive session," Frick said.

The player - development program, originated by the majors and accepted by the minors earlier this week, had to be adopted by major league owners before it became a part of baseball's code.

In effect, it means major league clubs will supply the players, train them and defray part of their salaries as well as the first $7,500 of a manager's salary on 102 minor league clubs.

Baker Drafted by Chargers Houston Signs Huge Tackle

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—Heisman Trophy winner Terry Baker, the national total offense leader from Oregon State, was selected in the American Football League draft Saturday by San Diego.

The clubs had held off until the twelfth round to draft the quarterback since they figured he might already to committed to the National Football League or to Canada, which reportedly had offered him a big contract.

However, San Diego's Chargers, who already had rookie quarterback John Hadl doing a good job, finally decided to take a chance on being able to sign the talented Oregon State star.

A 174-pound sprinter became the No. 1 draft choice of professional football when Junious Buchanan, the giant tackle from Grambling College of Louisiana, not only was drafted by Dallas in the first round but signed on the spot.

Dallas leads the AFL but got first choice in the draft since it acquired the rights from last place Oakland.

The Texans passed up Baker because they already had plenty of top quarterbacks and concentrated on huge, capable linemen.

Buchanan, standing 6 feet 7, is a sprinter and middle-distance runner in track, doing the 100 in 10.4, the 220 in 22.5 and the 440 in 49.2.

All of the clubs were leaning heavily toward linemen, especially tackles. In the first six rounds 14 tackles had been taken. That equalled the number of backs. Eight ends, 9 centers, 3 guards, 10 halfbacks and 4 fullbacks were drafted.

Doug Sanders Hold Lead in Palm Beach Open

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (UPI)—Doug Sanders, a Georgia boy with a duffer's backswing, played another smooth round of below-par golf Saturday to hold a one-stroke lead in the $20,000 West Palm Beach Open.

Sanders, from Cedartown, Ga., and playing out of Ojai, Calif., had a 70, two under par, over the West Palm Beach Country Club course in the third round for a 54-hole total of 207 heading into Sunday's final round.

Tied for second at 208 were Bobby Nichols of Midland, Tex., with a 69, and Dow Finsterwald of Tequesta, Fla., who made himself the comer of the tournament with a red-hot 66 over the tricky course today—six under par and the best round of the day.

Finsterwald carded the best nine-hole score of the tournament on his homecoming round—a 30. He was even par at the turn, then birdied six of the last nine holes.

Tied at 209 were Rod Funseth, Spokane, Wash.; Dave Ragan, Sun City, Fla., and J.C. Goosie, Largo, Fla.

Jack Nicklaus, U.S. Open champion playing a tuneup match after 10 weeks away from competitive golf, was back in the pack at 213, but was consistently improving each day. He had a 69 today.

"I'm playing poorly, but I seem to be getting better all the time," said Niklaus.

Wilson, Brown Rally Trojans to 25-0 Win

By ALEX KAHN
UPI Sports Writer

LOS ANGELES (UPI)— Piledriving Ben Wilson and fleet Willie Brown provided the impetus Saturday to lead top-ranked University of Southern California to a 25-0 victory over Notre Dame and the Trojans' first undefeated season in 30 years.

The Trojans next face Wisconsin in the Rose Bwol new Year's Day.

But the first Trojan victory in six years over Notre Dame was no two-man job. The brilliant quarterback work of Pete Beathard and the rugged, hard charging play of the Trojans' defensive unit definitely shared in the credit.

While a crowd of 81,676 sat waiting for the Irish to unleash their versatile attack, the Trojans piled up a 13-0 lead—on two Wilson 1-yard touchdown plunges—in the first half and then added the clincher with a pair of fourth-period touchdowns.

The great Daryle Lamonica's vaunted passing was bottled up in the first half, clicked in midfield in the second half but failed to push the Irish into scoring territory.

The closest Notre Dame ever came to the USC goal line was the 29—in the second period, but fumbled away that opportunity.

The Trojans got their offense rolling early. The first time they got the ball they drove 60 yards for a score. Brown took a five-yard sideline pass from Beahard and then danced 34 yards to the Irish 18. From there Wilson carried on three of four plays, including the touchdown yard.

In the second period the Trojans marched 78 yards for their second score. A 28-yard rollout by Bethard and a 21-yard end sweep by Brown brought them to the 14. From there, Wilson carried the ball three consecutive times—the final time for the score.

The defense led by Damon Bame. Pete Lubisich, Bill Fisk and Armando Sanchez finally put the game away in the fourth period with their hard-charging work forcing the Irish back to their own 11. After Lamonica's punt, the Trojans went 41 yards with Wilson making 4 of 8 carries and the touchdown coming on Bill Nelsen's 14-yard pass to end Fred Hill.

Sanchez intercepted a Lamonica desperation pass in the final two minutes on the Notre Dame 21. Quarterback Craig Fertig ultimately got the Trojans to the 6 on a pass and then rolled over himself for the score.

Bruins Net 14-11 Win Over Utah

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — UCLA, scrambling for a break-even season, struck for a fourth period score Saturday to down fired-up Utah 14-11 in an intersectional football battle at Ute Stadium.

The victory preserved UCLA's record of never having lost to a Utah team and brought the Bruin's season record to four wins and five losses. They have one game remaining next Saturday against Syracuse.

The Bruins, outplayed most of the game, tallied with nine minutes remaining to' spoil Utah's hopes for an upset. A chilled crowd of 11,132 saw the Ute season finale in 34-degree weather.

Utah closed its campaign with a 4-5-1 record.

The winning score came to a 22-yard-pass from quarterback Carl Jones to end Mel Profit. The touchdown erased an 11-6 Utah advantage and put UCLA out in front 12-11.

UCLA's other touchdown came in the second period when Alexander ran 66 yards for a touchdown.

Utah took a 6-0 lead in the first period by marching 65 yards in 11 plays. Fullback Bud Tynes dove over from the one yard line for the score.

The aroused Utes got their other points on a 29-yard field goal in the third period by Roy Jefferson and two other points in the final period on the safety.

Dallas Texans Seek WD Title Against Buffalo

By THE ASSOCIATED PR

The Dallas Texans, only in away from being the team breaks San Diego's two-y stranglehold, attempt to nail dc the Western Division crown Sunday's top American Footb League game.

The Texans, 9-2 for the seas and winner of six of their la seven, go against tough Buffa with at least a share of the tit already in hand. Either one more Dallas victory or one more Denver loss secures the Western title and a playoff spot for Dallas. San Diego won the Western title for the first two years of the league's young life.

Dallas has three more games to play and Denver, facing a long, uphill struggle, only two, including Sunday's visit to Eastern leader Houston. Oakland is at San Diego in a clash of the Western also-rans in the only other game on schedule.

Dallas scored a 41-21 victory over Buffalo in their first meeting this season, but the picture has changed a bit since then.

TCU Hopeful for Gothan Bowl After SMU Victory

By ED FITE

DALLAS (UPI) — Texas Christian turned to a crunching ground game and a crushing defense Saturday to tame stubborn Southern Methodist's militant Mustangs 14-9 and fan its hopese for a Gotham Bowl invite.

Tough Tommy Crutcher took over the starring role for the Christians, scoring touchdowns in the second and third quarters on one and three-yard smashes and replacing TCU's usual effective passing attack with a 116-yard rushing effort.

The victory gave TCU a 6-4 season record and tightened the Christians' hold on third place in the Southwest Conference with a 5-2 record behind bowl - bound champion Texas and runnerup Arkansas.

SMU, with Max Derden engineering most of the attack, drove for a first period 29-yard field goal by John Richey and an eight-yard scoring pass from Billy Gannon to Tom Sherwin in the third quarter.

But, when the Methodists surged into a game-winning position in the final quarter with a first down on the TCU 8, the rugged Christian defenders rose up and threw SMU back to the 13, where Richey failed for the seceond time to spin a three-point kick with accuracy.

It marked SMU's eighth defeat against two victories for the season and its fifth conference loss by scant margin of only 22 total points. They lost no league game by more than a touchdown.

SMU also did a bit of blunting on its own defensive, stopping one TCU drive on the one-foot line in the first quarter and picking off a TCU pass at the goal line to blunt another TCU threat in the second period.

TCU's Jim Fauver had a 99-yard kickoff return nullified by a clipping penalty on the second half kickoff, but TCU promptly put on a sustained 89-yard march to make up for it with what proved to be the winning touchdown.

Sonny Gibbs, the 6-7 quarterback giant who closed out a starring career for TCU, tried only nine passes in light of Crutcher's running success, and hit five of them for 62 yards, pushing him past the 1,000-yard mark for the season.

SMU	3	0	6	0— 9
TCU	0	7	7	0—14

Berlin Morale Given Boost in Cuban Crisis

By GEORGE BOULTWOOD

BERLIN (AP)—Four years ago today Nikita Khrushchev gave the Western Allies six months to get out of West Berlin.

The United States, Britain and France are still here, exercising their war-won rights of occupation.

Their presence is supported by 12,500 combat-ready troops.

The Communist-surrounded city is enjoying one of its most peaceful periods in years.

Berliners are feeling more perky than they have in a long time. President Kennedy's firm handling of the Cuban crisis gave their morale a terrific boost.

They know the threat of a Red take-over of the free part of the divided city has not melted away. But they breathe more easily in the belief that Khrushchev now really understands that the United States and its allies will fight if necessary to preserve West Berlin's freedom.

On Nov. 27, 1961, the atmosphere in Berlin was very different. U.S. and Soviet tanks were parked near the wall dividing the city. There was a stream of incidents along the wall and on the land and air routes from the West to the divided city.

The West Berliners were still dazed and angry from the shock of the wall. Police clashed with students who tried a mass attack on it.

Now things are much calmer. There is still heartache over the brutal separation of families and friends. This gets harder to bear with the approach of Christmas.

Moscow's puppet regime on the other side of the wall has kept mum since Cuba. The propaganda machine no longer grinds out confident predictions that East Germans will soon have its long-promised peace treaty with the Soviet Union.

This pact was supposed to end Western allied rights in West Berlin and cut out what Khrushchev called the "cancerous tumor" inside his domain.

Even after Khrushchev dropped his original six-month demand, the East German Reds kept up a steady stream of threats against West Berlin. In 1960 they said they would have their treaty "this year." But 1960 passed without a treaty. Last year they made the same unfulfilled prediction.

Since Cuba, they have scarcely mentioned the treaty.

No new time limits have been set by the Reds.

West Berliners, wary veterans of 17 years of cold war, don't expect this to last forever.

They reason that the Soviets are having to rethink their strategy after Cuba. That may take some time.

Maybe long enough for the Berliners to have a peaceful, if not exactly joyous, Christmas.

Fredericksburg Bloody Struggle Is Recounted

By PHILIP VAN DOREN STERN
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

The meeting of the Union officers in the Phillips house was over, and the plan to make a direct attack on the Confederates holding the heights behind the little town of Fredericksburg, Va., had been agreed upon. But General Burnside, who had replaced McClellan only a month before, was evidently not quite sure of himself.

In the hallway, he asked two young colonels for their opinions. One, who had examined the steep slopes across the river earlier, said candidly: "It will be the greatest slaughter of the war, sir. We don't have enough infantry to carry those heights if they're well defended."

Burnside looked annoyed, but he asked the other officer what he thought. "It will be murder," the colonel replied. The general muttered something about "throwing cold water on his plans" and stalked out into the crisp, clear winter night.

He was a well-intentioned man, the new commander, modest, thoughtful, and considerate. But under him the Army of the Potomac was facing its greatest disaster.

His forces, 120,000 strong, were gathered at Falmouth on the north shore of the Rappahannock. On the other side, hidden in houses along the waterfront and sheltered in trenches dug into the hillsides beyond Fredericksburg, were some 75,000 or 80,000 Confederates. The pontoons needed to put Union troops across the river had been late in arriving, a bit of bad luck for the Army of the Potomac which had given Lee time to bring Jackson and his men in from the Shenandoah Valley.

On the night of Dec. 10-11, a heavy mist shrouded the river. Masked by the dense fog, Federal engineers were busily at work long before dawn trying to get their pontoons in place. Far downstream the work was fairly easy, and there they made rapid progress. But the bridges under construction at either end of the town had to be built under the deadly fire of Barksdale's Mississippians. Man after man was picked off by their rifles, and as the mist began to lift, work on the pontoons became even more dangerous.

About 10 a.m. nearly 150 Federal guns on the northern shore sent thousands of shots crashing into the town to tear buildings apart and set them on fire. Smoke was added to the mist hanging over the river to impair visibility still further. But the heavy bombardment had little effect on Barksdale's men who were safely sheltered in cellars or rifle pits.

Finally, about 60 Union soldiers were put into one of the pontoon boats and rowed quickly across the river to establish a bridgehead. Others soon followed. They spread through the streets to drive out Barksdale's Mississippians. It took hours of house-to-house fighting to clear the town, and night set in before the job was done. Meanwhile, the pontoon bridges were completed and were ready for the troops to cross.

No attempt to put the men on the Fredericksburg side was made until the next morning (Dec. 12), when another heavy mist concealed their movements. It took a whole day to get the vast host across.

Troops were still passing over the bridges when Dec. 13 dawned chill and damp with another heavy mist. More than 80,000 Union soldiers were now assembled on the south shore, ready for attack.

Lee inspected most of his seven-mile line with its more than 300 pieces of artillery in place. He took a position on a hill south of Marye's Heights, where Longstreet's men were waiting along a sunken road behind a stone wall. Farther south, Jackson's troops were stretched out for miles, the last of them just hurried into line.

About 10 a.m., the sun began to drive away the mist. The Confederates were soon able to get their first glimpse of the mighty army assembling on the plain below them. Bronze cannon and bayonets flashed in the sunlight as thousands of men marched slowly forward in ranks with regimental flags flying.

They pressed on until they were within range of Jackson's artillery posted along the ridge. Then the Confederate guns spoke out, sending down shot and shell that blasted holes in the Union ranks. The blue lines broke and re-formed and broke again.

After heavy losses, the Federals found a wooded swamp, now frozen over, through which they could attack. By using this, they broke through the Confederates' front line and threatened to keep going.

Early's division hurried up to plug the gap. The blue flood reversed itself and began flowing back through the frozen swamp. It was at this moment that Lee, watching the scene from his observation post on the hill, said: "It is well that war is so terrible; otherwise we would grow too fond of it."

To his left, where Longstreet's men were posted on the steep slopes of Marey's Hill, the Federals were having a bad time. They had come through the town and had tried to attack the troops behind the stone wall halfway up the heights. The Confederate ranks were four or five deep there with the men in the rear loading and passing rifles to the front to be fired with the rapid efficiency of a machine gun. Their combined firepower mowed down the advancing bluecoats until the ground was literally covered with their bodies.

Confederate rifles along the stone wall and Confederate batteries higher up the hill poured were sent. And they died, row on row.

The heavy Federal guns across the river spat fire into the Confederates on the ridge behind Fredericksburg. One of their massive shells buried itself in the soil near the spot where Lee was standing, but it did not explode. And later in the day, a big Parrott gun burst into pieces about 50 feet away from him. One of the huge slabs of iron rose into the air and landed on the ground just beyond him.

The short winter day ended early, and with it the terrible slaughter ceased. The wounded cried out untended all through the night, and in the cold black sky above them the shimmering curtains of the aurora borealis burned away the darkness.

Dawn was long in coming. When it did come, most of the Union army had withdrawn to the river and was in no condition to renew the attack. The next day, when it marched back over the pontoon bridges, it left behind some 12,000 casualties—more than twice as many as the Confederates' 5,000.

Gloom settled on the Northern states as the year 1862 drew to a close. At Christmas time thousands of homes were places of mourning, and the New Year hardly seemed one to look forward to.

The disaster at Fredericksburg had its repercussions in Washington, bringing about a Cabinet crisis. Doubt was expressed as to whether the President would actually put into effect on Jan. 1 the Emancipation Proclamation he had announced in September when McClellan stopped Lee's army at Antietam. But Lincoln boldly signed the measure as he had promised he would. (Actually it set no slaves free, for it dealt only with those in Confederate areas, but it was an important step toward the abolition of slavery. The final move was not made until late 1865, months after Lincoln was dead.)

His message to Congress in Dec., 1862, expresses Lincoln's thoughts on the subject in one of the most eloquent passages in all his work:

"Fellow citizens, we cannot escape history. We of this Congress and this administration will be remembered in spite of ourselves. No personal significance or insignificance can spare . . . us. The fiery tiral through which we pass will light us down, in honor or dishonor, to the latest generation. . . . We . . . hold the power and bear the responsibility. In giving freedom to the slave, we assure freedom to the free—honorable alike in what we give and what we preserve. We shall nobly save or meanly lose the last, best hope of earth."

News 'Managed' By JFK, Says Democrat Solon

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—A Democratic congressman says here that President Kennedy has taken firm control of the management of government news in a manner that is unplanned, unprecedented and unique in peacetime.

Rep. John E. Moss of California, chairman of a special House subcommittee on government information, called for a broad public discussion of the situation "to make sure the people's need to know the facts of government is fulfilled."

The nation's press, he said, should lead the discussion.

Moss, assailing the news policy of his own party's administration, expressed his views in a speech prepared for the California Press Association conference.

He attacked restrictions imposed on covering underground nuclear tests in Nevada, secrecy about all military space activities, a recent "blackout" on information about Soviet satellite efforts, and the manner of applying the news guidelines laid down by the government during the Cuban crisis.

"We have in the past few weeks experienced a degree of government news management which is unique in peacetime," he said, "a disturbing period of unplanned and unprecedented news management."

Moss conceded that the problem is not new and that because of the need to safeguard sensitive and classified information the government moves are "not all bad, nor all good."

"But the President and his National Security council advisers heretofore have not handled the hour-to-hour monitoring of the details of news management as they did during the Cuban crisis," he continued.

"Now important news-making events, are under firm presidential control."

Moss reviewed Kennedy's efforts in this field, stating that three months after he took office he asked the press, in a speech before the American Newspaper Publishers Association, to exercise special restraint in printing news about government actions.

"Even though no government guidance was provided," Moss said, "there were restraints imposed by the government."

At this point he cited the closing of Nevada's underground nuclear tests, "which previously had been open to reporters and photographers."

He said the government also has been silent about the Soviet's announced Mars probe launched Nov. 1 and about Soviet launchings of Cosmos 9, 10 and 11.

"This is the kind of news management that causes grave concern," he said. "If we cover up Russian successes, we can certainly cover up our failures. This leads to a dangerous delusion of the American people."

In summing up, Moss said the President's authority to withhold information is clear but "the disturbing factor is" that it is being done at the expense of the desperate need to keep the American people informed."

"It is critically important that the American people be told the facts so that the government does not find itself in a deep crisis with an uninformed public incapable of offering the necessary support and understanding," Moss said.

The alternative is a dangerous weakening of the government, he said.

Cub Pack 81 Carries Pioneer Theme at Meeting

Coonskin caps, buckskin jackets, and muskets were the uniform of the night for the November pack meeting of Cub Scout Pack 81 at the Air Force Academy.

The November theme of pioneers days was carried out by a costume parade of the dens, and skits covering aspects of pioneer life. Parents took part in a hog-calling contest won by Sgt. John Kanegaye and a nail-driving event won by Mrs. P. L. Cooper.

The December meeting of the pack will be held at 6:45 p.m., Dec. 18, at the Pine Valley school. Following the Christmas theme, there will be a visit by Santa Claus and Cub-made presents for parents.

Another highlight of the November meeting was the presentation of three distinguished adult awards by Capt. James Banks, neighborhood commissioner.

The Scouter's training award went to Sgt. Leavitt Simmons for more than three years service. Distinguished den mother awards went to Mrs. May Simmons and Mrs. Zona Wire. Each has served as a den mother for two years.

AIRLINES ASK RENEWAL

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Eight major airlines Thursday asked the Civil Aeronautics Board (CAB) to approve an indefinite renewal of their agreement to give each other financial help during labor disputes.

The CAB is holding hearings on whether the airlines' mutual aid pact should be allowed to continue. Unions have charged that the agreement is illegal and violates the Railway Labor Act. The eight carriers who are members of the pact are American, Braniff, Continental, Eastern, Northwest, Pan American, Trans World and United.

Methodist Missionary Pilot Reports on U.N. in Congo

Editors note: Following are excerpts from the last of three letters concerning the Katanga situation written by Paul M. Alexander, Methodist missionary pilot, to his family from Elisabethville, Katanga Province, Africa. The letter was dated Sept. 29 and was sent to the brother of Mrs. L. L. Wollard, Ponca City, Okla., and was forwarded to Bruce Todd, 1629 N. El Paso St., a friend of the Wollards. Todd presented the letters to the Gazette Telegraph with the thought the information they contain will prove of interest to readers.

A letter has just been handed me from a man who has lived his 63 years in the Belgian Congo, except the years he spent in school in the United Kingdom. I shall quote from his letter.

"Trying to look at the whole affair dispassionately, as one who knows the Congo and particularly the province of Katanga, it is extremely unlikely that a unified Congo could ever operate satisfactorily.

"Contrary to the belief that seems to persist in what should be well - informed quarters overseas, that all black men are much the same, the fact is they are no more the same than all white men.

"Mr. Tshombe has repeatedly come out in favor of some sort of federation of Congo states, as in the United States, and this is the obvious answer to the open-minded thinking individual. There are bound to be some states that are richer than others—consider Nevada and New York in the U. S. — but to say that outside Katanga there is no wealth and that the Congo could not exist without the copper of Katanga is pure nonsense.

"Outside Katanga are diamond mines, the biggest producers of industrial stones in the world. There are the mines; the richest gold mine in the world is at Kili Moto. There are exceedingly vast areas producing essential oils and timber. Large quantities of coffee were grown in Kivu and other upland areas.

"Mr. Tshombe's government was astute enough to realize that altho it was the government, it still needed assistance, administrative, economical and technical, from Europeans; and why should it not employ those Europeans they need, since all successful independent nations in Africa have a background of such personnel?

"Yet the United Nations insists that Katanga must give up all its Europeans. Even after their defeat in Katanga, the U. N. still clings today to such stupid policy.

"Many Europeans and many hundreds or thousands of Africans will lose their lives; business and industry that provide Africans with their livelihood and prosperity will be seriously, if not permanently disrupted; and if the goose that lays the copper eggs is killed, or put out of action, who will benefit from it?

"Not the United Nations, not the so - called Central Congolese Government, not the Africans of the Katanga or the Congo, but more likly Russia or the great Kennecott and Anaconda Copper Corp. of America."

With that he rested his case.

The UNO sent mobile loudspeaker units into the various native quarters and warned that they were going to "take over," and those Baluabas wishing protection from possible death in the action could come to the UNO Refugee Camp adjacent to the UNO Swedish Camp.

Refugees with mattresses etc., on top of cars, trucks, and bicycles, moved into the camp 60,000 to 75,000 strong. Later they were unable to get out of the camp or get food.

There is going to be a blow-up soon and blood is really going to flow, and the UNO cannot provide the necessary help.

Instead of bull - headedly trying to get the Europeans out of the Katanga Government, the UNO should sidetrack that and try to solve the problem at hand and quick.

Better the UNO give a little now than to give all in a chaotic jumble to Russia in their fact - saving attempt.

Fountain-Carson High News

By LEONA COOK

"College Day" has been scheduled for Fountain, Widefield and Harrison at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, at Widefield High School. Representatives from the colleges in the state of Colorado will be present to confer with interested juniors, seniors and their parents. Since it will be impossible to provide each student with the opportunity to confer with each representative, the program has been arranged to allow for three "briefing" sessions of one-half hour each. Each group will have the opportunity to discuss various college opportunities with three different college representatives.

The one - act play "French Toast," a laughter filled comedy of the night before a wedding, will be presented to the high school by the Drama Club Dec. 14. It will be under the direction of Nikki Moore and Art Mahoney. The play cast will star Lynn Russ as Nanette; Jeri Godley as Nancy; Art Humphreys as Charlie; Bonnie Prastka as Mrs. Smith; Cynthia Farr as Madame de Tour; and Art Mahoney as Stoney. The Drama Club hopes to put on more one-act plays later in the year, including an entry in the Pikes Peak League drama competition.

Mrs. Patricia Green will join the Fountain-Ft. Carson High School faculty Monday. She will replace Mrs. Betty Graham, who teaches sophomore English.

Spirited and enthusiastic, the students of FHS showed their loyal support for the Fountain Trojans at the first pep assembly of the basketball season Friday. The Trojans played their first game of the season that night with the Widefield Gladiators.

Indian Airlines Jet Burns at Bombay Field

BOMBAY (UPI) — An Indian Airlines Boeing 707 jet plane caught fire and burned at the airfield here Saturday while 120 passengers were waiting to board it for a flight to New Delhi.

The passengers were standing by when flames were seen in the tail of the plane on the tarmac at Santa Cruz Airport. All of the plane was destroyed except the engines.

The plane was to have flown to Delhi and then to London.

Soviet Ambassador Changed in Germany

MOSCOW (UPI)— The removal of Mikhail Pervukhin as Soviet ambassador to East Germany may mean a change in Soviet Berlin tactics, Western observers say.

But they cautioned that Pervukhin's replacement after four years in East Berlin also could be just another step on the downward path he has taken since being identified with the "anti-party group" which tried to oust Premier Nikita Khrushchev in 1957.

Pervukhin's tenure in East Germany has coincided with the tough Soviet line toward Berlin. He was sent there in 1958, the year Khrushchev first demanded the withdrawal of Allied troops from West Berlin and the creation of a demilitarized "free city" there.

At the time of his replacement by veteran diplomat Pyotre Abrasimov, the Russians appear to have shelved their hard Berlin policy—at least for the present.

The Tass News Agency gave no reason for the shift in its announcement Friday.

BEGIMNERS GET SHOWCASE

NEW YORK (AP) — Fledgling composers and lyricists for the musical theater are getting a chance to showcase their works in a series of performances before talent scouts.

The four weekly programs are being sponsored by the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers as a follow-up to a seminar series in which ranking artists described facets of the creative process for student groups.

Spy Thriller Imitated In Actor's Marriage

LONDON (AP) — Movie star Sean Connery married blonde English actress Diane Cilento in a drama like the spy thrillers in which he plays James Bond.

The two disappeared from London, friends said, and turned up in Gibraltar where the ceremony took place Thursday night with only two taxi drivers for witnesses. Then they went off for a honeymoon in Spain.

In the next Bond thriller by Ian Fleming, that's the way hero James Bond does it—only he has hotel servants for witnesses.

Widefield High Windup

By SHARON LOVELESS

Four girls have been nominated for Miss Mistletoe, to reign over the dance Dec. 15. These girls were nominated by the student body, the first time a nomination has been conducted in this manner. Nominees are Judy Stephens, Toni Gates, Carolyn Byerly and Donna Holzinger.

The juniors are presently making plans for fund - raising drives to earn money to pay for this year's prom. Among these plans are bake sales and a carnival in January.

After the second performance of the school play, the cast and crews presented Mr. Donald Dieter, director, with a silver platter inscribed "Come Rain or Shine"-1962. This was the first of the three-act plays to be presented by the Drama Club this year.

A Band Booster Club has been organized to help the band help themselves in any way possible. The organization consists mostly of parents, but anyone is invited to join. The club invited the chorus to perform some of its Christmas music at one of the organization's meetings Dec. 11. The band will also play at this time.

Junior Gary Ride was selected to reign over the French club's Turkey Trot Dance Nov. 21. A boy from each class was nominated for king.

The annual staff sponsored a dance after the game Nov. 30.

The menu for school district No. 3 for the week of Dec. 3 is as follows:

NAME-ALIKES

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — There are three names sounding like "wolf" in the St. Louis Planned Parenthood Association but the spellings are different.

Association director Marjorie Davis says she has to consult the group's advisory board directory when writing to the three to make sure she has the proper spellings.

Dr. Ralph Woolf heads the Association. Then there are board members Dr. George Wulff and Mrs. Norman Wolff.

Reapportionment Motions Studied By Three Judges

DENVER (UPI)—A three-judge federal court had under study today four motions, two attacking and two defending, the controversial Federal Plan of reapportionment, which won voter approval in the Nov. 6 election.

Denver attorneys Charles Ginsberg and George Creamer, acting on behalf of 15 elected state and county officials, filed a motion with U.S. District Court in Denver Friday which declared the Federal Plan was unconstitutional.

A similar motion was filed Thursday by the law firm of Salazar and Delaney, representing Archie L. Lisco of Denver.

Atty. Gen. Duke Dunbar, representing the state, and attorneys for the Federal Plan filed the other two motions Friday. They asked for dismissal of two suits pending in the court.

The suits asked for immediate reapportionment of the Colorado Legislature. The motions defending the Federal Plan said passage of the plan had mooted the question.

Creamer and Ginsberg filed one of the suits seeking reapportionment and Francis R. Salazar, an attorney, filed the other one. In the new motions the opponents of the Federal Plan said it violated the equal representation clause in the 14th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution.

The Federal Plan provides for the House of Representatives to be apportioned on a strict population basis, but the State Senate would be frozen along present lines with four new seats being added for populous counties near Denver.

"There exists no basis for distinction between the House of Representatives and the Senate," Creamer said.

Creamer said the plan would "perpetually vest legislative control of the state of Colorado in a small minority."

IBPOEW Names E. L. Bradford To State Office

Edward L. Bradford, a veteran of World War II, has been appointed state director of veterans affairs by Judge Hobson Reynolds, grand exalted ruler of Improved Benevolent Protector Order of Elks of the World.

Brandford is secretary of the Colorado Springs Lodge of the organization and is also president of the local branch of the National Association for Advancement of Colored People.

The post to which he has been named will be of value to local veterans of the order because of the possible closing of the VA office in Colorado Springs. It will be his duty to promote programs, establish Veterans Committees, etc.

The commission was granted Bradford on recommendation of the president of the Middle Western States Assn., Russell E. Smith, of Denver.

It was announced that veterans of the city may feel free to utilize this service, whether members of the order or not, altho Elks will receive priority.

New Flying Club Formed in Springs

A new flying club has been formed in the Pikes Peak Region under the name "Colorado Springs Aero Club."

The club plans to utilize the initials COSAC for a dual purpose.

In addition to being the basic initials of the club, the local omni—or radio navigational facility—is identified in the Airman's Guide and by radio identification as "COS."

The club will be restricted to licensed pilots. The entrance fee of $50 includes check ride costs, with the remainder of the free refunded to those unable to pass a check ride.

Airplanes to be used by members are the Cessna 175 and Skyhawk at rates of $10 per hour. This includes fuel, oil, insurance and other charges.

Maintenance and other costs will be covered by nominal monthly dues of $12.

Additional information is available by contacting Beeline Aviation at ME 2-0932.

Bag With $118 Stolen From North Junior

A money bag containing $118 was taken from a cupboard in a classroom of North Junior High School sometime Friday afternoon, according to a report made to police officials by T.M. Fenlon, teacher and school treasurer.

Fenlon said the money, belonging to the school, had been placed in a cupboard in Room 107 at 1:15 p.m. Friday. He said he left the classroom at 3:30 p.m., returning at 3:45 p.m. to discover the loss.

He said many students had gone to the cupboard during the day and could have sighted the bag, marked by the name of a Colorado Springs bank.

Most of these students attended a party in the annex at 3:10 p.m., he said.

Thant Proceeds With Stronger Position in U.N.

By TOM HOGE

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—U Thant embarked here on a four-year term as secretary-general of the United Nations in a considerably stronger position than he had as the stop-gap replacement for the late Dag Hammarskjold.

The Burmese diplomat was elected unanimously last week to the post by the General Assembly after the Budgetary Committee had recommended an increase in his pay and allowances to $70,000 a year.

His election was one positive result of the Cuban crisis from which he emerged with the plaudits of both the United States and the Soviet bloc.

Delegates noted with satisfaction that he was elected unhampered by any Soviet attempt to tie his hands as they did when he was named the acting U.N. chief a year ago.

Thant, a slender, dark 55-year-old former schoolteacher and journalist, in his acceptance speech made clear he does not intend to be coerced from any source.

He said he hoped he could play a role "however humble" in bridging the gap between the big powers and warned that "we live in an imperfect world, and have to accept imperfect solutions."

He stressed that "when the future of mankind itself is at stake, no country or interest group can afford to take a rigid stand, or claim that its position is the only right one, and that others must take or leave it."

POTATOES HELP CAMPAIGN

ASHFORD, Conn. (UPI) — Royal A. Knowlton reported to the Connecticut secretary of state Friday that he received no contributions in his successful election campaign for probate judge.

But he made one contribution himself, Knowlton stated. He donated "one bushel of homegrown potatoes for a dinner served by the Democratic town committee."

Critical Days Are Seen in Kidney Surgery

DENVER (UPI) —The next 20 days are the crucial ones for a 12-year-old boy who last week survived an operation in which his mother's kidney was transplanted to his own body.

Doctors at Colorado General Hospital said today the boy was "doing very well" but that the next three weeks were crucial ones, for the transplanted kidney could become infected, or his body could reject the foreign tissues from his mother's body.

"So far everything is okay, and the boy is doing very well," said one of the doctors who performed the four-hour operation last Saturday. "The kidney is functioning normally."

The doctor said the boy read, watched television and had a good appetite following the operation, which is one of about 37 similar operations known.

The physician said transplants between identical twins are common. The same team of doctors performed a kidney transplant between identical twins at Veterans Administration Hospital in Denver last March.

Slaying Suspect Gives Himself Up in Idaho

OROFINO, Idaho (AP) — The Spokane cafe worker wanted in the lug wrench-razor slaying of a woman found stuffed in the trunk of his car Nov. 12 gave himself up Saturday.

He walked into the Canyon Inn at Peck Junction, three miles east of here, and the search for 46-year-old James Peterson was over.

Peterson was covered with straw, unshaven and appeared very meek and subdued. He has been wanted for the murder of 43-year-old Wanda A. McLeod, of Spokane. Both had registered in a Lewiston hotel as man and wife and had told Spokane friends they planned to be married.

Lizard-Catching Flop Turns Into Letter From JFK

By HARRY KELLY

WASHINGTON (AP)—Not very long ago practically every boy had his "canyon" — a magical place that in a twinkling became battlefield or jungle.

Scott Peter Turner, 7, of San Diego, Calif., had just such a place where he hunted lizards, where he could play games or just be a boy.

But like thousands of other canyons, Scott's was gobbled up by a housing project when his back was turned.

It was a sad discovery and Scott hurried home and taking pencil in hand printed this plea to President Kennedy:

"Dear Mr. President, We have no place to go out in the canyon because there are going to build houses so could you set aside some land where we could play? Thank you four listening love Scott."

Scott's father added an accompanying note to "emphasize the honest motivation which drove him (Scott) to seek help from the highest power of the land."

His son, he wrote, had gone off to some previously open land to hunt lizards, only to find one area had been pre-empted by a field restricted to organized play and beyond that other "canyons" had been taken over by home construction.

"In complete defeat, anger and frustration he ran home, demanded paper and pencil and put a determined hand to his letter of protest," the father wrote.

"In building our progressive world of supervised play and sterilized playthings we seem to have forgotton that a youth needs trees and frogs an dearth with ants in it—and time for uninterrupted observations of the path he treads . . .

"Isn't it nostalgically sad when, in an era of seemingly intellectual advancement and highly civilized progress, a little boy can't find a place to play?"

Secretary of Interior Stewart L. Udall was assigned the job of replying to Scott. He made public the exchange Thursday.

"The President sent your letter to me to answer because the feelings you expressed so well in your letter are his feelings too, and I am the man he has appointed to try to correct the conditions which are making you unhappy.

"President Kennedy and I have a great awareness of the needs you feel—the need to be able to hunt lizards and follow ants and maybe just lie in the sun on your back and watch the changing shapes of clouds—all alone."

Udall pointed out that the last Congress had established three new national seashores, including Point Reyes in California which has "wide sand beaches, windswept caves, forests and lots of room for a wide-eyed boy."

"I am more sorry than I can say that you lost your canyon playground," Udall concluded. "I hope you will be able to find another one not too far away."

Scott was pleased with the reply.

"Good," he told a newsman. "Now we're getting somewhere."

And how did the whole business start? Explained Scott: "This gang of mine, we were going to catch a lizard to scare a girl."

County Commissioners Want More of Revenue

DENVER (UPI)—The Colorado Association of County Commissioners has approved a resolution asking that $28 million in state tax receipts be appropriated for Colorado cities, towns and counties.

The commissioners, who wind up their three-day convention today, unanimously approved the resolution, which calls for $9.8 million to go to Denver, and the remaining $18.2 million to be split evenly between counties and all other cities and towns.

No such non-earmarked funds are distributed by the state at the present time.

J. Fred Schneider, attorney for the association, said a one-cent addition to the state sales tax would provide about the same amount requested in the resolution, and would "take the monkey off the back of the ad valorem (real estate) tax."

Schneider also said an estimated surplus of $18 million could be taken from the spillover of sales and use tax receipts from the old-age pension fund into the state's general fund.

Midwest Corn Belt Reports Good Year Again

By OVID A. MARTIN

WASHINGTON (AP) — Geographically, the financial situation of farmers this fall compared with a year ago appears to be most favorable in the northern and western parts of the country. It seems least favorable in the eastern and southern states.

An Agriculture Department survey, in reporting this, said also that most parts of the Midwestern corn belt have had another good financial year.

Looking ahead to 1962, the department reported that farmers as a whole are requiring more and more credit to carry on their operations. It found that in most areas ample supplies of credit will be available, reflecting in many states an increase in time deposits.

The survey found also that a continuation of a slim margin between costs of producing farm products and prices received for them forced more small farming units out of business this year.

The northeastern part of the country was affected adversely by drought and continued low prices of poultry products and potatoes and reduced prices of milk.

Of the northeast, the department's survey had this to say:

"The effect of economic conditions on farmers' financial status is somewhat mixed. Lenders almost unanimously reported decreases in farmers' savings and reserves, especially in drought-stricken areas. Reduced spending for capital items also was apparent in these areas. Non-farm employment was high in sections close to population centers, and on many small farms off-farm work determined whether the family could survive on the farm."

In the Appalachians and southeast, the financial condition of farmers was found to range from the same to moderately weaker than a year ago. Non-farm employment, government farm programs, and social security payments to older farmers were described as important factors in the income situation.

Both farm-mortgage and non-real-estate debts were found to be higher than a year ago. Financial reserves of farmers in these regions remained low compared to many other regions of the country. Nevertheless, the survey reported some evidence that farm improvements are continuing.

In the Mississippi Delta region, reports of bankers put farmers' financial reserves at about the same level as a year earlier. The greatest progress was reported on the efficient medium-size and larger farm units.

The report said farmers' spending in this region for family living and new capital investments remains high. Adoption of new technology next year is expected to show a heavy demand for credit.

The Agriculture Department said farmers in the Great Lakes region were generally better off than a year ago. The farm-mortgage debt there rose more slowly. Increased deposits in country banks has helped provide a plentiful supply of credit for 1963. The debt repayment situation in this region was said to have improved over last year in most areas.

The financial condition of farmers in the corn belt was said to be moderately stronger than a year ago. Favorable livestock prices and good crops were major factors in this situation. Farm machinery sales were better this year than last. The debt repayment situation was described as excellent over most of the region.

"Farmers (in the corn belt) appeared to have maintained or increased cash reserves, which are believed to be higher in this region than in other parts of the United States," the report said.

The cash farm income of southern Great Plains farmers and ranchers this year will be near or slightly higher than last year, the department said, because of favorable production and prices. Comments from lenders were said to indicate that repayments on farm loans were good, with the proportion of delinquent loans no greater than usual.

But operators of small undercapitalized farming units were said to have had trouble this year.

Farm conditions were said to have improved this year over last in the northern Great Plains. Drought last year adversely affected agriculture. Favorable conditions in the region eased the credit situation somewhat, and lenders were reported to be more lenient this year in credit policies. Foreclosures and debt delinquencies remained at low levels.

The department said farmers and ranchers in the mountain states, in general, were in a stronger financial condition this fall than a year ago. Strong livestock prices were important. Operating units there continued to increase in size.

Farm receipts in the Pacific Coast states were found to be somewhat larger than a year ago. Spending for family living and for the maintenance of farm building and equipment was somewhat higher this year than last. The survey found that farmers in these states are placing increased stress on management and farming efficiency through improved and enlarged operations.

Mikoyan Does Not Buy Anything In Supermarket

By C. YATES MCDANIEL

ROCKVILLE, Md. (AP)—Soviet First Deputy Premier Anastas I. Milkoyan did something last week that few Americans can do. He spent nearly an hour in a huge supermarket without buying a thing.

He patted children's heads, shook hands with shopping housewives and clerks, and eyed and fingered packages throughout an hour's tour of the newest and largest emporium in this Washington suburb.

Neither the piped-in music of a Rachmaninoff piano concerto nor "Love, Thy Magic Spell is Everywhere," deterred the Soviet travelling salesman and troubleshooter from his mission for the afternoon—to learn about the latest techniques in preparing and dispensing foods and the assorted unrelated goods of the American housewives' market place.

From the moving car-wash line outdoors to the meat counters, the Moscow visitor moved, looked and questioned, getting his answers through Madame Anatoly Dobrynin, wife of the Soviet ambassador to the United States.

Pausing before an automatic dollar-bill changer, Mikoyan kept his hands in his pockets. A lady shopper provided the bill to show how the machine worked.

Curious shoppers wanted to know, "Who's that causing all the commotion?" When told, most of them wanted to know what he was doing in a market.

PLAN CAMPAIGN STUDY

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A Senate subcommittee plans to make a detailed study of radio and television coverage of the 1962 political campaigns.

The Federal Communications Commission Thursday notified broadcasters, including the networks, that questionnaires would be mailed by Dec. 7 seeking information on handling of both the primary and general elections. It said the Senate freedom of communications subcommittee might want to delve deeper into the problem after studying the replies.

FIND WAY OUT

LONDON (UPI) — Some British servicemen have found a novel way to get back into civilian life, the London Daily Herald said today.

Under British law, servicemen who announce plans to run for parliament must be discharged. This year the number of men in uniform who have filed election plans is up to about 20, the Herald said, adding "it is high time to stop servicemen fiddling themselves out of the forces."

Over Quarter Million Cubans Sick From Eating Diseased Soviet Beef; Hoof-Mouth Epidemic Feared

By ROBERT S. ALLEN and PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON, Special — Fidel Castro is painfully finding out that it pays to look a gift horse squarely in the mouth before accepting it — especially when it comes from the Soviet Union.

Two shiploads of disease-ridden meat, rushed to Cuba from East Germany and Russia at the height of the U.S. naval quarantine in November, left more than a quarter of a million Cubans suffering from severe food poisoning.

Several hundred, including a number of Castro's militia on invasion alert, reportedly died after eating the Soviet beef and horsemeat which was infected with the dread hoof-and-mouth disease.

This near-epidemic, first revealed by Cuban refugees, has been confirmed by U.S. intelligence officials assigned to watch this developing health threat.

They report that Cuban health authorities are alarmed over the growing possibility that the dread disease will spread throughout the island and infect the livestock.

Already, there is evidence this may be occurring in some isolated rural areas. In several cases where Cuban families were warned about the diseased meat, they fed it to their livestock instead of destroying it. If these animals aren't segregated and slaughtered immediately, they may infect all the livestock in Cuba and surrounding islands.

Mexico suffered such a tragedy in 1949 when a prize bull, infected with the disease, was shipped to Mexico as a presidential gift

Antonito Police To Be Probed By Grand Jury

ANTONITO (UPI)—The calling of a special grand jury was expected to be requested here today as part of an investigation of alleged irregularities and misconduct in the Antonito Police Department.

Dist. Atty. John B. Smith of the 12th Judicial District said he would ask District Judge Richard Conour to impanel the grand jury in the wake of a police scandal which shook this San Luis Valley farming trade center during the weekend.

Smith said evidences of misconduct came to light after two days of lie detector (polygraph) testing of suspects and witnesses by a Denver expert.

The district attorney declined to elaborate on the scandal, but reported to be at the center of the investigation was Antonito Patrolman Richard Sowards, 27, a member of the force since Sept. 15, who pleaded guilty to theft charges in Conejos District Court Nov. 15. Sowards was to be sentenced today.

Sowards confessed to stripping a car in back of police headquarters after stolen auto parts were found in his possession by Conejos County Sheriff Amos Abeyta.

Smith said Antonito Police Chief Solomon Blair, 40, a father of 11, also was under investigation.

The police chief denied any role in the police scandal Sunday and said he planned to stay on the job. He said his accusers would have to prove any charges they had against him in court.

Summoning of a grand jury here would mark the first time such a panel was called into session in Conejos County in 60 years. Antonito, which has a population of 1,045, is an important agricultural trade center in the Conejos River Valley at the southern end of the San Luis Valley.

Paper Delayed By Mechanical Difficulties

"Mechanical difficulties" hit the Gazette Telegraph pressroom today and this afternoon's edition was delayed.

Some subscribers and all motor route carriers received today's newspaper later than usual.

The trouble has been corrected and the Gazette Telegraph will resume its regular publication schedule Tuesday.

'Invasion' of Tiny Prairie Town Planned by Marshals

ABERDEEN, S.D. (AP)—Federal Marshals meet here tonight to map strategy for their invasion of Mound City, a village where zealous town folk and farmers threaten "another Mississippi" to keep from turning over government records they have locked in a barricaded building.

The county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service office was moved this year from Mound City, the county seat with a population of less than 200, to Herreid, population 633, eight miles north.

Half of the records were moved to the new ASCS building in Herreid, but Mound City area folks foiled attempts to take the rest. They locked the ASCS office and sandbagged the front. They threatened to fight if anyone comes for the records.

For years Mound City has been wary of any thought of moving the county seat. Mound City fears that if the ASCS records go to Herreid, the courthouse may be the next to go.

"If they call the U.S. marshals out, someone might get his head blown off," one Mound City businessman said. A farmer said Mound City will never give up its fight to keep the ASCS office.

"The government is trying to scare us," he said. "We've been through too much to get scared."

Many people in Mound City have a financial interest in the outcome of the battle. They are shareholders in the new building that houses the local postoffice and the former ASCS office.

Travis Lewin of Sioux Falls, assistant U.S. district attorney, met with more than 200 Mound City farmers and their wives Saturday night. He said marshals will be sent unless the records are surrendered.

Lewin told the group, gathered in the grade school gymnasium, "if we can't voluntarily get the records we will have to send marshals in. If someone attempts to stop the marshals—and you know what happened in Mississippi—the marshals will be required to take steps to protect themselves."

He advised the Mound City peo-

San Antonio Paper Changes To Saturday A.M.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. — The San Antonio Light is now publishing a Saturday morning edition instead of a Saturday afternoon edition. The Light now publishes Saturday and Sunday mornings and Monday thru Friday afternoons.

The new Saturday edition is called the "Sunrise Edition," and consists of upwards of 48 pages. The normal Saturday afternoon edition of the Light had been 14 to 16 pages.

The Sunrise Edition contains a religion section, an expanded sports section and outdoor news page, a new youth page and full report of the stock markets.

The San Antonio Express and News started publishing a combined Saturday morning edition about five years ago.

Teller County To Seek Federal Aid Program

Residents of what was at one time one of the richest counties in the nation will meet Wednesday night to discuss participation in federal aid programs.

Teller County is one of 144 approved by the Labor Department for assistance under the Public Works Assistance Act and Area Redevelopment Act.

Under the program, the counties will form committees to work with government officials in determining needs of the area.

Teller County residents have been asked to meet at 7:30 p.m. in the courthouse at Cripple Creek Wednesday to draft plans for such a committee. A list of possible assistance programs must be compiled and approved at the county level.

A total of $400 million has been allotted as aid under the Labor Department program. Provisions are made for industrial and commercial projects, grants for public facilities, occupational training and other measures geared to boost the counties economy.

"The success of this federal assistance in Teller County depends upon the cooperation of everyone," County Commissioner Harold Ellis said in requesting participation of county residents.

Cleveland Paper Strike Idles 3,000 Employes

CLEVELAND (AP) — Meetings were scheduled today between Cleveland's two strike-bound daily newspapers and two unions in an effort to reach a settlement on new contracts.

The morning Plain Dealer, the afternoon Press and News have not published since Thursday, when the Teamster local, which represents 405 delivery truck drivers, began picketing.

An estimated 3,000 newspaper employes have been idled by the dispute, in which union officials have cited wages as the principal issue.

Legal Steps Sought to Stop Dock, Aerospace Strikes

By NORMAN WALKER

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy gets reports today from two Taft-Hartley law emergency boards he named in stopping strikes by East Coast dock employes and Lockheed aerospace workers.

In another development related to a major labor controversy chiefs of the five operating unions on the nation's railroads gathered here for a huddle to determine their next legal step in fighting worker layoffs threatened by the carriers.

Of the three disputes a renewed strike by the 60,000 dock workers appears to be the most imminent. The workers ended an earlier strike after the administration on Oct. 6 obtained an 80-day injunction under the Taft-Hartley emergency provisions.

The emergency board studying this case is expected to report to the White House that there still is a tight deadlock between the AFL-CIO International Longshoremen's Association, and shipowning and stevedore firms.

The next step will be a vote on the employers' last settlement offer, rejected by the union. A worker turndown of the offer, which officials say they expect, will mean a real threat of a pier strike on Atlantic and Gulf coasts on Dec. 23 when the 80-day injunction runs out.

The Lockheed labor dispute is in an earlier stage of development. Kennedy invoked the Taft-Hartley provisions in this case last Wednesday to end a walkout that had started earlier that day. On Thursday, the striking International Association of Machinists, AFL-CIO, called off its walkout at the government's request.

The report from the Lockheed emergency board is expected simply to recite a negotiating deadlock. It is strictly a formality that, under the law, will enable the government to go ahead with application for an 80-day court injunction barring a further strike.

The time lag will enable government mediators and the special board headed by Prof. Arthur M. Ross, director of the University of California Institute of Industrial Relations, to try new peace moves.

The chief issue in dispute between Lockheed and the machin-

Tito Will Travel To Moscow for Talk With Nikita

MOSCOW (AP)—President Tito of Yugoslavia, a Communist with strong neutralist overtones, headed today for Moscow talks with Soviet Premier Khrushchev accompanied by the taunts and jibes of the Peking radio.

The Tito party, including his wife Jovanka, left Budapest by special train at midnight after a brief but ceremonious stay in the Hungarian capital.

Tito's trip was billed as a vacation. It was not known if he would visit other cities before sitting down with Kremlin leaders for a discussion that is sure to include the rift in Moscow-Peking relations and its meaning for world Communist affairs.

As Tito's expedition got under way, the Peking radio blasted the "Tito group" and "its notorious supra-bloc policy" as "traitors of the proletariat and running dogs of U.S. imperialism."

Tito and Khrushchev last met in New York in 1960 at meetings of the U.N. General Assembly. The Yugoslav leader last visited the Soviet Union in 1956, in an upward climb in relations between the two countries since the sharp break during the Stalin era.

Aside from foreign policy, Tito probably will discuss economic problems with his Soviet hosts. Yugoslavia has been undergoing a difficult period, with food shortages as one probelm. The United States agreed last week to help by providing 1.2 million tons of wheat.

Chinese commentaries attacked Tito's role as a neutralist in East-West battles and grew particularly incensed over what Peking called Yugoslavia's espousal of a neutralist Cuba. The Chinese were strong supporters of Prime

Stolen Chicken Is Harmful, Sheriff Warns

The sheriff's office issued a warning this morning to the person who killed and stole two chickens from W. T. Lightner of 830 W. Costilla St. as eating them could result in food poisoning.

Deputy Sheriff Bob Newman said the person obviously intended to use them for food as the heads had been pulled off and left by the chicken run. The two birds, a cock and a hen, had been receiving medicine for a disease. The flesh could be very harmful to any human being.

If anyone had already eaten them he should contact his doctor immediately, the report says and the doctor should get in touch with Lightner.

Santa Loses Three Fingers While Waving

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) — Santa Claus lost three fingers Saturday as he waved to a group of admirers from the steps of a helicopter at Sacramento Municipal Airport.

The incident occurred as Santa, in this case Donald Novotny, 27, of Carmichael, was touring local airport facilities as a holiday stunt sponsored by civic groups.

Novotny stepped from the craft when it landed and answered the cheers of waiting youngsters with a hearty wave—before the rotor blades had stopped.

The whirling blades struck his hand, severing three fingers. He was reported in good condition at Mercy Hospital.

Four Billion Asians Seen By A.D. 2,000

WASHINGTON (UPI) — If its present birthrate continues, Asia by the year 2000 will have 4 billion persons—a net increase larger than the population of the entire earth in 1950.

This projection was made by Dr. Irene B. Taeuber, a population expert from Princeton University, in testimony before a House immigration and nationality subcommittee last September

Excerpts from her testimony were published by the Population Reference Bureau, a private scientific organization.

Bomb Blasts Big Hole in Berlin Wall

BERLIN (UPI)—A large home made bomb blasted a four-by-two-foot hole in the Communist anti-refugee wall Sunday and shattered some 200 windows in nearby buildings.

Communist and West Berlin police rushed emergency squads to the scene from both sides of the wall. But no other incident occurred and Communist repairmen quickly bricked up the hole.

The East German Defense Ministry blamed West Berlin Mayor Willy Brandt and West Berlin "ultras" for the explosion, which occurred on the Neukoelln district border of the American sector of the divided city.

U.S., Soviets Clash Over Cost of Keeping Up U.N.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) —A Soviet-U.S. clash is in prospect over a resolution to make all U.N. members legally responsible for sharing the cost of the U.N. forces in the Congo and the Middle East.

The resolution, sponsored by the United States and nine other countries, proposes acceptance of the World Court's July 20 advisory opinion that costs of the peace-keeping forces constitute "expenses of the organization" which the U.N. charter says "shall be borne by the members as apportioned" by the General Assembly.

A companion proposal, sponsored by the United States and eight other countries, calls for a 15-member working group to give the assembly suggestions by next April 1 on methods of financing similar costly U.N. peace-keeping operations in the future.

Brig. J. H. Price of Canada was to introduce both resolutions this afternoon in the assembly's 110-nation budgetary committee.

Soviet delegates said privately the Soviet Union would vote against accepting the court opinion and would never pay any part of the Congo or Middle East expenses no matter how the as-

Expense Account Age Near End, Tax Man Claims

WASHINGTON (AP) — The age of expense account living as a way of life is nearing an end, Internal Revenue Commissioner Mortimer M. Caplin said today.

Caplin, in a copyright interview in U.S. News and World Report, said new regulations that go into effect Jan. 1 will bring an end to tax deductions for a large amount of entertainment and travel.

Specific regulations are still being worked out, he said. Hearings on the subject will be held by by the IRS here Tuesday and Wednesday.

The general aim of Congress in approving the tax law tightening is to "end the abuses of expense account living," Caplin said.

Red Adair Battles Huge Natural Gas Well Fire

MEDICINE HAT, Alta. (AP)—A natural gas well southeast of here continued to spew flames into the air today as ace firefighter Red Adair planned his campaign to put out the blaze.

Adair, a free-lance firefighter from Texas with an impressive record of extinguishing jobs, was called in by oil company officials after other workmen failed to conquer the outbreak.

The flames, which broke out Friday, were shooting 50 to 100 feet in the air, fed by 5 million feet of natural gas a day. Officials said it may be two or three days before the fire is extinguished.

Adair, 47, spent four hours at the well Sunday. He cleared debris from the well head, then went to Calgary to round up equipment to battle the blaze.

Officials of the Home Oil Co., one of four firms which own the well in the Pendant d'Oreille field a few miles north of the international boundary, said the fire had destroyed $225,000 worth of equipment.

The cause of the blaze, one of the worst in Alberta in several years, was not known. Reports indicated a metallic part of a valve broke while being opened and caused a spark.

A crew managed to place a new valve at the well head Friday and began to close off the gas feeding the flames. But the pressure of 1,000 pounds per square inch blew the new valve apart and the fire burst out again.

U.N. Plane With Four Aboard Lost in Congo

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP)—A Swedish-manned U.N. transport plane with four men aboard was reported missing today in the Congo.

The Swedish defense staff said the two-engined C47 Dakota made its last radio report at 4:31 p.m. Sunday, saying it was flying at 12,000 feet and had fuel for about one hour.

The plane was believed to be en route from Leopoldville to Albertville. The defense staff spokesman said there are several small airstrips in the jungle along the route but some of them have no radio links.

Soviets Begin to Take Bombers Out of Cuba

SPOTTING TROUBLE—Rhodesian telephone operator Joan Weskob, 23, hoped these three-month-old leopard cubs wouldn't spot her wearing a leopard skin coat as she posed with them in Salisbury, Rhodesia. The animals, named "A Lot of Trouble" and "No Trouble," were found alone in the bush when they were about two weeks old after their mother abandoned them. They are being reared by a Salisbury firearms dealer for eventual sale to overseas zoos. (AP Wirephoto)

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Russians have begun taking their IL28 bombers out of Cuba, the Defense Department announced today.

Asst. Secretary of Defense Arthur Sylvester announced that the first of a reported 30 or more twin-jet bombers are in the process of being withdrawn.

Photographs taken by U.S. patrol planes indicate that the Russian ship Okhotsk was moving off the northern coast of Cuba on Saturday with three bomber fuselages visible on its deck, Sylvester told a news conference.

"Pictures show the fuselages to be IL28 aircraft," he said.

Sylvester also said that analysis of information, apparently gathered by U.S. reconnaissance aircraft, indicates that as of last Friday IL28's were being dismantled at the San Julian airfield on the western tip of Cuba.

Three Arrested For Contributing To Delinquency

Two women and a man are being held in county jail for investigation of contributing to the delinquency of a 17-year old girl, the sheriff's office reported Sunday.

They are Betty Jean New, 19, and Sandra Alice Wilkins, 22, both of 1725 W. Cucharras St., and Richard Lloyd Hentzell, 22, of the Y.M.C.A.

Sheriff's Detective Woodrow Littrell said the girl was a runaway. When questioned she admitted meeting the two women and the man and went on to say she had been taught to write checks and cash them in a Colorado Springs large store while her companions waited outside in Hentzell's car. She also stated that the money was used to buy groceries and that she gave what remained to Hentzell.

The report said that all four drove to Ohio where they stayed a week. The two women made a written statement implicating Hentzell who has refused to make any oral or written confession.

Two Men Killed In Plane Crash Near Springfield

SPRINGFIELD (AP)— Federal experts probed the wreckage today for clues to a light plane crash that killed two men Saturday.

John Edward Armit, 48, Rochester, Minn., construction contractor, and Forrest Dean Odell, 53, Denver steamfitter, died in the crash on a ranch 14 miles north of here. They were enroute from Denver to Fort Worth, Tex.

Franklin Malone, chief inspector for the Denver Civil Aeronautics Board office, is directing the investigation.

Malone said the investigation will require about 30 days but experts may have some preliminary findings before then.

China Red Troops Not Really Withdrawn From Indian Territory, Nehru Declares

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Prime Minister Nehru told Parliament today the Chinese Communists may have thinned out the advance units of their invasion armies, but they have not withdrawn them.

The Chinese reported their troops had pulled back in at least one sector in partial fulfillment of Peking's one-sided cease-fire proclamation. Indian sources reported apparent withdrawal in another sector.

Nehru, however, told Parliament there were "signs of withdrawal in the rear—in the front positions they might have been thinned out, but they have not withdrawn."

He added that "the position is rather confused and therefore it is not easy to make a precise statement."

Two members of Nehru's Cabinet vowed an eventual resumption of the battle rather than acceptance of Peking's terms. India's frontline commanders took a gingerly approach to the delicate situation.

In other developments:

1. The Indian Communist party endorsed Nehru's position for settlement of the undeclared war.

2. U.S. Ambassador John Kenneth Galbraith scheduled a trip to the headquarters city of Tezpur for a look at the situation and inspection of American weapons flown to the Indian army.

3. Nehru was disclosed to have assured Pakistani President Mohammed Ayub Khan in a letter Nov. 12 that Western weapons received by the Indian army would be used only to resist Chinese ag-

Russian Farmers Complain Of Delinquents From City

By GEORGE SYVERTSEN

MOSCOW (AP)—Life down on the collective farm hasn't been the same since Soviet courts started shipping juvenile delinquents out of the big cities to work with the peasants.

Exasperated Ukrainian kolkhozniks—collective farmers—are telling authorities to quit sending problems — they have enough of their own.

The country folks' case against the government's program for "re-educating" young idlers who won't work was presented in the Kiev newspaper Pravda of the Ukraine.

"This is re-educating others?" The newspaper demanded in an article exposing the hijinks of the Soviet deadend kids among their country cousins.

Valentin Donskoy, chairman of the Makstroy state farm near Donetsk, said he and his farmers got a shipment of idlers last year.

"The worst of it is the drunkenness," he told an interviewer, "especially on paydays — then they drink for three or four days. They don't go out to work until they drink up everything."

Donskoy and his assistants decided to quit selling vodka at the state farm store. That same evening, all the special settlers were drunk as usual.

"It turned out the special settlers had hung one on with cheap eau de cologne," he explained. "The storekeeper couldn't keep up with the demand. He fulfilled his plan for the sale of eau de cologne for the next 10 years."

Another state farm leader ruefully said: "Our village people are saying: 'If the city folks don't know how to bring them up, then what are we supposed to do?'"

A district official said, "this was a nice quiet village district. But the cities started cleaning out their scum and dumping all the hoodlums on us.

"This is no place for them. They get their bread too easily here. Not far from here, there are some stone quarries. It would be a good idea to send them there. Let them work—and if anybody doesn't show up for work he won't get a fig on payday.

"That would be a real re-education."

The official said that of the 28 exiles shipped to his district a year ago, only about 100 remain. Most of the others, he said, "are being re-educated in prisons."

Sid Luft Says He Wants Couter-Trial

His counsel filed such a motion Friday and posted $72 for costs of the first day of trial.

Civil cases are being set six months in advance, and a jury trial might extend the divorce action for months.

Miss Garland filed her suit here Sept. 18, charging mental cruelty. Luft, a producer, countered with his own suit in Santa Monica, Calif. He then answered her complaint here and filed a Nevada countersuit.

CHRISTMAS ON MARROW-BONE RIDGE

The people who lived on Marrow-Bone Ridge didn't think they were poor. They just figured some folks had more to do with than they did.
They kept their homes mended and tidy. When times were bad they shared. One winter they lived mostly on marrow-bone soup. Marrow-bones are cheap, but they make wonderful soup. That's how the Ridge got its name.

Cubans May Not Shed Tears as Russians Leave

By LEON DENNEN

NEW YORK (NEA)—Red propaganda about the Russian soldier as "friend and liberator" is another casualty of Nikita Khrushchev's ill-conceived military sortie into Cuba.

According to Karoly Kerenyi who recently fled from Havana, few Cubans will shed tears as the last Soviet "technician" departs from their soil.

The trouble with the ordinary Russian soldier, Kerenyi says, is that he acts as if he never heard of "Communist comradeship" in the name of which he ostensibly came to Cuba. He behaved as invaders generally behave—not as a defender against "American imperialism" but as a colonial conqueror.

Few men are more qualified to report on the morale of the Red Army men than 38 - year - old Kerenyi, for he knows the "conquering Russians" intimately. After the 1956 anti-Soviet revolt in Hungary he escaped to Austria after rowing his wife and small daughter in a leaky boat across a stormy lake.

He finally reached Cuba in 1957 —a year before Fidel Castro seized power—and found a job as a weaving engineer in a rayon factory. Kerenyi was "full of hope." But five years later his family was again running from the Russian "liberators" in a boat. This time they crossed the Caribbean to seek refuge in the United States.

"Castro invited difficult guests to Cuba," the refugee said. "They turned out to be even more arrogant than in Hungary where I first met Moscow's soldiers."

There was, for instance, the typical afternoon interlude in a small Cuban cafe:

"Two Soviet technicians entered the cafe and called the young waitress. One of them threw a peso on the table and the girl, believing that they were ordering coffee, brought them two cups. But the Russians laughed loudly and shook their heads. They made signs that indicated that it was the girl and not coffee that they wanted."

The waitress threw the coffee in the Russians' faces. "They jumped up, all their gaiety gone and were going to molest the girl. But infuriated Cubans in the cafe rushed at the Soviet 'guests' who were saved only by the intervention of Castro's military police."

Even Cuban Reds soon learned other embarrassing things about their Soviet "comrades," particularly their dislike of Negroes—something about which the world knows little.

"A Soviet technician demonstrated this by sweeping a drink off the table which had been brought by a Negro waiter." The Russian Red growled that he would not drink from a glass the waiter had touched.

"This was not an isolated incident," Kerenyi said. "It happened many times. The situation became so tense that one day two insulted Negroes beat a Russian so ferociously that he later died in the hospital."

But there were other episodes which throw light on the attitude of secret anti-Communists from Russia's East European satellites who were sent to Cuba to help Castro's dying economy.

One of them, a Czech named Vima, was assigned to save what remained of Cuba's once flourishing shoe industry. Vima, a brilliant chemist, first tackled the most serious problem of finding proper thread to sew the shoes. The new chemical process he invented to prevent shrinkage was so successful that the Castro regime praised him as the savior of Cuba's shoe industry. The Cubans even received orders from Russia and Bulgaria for 150,000 pairs of boots.

Then things began to happen. One day Vima mysteriously hinted to his friends to expect a government investigation regarding the boots shipped to Russia and Bulgaria.

The mystery was cleared when some 128,000 pairs of boots were returned to Cuba with their soles shrunk and warped. Investigation disclosed that the chemical process used to treat thread had been changed by Vima.

But the Czech chemist had already left Cuba and was ostensibly on his way back to Czechoslovakia. Vima defected instead to Canada. The incident with the boots—"Vima's Revenge" — became a public scandal in Cuba.

"Five years ago, when we first arrived in Cuba, my little girl used to be homesick for Hungary and she cried often," Kerenyi said. "Now she is homesick for Cuba. I console her by saying that the day will come when we shall be able to return to Cuba. And then, one day, perhaps to Hungary."

Kerenyi's full story is told in the magazine East Europe, published by the Free Europe Committee.

Albanians Denounce Revisionist Reds

TOKYO (AP)—A Peking broadcast today quoted a high official of Albania, Red China's closest ally, as saying "the imperialists and modern revisionists who stand on the side of the Indian aggressors will come to an ignominious end."

The implication was that the official, Deputy Premier Abdul Kellezi, considered the Soviet Union as well as Western powers to be backing India in its border dispute with the Communist Chinese.

The Chinese Communists and their Albanian comrades have used the term "modern revisionist" to describe both Soviet Premier Khrushchev and Yugoslav President Tito, an independent Communist.

Suit Over Space Suit Stirs Court Into Uproar

AKRON, Ohio (AP)—An injunction hearing brought by B. F. Goodrich Co. against International Latex Co. to prevent space suit expert Donald Wohlgemuth from leaving Goodrich to take a job with the Dover, Del., firm, was thrown into an uproar in Common Pleas Court.

The surprise came Friday when Goodrich attacked the educational claims of International Latex' chief witness, Leonard Shepard, industrial production director who then admitted he had testified falsely.

Goodrich claims, in seeking the injunction, that Wohlgemuth had a signed contract not to take job with another firm producing space suits. International Latex has the government contract to make space suits for the Apollo moon project.

In his testimony, Shepard said he went through Massachusetts Institute of Technology in three years to receive a degree in electrical engineering, then took two years of additional study at Syracuse University.

In cross-examination, Goodrich's chief counsel, R. G. Jeter, read a letter from W. P. Wells, associate registrar of M.I.T., which said in part:

"This is to certify Leonard Frank Shepard attended Massachusetts Institute of Technology as a first-year student from July 9, 1945 to July 27, 1945, at which time he voluntarily withdrew."

"Is that right?" Jeter asked the witness.

"Yes," Shepard replied.

At that point, lawyers from both sides went into conferences and were called to a meeting in the chambers of Judge Frank H. Harvey, who then ordered a recess until Monday.

International Latex spokesmen had no comment and Shepard was told not to discuss the case with newsmen.

Prior to the startling turn in the case, International Latex introduced a space suit worn by one of its engineers, George Durney, as evidence it had an advance space suit program of its own and doesn't need know-how from Goodrich research.

Shepard had testified his company wanted Wohlgemuth for his "demonstrated ability to direct a team of scientists and for his general background in pressure suit work, and not in order to learn Goodrich secrets."

NON-CATTLE BRANDING

MISSOURI CITY, Texas (UPI)—They put their brands on other things besides cattle in Texas. Machinists here put their individual brands on the oil field valves made at the W-K-M division of ACF Industries, Inc.

Each craftsman is issued a distinctive, brand-like stencil to identify his work. In addition to making possible a check on the close tolerance of each man's machining, it instills pride of workmanship, the company said. Its complex high-pressure valves often bear as many as two hundred "brands," each representing a separate operation or inspection.

Tito Will Travel To Moscow for Talk With Nikita

Minister Fidel Castro in the recent crisis and made no effort to conceal their anger at Moscow's decision to withdraw the missiles and jet bombers the Russians had sent to Cuba.

The official Peking People's Daily said "for its meritorious service in opposing Cuba, the imperialists have given one bonus after another to the Tito group. The group has recently concluded agreements with the United States, Britain and France through which it obtained substantial loans."

The Chinese also violently rejected any mediation by Yugoslavia in the Chinese-Indian border conflict. The People's Daily accused Yugoslav Foreign Minister Koca Popovic of maneuvering in Cairo "to sabotage efforts made by the Chinese government and other Asian and African countries for a peaceful settlement."

That China's border war has shaken international communism was indicated again Sunday in a speech by Palmiro Togliatti, chief of the Italian Communist party, the largest in Western Eruope.

Togliatti, who generally sides with the Kremlin, called China's war with India "unreasonable and absurd."

Togliatti also accused Red China and its European ally, Albania, of conducting a harmful "smear campaign" against world communism.

Informed sources in Moscow say that Khrushchev admitted to his Communist party leaders in a Nov. 23 speech that the Soviet Union had been on the defensive during the Cuban crisis.

Arab delegates said they could not vote to accept the court opinion because they refuse to help pay for the Middle East force.

Latin-American delegates have been drawing up a proposal to amend the second resolution. The Latin Americans want the cost of peace-keeping operations assessed separately from the yearly U.N. budget, and they want the permanent members of the Security Council—the United States, the Soviet Union, Britain, France and Nationalist China—to pay a larger share of such costs than they do of the regular budget.

The United States pays 30 per cent of the annual U.N. budget but has paid nearly half of the cost of the U.N. Congo force. This extra contribution has been on a voluntary basis.

Chiefs Lose After 10 Straight Wins

By United Press International

The Long Beach Chiefs, victorious in their first 10 American Basketball League games this season, finally tasted defeat Sunday night when the Pittsburgh Rens, led by Connie Hawkins' 38 points, downed the league-leaders, 116-108.

The Rens, who chalked up their fifth victory in seven games, moved to a 10-point lead at the end of the first quarter and stretched their margin to 66-48 at the half. The Chiefs cut the deficit to seven points in the closing minutes of the game, but field goals by Charlie Tyra and Phil Rollins put the game out of reach.

The fourth place Philadelphia Tapers had little trouble defeating the last-place Oakland Oaks, 89-79, as Roger Kaiser scored 24 points to pace the Tapers' attack. Fred Lacour tossed in 30 points in the losing cause.

Imogene Coca Won't Retire, Despite Rumor

By DIC KKLEINER

NEW YORK (NEA)—This is to inform the lady in Pasadena (and other thousands who share her mistaken belief) that Imogene Coca is not retired.

Miss Coca and her husband, comedy actor King Donovan, have spent most of the last four years on the road, touring in "The Girls In Room 509," "Once Upon a Mattress" and "The Thurber Carnival." Any moment now they will begin a tour in an original revue, "Standing Room Only."

In that time, Miss Coca has made very few television appearances; her last was two years ago. So it's only natural that many conluded she has retired.

"We were playing in Pasadena," Miss Coca says, "and I got a letter from a lady who said, 'Have you retired from show business?' Actually, I've been busier and working harder than ever in these past four years."

But the long, Coca-less period for the television audience is likely to be ending soon. "After "Standing Room Only" runs its touring course, there is a strong possibility of a series for her. Tentatively titled "Grindl," it would feature Miss Coca as a girl who innocently causes trouble wherever she goes. Charles Adams is drawing the cartoons which will serve as the title backgrounds.

Imogene says she could have done a lot of guest shots over these past four years, but she doesn't like them.

"It takes a while for me to get to know people," she says. "The first few days on a show, when you're a guest star, are always slightly embarrassing for me. I'm just getting to know the cast and the crew when it's all over. I much prefer touring with a show—or a series, of course."

She and Donovan love touring, love the life in their specially-equipped bus, love discovering things, such as the fact that Nacogdoches, Tex., has a theater with equipment to rival Broadway's best and has women who are as well-dressed as those anywhere.

Miss Coca is one of those people with a great enthusiasm for life, and, especially for her profession.

"I'd like to try everything in show business," she says, "even burlesque." Then she added, somewhat wistfully, "If I could."

Legal Steps Sought to Stop Dock, Aerospace Strikes

ists is the union's demand for a union shop arrangement, requiring employes to be union members, provided the workers approve the idea by a two-thirds margin. Lockheed has declined to permit such a poll or be bound by its outcome.

An earlier White House board had recommended the union shop subject to two-thirds approval by employes.

The rail dispute has been a continuing one all year. The carriers are trying to abolish up to 65,000 jobs they claim are now obsolete. Still another White House board recommended more gradual reduction, originally confined to locomotive firemen. The unions have been resisting any layoffs.

A U.S. Appeals Court ruled last Wednesday the carriers, after having negotiated fruitlessly to effect the layoffs, could put them into effect unilaterally. This most certainly would lead to a strike.

It is likely, however, that the effect of the appeals court decision can be delayed for sometime, perhaps well into early 1963, if the unions decide to appeal to the Supreme Court. One union, the railroad trainmen, already has said it will appeal. The others are the firemen, engineers, conductors and switchmen.

Advice Given on Auto Without Going Broke

NEW YORK (UPI) — If you are among the between 6 and 7 million persons who, according to auto industry estimates, will be in the market for a new car next year, there are several ways to make your driving dreams come true, without going for broke.

That's the word from the American Bankers Association which say, first, if your present car is giving you repair headaches and you can't afford a new one just yet, look around for a later model second-hand car.

In a new car purchase, remember that depreciation, as much as original cost and turn-in value of your old car, is important, and that some cars and models depreciate more than others.

A recent study shows that $2,000 and $3,000 cars depreciate about 29 per cent the first year, 16 per cent the second year, 12 per cent, 10 per cent and 7 per cent the third, fourth and fifth years, and about 2 per cent ever year thereafter.

The Association said about 60 per cent of all car purchases today are financed with some kind of credit and urged:

—Make as big a down payment as you possibly can. The more money you put down at the outset, the less the loan will cost you. Put down at least one-third in cash, or trade-in value of the actual cost of the car and meet the balance in monthly payments.

—Try for the shortest repayment period you can safely and comfortably manage. The longer you pay—the more you pay. Most banks maintain a 36-month maximum term on financing of new cars and 24 months for used cars.

—Don't borrow to make a down payment. If you can't swing that much on your own, you're in over your head.

—If you don't have a car to trade in or the cash to make the required down payment, start now to save.

Pat Nixon Campaigned With Cracked Ribs

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP) —Patricia Nixon campaigned for her husband, Richard M. Nixon, while suffering from three cracked ribs, an informed source has revealed.

He said Mrs. Nixon kept the injury secret, although she was in intense pain for days, "because she didn't want pity."

Mrs. Nixon received the injury in early October when she slipped on a bathroom floor in a San Francisco hotel.

Yankees to Play Detroit Labor Day

DETROIT (UPI) — The New York Yankees will make an unprecedented holiday appearance in Detroit next season when they oppose the American League champions in a Labor Day doubleheader. The Yankees also will play five night games in Detroit.

TALL TREES

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The tallest tree in the world is now believed to be a 368-foot California redwood in Humboldt County.

The California Redwood Association says the new record tree is a few miles from the Founders Tree, which used to hold the "tallest" distinction.

A few years ago the Founders tree lost 17 feet in a storm. But the new tallest tree is even taller by four feet than the Founders Tree had been before the storm.

Erratic Storm Keeps Battering Eastern Coast

CHARLESTON, S. C. (UPI)—A fierce Atlantic storm drifted slowly southward today and battered the Atlantic Seaboard with gale winds and high tides. No relief was in sight.

"The storm is expected to drift a little southward in the next few hours with a tendency to become stationary," the Weather Bureau said. "Therefore no relief is in sight and residents in the affected areas can look for more of the same."

The week-old storm drifted slowly southward Sunday and the latest advisory located it about 250 miles due east of here.

Gale warnings were displayed from Myrtle Beach, S.C. to the Virginia Capes and small craft warnings remained in effect along the coast from Cape Canaveral to Cape May, N.J.

Winds up to 65 miles per hour were reported in heavy squalls near the center of the storm. Rough seas and tides up to three feet above normal continued to plague coastal areas from Virginia southward to northern Florida, causing serious beach erosion and minor flooding.

Weather Bureau forecasters were puzzled by the erratic behavior of the storm which remained stationary at times last week but retained its strength.

Walter Hall, a Weather Bureau forecaster here for 35 years, called the storm the most unusual he had ever seen. The direction of the storm has changed frequently.

Three crewmen were rescued from a North Carolina ferry system work boat Sunday after the vessel began listing to port and taking on water in rough seas off Pamlico Sound near Manteo, N.C.

Office Broken Into Over Weekend

The sheriff's office reported Sunday that the offices of the Strattmoor Hills Development Co. had been broken into over the week-end.

Deputy Sheriff Bernard Barry said a gun cabinet had been forced but as the owner is out of town at present it is not known how many rifles and revolvers Were stolen.

Army Maj. Clifford A. Upton, whose wife Lillian, lives at 512 Esther Dr., Security, was assigned recently to the 7th Artillery Group's headquarters in Thule, Greenland.

Upton, operations and training officer in the headquarters, entered the Army in 1941 and was last stationed in Colorado Springs.

LONDON (UPI) — The Civil Service Clerical Association said today it is taking out a special insurance policy for members, especially tax collectors and welfare workers.

They will be insured against attacks by angry citizens.

Today's Weather

(Reports furnished by U. S. Weather Bureau Station at Peterson Field as of 5:30 a.m. today))

The week old situtation with high pressure over the northeastern states and a low in the Atlantic off the southeastern states is still with us.

The high pressure system has weakened and likewise has the coastal low, combining to give less windy but still mostly fair weather to the East.

The stable vertical structure of the atmosphere associated with this high pressure system, with rather mild temperatures aloft, has been conductive to the formation of ground fog at night and leaving smoke and haze suspended in the air, particularly near the industrial centers.

Precipitation was light and scattered this morning with reports of light rain and showers received mainly from the southern Plains, and from central California into the northern Rockies and in the upper Mississippi valley.

Some stations in the Rockies reported snow with the fall being heavy at Butte, Mont.

Early morning temperatures were near or above their seasonal normal in most areas across the nation.

Among the warmer readings were the high 50s in the southern portions of Florida, Texas and California, while on the cool side were 20s in New England, the Appalachians, Montana and over the higher elevations in the southern Plateau and Rockies.

The forecast for today calls for fair and mild weather over the eastern third of the country and over the southern Plateau from the Rockies into Texas.

Rain and scattered showers are expected from the Pacific Northwest and northern California coast, eastward across the Rockies, with the precipitation falling as snow over higher elevations.

Scattered showers and intermittant rain are also forecast from the eastern Plains into the Mississippi Valley.

Black Hawks Net NHL First Spot

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Chicago's muscular Black Hawks have barged into the lead in the National Hockey League, but the edge is far from comfortable.

The hustling Hawks fired 48 shots on goal Sunday night in a 5-1 triumph over Boston that let them take over sole possession of the top spot, breaking out of a tie with Detroit.

The Red Wings fell before Toronto 3-1 and Montreal blanked Boston 3-0 on Jacques Plante's second shutout of the season.

The result left Chicago in front, but only two points up on Toronto, Detroit and Montreal, all of which are tied for second.

The Black Hawks took 35 shots at New York goalie Gump Worsley in the first two periods and built a 3-0 lead.

TV-Eyed Robot Investigates Oil Fields

By RALPH DIGHTON

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Robots, with television eyes and sonar ears and able to swim and dive, soon will go to work where roustabouts cannot tread—in underwater oil fields.

Tubular in shape and 10 feet tall, the robot has an arm that can turn lock screws, operate valves, grip pipe and hoses and wield a wire brush and other tools. All of these operations are performed by remote control from the drilling ship.

Perched atop the robot's body are lights, a television camera and some sonar gear which feed back to a monitoring console aboard the ship.

Robots already have plunged into the depths and proved they can do jobs beyond the brawn and endurance of the toughest men. And in January they'll go to work off the coast of northern California.

On Jan. 8 the Federal Lands Bureau will accept bids from oil companies which want to drill on 800,000 acres of submerged continental shelf land beyond the three-mile limit from Point Conception, Calif. to the Oregon border.

Geologists believe there are oil-bearing strata in the submerged shelf as rich as those which yield to California's land-based wells 850,000 barrels of crude oil and 1.5 billion cubic feet of gas every day.

Until recently there was no economical way of reaching these pools.

"There was no point in bidding for rights to drill in the deep waters of northern California before the robot," says William F. Bates, marine division manager for Shell Oil Co., first to adapt these remote control machines to oil field tasks.

"Now we can for the first time plan on opening entire new fields of underwater wells."

Oil men would like to drill in federal waters off Southern California, too, but that may be delayed until settlement of a controversy.

States by law own submerged land out to three miles from shore. Beyond that, out to 12 miles, it belongs to the federal government.

California claims all submerged land out to three miles beyond the Santa Barbara Islands, a coastal chain 20 to 40 miles off the southern shore. The federal government insists California can properly claim only a strip three miles wide along the coast plus a three-mile-wide ring around each island.

Oil men are inclined to stay out of the disputed area until the courts determine who is the proper landlord.

After all, development of the underwater robot means there are plenty of new places to drill—along the submerged shelves of virtually every continent in the world.

Some of these shelves are relatively shallow. The oil lands beneath the Gulf of Mexico, for instance, can be tapped by drill rigs atop "Texas towers," some of which rise 200 feet from the ocean floor.

Other shelves, including California's, lie much deeper. And divers who have to maintain wellheads can't work efficiently at much more than 200 feet.

The submarine robots, which cost about $250,000 apiece, have been designed specifically to service wellhead equipment at depths down to 1,000 feet.

A more elaborate model just completed not only can service wellheads but also lay pipelines to shore, find and retrieve lost tools and meet virtually any maintenance emergency.

Oil men are interested primarily in the continental shelves, not the rest of the ocean floor, because seismic soundings indicate that only the continental masses contain oil.

Black Market Reported In Colorful Wigs

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—The black market was turned blonde, brunette, red, and a variety of other shades. The latest item on the list is human hair at $150 per pound.

Police estimated thefts from wig shops over the weekend at more than 200 wigs and 20 pounds of hair and attributed them to professional thieves.

A heavy demand for wigs in South Florida has created the lucrative black market, said detective George Watson.

Over Quarter Million Cubans Sick From Eating Red Beef

from Argentina and spread the disease throughout that country.

Agriculture Department records show that it took nearly 1,000 U.S.-Mexican officials more than eight years, and cost the U.S. over $150 million, to wipe out that epidemic and keep the disease from speading to the U.S.

A RUSSIAN PROBLEM — According to a U.S. intelligence estimate, the seriousness of the hoof - and - mouth problem is indicated by the numerous meetings Soviet Deputy Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan held with Cuban health and agricultural officials during his recent 23 - day stay on the island.

One intelligence tally shows that Mikoyan, with two Russian veterinarians, conferred with health officials at least a dozen times while having only eight known meetings with Castro about Cuba's new Communist role in the Carribbean.

Significantly, Mikoyan even visited one of the farm areas where Cuban peasants had reportedly fed the diseased meat to a large herd of livestock and swine.

Since Mikoyan's departure, Castro's Communist regime has issued a steady stream of directives curbing the handling, and feeding, and ordering the isolation of the diseased livestock, although no public mention of the dread hoof - and - mouth disease has been made.

If this disease spreads through Cuba — as it has in East Germany — U.S. officials believe that Castro will have to publicly discuss it in order to check the disease.

So far, Castro has suppressed all public mention of the widespread food poisoning, although the serious effects of the trainted meat upon thousands is generally known throughout Cuba.

The official silence was believed ordered by Castro to avoid embarrassing the Soviet over the incident, since the Cuban government had earlier announced that the meat was being sent from Russia — as a personal gift of the Soviet Communist party.

The two shiploads were among the 63 Soviet bloc ships that passed through the "limited" U.S. naval blockade of Cuba.

Another ship that went through the quarantine was the self-propelled floating crane Pablo Sandoval. This 125 - ton crane is being assembled at the Hacendados docks in Havana harbor. It will be ready for use later this month.

WATCHING CUBA — The strange new private view of Cuba which State Department policymakers are circulating goes like this: "Any effective response to communism in Cuba requires more analysis of thinking people still on the island than of those in exile outside. It requires sophistication to realize that Cuban communism may produce another leader, other than Fidel Castro, that we can 'live with.'"

Representative Thomas Morgan, D-Pa., chairman of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, is telling his members that he plans to set up a special subcommittee on captive nations in January to check on Cuba. He will give Cuban refugees a forum to keep members of Congress informed of what is going on inside that Soviet - ruled nation.

Soviet geologists are now working on a determination of resources in more than 20 underdeveloped countries, including Cuba, where an estimated 50 to 60 specialists are at work. Rumania has agreed to construct a new cement factory in Santiago de Cuba that would have a capacity of 400,000 tons per year. Castro is sending agents into other Latin American countries at the rate of about 200 a month. A brigade of 1,000 Chinese military technicians are still in Cuba training Latin Americans in guerrilla warfare. Arnulfo Parada Tovar, the former leader of the Guatemalan Students Association, is identified by Guatemalan government officials as the key contact between the Communist regime in Cuba and the revolting Guatemalan airforce officials.

China Red Troops Not Really Leaving India

The New China News Agency reported a withdrawal of Communist Chinese troops in the Walong area at the extreme eastern end of the 1,500-mile borderline. Walong, 15 miles west of the Burma border, fell to the Chinese in an offensive that subsequently carried them 80 miles down the Luhit River valley toward the plains of Assam.

High Indian military sources were quoted as saying Chinese troops still held positions in the Luhit Valley.

A dispatch from a Chinese correspondent in Walong said scores of peasants gave the withdrawing Chinese newly harvested sweet potatoes and bananas and "called down blessings on them."

The Chinese broadcast said nothing about withdrawals elsewhere, but authoritative Indian sources at Tezpur said the Chinese seem to have withdrawn 20 miles on the northeastern front, apparently the Bombdila area. The area is some 300 miles west of Walong and is the greatest Chinese penetration toward the fertile populous Assam plains.

In New Delhi, Defense Minister Y. B. Chavan said there can be no doubt about India's ultimate victory. He told a public meeting "We do not want to have any compromise with anybody unless every inch of our territory is vacated."

Relay Satellite To Be Launched At Canaveral

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Relay satellite will be launched next week from Cape Canaveral to pave the way for a second exchange of live television programs with Europe.

Relay will follow in the footsteps of Telstar, used last summer for the initial swap of television shows across the Atlantic. This time, there's a chance the exchange may be three-sided with the possible inclusion of South America.

The planned launching was mentioned Sunday on a televised interview — "Youth Wants to Know"—by Newton N. Minow, chairman of the Federal Communications Commission, and confirmed by a spokesman for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

The NASA official said a Thor-Delta missile will be used and that relay will travel in a somewhat higher orbit than Telstar.

Driving Lesson Turns Out Disastrously

CEDAR RAPIDS, Iowa (UPI)—Edward J. Marek took his daughter, Suzanne, 16, for a driving lesson Sunday — and wished he hadn't.

She was making a left turn when the car jumped a curb, rolled across a lawn, smashed through two fences, ran over a patio, slammed into a house, plunging into the kitchen, shearing a gas line, forcing the M. E. Rowley family to flee until firemen could clear the house of gas.

Miss Marek was charged with driving without a license; her father with permitting an unauthorized person to drive.

were to be made available later today.

A defense spokesman said he was unable to say how many airfields have been used by the IL28's. He said they have appeared and reappeared in different places.

The last official figure on the number of these nuclear-capable bombers sent by the Russians into Cuba was more than 20. Reliable reports since have indicated the number of about 30.

On Nov. 21, it was announced that U.S. Navy P2V patrol planes would check outward-bound ships to see whether they were carrying IL28's back to Russia.

At the time, a spokesman said it probably would take about 30 days to complete the operation.

Outboard Motor Strength Stirs Market Dispute

By JACK WILISTON
United Press International

The Mercury outboard people have taken issue with a claim by a competing manufacturer that 75 horsepower is the optimum rating for outboard boating pursuits.

Mercury, the only manufacturer to do so, produces a 100 horsepower motor. The 100 was introduced in its 1962 line, and Mercury claims it is its most popular model in six years.

In stating its case recently, the manufacturer of the 75 claimed that if horsepower were raised to a hypothetical 110, the price tag would jump $400 over the current 75 and fuel consumption would increase 48 per cent each hour at wide-open throttle. It said speed on an 18-foot boat would increase 5 miles per hour to about 27 miles per hour.

In disputing its competitor, a Mercury spokesman asserted that "the high cost of high horsepower is a myth, at least as far as Mercury is concerned." He said the per-horsepower cost of a Mercury 100 was $2.05 less than that of the competing 75.

The spokesman claimed that the Mercury 100 produced 35 to 50 per cent more miles per gallon when run at the same speed as the 75, on identical boats.

"Herein lies one of the fallacies of the 75 horsepower argument," he said. "For by quoting fuel consumption figures at open throttle, the ability of the 100 horsepower motor to match the speed of the 75 at only part throttle is ignored. In other words, at any given boat speed the 100 isn't working as hard as the 75. Operation at reduced load increases fuel efficiency and cuts down wear and tear on internal parts. The additional 25 horsepower gives the operator a reserve of power for acceleration, for pulling up skiers, and for extra speed of 4 to 12 miles per hour when needed."

Mercury also took issue with the suggestion that motors be mounted in pairs to obtain more power and speed, contending that such a procedure was not economical because of original cost and fuel consumption. It said that underwater drag would be twice as great with dual outboards.

Probably no one did as much for sailing competition in the way of trophies as the late Sir Thomas Lipton who never could win the one trophy he wanted so much—the America's Cup.

At one time at least 34 Lipton trophies were in existence, and this year at least 15 of the trophies still are in competition. And now another has been added—the Lipton Memorial Trophy—presented to the New York Yacht Club by the tea company which Sir Thomas founded.

At the recent awards dinner of the New York Yacht Club, the sterling silver tea urn, made in London in 1785, was presented to Ross Anderson of the Nefertiti, which was the runner-up yacht in the trials with Weatherly to select this year's defender of the America's Cup.

W. Gardner Barker, president of Thomas J. Lipton, Inc., in presenting the trophy said he hoped it would "help to perpetuate the lasting qualities of true sportsmanship exemplified so well by the company's founder, Sr. Thomas Lipton, in his five unsuccessful attempts to win the America's Cup for Great Britain."

Freeloading Skunk Lands Behind Bars

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—A freeloading skunk has been sneaking at night into the camel, kangaroo and penguin cages at Philadelphia Zoo.

Zoo officials caught him Saturday night. They'll continue to feed him, but the skunk will have to go on display and let folks look at him during the day, just like the zoo's other five skunks.

Spelunker Spends 64 Days in Australian Cave

DARWIN, Australia (UPI) — Spelunker Bill Penman, 37, called for pork chops and cold beer when he emerged Sunday from 64 days below ground in Katherine Cave.

Penman, found by friends wandering near the cave mouth, said he would have stayed down longer but he was afraid he would go blind.

As it was, he scored a record of sorts. The previous unofficial record for cave - living was 62 days, set by Michel Siffre in the French Alps earlier this year.

However, it was disclosed last week that a number of lung patients spent 5½ months underground in Kentucky's mammoth Cave in 1843.

DOUGHNUT IN THE SKY

CLEVELAND (UPI)—A unique entry in space exploration is an inflatable space station. It is proposed that the doughnut-shaped vehicle, designed and built by Goodyear Aircraft Corp., be packaged into a container, shot into space and inflated to form an orbiting space station. Men would live and work inside the station, entering and leaving through a cannister-shaped hub.

Discipline Lack Is Charg in Soviet Armies

MOSCOW (UPI)—The political commissar of the Soviet armed forces called Saturday for a drive against immoral behavior lack of discipline and embezzlement in the nation's armed services.

General of the Army A. A. Yepishev also complained that numerous top-ranking Soviet officers had not adjusted their training methods to rocket warfare.

"Some of our officers, generals and admirals, still fail to give up old methods in educating the troops — giving up everything which proved to be absolutely inadmissible in connection with rocket and nuclear weapons," he said.

Yepishev's call was published in an article in the military newspaper, Red Star. It followed a similar article by First Deputy Defense Minister Vasily Chuykov calling for great party influence in the services.

The article asserted the party's guiding role in the armed forces. It also followed a general tightening of party control in the national economy ordered at the November meeting of the party's Central Committee.

Yepishev, who is the boss of the political direction of the armed forces, said that among the tasks of the Communist Party was that of activating "the sentiment of personal responsibility" and eliminating abuses of discipline and moral behavior.

GAZETTE TELEGRAPH
Your Freedom Newspaper

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It must be consistent with the truths expressed in such great moral guides as the Golden Rule, the Ten Commandments and the Declaration of Independence.

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

The New Collectivists

Within the last twenty years we have been encouraged to note the incidence and growth of the individual spirit. Right in the midst of the greatest surge toward political collectivism ever witnessed in this relatively young nation, there came a countervailing influence, the re-emphasis in certain quarters on private ownership of property, private management of business, freedom and the rights of individuals.

Not that the opposition to collectivism obtained anything like a dominant place in the scheme of things. It did not. But it was an exciting, exhilarating overtone which stirred the pulse and provided renewed belief in the idea that liberty was not lost.

It is somewhat disconcerting, then, to discover at this late date that nearly all of the individualistic voices raised within the past twenty years have shifted over to the opposition. Whereas we used to hear the cry that freedom of the individual meant simply that the individual had it within his power and his own moral grasp to make his own decisions, we now hear from these same quarters that the individual must not be permitted to be "too free." We must stress "responsibility," we are told. There is a "social obligation" which is paramount. "The law comes first and after that we may be free."

Writers who, in the thirties, were seeking to justify collectivism, have now been resurrected in an effort to show that freedom must not be defined to be what it is, freedom. "For true liberty" (says such a writer) "is not liberty to do as one likes, but liberty to adjust oneself, in some sense of that word, to law."

In other words, liberty is not the right of the individual to be responsible for himself; liberty, we are to understand, is whatever the law grants to the individual that is left over and thus does not come directly under the law.

Now, why have we come to witness this strange reversal on the part of many who said they really did believe in liberty and freedom? Why do we see such things as an organization, resting upon the concept of support for free enterprise, take the position consistently in the last five years that free enterprise must not be too free? Indeed, we have seen this same organization champion the cause of government controls (in limits) for the last five years, whereas in the previous fifteen years the organization talked constantly of the merits of freedom and of the market place.

It's a curious transition. The individualists of the 40's are drifting into what they consider to be a "justifiable compromise with reality."

"You can't really believe in total freedom for anyone," they tell us. "So, we must do the next best thing and rely on the government to protect us and to compel universal subordination to that protection."

Or again: "The proper remedy for an unsound individualism, is a sound individualism, an individualism that starts, not from rights, but from duties."

What dictator of any nation whatever ever desired a more pleasant doctrine than this? If the people of a nation can be made to see that their first action is a "duty" to the state or to "society," then such a dictator could readily have his own way. If man must serve the state first and freedom is secondary, what is there in our existing situation to cause a complaint? The real problem faced by these neo-collectivists is the nature of man.

It happens to be a fact that man is empowered by nature to make his own decisions. It is true, of course, that man is not equipped by nature always to make right decisions. But if this is true naturally, and it is, what exists in government to cause any to feel that a decision made by a man in government is going to be more "right" than a decision made by a man outside of government?

What we will have in this world, finally, will be a system in which men are recognized as what they are: living organisms who are responsible for their own actions and able to make decisions and bear the consequences. Either this, or we will have what the collectivists want, a system in which some men in government make all decisions for everyone; a system in which there are the ruled and the rulers, the latter employing guns and swords and bombs to control and stifle all disagreement.

The grim irony is that many who pay lip-service to freedom really favor force and violence as a method of control over others.

We Have It—Or We Don't

Some cultures and civilizations fall, but rise again. Others fall and never re-emerge. There is nothing in the nature of things as they are which demands progress. We have the will to progress within ourselves or it is lacking in the culture we share.

Urban Renewal Injures Small Shops—Individuals

"Urban Renewal" is still a big thing in many communities. Ostensibly designed to spruce up a community and to help the low-income dweller into better housing, the results of the program are stirring up some rankling hostility and it may not be long before urban renewal will become a fighting word.

Typical of what is happening elsewhere is what is going on right now in Alexandria, Virginia. An urban renewal program has been approved there by the city fathers, who positively drool with anticipation at the cool $7 million that will come into their hands from Big Brother across the Potomac. But the property owners in Alexandria have a lot of things to say about this high-handed procedure and all the complaints aren't in as yet.

An interesting feature of the opposition is that many of those who are up in protest over the rehabilitation proposal are Negro property owners. And Negroes in Alexandria are solid citizens who have been owners of property for many years. Some of them are descended from families which put their roots down more than a hundred years ago.

And while it may be true that the Negro property about to be seized and razed to please the bureaucrats isn't pretentious and ornate, much of it is modern, clean, freshly painted and a decided credit to any community. Many of the Negroes have businesses of their own. And these are the very people the big urban renewal proposition intends to oust and undo.

At a public meeting not long ago a retired Negro Presbyterian minister, Rev. Thomas A. Robinson, pleaded the case of a 71-year-old widow who operates a corner grocery store and lives in one of the areas to be condemned and destroyed.

"Her house and store are in A-1 condition, she's always paid her taxes, she's never given anyone any trouble, and she's raised a fine family. Now she's 71 years old, and her business is her only means of support. She's just too old and doesn't have enough strength to start all over again."

Negroes weren't the only ones disturbed and disgruntled by the urban renewal raid being engineered by the city fathers. Many white merchants have been demoralized since learning that the shadow of legal demolition stands over their shops and businesses. One clothing store operator, about to spend $10,000 in a remodeling program, has cancelled his plans and won't do a thing now that urban renewal is coming. Property owners who improve their properties just before urban renewal is enforced, will not be recompensed for any additional expenses to which they have been put.

In consequence, there are vacant stores all thru Alexandria and many of them are in poor condition and getting worse. Why fix up your place if it is going to be torn down in a year or so, anyhow?

Hardest hit by urban renewal will be the small businessman and the small property owner. Altho the program is ostensibly designed to make things better for these "little" people, the fact is that they are the chief ones to suffer. And it is all so unnecessary.

The entire urban renewal concept is designed to place concentrated power in the hands of a few and to dispossess the small, tho deserving property owner. It arises from this perpetual curse of governmental power, the desire and intention of planning the lives of others for them.

Urban renewal, as most are aware, is a device wherein the local government, aided by federal funds, can earmark certain parts of a city for demolition. The sections thus designated are purchased from the owners with taxpayers' funds and all buildings thereon are razed. After this has been done, then the land is sold back to some private developer who will agree to go along with the plans provided by the city fathers.

Since only a very few firms or individuals in the nation have the necessary wherewithal to purchase back this property and conform to the new master plan, the result is the monstrous growth of a few outfits and the dispossession and destruction of the right to own private property in thousands of cases.

When market place rules are followed, there will always be a growth of private ownership in very many hands. But when market place rules are violated, ownership will tend to centralize in the hands of the few who are able to obtain political favor one way or another.

Treasury To Offer New Bond

PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — The Treasury is going to issue an entirely new kind of "savings" bond.

It will be sold to those self-employed who take advantage of the law passed by the recent session of Congress which allows them to set up their own pension funds up to $2,500 a year.

An estimated 7 million self-employed are eligible to establish such pension funds. The new bond also will be available to corporations with pension funds.

Interest rate on the bond is still to be determined. In discussions with President Kennedy, Treasury Secretary Dillon indicated the rate will be at least as high as the 3¾ per cent of E and H bonds, and may go above that.

The bonds will be issued in amounts ranging from $100 to $10,000, and will have no maturity date. They will run indefinitely.

It is not generally realized, but under the new law self-employed can set up their own pension funds in addition to having social security coverage. The latter imposes no restrictions on the former. Self-employed can take advantage of both systems — provided they pay the cost.

Under the new law, one-half of the pension fund is taxed at regular income rates when the money is withdrawn.

Self-employed can start drawing on these pension funds at the age of 59½. They don't have to do so until 70½, when the law requires withdrawal from these funds must begin. However, in neither instance does the individual have to actually "retire." He can keep on working and earning.

Should withdrawals start before 59½, a penalty tax is imposed. In the event of death, the fund is paid to beneficiaries in various methods specified by the law.

The new law permits a wide choice of pension funds. Self-employed can put their money in annuities, trusts, "custodial" accounts, and other investments. The Treasury is issuing its new type of bond in the hope of attracting a large amount of these pension savings.

Treasury experts estimate the new pension system will cost the government from $115 million to $150 million a year in revenue.

Under the law, one-half of the $2,500-a-year pension savings can be claimed as a tax deduction. That was the principal reason President Kennedy and Secretary Dillon opposed the measure, altho in the end the former signed it. If he hadn't, Congress would have passed it over his veto.

GOING, GOING. . .?

Former President Eisenhower's son is apparently not going to follow in his father's military footsteps.

Lieutenant Colonel John Eisenhower has obtained another six-months leave of absence — the third since he "hung up his uniform" in April 1961. This latest leave will take him up to April 1963.

That's a long time for a regular officer to be out of active service, especially of young Eisenhower's rank. He has forfeited considerable seniority, and all his West Point classmates now outrank him. Some are full colonels, and his chances of catching up are remote.

Close friends intimate the younger Eisenhower will quit the regular Army next year, at the expiration of his latest "excess leave without pay."

Young Eisenhower is occupied chiefly with helping his father on his literary efforts. These include magazine articles, speeches and White House memoirs, the first volume of which is slated to come out next year.

The son also manages the Gettysburg farm and other family interests.

George Allen, intimate friend of General Eisenhower, genial raconteur and author of the best-selling "Presidents Who Have Known Me," estimates the latter's wealth as "well over a million."

John Kenneth Galbraith, towering U.S. ambassador to India, is ruefully writing Harvard friends that the warring between India and China is endangering his plan to resign to resume his economic professorship at Harvard. The university grants its faculty members only a two-year leave of absence, and Galbraith's expires next spring. Unless he returns by then, he will lose his chair, one of the highest-paid at Harvard. From his letters, he apparently has no intention of giving up his diplomatic post while there is armed strife between India and China. . . Brazil wants to establish a direct air route to Russia. Paulo Sampaio, head of Panair do Brasil, is in Moscow discussing the opening of an airline between the two countries.

After 40 years of Communist rule, the Soviet is still grappling hectically and without seeming avail with numerous agricultural problems. Despite that dismal record, the Kremlin has sent a large group of so-called "agricultural technicians" to Ghana to assist it in overcoming farm difficulties. If these Russian technicians have no better success in Ghana than they have had in their own country, then Ghana is in a bad way. . .The world-famed National Institutes of Health, Bethesda, Md., will train a number of Nigerian doctors and medical technicians to provide the Lagos teaching hospital with a faculty.

Yugoslavia and Jordan, both big beneficiaries of U.S. economic and military aid, have signed a trade agreement under which Yugoslavia will increase its imports of Jordanian phosphate to 150,000 tons annually in exchange for Jordan's boosting its purchase of Yugoslav goods. . . Chile is cracking down on merchants violating anti-speculation laws. More than 100 business establishments charged with such violations have been shut down, and another 50 heavily fined. . .Taxis are becoming so scarce in Cuba, particularly in Havana, where the low rates fixed by the Castro regime are strictly enforced, that they are virtually non-existent at night. To cope with this dilemma, the Communist government is requiring taxis to provide a certain amount of all-night service — on pain of losing their licenses. The National Revolutionary Taxi Drivers' Association has been given the responsibility of enforcing this edict.

The American Way

How Many More 'Victories' Can We Afford

By HARRY BROWNE

All over the nation, Americans are asking what happened to the "firm stand" on Cuba they'd been promised a month ago.

Actually, this latest reversal of official policy is just one more link in a chain of incredible events regarding this Communist beachhead on our doorstep.

It began when, perhaps thru faulty judgment, our government helped a known Communist named Castro to unseat a friendly dictator. Since then — thru the U.N., and our allies — we have helped Castro maintain a socialist government in Cuba. Such governments are almost impossible to maintain without outside help.

SUBVERSIVE BASE

Despite food shortages in Cuba, the Communists have used this base to send subversive expeditions into other countries, such as Venezuela and the Dominican Republic.

Even tho we have the power to unseat Castro on our own, every public demand for action has been answered by our government with futile and unsuccessful pleas to the Organization of American States.

Finally in 1961, the American government agreed to provide air cover for a Cuban-exile invasion attempt. But faint hearts prevailed and the air cover was withdrawn at a strategic moment, sabotaging the invasion. That "firm stand" deteriorated into pleas for funds to purchase the freedom of the captured liberators.

PUBLIC SUPPORT

With such a record of failure behind it, it's no wonder the government received hearty cheers when it finally announced it had drawn the line last month. Americans, more relieved than afraid, felt that Castro's days were finally numbered.

But now, instead of removing Castro, we find that the administration has guaranteed his safety. This in exchange for the removal of "offensive" weapons. And for proof of that removal, we are accepting the promise of a man the President admitted was a notorious liar only 30 days ago.

How many more "victories" like this can we afford?

The only way to be sure that Cuba is not an "offensive" threat is to return it to the free world. We have the ability and the resources to do it — without war.

ISOLATE THE ENEMY

No Communist government has ever survived without aid from the capitalist world. A full embargo, backed up by a naval blockade, will either force Castro to flee or inspire his enslaved subjects to overthrow him. We should see to it that nothing — absolutely nothing — is allowed to reach Cuba from the outside world. And we should promise the Cuban people that, should they rebel, we will guarantee that no outside troops will come in to put down the rebellion.

Once Castro is thru, we should oversee free elections within 30 days — and then get out.

That kind of victory we can afford. It could be the beginning of a real turning point in the cold war. And it would be the American way.

Question Box

(We invite questions on economics and the proper functions of government which will not injure anyone.)

Question No. 65: Is a governor provided with a plane by the federal government, and if so may it be used for transportation of the governor during a campaign or for political purposes?

Answer: We do not know whether the federal government provides a plane for each governor. If it does, we believe the legality of its being used for political purposes could be questioned. However, the presidents of the United States have been making "non-political" trips in federal government planes for many years. Skeptics have had difficulty differentiating between some of these trips and others which are admittedly for political purpose.

Help enlighten us, as well as yourself and others, by sending to us questions, signed or unsigned, on economic and government functions that will harm no one and benefit everyone.

These Days

The Hiss-Nixon Episode

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

The fracas over Alger Hiss broadcast against Richard Nixon has three aspects: the legal, the moral and the esthetic.

From a strictly legal standpoint, the American Broadcasting Company can defend itself on several grounds, some correct, some specious. A broadcasting network may put on its program whomever it chooses, provided that he does not break certain specified ground rules; namely that the commentator or orator, whichever it might be, does not commit libel or utter salacious terminology, such as four letter words which small boys write with chalk.

There is no law against Alger Hiss talking as much as he likes if he can get a platform and there is no law against providing him with a platform.

But that is only one side of the coin. On the moral side, Alger Hiss was convicted for perjury in a case involving at least subversion in an official position and at most, treason. The offense was never clearly defined, just as Al Capone was not convicted for murder or any crime other than failing to pay his income tax.

What Hiss did on that program was to be vengeful, which is a sin if ever there was one. If Alger Hiss dislikes anyone, it should be Alger Hiss, for he willfully performed the acts of treachery which Richard Nixon, then a young congressman, uncovered. There was not one word of shame or regret in this author of the United Nations Charter for his complicity in Whittaker Chambers' espionage activities — not one word of apology. There was only hatred for the man who exposed him and in whose defeat he revelled.

BOSS HAGERTY

James Hagerty, vice president of the American Broadcasting Company, permitted Hiss to do this little play-acting. Hagerty is the boss.

Prior to his getting the job with the American Broadcasting Company, he was President Eisenhower's press secretary and, next to Sherman Adams, the most powerful man in the Eisenhower administration.

Now comes Emmet John Hughes, a speech-writer for Eisenhower — and also for Governor Nelson Rockefeller. Hughes, in a "kiss and tell" article in "Look" Magazine, provides the clue to Hiss' privilege of damning Nixon on the American Broadcasting Company program. He indicates not only that Eisenhower's staff disliked Nixon, but that "Eisenhower did not regard the succession of Nixon as a blessing either inevitable or irresistible."

Then Hughes goes on to describe the 1960 campaign:

"This climactic electoral battle of the Eisenhower years found candidate Nixon and Eisenhower's White House still at odd, unadmitted distance from one another. As Nixon suffered the anguish of irresolution on so many basic issues (was a clean-cut stand on civil rights really worth the loss of that shimmering vision of all those Southern electoral votes?), the same fateful ambiguity afflicted his very relationship with Eisenhower. On the one hand, Nixon knew the vast potential power that the President might wield in his election. On the other hand, he knew, too — along with the quickening criticism of Eisenhower's foreign policy — the rather widespread complaint of the electorate that he, Nixon, had never stood, alone and free, beyond the comforting shade of the taller figure of the President. A vigorous show of self-sufficiency, then, seemed the order of the day — along with a reserve of political aid, of course, to be summoned in emergency.

CHILL

"In this climate, both personal and political relations between the Eisenhower staff and the Nixon staff grew chill as the political battle grew warm. Men around the President, anxious to lend assistance to guard Eisenhower's personal stake in the electoral verdict upon the past eight years, met repeated rebuffs from men around the vice president, anxious to be rid of the burden of past mistakes and to shape their own vision of the next four years."

From this picture, which could well have been written before the broadcast, it is clear that a man like Hagerty, in the Eisenhower entourage, would dislike Nixon and hope that no good befell him. When Nixon was defeated by John F. Kennedy for the presidency, it was by such a small vote that the Eisenhowerites were silent, but when Nixon was defeated this year in California, Hagerty apparently permitted Alger Hiss to hammer the last nail into Nixon's political coffin. His apology last Sunday night was not convincing.

Esthetically, it was ugly. One does not use a Hiss for anything in the United States.

QUICK QUIZ

Q—From whom are the Copts of Egypt descended?

Q—What animal is capable of running backward?

A—The pocket gopher.

Q—What is embraced in the term Amerind?

A—An American Indian or Eskimo.

Q—What is the remotest heavenly body visible to the naked eye?

A—Andromeda, a spiral nebula.

Q—With respect to population which are the largest and smallest state capitals?

A—The least populous state capitol is Carson City, Nev.; the most populous is Boston, Mass.

Unscrupulous

By GEORGE BOARDMAN, Ph.D.

Near and around our ghost town vantage point, land development operations are prevalent. It was a classified advertisement regarding a land development which first focused our attention on this area. Government has found another boy to whip; it is concerning itself with what one spokesman called unscrupulous, greedy multi-million dollar dealers in real estate. Government wants to protect the poor, ignorant masses from diabolical, misleading advertising.

We bought our property blind. We looked at photographs, a brochure, and we read the advertising carefully. We knew we were buying raw land, 2½ acres' worth. We knew the land was 25 miles from the lake it used as part of the title of the project. We knew the land had been surveyed, streets had been graded in roughly and that we could buy 1000 gallons of water, delivered to our storage tank, for $5.00. When we took our first look at our property, we were mightily pleased.

On the other hand, a few buyers of property in the same project thought they were buying land on the shores of a lake. They believed water pipes were in, electrical lines were in and streets paved. They believed they were buying acreage worth $5,000 for $495. They complained to chambers of commerce and to various agencies of government. They hollered, "There ought to be a law."

Make no mistake about it, this writer is prejudiced in favor of private enterprise and this prejudice goes right down the line. From a personal point of view we would rather do business with the most unscrupulous merchant of all times than with government, because the unscrupulous merchant cannot apply the compulsive force of government; he may not steal from you at the point of a gun, lawfully.

Unscrupulous land speculators and developers make little headway unless they encounter prospective buyers who are also less than honest. When the get-something-for-nothing buyer meets a sharp-dealing seller the buyer comes off second best.

We have listened to some radio advertising connected with a development about 40 miles from here. The commercial states that water and power are available to the lots. It does not state that water and power are in or available without extra cost. A few people have obviously refused to listen to the advertising or they have preferred not to read the brochures carefully and many have also bought without reading their contracts. It is illogical to attempt to legislate against either the stupidity or cupidity of prospective buyers. Such action can only increase the size and cost and the power of government and who protects against the insensate greed and lust for power of government?

This does not make a case for dishonesty in the market place. In the long run, dishonesty in business earns its just reward. During our sixty years we have encountered dishonesty in business. We have observed unethical practices on the part of business and professional people but we have not known of even one political figure out of a thousand who has even kept campaign promises and none who has actually accomplished anything for the cause of freedom or to reduce the size and cost and power of government. While unethical business practices generally end in business failures, unethical political practices seem to always result in perpetuation in office. Why does anyone expect government to protect them against their own blindness, stupidity or urge to benefit by a little larceny?

Those involved with government, the elected and appointed employees of the taxpayers, regularly become involved with false and misleading advertising, during election campaigns and while they hold office. If business, per se, was guilty of 1-100th as much false advertising, government would be all over business like a hot pea on a red hot shovel. I'll take my stand with private enterprise, all the way.

Good luck and good health to you, in freedom.

FARMER'S VIEW

To the Editor:

In reply to Mr. Donovan's letter in Open Parliament November 24.

You talk like you are a very generous person. Just how much have you taken?

As to the question of not collecting damages, if we signed up for maneuvers this is one of OUR ways of fighting all of the graft, chiseling and free-loading of all sorts. This is a far cry from suicide. By holding out, some of the people might donate their land, also. If our neighbors want to sign up on their terms, okay, but so shall we expect the same privilege.

This scheme is certainly not going to save the government anything. If the government would leave free enterprise be the criteria, we would be a lot better off.

The government has plenty of federal land to practice on. Why don't they use it? Or towns!

As for unemployment compensation collectors, these same people who take a government job at high prices couldn't be paid to come out and do this hard work the farmers do. You can pay your money to loafers if YOU wish, but this will eventually be the ruination of our people as well as our country. Creating jobs to keep the unemployed working is not my idea of resourcefulness. Many times during harvest and other busy times we have tried to get help but they didn't want to get that far away from the bright lights.

How can you say we are less patriotic? As to being greedy, speak for yourself for I am sure the farmers are not on the farm because of the easy work or high prices but we know the country has to be fed. Many of us farmers hate the government programs such as: soil bank, allotments, subsidies and other give-away programs which have been thrust upon us. You people in town should be fighting them also unless you like socialism.

Many say we should comply if we want protection from the army. Well, Mr. Donovan, if we are attacked, the army won't be out here 40 miles in the country protecting a few of us farmers but they will be in town protecting you as well as the other people in town and all of the army installations.

I note many bomb shelters are being built in town and stocked with provisions, but for whose use? Certainly not ours. We are supposed to provide for ourselves and when the time comes we'll be expected to protect ourselves. There will be also many people from town seeking refuge in the country for they have told us so.

If you would read the Gazette Telegraph more diligently, you would certainly not make some of the economic misstatements you have made. I sincerely hope you study awhile before writing your next letter.

Bids for a Smile

So great was the demand for typists in the many war bureaus at Washington, that the legend came into existence that the following test was the standard by which applicants for such positions would be hired: The girl was shown in a room containing three objects, a washing machine, a typewriter, and a machine gun. If she could identify the typewriter she was hired.

New Alcoholic Rules Proposed For Coloradoans

DENVER (UPI)—The 1963 Colorado Legislature will be asked to keep all taverns and bars in the state open on Sundays from noon until midnight and to forbid all deliveries of alcholic beverages by retail dealers.

Recommendations to that effect were approved Friday by the State Legislative Council as it wound up its study on the state liquor code.

The vote to change Sunday hours came after the council first had approved a recommendation to close all taverns on Sundays. The first vote was reconsidered when it was noted that the proposal would, in effect, close every Sunday all private clubs, tourist attractions and hotels which held a liquor license, as well as for bars and 3.2 beer taverns.

The second vote, which will be the council's official recommendation, favored changing Sunday hours for all three-way liquor licensees from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m., to the noon to midnight operating schedule. Hours now for 3.2 beer taverns are from noon to midnight.

In another action on the code, the council voted to recommend to the legislature that tavern owners be allowed to abolish the service of meals, as now demanded by state law. However, the council said food still must be available, but not full course meals.

How to Keep Well

KEEP ANGINA UNDER CONTROL

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Angina pectoris never should be neglected because it may be the forerunner of a heart attack. It usually is associated with narrowing or hardening of the coronary arteries and a serious attempt should be made to prevent the progress of this condition. But angina need not be regarded as the beginning of the end; the outlook is good provided the individual recognizes the symptom as a warning.

Angina pectoris refers to chest pain that is brought on by exertion or emotional disturbances. Pain is noted most often under the breastbone and radiates into the neck or down one arm or the other. It may last five minutes and generally disappears after resting or relaxing.

Time-honored remedies include the use of a nitroglycrine pill when pain develops. Others use long-acting nitrates or nitrites to keep the coronary arteries dilated and prevent future attacks.

But the victim cannot rely entirely upon drugs. He should take stock of his daily routine and eliminate intolerable burdens or responsibilities. Some require a change of job or a long vacation. Anxiety and anger are potent causes of angina. Excessive smoking should be stopped and the same can be said of large meals which increase the work load of the heart. Small but more frequent snacks are better tolerated and are less likely to be followed by angina.

A diet low in animal fats and supplemented by vegetable oils is recommended, especially if the blood cholesterol level is high. Weight reduction also helps when the individual is too heavy.

The attacks can be minimized by avoiding the type of exertion that brings them on. If, for example, pain develops after walking two blocks, stop and rest a few minutes after walking 1½ blocks. Avoid exertion during cold weather, more so when walking against a strong wind. And we must reemphasize the need for calmness. Anger is especially dangerous.

Not Racial

L. A. writes: I can understand a child being born with a physical or mental defect but how in the world could a white couple give birth to a Mongolian child? How many generations back could this go?

Reply

These children have some of the facial features of Asiatics, such as slanted eyes, but race has nothing to do with the condition. Mongolism is due to an abnormality in the number of chromosomes the child is born with.

Stones and Food

D. M. C. writes: Are gallstones caused by the food we eat?

Reply

Stones contain the same chemicals found in food but so do muscles, bones, and everything else that is manufactured by the body. Gallstones form when the gall bladder becomes infected and sluggish.

Steroids For Pressure

N. N. writes: Are drugs such as cortisone of any value for high blood pressure?

Reply

No, and if anything they tend to raise the blood pressure. An exception is when these hormones are used to treat a specific kidney disorder that is responsible for hypertension.

Milk From Cup

K. J. writes: How can I make my 13 month old child drink milk from a cup?

Reply

Keep trying, but don't force the issue. We all learn sooner or later.

Pope Reported Well on Way To His Recovery

VATICAN CITY (AP) —Pope John XXIII appears well on his way back to resuming his normal duties after a week of battling a stomach disorder and serious anemia.

The Pope's personal physician has returned to his home in Bologna, expressing confidence.

There are indications that the pontiff may take part in the ceremonies closing the first session of the Second Vatican Council next weekend.

The supreme ruler of the Roman Catholic Church made his first public appearance in a week Sunday.

He stood for four minutes at the open window of his apartment, unshielded from cold gusts sweeping St. Peter's Square, to give his usual Sunday blessing to the crowd below.

In a strong clear voice carried by loudspeaker he said: "Good health, which threatened to leave us, is about to return. Much more, it does return."

The 81-year old pontiff looked a bit pale but rested and in good spirits. He raised his arms in his usual vigorous gesture of benediction.

The 50,000 Romans and tourists in the square cheered, applauded and waved.

Following the Pope's appearance, his personal physician, Dr. Antonio Gasbarrini, left the Vatican. He originally planned to end his regular monthly visit to Rome four days ago, but stayed on to be with the Pope.

Another papal doctor, Prof. Piero Mazzoni, remained on duty at the apostolic palace.

"The best statement on the Pope's condition," said Gasbarrini, "is his appearance to bless the faithful. All I can add to that is that the Pope is the best of patients and I am confident of the effectiveness of the prescribed treatment."

There had been reports that surgery had been considered for the Pope but the Vatican said Saturday no operation is in prospect.

The specific nature of the Pope's stomach ailment has not been disclosed. It is widely thought to be an ulcer. He also has a prostate condition.

Gasbarrini plans to return to the Vatican Dec. 8, apparently to be on hand for the ceremonies closing the first phase of the Ecumenical Council.

Psychiatry New Departure For Show on TV

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—Writer Jerome Ross re-worked the same naval episode of 1842 that led Herman Melville to write his classic "Billy Budd," to make Sunday night's NBC Show of the Week, "Mutiny."

It was the story of a 17-year-old apprentice seaman who was "executed" for fomenting mutiny aboard a training ship. The gripping story was told in a series of flashbacks from the court-martial of the ship's captain to the events on the brig.

But where Melville made his book a sort of psychological morality tale exploring the many faces of evile, Ross converted the episode into a psychiatric exploration.

Thus, in Philip Cantrell Jr., the young apprentice (well played by Robert Walker) we had a senator's son, disobedient, scheming and—obviously from the outset—deeply disturbed. In other words, a juvenile delinquent.

Commander Jason Howell, played by Dana Andrews, represented authority, a good man who seemed helpless to cope with the boy and his mischief. The boy's plot to take over the ship and turn pirate interested some of the adult crew and other apprentices, and each step leading toward a hanging seemed forced on the captain.

In the end, however, the fascinating build-up led only to letdown. In good, traditional television style, it turned out the boy was not really executed, but stumbled overboard into the sea. And that he wasn't really a bad boy—just a sick one whose father demanded too much of him. Melville would never have settled for such a watered-down windup.

But it was an interesting, well-produced effort up to the last few minutes.

The most interesting program of the weekend was NBC's round-up of photographs, television news clips and comment under the title "The World of Jacqueline Kennedy."

Anyone who reads magazines, newspapers and watches television news shows must have been familiar with most of the material coordinated by the network's "special projects division" into a flattering, superficial portrait of the nation's attractive First Lady.

Despite NBC's favorite portraiture device—chopping up several interviews into single observations, mixing well and tossing them on the screen—Mrs. Kennedy explained herself most satisfactorily. That was when NBC reran excerpts from an old interview in which she was explaining, seriously and almost sadly, the problems of raising a child in the White House.

William Shakespeare, shared with the President's wife the distinction of being the subject of a special hourlong program on Friday night.

NBC's producer Lou Hazam, who specializes in telling stories by turning the camera into the eye of the viewers, had a hard time converting modern England into that of the Bard of Avon.

The hour was a handsome literary travelogue played against a background of rich British accents quoting from the master's works as we followed him from country to city. But "Shakespeare, Soul of an Age" seemed precious and awe-struck when it should have been robust and vital.

LAUGHING MATTER

GODTHAAB, Greenland (AP — Before Danish settlement of Greenland, the Eskimo population had two ways of settling a grievance —by killing an opponent or besting him in a "drum dance." Opponents in the latter would face each other in front of fellow villagers, each equipped with a small drum.. They would then alternate verses, each trying to ridicule the other. The winner was the one who got the biggest laugh from the audience at his enemy's expense.

Mr. Shnoo's Zoo

By LUCRECE BEALE

CHAPTER ONE
SHNOO'S ZOO

Once upon a time there was a man named Shnellingham Shnoo who loved animals more than anything in the world.

When he was a small boy he collected tropical fish and turtles and hamsters. As he grew older his collection grew to include raccoons and monkeys and snakes. By the time he was a young man he was collecting tigers and zebras and even giraffes!

Finally, Mr. Shnoo bought a zoo. It was an old run-down place owned by a man named Crookshank. This man did not love animals. He kept them in cages so small they hardly had room to turn around. He gave them very little food and he did not heat their houses and he never spoke kindly to them.

Crookshank was glad to sell the zoo because he loved money as much as Mr. Shnoo loved animals. Mr. Shnoo was so anxious to help the animals that he agreed to pay much more than the zoo was worth. It was going to take him 10 years to pay for it. It was arranged that he would pay 1,000 gold pieces each year. If in any year he could not pay it he would lose both the zoo and all the gold he had already paid.

Furthermore, Crookshank insisted that until the zoo was entirely paid for, he himself would continue to live there.

These were very hard terms but Mr. Shnoo was so happy to have the zoo he did not mind too much. He immediately set about improving things for the animals.

He built an aquarium and filled it with strange fish from all over the world. For the birds, he built an enormous cage that was glassed in for winter. He enlarged the elephant house and built an outdoor pool for the hippopotamus. He erected a beautiful building for the monkeys and a separate house for the snakes.

He called the zoo Shnoo's Zoo and before long people began to come from far and wide to pay to see his animals, for word spread that they were the finest and happiest animals in the land.

Now it happened that the queen of the land was very fond of animals. She let it be known that in order to encourage kindness to animals she intended to visit all the zoos before Christmas and to make an award of 1,000 gold pieces to the one she found the most deserving.

When Mr. Shnoo heard this he was very excited. He felt that no finer zoo than his existed and he was sure he would win the 1,000 gold pieces. He very much needed the gold because his last payment to Crookshank was due on Christmas eve and he had spent so much money building up the zoo that he really did not have the gold to pay.

Now he felt that his troubles would soon be over: the zoo would be all his: Crookshank would be gone, and he could do even finer things for his animals.

He rushed about the zoo spreading the good news. He promised Molly, the hippopotamus, he would buy her a husband; he told Herbert and Louise, the giraffes, he would build them a grape arbor; and to Blue Lady, the parakeet, he promised a bottomless bowl of honey.

As he left the bird house he ran into Crookshank who handed him a letter.

"Came yesterday," said Crookshank. "I got it from the postman."

Mr. Shnoo looked and gasped. "Goodness! Why didn't you give it to me sooner?"

"Forgot," said Crookshank.

"Impossible!" cried Mr. Shnoo. He stared in awe at the envelope. There, scrawled in red letters, were the words: "To Mr. S. Shnoo at the Zoo from Mr. S. Claus at Santa Land."

Tomorrow: Mr. Shnoo's Decision

Bazelon Busts Into Music With Horse Playing

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Santa Claus I never had any doubts about. It's guys like Irwin Bazelon that I have trouble believing in.

Yes, Virginia, there is an Irwin Bazelon. There must be, because I have just been talking with him. But what happened to him could only happen in the movies. Let me set the scene for your.

There is this struggling young composer, see, who has written this symphony. Like all struggling young composers, he keeps getting the brush-off.

Only this struggling young composer's hobby is handicapping horse races. So one day he goes out to the track and parlays a few bucks into more than a grand. (This is the place where I used to go out for popcorn).

Then he takes the dough and has some of his music recorded. Then he borrows his uncle's car — I forgot to mention that his uncle is a federal judge — and goes around to see an important conductor.

He plays the recording for the conductor, who is so impressed he accepts the composer's symphony for his own orchestra. Not only that, he invites the composer to be a guest conductor at its premier performance.

Veteran moviegoers will recognize that plot as coming right off the back lot at Warner Brothers. And that is why I have trouble believing in Irwin Bazelon.

His symphony, "Testimonial to a Big City," will be given its premier performance by the National Symphony Orchestra this week with Bazelon himself on the podium.

Furthermore, the events leading up to this climactic moment were more or less as outlined in the scenario above.

If this taxes your credulity, you and I are not alone. Bazelon said he has trouble believing it, too.

He is not exactly nervous about getting his big chance, but he plans to conduct without a baton. He is afraid it might slip out of his hand and impale a piccolo player.

If all goes according to script, Bazelon's symphony will be nationally acclaimed and he will go on to musical glory. If not, the horses will still be running at Saratoga.

Arrests of Youths Solves Burglaries

LOVELAND (AP)—Police Chief C. K. Steele said today the arrest of 10 young men—aged 15 to 20—has solved a wave of burglaries over the past year.

"They're a pretty tough bunch," Steele said.

Most of them are in custody in the Loveland City Jail and the Larimer County Jail at Fort Collins. Some were released to their parents or probation officers.

Steele said the roundup was touched off by the father of a 15-year-old boy reporting his son had forged five checks on the family bank account.

Phil T. Crawford, 18, of Loveland, admitted more than two dozen burglaries and thefts, Steele said. Crawford was sentenced Friday to 12 days on a petty larceny charge by Justice of the Peace Robert Pomrenke.

Steele said a lot of the thefts involved shoplifting at hardware, discount and chain stores in the Loveland-Fort Collins area. Two automatic laundries in Greeley were burglarized by another youth, he said.

The penetrating influence of high heels need no longer dent automobile floor mats. One manufacturer has come up with a new puncture-resistant floor mat designed to replace the conventional rubber mat. Seiberling Rubber Co., (Akron, Ohio).

Now—a doll that spells, recites poetry and adds. The new push-button doll comes complete with her own school set—desk, chair, easel, blackboard and school accessories. (De Luxe Reading Corp., Elizabeth, N.J.).

Teenage girls and women will be interested in a new folding hair brush that fits into a handbag. The brush also can be packed in a cosmetic travel kit or tucked in a desk drawer. (Folda-brush Co., 3300 Fifth St., Minneapolis, Minn.).

Banquet Ends Rush Season for Zeta Tau Chapter

Zeta Tau Chapter of Epsilon Sigma Alpha sorority concluded the fall rushing program with a formal banquet at the Moors on Wednesday evening. The table decorations were in keeping with the sorority's colors and ideals.

Mrs. Kay Vondra, chapter president, gave the affiliation ceremony for Mrs. Frances Sprott who transferred her membership from Epsilon Epsilon Chapter in Denver.

The Ritual of Initiation was conducted for Mrs. Billie Jean Mason and Mrs. Gloria Stevenson, and they were welcomed into Zeta Tau. The Ceremony of the Jewels was then presented for Mrs. Marilyn Vale.

Mrs. Norma Lee Manning, vice president and rushing chairman, assisted Mrs. Vondra with the ceremonies.

Other members present were Mrs. Don Drennan, Mrs. Fred Duncan, Mrs. Jack Healy and Miss Edna Meador.

If you use vacuum-packed coffee in a pound can and it lasts a week in your household, and if you like really strong coffee, you may wish to add extra coffee when you brew it during the last few days of the week. Once opened, and even if it's kept in the refrigerator, the coffee gradually loses some of its aromatic quality; the extra amount added to the coffee pot helps to make up for this loss.

More spring to the tap! It's an ice tapper made of a new flexible plastic with two-headed stainless steel dome for two-way tapping. All you do is place an ice cube in the palm of your hand, give a few light vibrating taps and you've got cracked ice. (Tap-Icer, Williamsport, Pa.).

ESA Council Makes Plans for Winter Projects

Mrs. Phyllis Suderman, president, was in charge of the monthly meeting of the Pikes Peak Area Council of Epsilon Sigma Alpha Sorority. The six chapters contacted block leaders for the Mother's March of Dimes. Final plans were made for the card party held Nov 30 at the Peak View Country Club with the proceeds going to the Mother's March.

Plans are underway to form a Sister Chapter. The Valentine Dance will be held at The Moors, Feb. 9.

The philanthropic project was discussed and it was decided to help a member's child attend Hope House.

Members present were Ruth Batley, Jewel Beck, Irene Brooks, Catherine Dawson, Jacque Duncan, Irene Fife, Jan Ford, Dona Frase, Sharon Gammel, Leanna Hazlett, Peggy Healy, Georgia Kelly, Willa Klock, Rubye Koontz, Edna Meador, Lauree Noe, Betty Pribby, Esther Stringer, Helen Sutton, Joan Sutton and Jody Wood.

Theta Lambdas Have Program On Mexico

Dr. D. W. MacCorquodale showed picutres on Mexico and gave a talk to the Theta Lambda Chapter of Epsilon Sigma Alpha sorority when Mrs. Kenneth Koontz was hostess. Members present were Mrs. Charles Batley, Mrs. Al Britton, Mrs. Russell Fife, Mrs. Charles Stringer and guest, Mrs. Frances Sprott.

Mrs. Charles Batley was hostess to the model meeting when ESA history was given by Mrs. Al Britton, chapter By-laws read by Mrs. Gerald Zeigler and officers discussed their duties. Members present were Mrs. Charles Brown, Mrs. Russell Fife, Mrs. Kenneth Koontz, Mrs. Earl Pitcock, Mrs. Charles Stringer and guest, Mrs. La Clede Jensen.

Something borrowed from the mores of the Pennsylvania Dutch, weatherproof outdoor paintings based on the authentic barn hex signs and other folk art. Designed primarily for use on the outside of the home—on patio or porch or under roof of house or garage—the circular paintings are hand screened with waterproof paints on tempered hardboard (Hex-Pix People, Inc. Newfoundland, N.J.).

Cowboys Will Seek Top Rank In Los Angeles

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Top ranking cowboys will tangle with the nation's toughest livestock Tuesday night in the opening go-round of the National Finals Rodeo.

The six-day event, termed the world series of the rodeo circuit, brings together the 90 leading moneywinners of the year in a spill-a-minute scramble for championship titles and $65,000 prize money. It's the last of a series of money winning rodeos through the year.

On hand to guarantee that they earn both titles and coin the hard way is a corral full of what promoters call the "meanest, nastiest, man-hating bucking stock available."

Events include bareback and saddle bronc riding, bull riding, steer wrestling, calf roping and team roping. Only the top 15 in each event are allowed to compete in the national finals, officials said.

Riders and ropers from 18 states and two Canadian provinces have qualified for the big western spectacular.

California leads all other states with 23 cowboys qualified, but entrants from other states and Canada lead most events.

The all-star roster carries rodeo greats like Tom Nesmith of Bethel, Okla., ranked first in steer wrestling and second in calf roping.

Dean Oliver of Boise, Idaho, is headed for his fifth world championship in calf roping while Ralph Buell of Sheridan, Wyo., leads the list in bareback riding.

On top, for the moment, in saddle bronc riding is Kenny McLean of Okanagan Falls, British Columbia.

Bill Rinestine of Amarillo, Tex., is in second spot in bull riding. Top ranking bull rider Freckles Brown of Lawton, Okla., is out of action because of an injury received in a recent rodeo.

Oliver also leads in the race for the all-around cowboy championship with $29,000 earned so far this year. Cowboy ratings are based only on money won in recognized rodeo competition.

Observers say Buell, who has won $15,184 riding the bareback broncs this year, will have to change his luck if he expects to come out a winner in Tuesday night's fraces.

He drew the famed gelding, Come Apart, a horse he's encountered four times previously.

Come Apart won each time.

In bull riding, Bob Wegner of Ponca City, Okla., is slated to mount Ol' Speck, a piebald never ridden in finals competition and bested only twice in a five-year career.

The 1961 saddle bronc bucking horse of the year, Jesse James, goes to Lyle Smith in the opening round. Smith of San Diego, Calif., is eighth ranked bronco buster.

The show, appearing for the first time on the West Coast, features evening performances in the sports arena each day with matinees added on Saturday and Sunday.

Golden Man Is Killed In Head-on Collision

A head-on collision of two cars killed Thomas H. Cole, 26, of Golden, on Colorado 74, a mile west of El Rancho in Jefferson County Sunday.

Cole's death raised the state's traffic fatality toll to 421, down 13 from the corresponding period of 1961.

State patrolmen said Cole was thrown into the windshield and decapitated. He was a passenger in a car driven by Edward V. Stephens, 29, of Golden.

Stephens and Carole Davies, 23, of Denver, driver of the other car, were hospitalized for treatment of internal injuries.

McClellan Blasted For Using Hoffa As Whipping Boy

WASHINGTON (UPI)—AFL-CIO officials Sunday accused Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., of using Teamsters President James R. Hoffa as a "whipping boy" in an effort to enact anti-union legislation.

McClellan denied it, saying he said he is concerned only that a union like Hoffa's that gains "tremendous power" could constitute a "danger to our country."

In a television discussion, AFL-CIO Vice President James B. Carey asked McClellan if "it isn't true that the Teamsters Union and Jimmy Hoffa is being used to promote anti-union legislation that would apply to all unions."

Another AFL-CIO official, legislative director Andrew J. Biemiller, said, "Putting up the Teamsters Union as a whipping boy for the entire labor movement is something that frankly, we think, has been badly overdone."

NO PARKING

BOSTON (UPI) — There's nothing new under the sun — including traffic problems.

Goren on Bridge

By CHARLES H. GOREN

ANSWERS TO BRIDGE QUIZ

Q. 1—As South you hold:
Spades, A-K-9-2; Hearts, 7; Diamonds, A-8; Clubs, J-9-8-6-5-3.

The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1 Clb.	Pass	1 Hrt.	Pass
1 Spd.	Pass	2 Clbs.	Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—While partner has shown a mere preference for clubs, nevertheless, he may, without having an impressive holding, produce just enough material for you to go to game. The silence of the opponents at this low level makes it highly probably that partner's hand contains some high card strength. It behooves you, therefore, to take one more step, and the suggested call is three clubs.

Q. 2—Both sides vulnerable, you are South and hold:
Spades, K-J-7-4; Hearts, 6-3-2; Diamonds, 10-5-3; Clubs, K-9-4.

The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 N.T.	Dlb.	Pass	2 Clbs.
Pass	Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—It is clearly established that West, poor fellow, is in dire straits. By simple arithmetic we can conclude that he hasn't a high card in his hand. North has at least 16. East presumably 16, and you have seven. That West can win eight tricks is inconceivable and a penalty double is in order.

Q. 3—Both sides vulnerable, and as South you hold:
Hearts, A-K-10-9-5; Diamonds, A-10-6-3; Clubs, 8-7-4.

The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1 Hrt.	1 Spd.	Dbl.	Pass

What action do you take?

A. — With unbalanced hands, containing a void of the adverse suit, it is against our policy to stand for penalty doubles of low contracts and our recommended call is two diamonds. We do not subscribe to the theory that "the less trumps I have the more partner has." The more pointed view is, "the less trumps I have the more dummy will have."

Q. 4—As South you hold:
Spades, 4; Hearts, 6; Diamonds, A-K-J-7; Clubs, A-K-J-8-4-3-2.

The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1 Clb.	Pass	1 Spd.	Pass
3 Clbs.	Pass	3 Dia.	Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—It is reasonable to assume that the diamonds are solid and that the question of the trick taking possibilities of this hand depends only on the number of aces held by partner. A Blackwood bid of four notrump is, therefore, clearly indicated.

. 5—As South you hold:
Spades, 6-3; Diamonds, A-J-9; Clubs, A-K-Q-J-9-8-5-4.

The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1 Clb.	Pass	1 Dia.	Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—The suggested call is three clubs. It is true that such a call is not forcing, but we are willing to assume the risk that the bidding will die. We consider such an occurrence extremely remote and would like to have the bidding develop naturally in order to best determine the full possibilites of the hand.

. 6—You are South with a 90 part score. Your partner opens with one heart and you hold:
Spades, K-J-10-7-5; Hearts, 10-9-8; Diamonds, 4-3; Clubs, J-8-2.

What do you bid?

A.—Though the one heart puts you out, it is doubtful that the opposition will let the hand go by default. You may expect competition. It is our suggestion, therefore, that while it is cheap you get in a bid and the suggested call is one spade. The fact that you bid with 90 on score does not necessarily suggest that you are ambitious.

. 7—As South you hold:
Spades, 9-2; Hearts, Q-6-5-4-3; Diamonds, A-J-7; Clubs, Q-5-4.

The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
Pass	Pass	1 Hrt.	1 Spd.

What do you bid now?

A.—This hand is not as strong as it looks and a mere single raise made as a free bid would be adequate to describe its strength. We, therefore, suggest a bid of two hearts.

Q. 8—As South you hold:
Spades, K-Q-9-7-6-4; Hearts, A-8-6-5-3; Diamonds, 7.

The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1 Hrt.	2 Dia.	Dlb.	Pass
3 Hrts.	Pass	4 Dia.	Pass
4 Hrts.	Pass	5 Hrts.	Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—A bid of six hearts has our hearty indorsement. Partner has shown possession of the ace of diamonds and good heart support and it is difficult to see how we will lose more than one spade trick.

Three U.S. Solons Set To Tour Malaya Area

KUALA LUMPIR, Malaya — (UPI)—Three U.S. senators arrived by special Air Force plane today on the latest stop of a fact-finding tour which already has taken them to Japan, South Korea, Okinawa, Hong Kong, Indonesia and Singapore.

Sen. Gale McGee of Wyoming is the leader of the senatorial delegation. His companions are Sens. Frank Church of Idaho, and Frank Moss of Utah.

They are the first U.S. senators to visit Malaya since it attained independence. U.S. Ambassador Charles Baldwin welcomed them at the airport.

Immediately after arrival, the senators were driven to the embassy, where they were briefed on the political and economic situation in Malaya.

Later, they visited the Ministry of Rural Development to see how Malayan rural development projects were planned and executed.

Tonight they will be guests of Abdul Razak, deputy premier and minister of rural development, at a buffet reception.

Water Research To Be Asked Of Congress

By JOHN KAMPS

WASHINGTON (AP)—Congress will be asked next month to authorize a water research program estimated to cost up to $20 million annually.

Chairman Clinton P. Anderson, D-N.M., of the Senate Interior Committee, which handles such legislation, introduced a water research bill in the last Congress—not for action but for study.

When Anderson reoffers it early in the new Congress, he will be armed with strong support from land grant colleges and other institutions and groups which would participate in the program.

Comments, mostly favorable, are set forth in a 431-page report printed by the committee for the information of its members.

The bill would set up water research institutes at land grant colleges and universities, authorize matching funds for specific water research projects at the schools and call for grants to finance water research work jointly with private industry.

The Association of State Universities and Land Grant Colleges, meeting here recently, endorsed the Anderson bill "as recognizing problems of extreme national concern."

"For many years," the association said, "the land-grant institutions through their research and education capabilities have been working on these problems. . . the Anderson bill provides the mechanism for them to take a concerted national action. . ."

Colorado State University, recommending increased federal grants for research at state universities, proposed 67 specific water resource research projects.

Scores of projects under way at the University of Idaho were cited as evidence that school considers natural resources and water "our most valuable assets."

"The manner in which we utilize and develop such resources will influence our health, security, economy and well-being for all time," the Idaho school said.

A Senate Select Committee on National Water Resources recommended in 1961 that water research include:

Evaporation control at reservoirs; elimination of vegetation along reservoirs and watercourse, changing forest and vegetative cover on watershed; reduction of seepage losses at irrigation canals and other wasteful irrigation practices; waste water salvage; desalting of saline and brackish water; weather modification; application of nuclear products in research, and improve use and control of groundwater.

CC Dean Says Health Care Important in Small Colleges

"In order to hold their position against the tidal wave of public education, small private liberal arts colleges must offer educational opportunities and personal services that are not always available in larger tax - supported institutions," Colorado College Dean of Men Juan Reid said here today.

"And not the least of these is health service and the health center that it houses," Dean Reid told educators and physicians attending the southwest regional meeting of the American College Health Assn.

Reid, who has been dean of men since 1945, based his talk on research he has been conducting during the past year on the small private college health center program under a grant from Educational Facilities Laboratories Inc.

"Good health services and facilities should not be limited to high-cost colleges and to tax-supported institutions," Dean Reid said.

"In the small private liberal arts college, intercollegiate athletics is likely to be an integral part of the total college program and the participants are likely to be student athletes who are not segregated from the rest of the student body," he told the group.

"As a result, the small college health service must be prepared to take care of the treatment and care of the injuries incurred in intercollegiate athletics, a responsibility that is normally assumed by the athletic departments in the large state - supported institutions.

"In the small private liberal arts college, efficiency in operation and maintainance is a necessity. In other words, the watchword is maximum service with minimum staff. This can only be accomplished with central control and modern equipment."

Dean Reid said it is important to note that "the parents of students attending private liberal arts colleges expect a great deal of attention to be given the students.

"This applies to matters of health," he said. "The health director in effect acts in place of the family physician and accepts the responsibility of keeping the parents advised of the student's condition in the more serious cases, whether in the infirmary or in a local hospital.

"The objectives of a small-college health service should not be different than that of a large university service — specifically to maintain a state of optimum health - both physical and mental — among the student body.

"Altho the scope of the service will vary a great deal, it is hoped that it will cover preventive medical practices, and health education as well as medical treatment and care. The service should be an integral part of the total college program and not a peripheral service."

He said the small, private college has a number of advantages in carrying out such a program. They are:

1. Close relationship between faculty, staff and students should carry over into the health consultations. The result would minimize the loss of time from studies, and make possible early identification of illnesses.

2. Student sees the same nurse and doctor, rather than a different one with each contact. Service similar to that provided by family physician.

3. The small college health center can capture some of the warmth of the home.

"One factor that remains constant, whether it be in a large university or a small college, is that health programs are likely to be the same," Dean Reid said. Respiratory infections will predominate, followed by athletic injuries and emotional disturbances.

"Most health centers are adequately prepared to meet the first two, but good psychiatric or clinical psychology care is not always readily available," the Colorado College dean said. "Many small colleges have the services of a clinical psychologist who is a member of the teaching faculty."

New Power Unit Helps City Meet Record Demand

The new 44,000-kilowatt addition to the Martin Drake power generation plant was pressed into service during November — in time to meet a new all - time peak power demand.

A new high was reached on Nov. 19, when 89,000 kilowatts was reached, surpassing the previous high of 87,000 kilowatts established last winter.

A capability test of the new turbine was conducted early in the month. The new unit hit 55,000 kilowatts to top its "nameplate" rating of 44,000 by a substantial margin, according to Utilities Director Ray D. Nixon and Cy Blasing, generation superintendent.

The unit has been using coal fuel for a short period and is still undergoing tests and adjustments.

Nixon also reported that the new Rock Island substation was placed in service during November.

Scout Troop 10 Has Openings For Members

Boys 11 years of age or older who would like to get into an established Boy Scout troop may join Troop 10, sponsored by American Legion Post No. 5. This troop is 25 years old.

Troop 10 has usually had a long waiting list of applications, but the recent formation of an Explorer Troop has resulted in losses of some of the older boys.

The troop meets each Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. at the Legion Hut, 15 E. Platte Ave. A court of honor is scheduled at 7:30 p.m. Friday in the new Boy Scouts headquarters building, 525 E. Uintah St. Boys interested in joining the troop may attend.

The troop is one of the most active troops in Colorado Springs. It has an over-night camping trip once a month, except in December. The troop owns a carryall station wagon and complete camping equipment. Members of the unit also participate in monthly swimming and life - saving classes.

Parents of boys interested in the troop's program may obtain more information by contacting either Scoutmaster Jack Mellott, phone 634-3583, or the chairman of the troop committee, Dr. Lester L. Williams, 633-3202, or they may attend the Tuesday night meeting at the American Legion Hut.

High Musicality Marks CC Choir Yule Concert

BY JOHN FETLER

The solid work which Donald Jenkins has achieved at Colorado College paid off with an audience which filled Shove Chapel to the rafters, Sunday afternoon, and with Christmas music of a high order.

Music there was by Bach, Poulenc, Praetorius, and carols, thus providing a wide range of style and levels of technique.

The outstanding feature of the afternoon was the high musicality of performance, a quality which is appreciated not only by other musicians but also by audiences. It is a lyrical quality which depends for its success not on superficial effects but on a thoroughgoing understanding of the material and of the posibilities of the performers, and requires a musical empathy in the conductor's mind which will bring it to expression, as is the case with Jenkins: For he seems to combine scholarship with an idea of musicality and a discipline of training which results on performances of high caliber, geared to the forces of the performers.

For instance, in the Praetorius "Canticum Trium Pueroeum" (a charming work dating from the year 1607) the selection of voices for the small madrigal choir was such that some very fine vocal expression could be achieved. The balance, too, of the instruments, with the voices, was excellent, and the accoustics of Shove Chapel proved to be of good help for the resonance of the over - all musical effect.

Even though quality in music is not always expressed in largeness of audiences, still, the work done by Jenkins with the musical forces at the college has shown such remarkable growth that the concert this year drew an audience which over - filled Shove Chapel, with standing room only.

Carson Rod-Gun Club Sets Full Day of Activities

Ft. Carson Rod and Gun Club members will elect a new board of governors Saturday after a day of activities starting with a 2 p.m. turkey shoot.

The meeting is scheduled for the rod and gun clubhouse, south of the main post at the Mary-Ellen Ranch at 7 p.m. It is restricted to members and their families.

Man Jailed On Probe of Assault on Wife

Nellie Fern Patterson, 61, 1013 E. Platte Ave., was admitted to Memorial Hospital early Sunday morning suffering from the effects of a beating which she told police had been administered at the hands of her husband, William Leon Patterson, 41.

Police Officers Jimmy Iberg, Thomas Hughes, and Raymond Mays reported that they found Mrs. Patterson in her house at 1:30 a.m. bleeding from face and eye cuts. She was in a semi-nude condition and her clothing was scattered about the house.

Patterson, who was asleep in the bedroom when the officers arrived, was told his wife had signed an assault complaint against him. He became belligerent and had to be carried bodily from the house before he was lodged in the city jail, police said.

Mrs. Patterson told authorities that she and her husband had gone to dinner Saturday night and then visited several night clubs. Later she took a taxi home, and when her husband came home a few hours later in a drunken condition, he tore her clothes, struck her, knocked her down and kicked her.

Police said Patterson had been charged with resisting arrest and investigation of assault.

Tamp Machine Stolen From Paving Company

A tamping machine worth $750 was stolen from the Broderick and Gibbons Paving Co. over the weekend, the sheriff's office reported today.

Deputy Sheriff Lee Quein said the machine was left in front of Harrison School and is a "Jay" tamper with a Wisconsin air-cooled engine.

It is painted yellow and mounted on four wheels. Quein said tracks at the scene indicate it was pulled over the curb and then loaded into a vehicle.

Ent Airman Charged With Leaving Scene

Police questioned Sgt. Oscar Onelious Briley Jr., 1719 Happiness Dr., an Ent Airman, Saturday concerning a car accident in the 1400 block of North Circle Drive, and then charged him with reckless and careless driving and leaving the scene of an accident.

Authorities reported that the Briley car struck the parked car of Clement Jeffery Jacobson, 1817 North Circle Dr., and knocked it forward 14 feet and over the curbing. The car sustained more than $300 in damages.

Police Officers Quintin Conrad and William McClinton reported the accident occurred at 2:40 a.m., and when the sergeant was questioned later in the morning he denied driving the car at the time of the collision.

The officers said he told them he had driven his car to the Ent Air Force bowling alley at 2:15 a.m. and parked it. He then went into the bowling alley and went to sleep, and the vehicle was then stolen.

Aretas Godfrey Found Dead on Floor of Home

Aretas Glen Godfrey, 65, of 812 N. Farragut Ave., was pronounced dead from a coronary attack Sunday morning by a local physician approximately an hour after he was found on the kitchen floor of his home at 7:30 a.m.

Police Officer David Haddan reported that a fire department resuscitator crew, under the command of Assistant Fire Chief Herman Richter administered oxygen to the victim for 30 minutes, but Mr. Godfrey was apparently dead before the arrival of the squad.

Mrs. Godfrey told authorities her husband had left his bed at 5:15 a.m. saying that he was unable to sleep. She found him on the kitchen floor two hours later, she said.

The body was taken to Our Chapel of Memories, and funeral arrangements will be announced later.

Half of Carson's civilians buy bonds on the payroll deduction plan.

Woman Injured In Two-Car Crash Sunday

Ruth Henessee, 41, box 1861 Glen Eyrie Rd., was treated for face cuts and chest contusions at Memorial Hospital and released Sunday afternoon after the car in which she was riding collided with another vehicle at the intersection of Cascade and Colorado Avenues.

Police Officer Roy Stanley stated the accident occurred at 5:20 p.m., and the drivers of the two cars involved were Lois Mae Conrad, 38, of 425 E. Willamette Ave., and Han John Schnieder, 25 of the Glen Eyrie address.

Miss Conrad was attempting a left turn to go east on Colorado Avenue at the time of the collision, and said she did not see the other car, Stanley said. She was ticketed for taking the right of way on a left turn.

Cabin Owners Warned to Watch For Bearded Man

The sheriff's office said this morning that people having cabins in El Paso County, Freemont County or Teller County should keep a sharp watch for a long haired and bearded man who has been breaking into homes in the area. They are also asked to report any such incident immediately to the Sheriff's office.

Undersheriff Don Smith and Deputy Sheriff Vincent Denboske said the man was seen Sunday by George Gallivan and Harold Breck caretakers at Crystal Park. They found two cabins broken into and the man, described as "very dirty," and wearing G. I. clothing with a pack on his back, standing outside one. He would not talk to them but just stood and stared. He walked off despite two warning shots fired over his head.

Gallivan and Breck did not attempt to follow him but reported the matter to Manitou Police.

Two Persons Bitten By Dogs in City

Two persons were bitten by dogs during the weekend, according to police reports this morning.

Ricky Vincent Palomba, 8, of 3111 Brady Blvd., was bitten on the leg Sunday morning while he was at 2009 Meyers St.

Mrs. Kathern E. Palomba, mother of the boy reported her son was in a fenced-in yard with the dog at the time of the incident. The boy was treated by a local doctor, and received a tetanus shot.

Owner of the dog, Joe E. Brooks, 2009 Meyers St., was contacted and advised to confine the animal for the customary observational period.

Ralph Rex Boone, 120 Esther Dr., was bitten on the right leg while delivering mail in the 1000 block of North Foote Avenue, Saturday.

Boone was treated at the Ft. Carson Hospital where he received a tetanus shot.

Morris Obodov, 1029 N. Foote Ave., was contacted by authorities and advised to confine the dog for the 14-day period.

Ronald E. Wilson At Aviation School

Army Spec. 4 Ronald E. Wilson, 19, son of Mrs. Edna M. Wilson, Route 1, Canon City, recently completed the five-week aircraft maintenance basic course at the Aviation School, Ft. Bucker, Ala.

Wilson received instruction in the fundamentals of operating Army airfields and in the servicing of airplanes and helicopters.

He entered the Army in September, 1960, and completed basic training at Ft. Hood, Tex.

New AdAmAn Member Well Fitted for Climb

It should be easy for Edward J. Kirches, who Saturday night was elected 1963 new member of the AdAmAn Club, to climb Pikes Peak to help put on the New Years fireworks show. He is 38 and in World War II saw action with ski troops in the Aleutian Islands and in Italy. He was with the 10th Mountain Division in Colorado and, after the war, was stationed at Camp Hale, near Leadville.

However, Kirches has already made four New Years climbs of Pikes Peak with the AdAmAn Club, as a guest. The club takes in one new member each year, choosing from quite a list of eligibles.

Kirches is a lawyer and a member of both the New York and Colorado bars. He came here from Garden City, N. Y., and is an editor of Shepard's Citations. He, his wife, Mrs. Jane Kirches, and their three children, Scotty, Nan and Jean, reside at 1844 Arroya St.

Man Pinned Under Car

Jack Munson of 219 Elmwood Dr. was pinned under his car Sunday afternoon at his home after he had got under it to examine it, the sheriff's office reported.

Deputy Sheriffs Bob Snuggs and Al Moore said Munson had heard a strange noise and went under the vehicle to investigate.

The emergency brake was not fully on and it rolled forward pinning him under the rear wheel.

He was still conscious when found by a friend and was rushed to Penrose Hospital. His condition was described this morning as "good."

Girl Injured In Fall From Truck

A 15-year old girl, Judy Cunningham, of Cheyenne Mountain fell off a truck Sunday belonging to the Broadmoor Stables and injured her right hand and hip, the sheriff's office reported.

Deputy Sheriff Lee Quein said the youngster would be X-rayed at the Penrose Hospital to determine how badly her hand is injured.

Theft of Motor Scooter Reported

Dennis Jones, 1622 Tesla Dr., reported to police Sunday that a motor scooter, belonging to Rex Jones of the same address, was stolen from a parking lot at the Classic Bowl, 1866 Alpin Dr.

Jones said the theft occurred between the hours of 1 and 2:15 p.m.

The scooter is valued at $90 and was described as a MoPed, red and gray, and bearing Colorado license No. JY181.

Chandler Boots Giants to Title

By JACK CLARY
Associated Press Sports Writer

In his first six seasons with the New York Giants, Don Chandler never scored a point. Today, the Giants are worshipping at his feet, particularly the right one which booted them into their second straight National Football League Eastern Conference title and their fifth in seven years.

Chandler, used solely as the team's punter until this season, kicked four field goals and two extra points Sunday as the Giants edged the Chicago Bears 26-24 for their seventh straight victory and clinched the title. It was the second time in the last three games, and third time this season that Chandler's kicking has brought the Giants a victory.

Just who the Giants opponent will be in the Dec. 30 championship game at Yankee Stadium still is unsettled, but it looks like Green Bay again. The Packers, who humiliated New York 37-0 last Dec. 31 for the NFL title, have a one-game edge on the Detroit Lions in the battle for the Western Conference crown. Each has two games left.

The Packers, now 11-1, bombed the Los Angeles Rams 41-10 while second-place Detroit (10-2) edged the Baltimore Colts 21-14 for its sixth straight victory. It is strictly a two-team race in the West as the Giants eliminated the Bears from anything higher than a third-place finish, and caused the Eastern race to be reduced to a four-way fight for second place and a spot in the Miami, Fla., Playoff Bowl on Jan. 5.

The Pittsburgh Steelers (7-5) moved into second place in the East with a 19-7 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals (2-9-1). Cleveland dropped to third with a 6-5-1 mark following a 45-21 trouncing from the Dallas Cowboys (5-6-1). Washington's Redskins (5-5-2) stayed in the fight, even though they lost their third in a row, to the Philadelphia Eagles 37-14.

In the other NFL game, the San Francisco 49ers rode John Brodie's four touchdown passes to a 35-12 victory over the Minnesota Vikings (2-9-1). The victory was the 49ers (6-6) third in a row and kept them in the battle for third place with the Colts (5-7) and Bears (7-5).

In the American League, Dallas wrapped up the Western Division title, despite losing to the Buffalo Bills 23-14. Second-place Denver fell before Eastern Division-leading Houston 34-17. San Diego handed Oakland its 18th consecutive loss over two seasons, 31-21, in the other scheduled game.

Only two weeks ago against Philadelphia, Chandler booted four field goals in a 19-14 victory. His three-pointer was the margin of victory in a 17-14 triumph over Detroit, which launched the Giants' (10-2) into their winning streak.

His 26-yard field goal Sunday gave the Giants a 3-0 lead and the others came after quarterback Y. A. Tittle had fired a pair of touchdown passes that sent them in front to stay. Chandler is the first player in NFL history to kick four twice in one season, and now has hit a phenomenal 18 for 25 in his first season as a placement specialist. He also moved into the No. 2 spot in the league scoring race with 94 points.

The title was the Giants' 13th overall, but wasn't secured until the final seconds when defensive end Andy Robustelli nailed quarterback Billy Wade on a pass play, costing Chicago field goal range.

The Packers, who can clinch a tie for their third straight Western Conference title next Sunday in San Francisco, got the first prolonged action from halfback Paul Hornung since Oct. 14 when he was shelved with a twisted right knee.

Last year's NFL most valuable player caught one of Bart Starr's two touchdown passes and gained 27 yards rushing until he retired in the third period.

Packers' fullback Jim Taylor scored twice and is one touchdown away from the season record of 18 held by Jimmy Brown and Steve Van Buren. He also upped his league-leading rushing total to 1,239 with 71 yards after being thoroughly checked in Green Bay's 26-14 loss to Detroit on Thanksgiving Day. Taylor took over the scoring lead with 102 points.

Quarterback Earl Morrall came off the bench late in the fourth period, engineered and scored the tying touchdown. Then after linebacker Joe Schmidt intercepted a pass by Johnny Unitas, Morrall hit fullback Nick Pietrosante with the winning TD pass. It was the second time in the last three games Morrall has bailed out the Lions.

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Army hasn't had quite this much trouble with an individual since the hey-day of Sitting Bull.

And while the Black Knights of the Hudson consider the unpleasant prospect of facing Navy's jolly Roger Staubach for two more seasons, the nation's premier college football teams today set their sights on more immediate goals—the post season bowl classics.

All but a couple of spots are filled in the bowl line-up, and the major bit of unfinished business is the selection of a national champion, to be named in this week's final poll.

Mighty Southern California all but clinched it in an impressive 25-0 rout of Notre Dame Saturday on the final weekend of the regular season. The Trojans went into it with the No. 1 rating in the country and came out with their first perfect season in 30 years, 10-0.

And, while the Irish were going down fighting, Army took a 34-14 lacing from Navy and the Middies' pirate-bold young leader, Staubach.

The Navy edge was overwhelming and the victory one of the most complete over Army since the one Sitting Bull masterminded at the battle of the Little Big Horn.

President Kennedy, a crowd of about 100,000 and a national television audience watched sophomore Staubach run for two touchdowns, pass for two more and consistently bewilder Army's defenders, including the Cadets' fabled Chinese Bandits. It was a record fourth straight Navy victory in the service classic.

National powers Alabama and Mississippi wound up their seasons and, as expected, immediately accepted bowl bids. Alabama went into the Orange after a 38-0 rout of Auburn and Mississippi accepted a bid to the Sugar after closing its first perfect season with a 13-6 edge over Mississippi State.

Miami of Florida nipped Florida 17-15 and went into the Gotham Bowl. Oklahoma, which already had a spot in the Orange, won its seventh straight, 37-6 over Oklahoma State.

That gave the following line-up for the major bowls:

Dec. 15

Gotham, New York — Miami (7-3) vs. probably Boston College (8-2) or TCU (6-4).

Liberty, Philadelphia —Villanova (7-2) vs. Oregon State (8-2).

Dec. 22

Bluebonnet, Houston — Georgia Tech (7-2-1) vs. Missouri (7-2-1).

Tangerine, Orlando, Fla. — Miami, Ohio (8-1-1) vs. Houston (6-4).

Dec. 29

Gator, Jacksonville, Fla.—Penn State (9-1) vs. undecided.

National Trophy, Washington D.C. — undecided.

Sun, El Paso, Tex.—West Texas State (8-2) vs. Ohio U. (8-2).

Jan. 1

Cotton, Dallas — Texas (9-0-1) vs. Louisiana State (8-1-1).

Sugar, New Orleans—Arkansas (9-1) vs. Mississippi (9-0).

Orange, Miami — Oklahoma (8-2) vs. Alabama (9-1).

Notre Dame coach Joe Kuharich, whose South Bend team lost to both Wisconsin and Southern Cal, couldn't pick between the Rose Bowl opponents.

"It will be a toss-up," he said after the Trojan victory. "Both Wisconsin and Southern California have great speed."

Southern Cal coach John McKay had praise for all his players, but singled out 225-pound fullback Ben Wilson, who scored twice, for special attention.

"We're a much better team with Wilson well," he said of the fullback who had trouble getting started after a knee operation. "I still contend that he's the nation's No. 1 college fullback."

The plaudits were mild, however, when compared with Army Coach Paul Dietzel's appraisal of Navy's Staubach.

"Staubach was tremendous, fantastic, fabulous," he said. "Our line just wasn't able to put a good rush on him. Every time we crashed with our outside linebackers, he spotted them right away and took off around end.

"On four or five occasions, I thought we had him for 20-yard losses, but he always seemed to come up with a 15-yard gain instead. He's really a good football player—incredible."

The Navy star completed 10 of 12 passing attempts for 204 yards, added another 34 rushing and was the principal factor in foiling Dietzel's first year mission. The former LSU coach was lured to West Point this season to try to halt the Navy string of victories.

Jim Weatherly broke open a 7-6 game with a 43-yard touchdown run for Mississippi while Alabama's Lee Roy jordan led the defense which set up four 'Bama touchdowns. Monte Deere scored one Oklahoma touchdown and passed for three others.

In some of the other traditional games, Boston College kept its bowl hopes alive with a 48-12 triumph over Holy Cross, Georgia Tech whipped Georgia 37-6, Texas Christian took Southern Methodist 14-9, Tennessee blanked Vanderbilt 0-0 and Baylor beat Rice 28-15.

Houston Hands Dallas Title With Victory Over Broncos

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

It wasn't exactly the way they would have liked to be crowned Western Division champions in the American Football League, but through fair means or foul, the Dallas Texans are ready for a title battle today with either the Houston Oilers or Boston Patriots.

The Texans backed into the title Sunday. They were beaten 23-14 by the Buffalo Bills but it didn't matter as second-place Denver lost its third in a row, 34-17 to the Oilers in the mud and rain at Houston. Houston's victory kept it one-half game ahead of the Patriots in the battle for the Eastern title following Boston's Friday night victory over New York.

The deposed Western Division titlists, the San Diego Chargers, threw off a six-game losing streak and extended Oakland's to 18 games with a 31-21 victory in the other scheduled game. The Raiders have not won since November, 1961, including 12 times this year.

Dallas fell victim to the Bills' rejuvenated quarterback Jack Kemp and the record - breaking rushing of fullback Cookie Gilchrist. Kemp, back in action after an early-season hand injury while with San Diego, threw a pair of 1-yard TD passes and completed 21 passes for 230 yards. Gilchrist, the AFL's leading rusher, picked up 63 yards to set a season record of 953, five more than Billy Cannon's record-making total in 1961. It also helped Buffalo (6-6-1) break Dallas' season rushing record of 2,170. The Bills now have 2,183 with another game to play.

Frasca Calls His Shots

Coach Tony Frasca of Colorado College's surprising hockey team is not yet turning prophet as far as his Tigers' chances in the rugged Western Collegiate Hockey Association schedule this winter. But Frasca has been calling his shots so far in the still young season.

Last Wednesday when the Bengals started a new slate, after going winless a year ago, Frasca told his icers he wanted six goals in the opening period against McMaster University, the Ontario Intercollegiate champ. The Tigers came awfully close to this figure with four tallies in the first stanza and then went on to win, 9-6.

Then Saturday night, Frasca again gave explicit instructions for CC scoring. This time it was after McMaster had taken a 3-0 lead in the first period. The Colorado College mentor asked for five goals — and the Tigers responded with exactly that number and went on to win their second straight of the season, 6-3, as goalie Art Warwick slammed the door shut on the Marlins in the final two periods.

Those were the only two games to be played here until January as the Tigers break for semester exams and then take to the road in the Boston area over the holidays. But if Frasca can keep calling his shots like that, CC could possibly return to the Broadmoor World Arena, Jan. 5, with six straight victories to start the WCHA season against Michigan State.

And for those who believe in comparative scores, perhaps it's time for CC fans to ask hated Denver University if the Pioneers would like to forfeit their games to the Tigers this year. While Frasca's six was blasting the Marlins, Denver had their hands full with the same club in games sandwiched between the local appearances . . . sneaking by the first one, 5-2, and gaining only a 3-3 tie in the second game.

For some coaches, it's never to early to do a little scouting!

At least that was the thought of Coach Ben Martin of the Air Force Academy football team as he sent his full varsity staff to watch the Army-Navy classic in Philadelphia last Saturday.

You see AFA plays Army in Chicago next season and Martin wanted to get an early look at what Coach Paul Dietzel has cooked up for the Black Knights.

"We knew they'd be pulling out all the stops against Navy and a lot of their tricks will be carried over for next year," Martin said.

"And I enjoyed that game about as much as any this season, as strictly a spectator," Martin said. The amiable AFA coach, of course, is a graduate of the Naval Academy. . .and his alma mater stunned Dietzel's Knights — Chinese Bandits and all — by a 34-14 margin.

"We were really afraid of this game — and I'm just glad to get out of it with any kind of a victory," a humble Coach John Erickson of Wisconsin University said after his Badgers had just been nearly scared out of their basketball trunks by the ball-hugging Falcons of the AFA in Saturday night's game.

A lot of nice things have been said about our club," Erickson said, "and it takes quite a bunch of players to take these compliments and not let them go to their heads. I guess every team we play this year will be pointing for us."

Wisconsin, of course, is favored for the Big Ten title and was the only team to defeat Ohio State's Jerry Lucas and Co. last year — with a sophomore dominated squad.

AFA coach Bob Spear also was pleased with the show of his team, despite the expected loss:

"There's two ways of looking at opening against a team like that," Spear said. "If we had been beaten badly, it might have knocked all the confidence out of the team. But coming as close as we did, at least now the team knows it can play on even terms with some of the best in the country (Wisconsin was rated among the top 10)."

LOY HOLMAN

There had been talk of Colorado Springs' representatives making it an intra-city battle for the South Central League basketball championship this winter — but after the two local schools dropped three out of four games to Denver teams last weekend such speculation might seem a little presumptuous.

The persons probably the least concerned were the two young coaches — Dick Westbay, in his second year at Wasson; and Gerry Schroeder, making his first start as Palmer head man.

"Maybe this will wake them up," Westbay said Saturday night after his highly - regarded flock had just taken a swan dive against skyscraping South Denver. "We should be able to get down to work now."

Wasson was victimized by two problems, in addition to the usual early season mistakes. Only five members of the squad had been practicing more than four days and post man, Bob Stanley, who Westbay was forced to use Saturday to combat the Rebels on the backboards, had not actually gone thru a single workout.

The second problem is one which has been foreseen and now remains the most dangerous. With virtually the same team back that finished a strong second in the SCL last season, these T - Birds would probably rather print state tournament tickets than get down to serious practice.

The problem being that unless they get down to plenty of the latter there may not be any of the former.

Schroeder's troubles may be a little more acute in that the Terrors would have had trouble hitting the wall of the gymnasium, much less the basket, during their two weekend games.

But their improvement from Friday to Saturday in other departments was very noticeable and Schroeder was not actually too disappointed over the hectic one-point loss to Lincoln.

"It was simply a matter of our inexperience," he said later. "We lost our poise during the second half. But we learned something and that was the most important thing. This team will come along and be a pretty good one."

As for the first night trouncing by South — it was probably best summed up by former coach, Jerry Hughes, who is now watching from the background. "The kids were so tight they couldn't even hustle," Hughes said.

But they hustled Saturday. Now if they can just find the basket . . .

Colorado Opens Tonight Against Strong Wichita

By JIM VAN VALKENBURG
Associated Press Sports Writer

Colorado's opener with a tall Wichita team tonight at Boulder will furnish a good early indication of its chances to repeat as Big Eight Conference basketball champion.

The conference scored an opening sweep of six games Saturday but may have to settle with three victories or fewer, on a tough five-game card tonight. The Colorado-Wichita game heads the list, with Kansas State at Minnesota a close second.

Ken Charlton, 6-foot-6 Buffalo scoring leader last season, will have to play the season on a sore knee which hurts his rebounding but not his scoring. Surgery last spring apparently wasn't as successful as hoped. The knee still requires periodic drainage.

Charlton, however, is one of the top players in the conference and he has plenty of help. Ralph Miller's Wichita club opened with an impressive 83-73 victory at Wyoming and could become the best challenger for Cincinnati's Missouri Valley crown.

K-State came from behind for a 66-56 victory at Michigan State with Gary Marriott's 26 points leading the way. Minnesota showed its strength by beating a good Wake Forest team 78-66 with Mel Northway, a 6-foot-8 sophomore, pouring in 30 points.

Kansas looked good in an easy 68-56 victory over Montana as George Unseld, 6-foot-7 sophomore, scored 18. The Jayhawkers play at Arkansas tonight and must be at their best to win.

Missouri beat a good Washington team on its home court in St. Louis, 79-70, as Bob Price helped to make Bob Vanatta's Tiger coaching debut a success with 23 points. The Tigers meet Montana at Columbia tonight and should make it two straight.

Nebraska probably will have to settle for a split of its two-game Texas trip when they meet powerful Houston tonight. The Cornhuskers edged Texas Tech 68-66 on Bill Vincent's hook shot with six seconds left after Charley Jones, a 30-point man, tied it with two straight baskets.

Oklahoma State romped over Harin-Simmons 85-59 and Iowa State beat South Dakota 73-56 in other games Saturday night. Oklahoma opens its schedule at SMU Tuesday night.

Dave Ragan Wins Palm Beach Open Over Sanders

The Orlando, Fla., pro's 277 total earned him $2,800.

The match went into extra holes on the last hole of the final round when Ragan's ball landed in a tree, costing him a penalty stroke and his one-stroke lead over Sanders, of Ojai, Calif.

A tree on the 10th hole of the final round cost Sanders a three-stroke lead and put Ragan in position to win the $20,000 match.

NFL Holds Annual Draft In Chicago

CHICAGO (AP)—The battle of the pocketbook between the rival professional football leagues begins today when the National Football League holds its annual player draft.

The NFL will select 280 players in 20 rounds with the Los Angeles Rams getting first pick and probanly grabbing quarterback Terry Baker, the Heisman Award winner from Oregon State.

The American Football League held its draft Saturday and did not select Baker until San Diego picked him in the 12th round, an indication that Baker is headed for the NFL and AFL teams did not care to waste a high draft choice on him.

For the same reason, Junious Buchanan, the 274-pound tackle from Grambling, is not expected to be a top choice in the NFL draft. Buchanan was Dallas' first choice in the AFL draft and was immediately signed to a contract.

Aside from Buchanan's selection by Dallas, other first round choices in the AFL draft were end Walt Sweeney, Syracuse (San Diego); halfback Jerry Stovall, LSU (New York); center Dave Behrman, Michigan State (Buffalo); halfback Kermit Alexander, UCLA (Denver); fullback Danny Brabham, Arkansas (Houston); end Art Graham, Boston College (Boston); tackle Ed Budde, Michigan State (Dallas).

The draft will begin at 10 a.m. CST and will run anywhere from 12 to 16 hours. All college players whose class will graduate in June are eligible.

Miners Get Tie For Second

By United Press International

A three-way tie for second place in the final Rocky Mountain Conference football standings was the result of Colorado Mines' 7 to 0 victory over Colorado College Saturday.

The Miners moved into a tie for second place with Colorado State College and Western State, with two victories and two defeats apiece. Adams State, with four victories and no losses, was the champion, and Colorado College finished last with no victories against four losses.

The Miners used their patented defense and an 80-yard drive in the fourth period to down the Tigers at Colorado Springs. Quarterback Grant Owen scored from one yard out on the ninth play of the drive.

A CC drive in the fourth period went to the Mines 10, only to die after a 15-yard penalty.

The game had been scheduled two weeks earlier, but was postponed because of a snowstorm. It was the 67th meeting of the two old rivals.

In four conference games this season, Mines gave up only a total of 23 points, while scoring only 27.

The Final Standings:

Adams State	4	0	0	9	1	0
Colo. Mines	2	2	0	4	5	0
Colo. St. Coll	2	2	0	3	6	0

East Denver Cops Second AAA Title

DENVER (AP) — The high school football season is over with East Denver's Angels reigning as Class AAA champions after beating Lakewood Saturday 28-20 in the season finale.

It was East's second state football crown. The Angels' other championship was in 1949. Coach Pat Panek, who has been at the helm at East since 1939, has led the Angels to undisputed or a share in 13 Denver Prep League titles.

It was the third championship game in three years for Lakewood, coached by Tom Hancock for nine years. Lakewood won the crown in 1960 and lost to Pueblo Central in last year's final, 34-0.

The state's other football champions decided the previous week, are Air Academy High AA, Yuma A, Center B and Ovid C.

Small Schools Surprise In Basketball Openers

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Cincinnati's blue-ribbon Bearcats, sitting atop college basketball's often thorny throne, clawed Depauw in their opener but it took only two days of the season for lesser lights Virginia Tech and Southern Illinois to start creating chaos among the pre-season elite.

Cincinnati's two-time NCAA champions, rated the No. 1 team in the country in The Associated Press pre-season poll, rolled to an easy 97-39 triumph over Depauw Saturday night without showing any effects from the loss of graduated Paul Hogue and heralded sophomore Ron Krick.

At the same time, however, third-ranked Kentucky was beaten at home by Virginia Tech 80-77 for its first season-opening defeat in 36 years, ninth-rated St. Bonaventure was shocked by little Southern Illinois 73-66 and Ohio State's new-era Buckeyes ran into difficulties before beating Utah State 62-50.

Form prevailed for the other members of the pre-season Top Ten who opened, although Duke and Wisconsin were hard pressed. The second rated Blue Devils, getting a 36-point performance by Art Heyman, needed a quick spurt in the final 3 minutes to subdue stubborn Davidson 76-68 and 10th-rated Wisconsin had difficulty downing Air Force 72-64.

Loyola of Chicago, No. 4, romped past Christian Brothers 114-58 with Jerry Harkness leading the way with 21 points. Fifth-ranked West Virginia whipped The Citadel 86-61 as Rod Thorn accounted for 29 points.

Illinois, No. 8, got underway Friday by beating Butler. Sixth-ranked Mississippi State opens against Arkansas A&M Tuesday night and seventh-rated Oregon State raises the curtain Friday against Seattle.

Four members of the Top Ten will be in action tonight with Cincinnati meeting Virginia, Chicago Loyola tackling North Dakota, Ohio State meeting St. Louis and Wisconsin playing Arizona. The Buckeyes, who appear to be headed for trouble without Jerry Lucas and chief cohort John Havlicek, likely will get the most serious test.

Runners-up to Cincinnati for two years in the NCAA championship event, the Buckeyes needed a cold spell by Utah State plus Gary Bradds' 32-point output to come from behind and win their opener. Bradds, ably filling Lucas' big bucks from a scoring standpoint, paced the Buckeyes in the last 8 minutes as the Aggies scored only one field goal. Troy Collier, playing his first game for Utah State, scored 19 points.

The Bearcats, expected to be slowed by the loss of Hogue and Krick, who is out for the season with a shoulder injury, played almost flawless ball against outclassed Depauw. With four holdovers from last year's NCAA champs in the line-up, the Bearcats bolted to a 33-11 lead before coach Ed Jucker threw in the subs. Ron Bonham wound up as the high scorer with 23 points.

Led by backcourt field general Lee Melear, Virginia Tech's Gobblers played back-and-forth with Adolph Rupp's Kentucky Wildcats held on for the triumph. Melear, getting many of his 24 points in the stretch, lost scoring honors to Cotton Nash, who had 34 for the Wildcats.

St. Bonaventure, pre-season choice to be the pride of the East with the return of Fred Crawford after a year's inaction forced by a case of tuberculosis, found track power Southern Illinois equally proficient on a hardwood floor. Dave Henson, with 24 points, and Paul Henry, with 15, paced the victory, which actually was won from the foul line as Southern Illinois converted 15 of 16 free throws.

Jeff Mullins' field goal tied it for Duke with just over 3 minutes left and the Blue Devils pulled away from Davidson in the stretch. Sparked by Thorn and Jim McCormick, who contributed 15 points to the attack, West Virginia broke a close 34-27 game open against The Citadel and pulled away. Wisconsin survived a shaky second half and held on to bet Air Force with Tom Gwyn scoring 19 points and Jack Brens 17.

OPENING SHOWDOWN—Team captains of the Palmer and Cheyenne Mountain High School hockey teams get together before their teams' meeting tonight as the prep hockey season gets underway. John Pope, left, will lead the Terrors and Don Smith will call the shots for Cheyenne's Indians. These two teams were the top clubs last year, with Palmer winning the title in a close race. Tonight's game is scheduled to start at 8, following Young America League games by the younger set. (Photo by Bob McIntyre)

NBA Returning to Normal As Celtics Open Margin

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Eastern Division standings in the National Basketball Association are beginning to look a little more normal. The Boston Celtics are starting to pull away.

The five-time champion Celtics, engaged in a see-saw battle with Syracuse for the No. 1 spot for a week or so, now have a three-game bulge atop the list.

They added a half game Sunday night by edging Cincinnati 128-127 in overtime. Syracuse was idle. St. Louis handed San Francisco its eighth straight defeat, 122-116 in the only other game on schedule.

The Celtics stormed from behind a 16-point deficit in overtaking the Royals, starting with 9 minutes 34 seconds left and finally tying it at 120-120 at the end of regulation time.

Tom Heinsohn's field goal in the last minute proved to be the winner, but Adrian Smith closed the margin to one point with a field goal with 28 seconds left. Oscar Robertson missed a 15-footer at the buzzer.

St. Louis' victory, built on the scoring heroics of Cliff Hagan, pulled the Hawks to within one game of Western leader Los Angeles.

In Saturday games, Detroit edged New York 117-115 and Boston beat Syracuse 129-110 in a Boston Garden doubleheader, Cincinnati whipped Chicago 131-121 and Los Angeles beat St. Louis 110-97.

AAU Winds Up Convention Calling for Investigation

DETROIT (AP) — The AAU wound up its 75th annual convention with a call for a congressional investigation of the NCAA and voting to stand firm on its version of a coalition plan with U.S. Track and Field Federation and other track agencies.

At the same time, the AAU decided Sunday to leave the door open for further negotiations with the NCAA-supported Federation.

AAU President Louis J. Fisher of High Points, N.C., said "It is the duty of the U.S. Congress to investigate the NCAA and its puppet federations from top to bottom."

Fisher also offered Congress the AAU's full cooperation in making a similar investigation of his group.

A truce meeting called by Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy last month in New York saw a coalition plan offered to settle the 2½ years of bickering between the rival groups over track power.

However, the AAU executive committee approved a coalition plan last Thursday which the Federation charged repudiated the original agreement made in New York.

The question of whether the AAU or the proposed coalition will be the recognized ruling body for American participation in 1964 international track affairs appeared to be the basic issue.

Both the AAU and the Federation plan now to hold their own meets, which could endanger U.S. track strength in the 1964 Olympic Games at Tokyo.

Tighe to Lead Bears in PCL

DENVER (AP) — The Denver Bears will be managed in their first season in the Pacific Coast Baseball League next year by Jack Tighe, 49, a veteran of the minor leagues.

The Milwaukee Braves, parent of the Denver club, approved Tighe's selection over the weekend.

Tighe managed Louisville last season in the American Assn. The team finished fourth in the regular season, won the post season playoffs and lost to Atlanta in the Little World Series.

Liston Has Fight Edict For Patterson

By OSCAR FRALEY

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—Heavyweight champion Charles (Sonny) Liston prepared today to deliver an ultimatum to Floyd Patterson and anyone else who wants to step into the ring against him.

The reason, actually the need, is money. Liston owns the most lucrative title in the world of sports and he's broke.

Which is why this week his advisor, Jack Nilon, will personally notify Patterson and their return bout promoters that if Floyd wants a rematch it will be held in Baltimore. And the deadline is March.

Otherwise, Liston is ready to break that contract and engage former champion Ingemar Johansson of Sweden at Philadelphia in June. After that, he'll take them on as fast as they can be set up in the other alley.

There will be no tax-dodging two-fights-a-year program for the new champion.

"Fighting only two times a year because of the tax situation is ridiculous," said Nilon, the scrappy little Irishman who is listed as Liston's "advisor" but in all fact serves as manager. "It's as if one of the major automobile companies quit building new cars because the taxes were too steep on their oncome."

Liston Wants Action

Liston, Nilon revealed, is like a caged tiger awaiting action.

"He called me at 3 a.m. the other morning," Nilon revealed. "He said he couldn't sleep for wondering about when we are going to get moving. He wants action and he's going to get it. I'm going to New York one day this week and let them all know that we fight in Baltimore in March or we'll fight someone else."

Nilon has two ideas on the rematch which may keep it from being a complete failure as result of the inept performance Patterson gave when Liston knocked him out at 2:06 of the first round in Chicago last September.

Nobody has to tell Nilon that under ordinary circumstances Patterson now couldn't draw flies with a barrel of honey in July. Patterson has admitted himself that he probably will be a 1-10 underdog, and many observers believe that even such a price borders on charity.

Would Televise Fight

Nilon's number one gimmick is to put the fight on national "free" television.

"It's simply a matter of merchandising," he explained. "If the fans can get a look at Liston they'll all want to see him in action in the future."

His other idea is that Baltimore opens a new $16 million auditorium in February which will have a capacity of 16,000. There could be a basis for suspicion that a rematch with Patterson couldn't sell it out to begin with "but a lot of people would come just to see the new auditorium and Liston."

But if Patterson and Championship Sports, Inc., promoter of the first match, refuse or dally over terms, then Nilon feels he has sufficient grounds to ignore a rematch contract which he contends already has been broken.

The only summation you can draw is that the giant Liston is in the driver's seat. He's ready to start his own "bum of the month club," just as Joe Louis did, but he's willing to start at the top of the list and rapidly work his way through it all the way to the bottom.

"No matter how much he makes for Uncle Sam," Nilon said, "he'll be sure to keep a percentage. And he's out, even above that, to prove himself as one of the greatest champions we ever had."

Fernandez Meets Griffith Dec. 8

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Argentina's Jorge Fernandez gets a chance for revenge and a a shot at the world welterweight title on Saturday night when he meets champion Emile Griffith of New York at Las Vegas.

The fiery South American lost two close decisions to Griffith in New York in the summer of 1960, before Griffith won the welterweight title for the first time.

The 24-year-old champion, howver, is favored to make it three straight. This is Griffith's second defense in his second reign as king of the welterweight set. Last July he soundly whipped Ralph Dupas at Las Vegas.

Griffith has a 32-3 record, including 11 knockouts.

Fernandez, 27, has a 76-5-1 record, including 51 knockouts.

HEROES ARE MADE-NOT BORN
OH, I'VE GOT THE MONEY FOR CHRISTMAS SHOPPING, BUT I DECIDED TO SAVE IT AND MAKE PRESENTS FOR MY FRIENDS AGAIN LIKE I'VE DONE FOR THE PAST FEW YEARS!
OH, GOLDIE, WHAT JOYFUL TIDINGS! I KIN HARDLY WAIT TO RECEIVE ANOTHER HOME-MADE BELT FROM YOU! IT WILL MAKE SUCH A GORJIS ADDITION TO THE COLLECTION YOU'VE ALREADY GIVEN ME THAT I AIN'T EVEN WORN YET!
WAIT -- DON'T GET YOUR HOPES TOO HIGH! MAYBE HE'S SWITCHED OVER TO MAKIN' TIES OR KNITTIN' SOCKS OR -- UH -- SAY, WOULDN'T IT BE THRILLING TO BLOW YOUR NOSE ON A HAND-EMBROIDERED HANKY ORIGINAL BY GOLDIE?

Looking At Hollywood

CURTIS INSISTS HIS FILMS BE MADE IN HOLLYWOOD

HOLLYWOOD. — Tony Curtis was quick to deny those stories that he and Christine Kaufmann dislike Hollywood and can't wait to leave. To prove his intentions are honorable, Tony is negotiating on five pictures and insists that all be done right here. The funniest of the lot, "His and His," for Metro, is about a fellow who gets cold feet at his wedding, ducks out, and uses his honeymoon tickets for a trip with his best man. Tony will be the jittery bridegroom, and, if present plans jell, Jerry Lewis will be best man. Curtis will shoot "How Now, Bow Wow" here, and also "Playboy."

"And the remake of 'Beau Geste' will be done on that foreign location outside Palm Springs," he said. "The hitch to my starring in 'Marco Polo' is my insistence on its being California-made."

As for Christine's feelings about us, "She never said it," Tony told me. "She's extremely decent and doesn't talk like that."

There may be a slight hitch in the Liz Taylor - Richard Burton co-starrer, "The VIPs." I'm told they can't get insurance on Liz since that London illness. Besides her million and his half-million in salary, they'll divide 17 per cent of the profits.

David Selznick's secretary tells me her office is innundated with fan mail for Bob Walker Jr., who's now off to Madrid, Spain, to make "Ceremony" with Laurence Harvey and Sarah Miles. It's about the last 24 hours in the life of a condemned prisoner. Harvey flew in from Spain to spend the long Thanksgiving weekend with Joan Cohn.

There were many stags at the Ray Starks' party, including Cliff Robertson. Mary Benny arrived with the Milton Berles; tells me Jack is in New York looking for a theater where he can put on his Las Vegas show.

That cute Elsa Martinelli had a few hundred words about Gina Lollobrigida. Elsa's happy that Sophia Loren has won that acting race.

Shirley MacLaine looked lovely with her own black hair and form-fitting black gown. Ray Stark thinks New York critics weren't fair to Shirley in "Seesaw": "Anne Bancroft was great on stage. I doubt that Shirley could have done it as well. But Anne wouldn't have been nearly as brilliant as Shirley in the picture."

Aluminum Issues Decline; Trend Lower in Market

NEW YORK (AP) — Aluminum issues declined following news of price cuts for the metal and a lower trend prevailed in the stock market generally today. Trading was fairly active early this afternoon.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was down .9 at 239.5, with industrials off 1.3, rails off .7, and utilities off .2.

Losses of key stocks ran mostly from fractions to about a point.

Motors, steels, rails, oils, chemicals, nonferrous metals, utilities, tobaccos, electrical equipments, aerospace issues, electronics, and rubbers were among the major sections which joined in the downswing.

Brokers saw it as profit taking on the five-week advance, now that the market has entered December, a month noted for cross switching, and reinvestment by big funds. The news background continued quite encouraging.

Steels worked lower despite growing optimism regarding steel industry prospects. U.S. Steel and Republic Steel were off about a point.

The aluminum price cuts by leading producers accompanies some fairly sharp declines in stocks representing this industry. Alcoa and Kaiser Aluminum fell more than a point apiece. Reynolds Metals was down a full point. Aluminum Ltd. eased.

IBM was off 6¾ at worst in the morning but cut its loss to 4 points or so in the afternoon.

Losses of a couple of points were taken by Amerada and Texas Pacific Coal & Oil, following recent denial of recurrent "sell-out" rumors which affect these stocks speculatively from time to time.

Ford and Chrysler dropped about a point apiece. General Motors and American Motors were fractional losers while Studebaker traded about unchanged.

While most leading rails dropped fractions, Rock Island rose ¾ to 22 on a block of 21,000 shares, keeping the gain in later dealings.

Losses of a point or so were taken by Radio Crop., Schering, Pfizer, and Lorillard.

Union Tank Car was unchanged at 25½ on 10,000 shares.

News that the Russians were taking their IL28 bombers out of Cuba came late in the morning and had no noticeable effect on the market immediately.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was off 3.43 at 645.87.

Prices moved generally lower in moderate trading on the American Stock Exchange. Signal Oil "A" dropped about 3. General Plywood more than a point. Fractional losers included Cinerama, Kratter "A." Liberty Fabrics, Mead Johnson, Seaboard World Airlines, Universal Controls, and Webb & Knapp. Syntex was up a point and Apollo Industries more than that. Royalite, Clary Corp., and Canada Southern Petroleum gained fractions.

Corporate bonds were mixed. U.S. Government bonds drifted lower.

DELIVERY BY AIR—On-site delivery by helicopter is the novel method construction crews are using to complete one of the State's newest natural gas pipeline across a section of Southern Utah's most rugged terrain. Dubbed "the pipeline that couldn't be built" because of almost impassable crests and cliffs, the new whirlybird-delivered line will stretch from Utah Gas Service Company's facilities at Moab, to Texas Gulf Sulphur's new potash mine-mill near Cane Creek. Steel pipe for the unusual pipeline was produced at U.S. Steel's Utah Pipemill in Utah County.

Helicopter Carries Pipe For Rough Territory Line

MOAB, Utah — Construction crews are now nearing completion of Utah's newest natural gas pipeline by using helicopters to cross terrain "too rugged for even a crazy mountain goat."

Called "the pipeline that could not be built," the new 4-inch line under construction by Utah Gas Service Company at Moab will furnish natural gas for Texas Gulf Sulphur's new potash mine-mill near Cane Creek.

According to G. R. O'Dell, project foreman for Grand Mesa Construction Company, the novel use of whirlybirds made it possible to carry the almost 400-pound, 40-foot long sections of pipe over impassable sheer-walled canyons, crags and crevices.

Steel pipe for the eight-mile-long line spanning the rocky crest of Amasa Back near the Colorado River, was produced at U. S. Steel's Utah Pipemill in Utah County. The Pipeline project is located about six and a half air-miles southeast of Moab.

Because of the impossible terrain, helicopters fitted with twin cables were used to lift pipe sections from a river bottom storage area "upstairs" to the rim where the operator hovered until the pipe could be unloaded.

For safety, the load-carrying cables were attached to the helicopter by a bomb release clip so that in case of trouble the long pipe sections, fittings and cables could be easily jettisoned.

Winches and other equipment needed to inch the pipe up some of the 900-ft. cliffs were also flown into the remote area by helicopter.

Except during severe winds, helicopter operators completed a round trip in less than five minutes, stopping when fuel was needed.

Crews abandoned the conventional ditch-weld-cover method in places where the terrain squeezed into tight passageways to peg the pipe at intervals to the canyon walls.

Pipe spanning the crest of Amasa Back was pre-bent to conform to the rugged contours, then welded by hand and carefully eased into place a few feet at a time.

At one point on top, the steel sections were squeezed through a fissure only inches wider than the pipe itself. Here the pipeline follows a giant fault in the rock, then continues about a mile along relatively flat terrain. At the southeast rim, it suddenly plunges to the floor of Jackson's Hole.

Last big obstacle will be the Colorado River which the line will cross in a dredged-out ditch seven feet below the river bottom.

Loran L. Laughlin, president of the natural gas utility serving Eastern Utah, estimates that the new transmission line from Moab to the potash plant will cost about $200,000.

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI) — According to Standard & Poor's, prospects remain favorable for some extension of the rise in stock prices but the point has been reached where the risk element is coming increasingly into play.

While long-term holdings of well-situated issues should be maintained, new purchases should be made more discriminately.

United Business Service says the upswing very likely will carry further, but a temporary period of reaction and setback should be allowed for first. UBS recommends to maintain present invested positions and reserves.

The current stock market advance as measured from its low point in October now encompasses a total of 100 points on the Dow-Jones industrial index. It is the reasoning of Richard T. Leahy of J. W. Sparks & Co. that the powerful bullish performance leaves no doubt as to the long-term future for share prices. However, he warns, it must be remembered that on many occasions in the past when an almost unanimous bullish or bearish point of view prevailed, the list showed an amazing propensity for contrary action.

Bache & Co. says it seems likely that further selective buying will develop over the near term.

The paper industry is proceeding quietly along its way, says the Value Line Investment Survey, with usually-mild swings in earnings but no dramatic development in sight to change things strongly for better or worse. But the paper industry's relative stability masks opposing forces in precarious balance. Growth in demand puts sales on a secular rise. The climbing costs keep pressing and mild excess capacity strongly inhibits relief through price increases. Result—an uneasy status quo.

New York Life Dividends Will Set Record

Policy owners of New York Life Insurance Company will receive record high dividends of $157,100,000 in 1963, an increase of $21,500,000 or more than 15 per cent over the $135,600,000 payable in 1962, according to Warren G. Pryor, CLU, general manager of the company's Colorado Springs general office.

He said that new dividend scales involve the payment of about $20 million more than if the 1962 dividend scales had been continued.

Pryor said that the total increase of $21,500,000 is by far the largest in the company's 118-year history. He attributed it primarily to improved interest earnings on investments and significant reductions in operating expenses.

Dividends to individual life insurance, annuity and individual health insurance policy owners as well as to group policy owners, will vary, Pryor said, according to the amount of the particular policy, the plan and benefits, age at which the policy was issued and the time it has been in force.

He added that during 1963 the interest rate for dividends left on deposit with the company will be 3.85 per cent compared with 3.6 in 1962.

HINTS FROM Heloise

Dear Heloise:

My washing machine has one hose to bring the hot water, and another hose for the cold. I used to turn on the hot water and find that I was holding the cold water hose over the tub or vice versa.

So I took my bottle of red fingernail polish and painted the end of my hot water hose and the hot water spigot. Now it's simple to pick up the correct one! Suggest that others try this. Sure helpful.

Virginia Crothers

Virginia:

You are a doll!

Heloise

Dear Heloise:

I make a "sponge" by stuffing several old nylon stockings into another one. My "sponge" can be used wet or dry and will not scratch. It's wonderful for dusting a sheen on your furniture.

Mrs. J. A.

Wow!

Heloise

Dear Heloise:

Try this method when you have to take your child's temperature:

Use a three minute egg timer and let the child watch the sand run through it! I keep my egg timer with my thermometer.

Grandmother

Dear Heloise:

If you have a small item to mail and no container to put it in, try using empty frozen food vegetable boxes. Fill the container with tissue paper to make the box compact. The article can be sent through the mails with less chance of being lost in transit than a very small box. This is wonderful for sending earrings, pins, and so forth. No crushing or getting lost.

Frozen vegetables leave very little residue on the box and it can be wiped dry with toweling.

R. Buckley

Dear Heloise:

I want to share my hint on how to clean the collars of work shirts and housedresses. Wet the shirt in warm water, then spread a line of liquid hair shampoo on the dingy circle on the collar.

Drop this in your washing machine with hot or medium water and your regular soap. It's wonderful and will not fade colored shirts.

Mrs. T. M. C.

Dear Heloise:

I do wish that you would ask your readers to "hunt" for the oldest household hint they have.

Perhaps some of them have old books which have been handed down thru the generations and would be willing to share them with us.

Whether they are witty, out of date, or just plain absurd, it would give us a real kick and a few moments of laughter to just see what our grandmothers did!

Paul

Dear Folks:

If you have an old household hint book that was handed down thru the generations, why don't you pick out one of the most absurd ones you can find and send it to us? This would bring a little laughter into our drab household daily chores. We need that lift! I have a book, nearly one hundred years old. For example it says:

"When you have a headache, cut off a piece of brown paper sack and dip it in vinegar. Wrap this around your head and pin it with a safety pin and your headache will immediately be gone!"

If you have an old book, send us its most absurd hint.

Since letters do not have to be signed to appear in this column, address this type of hint to Heloise's Fun, care of the Gazette Telegraph.

Heloise

Dear Heloise:

Here is a favorite hint of mine which works:

Many of us have damp basements or storerooms for our canned food and vegetables.

To keep mold from forming on the jars...wash the jars with a solution of vinegar and water!

Clover Mendenhall

Dear Heloise:

Plastic ice cube trays in a jewelry drawer are wonderful for keeping earrings easily accessible and neat. Each pair can have its own little compartment.

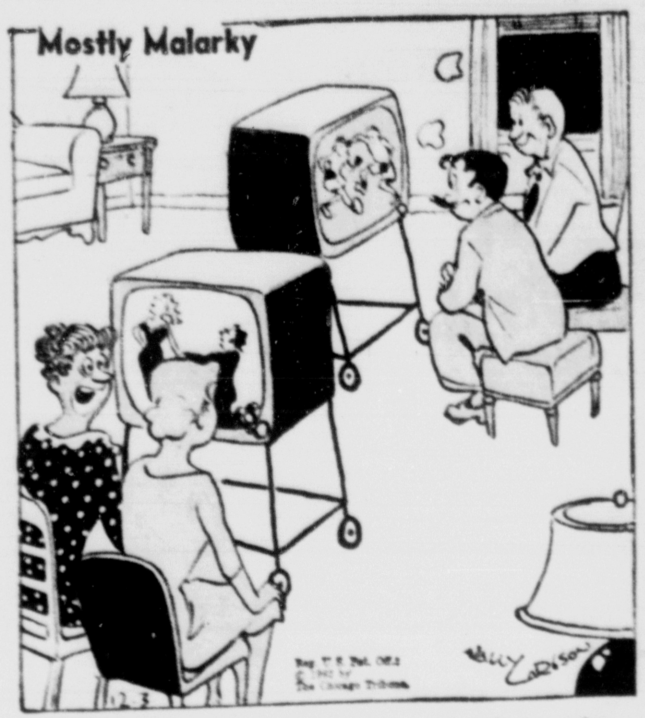
CATHEDRAL XRAYED

ST. LOUIS (AP) — X-ray machines will be used to put air conditioning in St. Louis Cathedral.

"Purpose of the X-ray is to determine where steel reinforcing rods are placed in the cathedral floor so none of the rods will be cut when holes are drilled as part of the air-conditioning outlets," project engineer D. Paul Ayers said.

The pictures will be taken by laying wall-to-wall sensitive film and exposing the film to gamma rays from isotopes of iridium 192.

The X-ray work is being done between services.



"I'll say this for my husband——he always tries to avoid arguments."

Dear Abby--

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

To Each His Own Conviction

DEAR ABBY: Please print this to let other wives know how one wife feels about office parties. I think it's silly for a wife to try to keep her husband from going. Let him go and tell him to have a good time. If he kisses a widow —so what? Or even a divorcee. If a man knows he has all the freedom he wants, he won't take it. Half the fun of swiping green apples is the danger and risk of stealing them. I shove my husband at other women all the time and he hardly looks at them because having my okay takes all the fun out of it. Try it. It works. —JULIET

DEAR JULIET: And what if it doesn't work? You'll have to go hunt up your husband in somebody else's orchard. No, thanks. I say tell him you love him, refuse to share him, and if you catch him straying you'll have his scalp!

DEAR ABBY: Thank you for making it known that tattoos can be removed by a physician. Some people still believe that just because they foolishly got themselves tattooed when they were out on a spree one night they have to live with the tattoos forever. I know a fellow who applied for the State Police and had to have two propellers removed from a very embarrassing part of his anatomy before he could pass the physical. —AN M. D.

DEAR ABBY: My daughter had a child out of wedlock when she was 16. She married shortly afterwards and her husband adopted the boy. At 18 the boy joined the Air Force. He was never told that he was illegitimate. Everybody knows but him. I told my daughter to write the chaplain and have him tell the boy. He is a man now and should be told. My daughter refused, and even forbade me to write to my own grandson for fear I might slip and tell him. She has robbed him of his greatest joy . . . to write to his Granny. We have always been on good terms. I say the boy should be told. I think my daughter is afraid her son will find out she was no angel. What is your opinion? —GRANNY

DEAR GRANNY: It appears to me that you've never forgiven your daughter and would like to punish her through her son. My advice is to stay out of your daughter's personal relations with her son.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 15-year-old girl who is worried about her brother. He is 17, very goodlooking, has a build like "Tarzan" and I think there is something the matter with him. He doesn't like girls!

All he is interested in is sports, his guitar, hunting and country music. He doesn't even like rock and roll. How can I get him interested in girls? —TARZAN'S SISTER

DEAR SISTER: Leave him alone. He's normal. He'll discover "girls" soon enough—or some "Jane" will discover him!

What's on your mind? For a personal reply, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Abby, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif.

Utica Salesman Has Hobby of Long Walks

By DAVID D. HASKELL

UTICA, N.Y. (UPI) — Max Cowen of Utica, N.Y., plans to take another little "walk"—this time for 891 miles.

The 50-year-old Utica salesman apparently isn't satisfied with his previous conquests.

Cowen already has walked from Utica to Syracuse, from Utica to New York City, and from Chicago to New York City (52, 244 and 822 miles, respectively).

And now, despite the fact he has diabetes and arthritis, he plans to assault a record that has stood for 33 years by walking from John O'Groats at the northern tip of Scotland to Lands End at the southern tip of England.

The record was set back in 1929 by James Hocking of Teaneck, N.J., who made the trek down the British Isles in 17 days.

Cowen said he will have to average better than 60 miles a day to beat Hocking's record, and the best Cowen has ever done is 45 miles a day.

"But," the bald, bespectacled Cowen said, "I've lost 40 pounds since I did that in 1958."

This, he said, should help boost his average.

Cowen expects to make the attempt in about a year after training in the Central New York area by extending his practice distances.

Cowen trains weekly by lifting weights, rope-jumping and acrobatics.

Affectionately referred to as Utica's "walking man," Cowen has been going on these long distance walks for years, but didn't start going after records until 1958.

Hocking set two of the records that Cowen has eyed for a long time, one of which he will go after next year.

But Cowen, however, would have to wait until the year 2000 to make an attempt at the other Hocking feat, the one he'd much prefer to better.

It was back in 1951 when Hocking paced from his Teaneck, N.J., home to Suffern, N.Y. in 11 hours and 45 minutes—at the age of 85.

Christmas Stamp Is Most Popular, Post Office Says

By LOUIS G. PANOS

WASHINGTON (AP)—The new Christmas stamp can't be printed fast enough to satisfy the demand, the Post Office Department reported today.

"It's far and away the best-selling special stamp ever issued," said James F. Kelleher, information aide to Postmaster Gen J. Edward Day.

Kelleher said advance demand for the stamp was so great that Day ordered a record first printing of 500 million. The previous high for a special issue was 300 million for the Mercury astronaut stamp commemorating John H. Glenn Jr., space flight.

"We've already upped the Christmas order to 600 million," said Kelleher, "but now we face the possibility that we might not be able to print enough."

This is not the kind of problem the department anticipated when it announced last May that it would issue its first special Christmas stamp.

The greatest apprehension among postal officials then was that the stamp might provoke protests on grounds that it violated the principle of church-state separation.

Another fear, says Kelleher, was that it might antagonize the National Tuberculosis Association, which for years has sponsored the sale of Christmas seals as a fund-raising device.

Kelleher says the decision to issue the stamp was made by Day only after extensive inquiries indicated no widespread objection.

Designed by James Crawford, a Post Office Department artist the four-cent stamp bears traditional Christmas symbols—slender candles and an evergreen wreath with red bow.

STEAL DAVIES BIKE

NEW YORK (UPI) — David Dubinsky, 70, president of the International Ladies Garment Workers Union, will have to get around in his chauffeur-driven car for a while.

Dubinsky, who is fond of bicycling in Central Park, left his two-wheeler outside a Manhattan restaurant Sunday, and when he came out it was gone. The labor leader said he forgot to lock it.

Reds Beaten Without One Shot in Old San Marino

By JAMES M. LONG

SAN MARINO (AP)—This oldest and tiniest republic has learned to make a lot out of a little.

There is no public debt or unemployment. There hasn't been a murder in over a century. With postage stamps and its fingernail polish, the 38-square mile country has no troubles that a good tourist season doesn't solve. Every year two million tourists come in to spend a little time and a lot of money among the 15,200 San Marinese.

San Marino claims one further distinction. It is the only European country ever won back from communist.

According to San Marino history, a persecuted Christian stonemason fled here from Dalmatia and founded the republic 1,600 years ago. He later became St. Marinus and gave his name to the nation perched atop rocky Mt. Titano, 1,560 feet high and 12 miles inland from Rimini on Italy's Adriatic Coast.

The capital and sole city, San Marino, still looks medieval with its ancient walls, its three famous castles, and its cobbled streets too steep and too narrow for automobiles.

But San Marino bustles with modern ways.

Tiny factories and souvenir shops provide so many jobs that 3,000 Italians commute to San Marino to bolster the working force.

Italy, which completely surrounds San Marino, pays the little country a million dollars a year because San Marino lets Italy collect its customs tax on imports.

San Marino does its own collecting on postage stamps, selling almost a million dollars' worth a year. Forty-five employes are kept busy in the post office selling them. The stamps are printed in Rome.

San Marino residents pay a 14 per cent tax on income. There is an additional tax of 5 to 8 per cent on direct profits from tourism.

San Marino's nail polish is exported all over the world. More than 1½ million bottles are sold annually.

There also is handsome profit from the sale of wines—red Sangiovese, white Albana, and sweet San Marinese moscato. More wine is sold than can be grown in the cramped mountainside vineyards —some is imported from Italy's Asti region and bottled here.

San Marino has made a few demands for outside financial aid. In 1957 the United States provided $850,000 to help build an aqueduct. The British paid $224,000 to settle claims for World War II reparations. Their planes bombed San Marino by error June 24, 1944, killing 59 persons.

San Marino was neutral in the war and thousands of persons, many of them Jews, fled here for refuge.

After the war San Marino went Communist. The Communists lost the government in the strange revolution of 1957.

That started when Mother Superior Veronica Serri reopened a Catholic school at a convent which the Communist government had ordered closed.

The dispute over what to do about it grew bitter in the Grand Council, San Marino's ancient legislature. The Communist-Socialist alliance had 31 of 60 council seats, but two Socialists defected and joined the Christian Democrats.

Chief executives of San Marino are two joint captains-regent elected for six month terms by the council. The Communist and Socialist regents then in office, seeing their alliance jolted out of the majority, dissolved the council and ordered new national elections.

They called out San Marino's 83-man volunteer army with its blue and silver uniforms and World War I rifles. They called out the 74-man palace guard with its green trousers and scarlet jackets. They called out the 32-man police force with its blue and white berets and its Italian police uniforms.

The regents ordered them to keep the grand council closed.

The Christian Democrats raised San Marino's blue and white flag over an abandoned iron foundry and declared themselves the legal government.

The iron foundry was well chosen. It stood only 100 yards from the frontier. Right across the border, Italy moved up a heavily armed force of police to stand guard. Italy also moved up light armored troops who cut off every road leading into San Marino. Italy called it "routine fall maneuvers."

The situation was explosive. There were fist fights in Freedom Square before the 15th century government building. Armed men from both camps marched the streets.

Then, after a week of nerve-wracking strain, moustached Domenico Morganti, the Communist interior minister, ordered his militia to yield.

"We have no choice," he said bitterly. "We are under siege by an enormous force of foreign troops."

On that last day the only shots of the revolution were fired.

As each Communist militiaman marched up to police to turn in his rifle, he fired one defiant shot into the air.

"That's just to prove we could have fought," a spokesman said. "We had bullets in our guns."

The police and the army didn't.

"My men carry carbines," said Capt. Ettore Sozi, highest officer of San Marino's little army. "But we never issue any bullets. My men have never had any firing practice. If they had ammunition they might only hurt themselves."

San Marino slipped peacefully back to its pleasant life and profitable tourist trade. The government has had an anti-Communist majority ever since.

Colorado Beryllium Being Sent to Japan

LOVELAND (AP) — Beryllium ore concentrate produced in Colorado is being shipped to Japan on a trial basis.

Robert Bender, vice president of Mineral Concentrates and Chemical Co., said the first shipment of 10 tons will leave the West Coast this week.

Bender said the ore, mined in the central Colorado Rockies, will assay about 15 per cent beryllium. It will be refined in Japan and used with a copper alloy for production of springs of all types, Bender said.

If the trial shipment proves satisfactory, Bender said, his company expects to export about 100 tons per month to Japan.

OVERSIGHT

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — Clarence Gibbs, 32, went to the Milwaukee County clerk's office to ask that a marriage license he applied for be voided because he had learned the girl he intended to wed was only 16 instead of the legal age of 17 she had stated on the application.

An officer was waiting to arrest Gibbs.

Authorities said the man, himself, had failed to mention he already was married. His wife had seen the application published in a newspaper and called the district attorney's office.

He was given a six month jail term for falsely swearing to obtain a marriage license and another 90-day term for failure to support his wife.

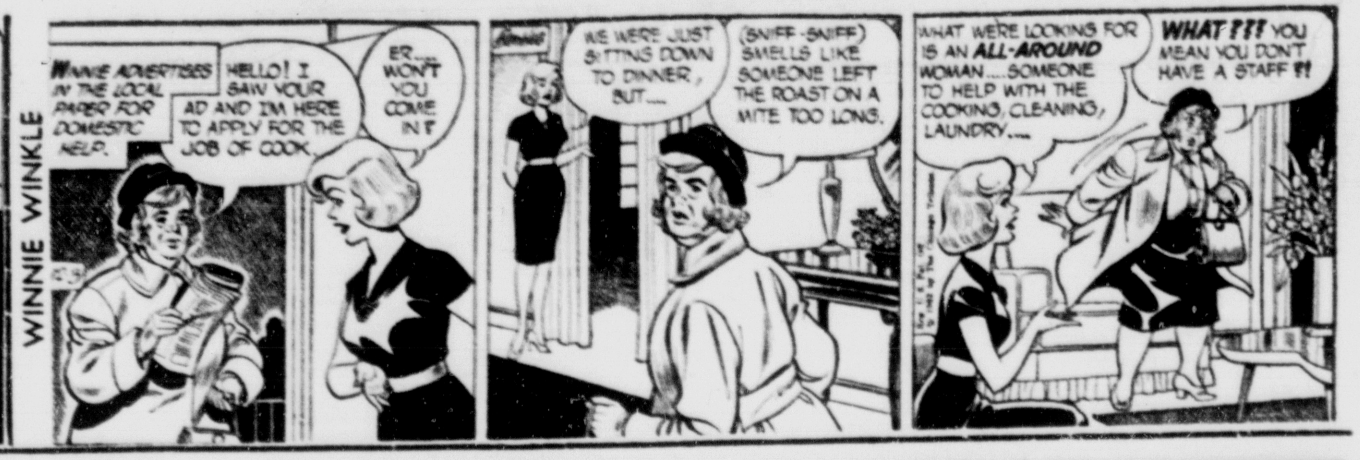
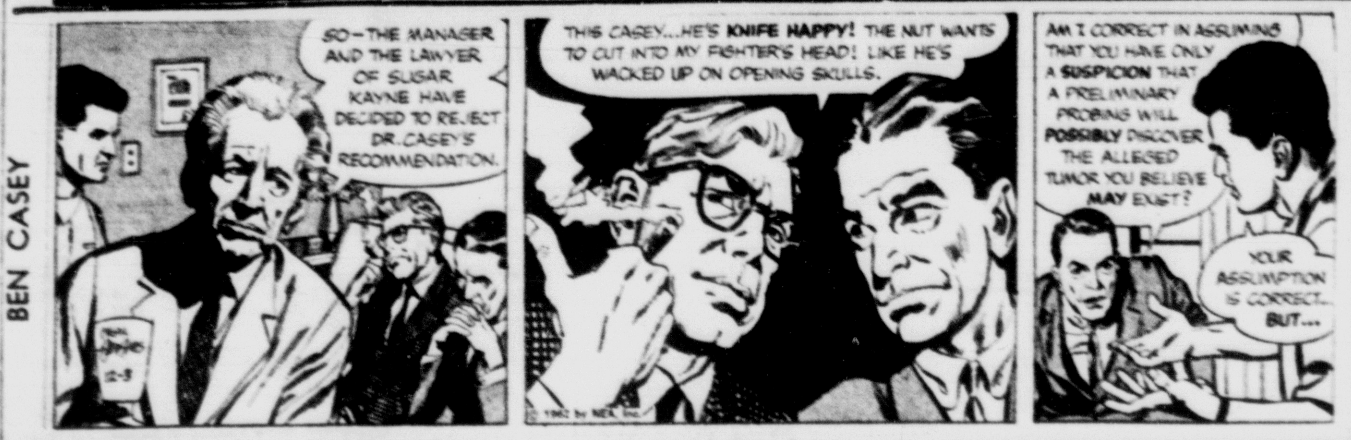
DICK TRACY
ACTUALLY SHE CAUSED THE LOSS OF ONLY 49 LIVES INSTEAD OF FIFTY.
THAT'S RIGHT! THE KING OF SPADES IS IN CUSTODY AND THE TEN OF SPADES WAS TOSSED OVER THE CLIFF IN A HAND-TO-HAND HASSLE WITH ME.
THAT ACCOUNTS FOR ALL 52 OF THE 52 GANG.
—AND WHAT A FITTING FINISH FOR EVERY EVIL RAT OF THEM.
HOW ARE WE GOING TO GET OUT OF HERE? THERE'S NOT ROOM ENOUGH FOR THE OTHER COPTER TO OPERATE.
LOOK—DIET SMITH'S SPACE COUPE!



WINNIE WINKLE
WINNIE ADVERTISES IN THE LOCAL PAPER FOR DOMESTIC HELP.
HELLO! I SAW YOUR AD AND I'M HERE TO APPLY FOR THE JOB OF COOK.
ER.... WON'T YOU COME IN?
WE WERE JUST SITTING DOWN TO DINNER, BUT....
(SNIFF-SNIFF) SMELLS LIKE SOMEONE LEFT THE ROAST ON A MITE TOO LONG.
WHAT WE'RE LOOKING FOR IS AN ALL-AROUND WOMAN.... SOMEONE TO HELP WITH THE COOKING, CLEANING, LAUNDRY....
WHAT??? YOU MEAN YOU DON'T HAVE A STAFF?!



BEN CASEY
SO—THE MANAGER AND THE LAWYER OF SUGAR KAYNE HAVE DECIDED TO REJECT DR. CASEY'S RECOMMENDATION.
THIS CASEY... HE'S KNIFE HAPPY! THE NUT WANTS TO CUT INTO MY FIGHTER'S HEAD! LIKE HE'S WACKED UP ON OPENING SKULLS.
AM I CORRECT IN ASSUMING THAT YOU HAVE ONLY A SUSPICION THAT A PRELIMINARY PROBING WILL POSSIBLY DISCOVER THE ALLEGED TUMOR YOU BELIEVE MAY EXIST?
YOUR ASSUMPTION IS CORRECT... BUT...

YOUR EYES ARE BRIGHT THIS MORNING, AS IF YOU SLEPT WITH PLEASANT DREAMS, MY ANNIE!
YES, DOÑA ISABEL. THAT DINNER LAST NIGHT—WOW! CAN'T MEMBER WHEN I EVER TASTED ANYTHING SO GOOD!
I'D BETTER GO TO TH' KITCHEN RIGHT NOW AN' TELL CARMEN WHAT A SWELL COOK SHE IS!
SHE IS NOT HERE TODAY. YOU SEE, CARMEN WORKS FOR A RICH FAMILY IN THE TOWN. ONE DAY EACH MONTH SHE IS FREE. THAT DAY SHE GIVES TO US!
ONE DAY OFF EACH MONTH? LEAPIN' LIZARDS! HOW BIGHEARTED CAN THOSE FOLKS BE? ER—THE P-P-PHEASANT—?
HA-HA! NO, ANNIE! HER EMPLOYERS DID NOT UNWITTINGLY PROVIDE THE PHEASANT! THAT WAS JOSE'S SPECIAL GIFT!

Bronze Plaque Marks Spot of Atom Reaction

CHICAGO (AP) — Under the west stands of Stagg Football Field at the University of Chicago, an Italian immigrant stood, hands rapidly manipulating a slide rule, eyes darting from one dial to another.

Then, breaking into a broad grin at the 41 persons gathered about him on the squash court, he said:

"The reaction is self-sustraining."

With these words 20 years ago today, Enrico Fermi announced the birth of the fruitful and frightening nuclear age.

The grandstands have since been torn down, but the site of the experiment is marked by a bronze plaque and many of the scientists involved in the Fermi success returned to Chicago for a reunion. Earlier, they were honored by President Kennedy at the White House.

The Chicago commemoration was one of many events scheduled throughout the world to observe the anniversary.

One of the leading figures in nuclear development; Dr. Edward Teller of the University of California, will be presented the 1962 Enrico Fermi award by President Kennedy in Washington Monday. The award consists of a gold medal and $50,000.

Less than three years after the world's first man-made nuclear chain reaction, Fermi's experiment culminated in the most fearsome weapon ever created by man, the nuclear bomb.

In the intervening years, the principle has been used to drive submarines and ships through the seas, generate electricity, diagnose and treat illness.

Ahead lies a promise of benefit to mankind so vast it staggers the imagination of the layman—and a threat of destruction of such magnitude as to be virtually incomprehensible.

SWINE CARE

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (UPI) —The difference between a profitable and a losing swine enterprise can be the care of sow during farrowing time.

The Texas A & M College extension service says brood sows must be kept hungry and in good smooth condition, but not fat. A fat sow has more trouble farrowing and her pigs will be less vigorous at birth, swine husbandry expert Fred Hale said.

AWARD TO CHAUFFEUR—Spec. 4 Juan C. Caole Jr. (right), receives a certificate of achievement upon completion of his assignment as chauffeur to Brig. Gen. Charles G. Dunn, who makes the presentation. Dunn is deputy chief of staff, Army Air Defense Command headquarters. Caole, who is being separated from the Army, has been living with his wife at 514 N. Iowa Ave. The couple is moving to California.

Catholic Council Starts Talk on Church Unity

VATICAN CITY (AP)—The Roman Catholic Ecumenical Council began examination today of a thesis dealing directly with the question of Christian unity.

The 2,200 council fathers, in closed session in St. Peter's, wound up discussion of "Means of Social Communication" — the press, radio, television, cinema and theater—and went on to the unity thesis.

A spokesman said this thesis clearly states that the Roman Catholic Church "neither can, nor wishes to, achieve unity at the detriment of any truths, no matter how large or small."

This statement would apply to Protestants as well as Orthodox but today's pseakers said the thesis made its main aim at the latter.

The unity thesis had not been expected to come up until Tuesday. But the council fathers, at midsession, unanimously agreed to end discussion of the communications thesis and send it back to a drafting commission for incorporation of suggestions made during the debate.

Amleto Cardinal Cicognani, Vatican secretary of state and president of the Council Commission for the Oriental Churches, introduced the unity thesis. He said the thesis "contains an expression of the solicitudes of the Catholic Church for restoring relations with the separated brothers of the East," a spokesman reported.

"We are united in faith but we disagree on a few truths, such as unity in Peter."

The spokesman said Cardinal Cicognani explained that the document concerned only the Orthodox churches. The document was described as "designed to emphasie the doctrines of the Church in this matter, to open the way to unity in the charity of Christ."

Removal of Medicare Limit Being Proposed

DENVER (UPI) — El Paso County Commissioner Hugh J. Ross said Colorado County commissioners he had polled favored removal of the $10 million limit on the state's medical care pension fund.

Ross said he took the pool at the annual convention of the State Association For County Commissioners which ended Saturday.

He said Clubs For Social Security was preparing to initiate movement to have the limit removed from the fund. Ross is vice president of the organization, whi claims a membership of 1800 throughout Colorado.

Another Taft to Appear On U. S. Political Scene

By HAROLD HARRISON

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)—Back in 1876 Alphonso Taft was appointed to the Cabinet of President U.S. Grant. Since then, except for a few years, a Taft has been a prominent figure in the federal government — executive, judicial or legislative.

Next January, another Taft will appear on the national scene. He is Robert Taft Jr., elected in November as congressman-at-large from Ohio.

"Young Bob" is the son of the late U.S. Sen. Robert A. Taft, three times an unsuccessful candidate for the Republican nomination for president but who became known as "Mr. Republican."

He is the grandson of William Howard Taft who served one term as president, was a U.S. circuit judge, civil governor of the Philippines, and chief justice of the United States.

He is the great-grandson of Alphonso Taft, who served as an ambassador in addition to having been a member of Grant's Cabinet.

"Young Bob", 45, served four two-year terms in the Ohio House of Representatives.

He is more congenial among those not his close friends and seems to enjoy small talk much more than did his father. Yet there still is some of the Taft aloofness in casual conversation.

His thinking on many political issues such as spending, taxation and foreign policy is close to that of his father.

"I have never tried to pattern myself after my father," he said. "After all, 10 years have passed and we have to think of the particular time."

Taft, who made his first political race eight years ago, was asked if he had long considered seeking elective office.

"I was brought up in politics," he said, "but I believe a man should have another way of life and I don't mean just in a financial sense. I like the practice of law and I like to know I have that.

"Without such a way of life there is the psychological feeling that you can't afford to lose and the pressure to follow the easy way is too severe."

There has been talk that Taft might seek in 1964 the U.S. senatorial seat now held by Stephen Young, a Democrat.

"It's too early to plan for 1964," Taft said. "Who knows, I might just get tired and decide to come home."

He says he is a firm believer that federal expenditures should be reduced except in the fields of defense and space age development. He does not favor tax cuts without a reduction in expenses. He urges an across-the-board reduction in government personnel.

As for the United Nations, he says: "I mistrust the U.N. as a major determining factor in our foreign policy, although I believe we should work through the U.N. to maintain contact with other nations. I mistrust the present administrations disarmament policy."

He does not believe the Republican party is as badly split between liberals and conservatives as are the Democrats.

"I don't see the Republican party veering to the right," he said. "I believe it will stay just about on the course it now follows and I believe the 1960 platform still is about the present policy of the party."

In the Ohio Legislature Taft was at his best in working with subcommittees to iron out difficulties in controversial legislation.

When the new congressman goes to Washington he will join his brother, William H. Taft III; a former ambassador to Ireland, who is now assigned to the U.S. Information Agency's selection agency to screen personnel for promotion.

"Young Bob" and Mrs. Taft, a former New Yorker, have four children. Robert II is a senior at Yale; Sarah Butler, 19, is a sophomore at Radcliffe; Deborah, 16, is a junior at Concord Academy in Concord, Mass. The youngest child, Jonathan, 8, will accompany his parents to Washington.

For hobbies, Taft likes the outdoors. He is an eight-handicap golfer and likes to go trout fishing in Canada.

Ship Spotters Will Be Given Reward

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Wynn Oil Co. of suburban Azusa said Sunday it will pay a $1,000 reward to the crew of a Navy plane which spotted the missing Nina II sailing ship Friday.

The ship, a reproduction of one of Christopher Columbus' fleet, had been missing for two weeks on its voyage from Spain to the Bahamas, duplicating Columbus' voyage of discovery in 1492.

Carl E. Wynn, president of the oil firm, offered the reward last Wednesday. One of the Nina's eight crewmen, Manual Darnaude is a Wynn employe.
